But first there must be some more jockeying for position between the prime minister and the Conservative Leader to try to fix responsibility for the parsimonious Parliament that now, across a great many MPs, can be cured only be another appeal to the people for decisive majority at the polls.

The prime minister has been striving mightily to hang it on the Opposition, charging John Diefenbaker and the Conservatives with deliberately stalling Parliament's business to frustrate and destroy the Government.

BLAME HIM

Publicly, time and again, the prime minister has challenged the Opposition with "obstruction of the public business by partisan delays, frivolous and irrelevant questions and points of order in Parliament."

Keep it up, he has said, and announced that it was "warning," and the Opposition would find itself forcing an election.

Now, politics, as it is played these days, is a crazy game.

Because a decision for an election is just what the Opposition most wants — but doesn't wish to be held responsible for it.

And the calling of an election is exactly what the Government wants — and it doesn't care to be held responsible for it either.

Hence him, say both the Prime Minister and the Opposition Leader, pointing at each other.

So the Opposition Leader, denying the Prime Minister's charge of obstruction, counter-charges, that delaying the election must is all of the Government's own making, a combination of "incompetence, indecision, inaction, withdrawal and retreat."

Filing charges and counter-charges, Opposition Leader accuses the Prime Minister of dreaming up obstruction as an excuse to pull the election he already has decided to call.

While it won't be clear until the election is formally under way who will be left holding the bag of blame, both leaders and their parties are busy with campaign plans and counting, or perhaps praying, for it will be the other.

The last thing With John Diefenbaker it isn't really obstruction — it is simply a good hard, honest job of Opposition by a Parliamentarian who has spent all but six years of his political life in the business of opposing. It is what he does best. It is so good that the Government is convinced it is really obstruction. But it isn't — it only seems that way.

Quebec Liberal Convention

Quebec Liberals met in convention last week to prepare for the provincial election which must be held before next June. Premier Lesage, who is also leader of the provincial Liberal party, was the principal speaker. He made a strong appeal for unity and for the support of all Liberals in the province. He said that the Liberal party is the only party which can defend the interests of the province. He said that the Union Nationale is a party of reaction, and that the Social Credit party is a party of confusion. He said that the Liberal party is the only party which can defend the interests of the province. He said that the Union Nationale is a party of reaction, and that the Social Credit party is a party of confusion.

Quebec Election — Because of a phrase taken out of context, Rene Levesque was recently accused of flirting with Lady Violence. Participating in a radio program Sunday, the minister of natural resources read a statement which leaves no doubt about his opposition to terrorism and violence as means of achieving a political idea, as matter for good.

If a section of the young people aspire to independence by constitutional means, the province authorities are ready to use political violence or terrorism to gain their ends. This minority hurts the cause itself by alienating the sympathy of the tolerates, the real democrats, whether separatists or not.

And the more violence there is, the fewer the opportunities of expansion and defending the cause of independence because those who control the means of communications will be afraid of serving the cause of terrorism by allowing the propaganda to explain their point of view.

Many will agree with Rene Lesage (that) "we must remain a society of free men who are not afraid of any political or social idea as long as it is openly and democratically debated in public." — Louis-Philippe Roy. (June 3)

Quebec Liberals

Quebec Le Soleil — Prime Minister Pearson's speech on the party's national council at Ottawa indicates that the Liberals could go to the people in the near future.

This is the principal speeches at the Ottawa meeting suggests that the Liberals are thinking about an early election campaign that could result either from their own initiative or from the Opposition's attitude.

The redoubling of the Opposition's vigor in the Commons, the bills awaiting approval and the present condition of the national economy are reasons that could prompt the Liberals to go to the people, even making the Opposition carry the responsibility.

This could happen even if the prime minister gets through the delicate phase of approval of a new flag on which the present parties between themselves and among themselves seem more divided than the Liberal party.

In any case, it seems that the vote on the flag suggested by Mr. Pearson will be a decisive moment for the existence of the present minority government at Ottawa. This is a measure which already has had deep emotional repercussions among the people. The Pearson government is playing an important, perhaps decisive card, for its future popularity. And no one knows yet how it will come out of it. (June 4)

Scrap metal thieves fired two shots at Gordon Asselstine of Bain Street, and escaped after carrying a sack as they raced along Ashley Street and disappeared over Moira Crescent Road late Thursday night.

Asselstine who is employed at the Crawford Metal and Waste Company on Station Street, had parked the company truck late Thursday night and as he emerged onto Station Street, he saw a man walking out of the Safe Scrap Metals directly across the street. The man was carrying a large sack that appeared to contain scrap metal. The stranger was joined by a second man, who also emerged from the darkness of the adjoining Mr. Safe's Station Street property. As the Intersection of Ashley and Great St. James Street, one of the men turned and fired two shots at Asselstine. As the men disappeared over Mount Pleasant Hill Asselstine hastened to the nearest house to notify police. Residents on Ashley Street later told police they distinctly heard shots fired.

Modeling their work on the latest German methods, the two local technicians have constructed a 12-tube frequency modulation receiver which is reputed to be producing almost perfect reception. The new type of receiver set, receiving broadcasts from frequency modulation transmitter stations is reported to be almost free of static; it being possible to operate the set with exceptional results even at the height of a thunder storm. Several departures from the present type of radio transmission and reception were necessary to make this new type of radio.

Written by Arthur Doyle in this column "Sidelights":

A poet has told us that life is real, life is earnest is the grave art to dust returneth, was not spoken of the soul. Also something in the effect that like the flash of lightning, the break of the wave, he goeth from life to death, from the grave. Poetic licence covers a multitude of fantasies, for here we have the soul rising superior to the grave — and another statement that he goeth from life to his home in the grave.

Surely not!

And speaking of dust, a few splendid characters of our acquaintance who have taken the one way journey over the hill recently, it is impossible to harbor the thought that they have passed from life to a home in the grave. It couldn't be — such brave, fine kindly spirits, fashioned by the Great Designer, bright with virtues, made brighter and finer an important human defects just for contrast, to give more brightness to the others, perhaps—those fine, bright spirits are now with the "immortals, surely—enjoying that calm and satisfaction prepared from the beginning of the world for those who come home through the tering fires of this exasperating old world.

To let such an infection continue is dangerous. There is no way in the world to guarantee that a given treatment will succeed; if the ointment you now have is not adequate, another treatment might be used. You should by all means go back to your doctor and let him see you again, he cannot know whether some change is needed.

As to the cost, explain your situation to your doctor so he can arrange it so you can afford. The important thing is to protect the eye.

Polype grow on a mucous membrane, as lining of the womb and cervix. It is not clear why these growths appear — there are all sorts of them, benign tumors and otherwise — but they rarely fully explain, but we know they occur.

Such polype can cause bleeding. Some become cancerous, and hence are best removed as soon as possible.

RH Type Blood Does Not Mean Person Is Weaker

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I understand that only about 15 percent of the people have blood that is Rh negative. Does this mean that they are weaker or more susceptible to disease. Is it likely that a woman's children will be Rh negative, too? — Mrs. L. W

Rh negative does not mean that a person is weaker or more susceptible to disease. It's simply a different type of blood.

You are aware of the usual blood types, A, B, AB and O, and know that when they are transfusions are given, the type must be compatible with the recipient.

Rh is still another blood factor (it was first found in 1937) in that regard you have only two kinds to consider, Rh positive and Rh negative.

Being RH negative doesn't make any difference at all — until the person has some contact with Rh positive blood. The bodies form to combat any foreign contact with Rh positive blood cells. And the next time contact with Rh positive blood results in clumping and destruction of red blood cells.

I won't try to go into the mechanism involved in what can happen, but it doesn't necessarily happen to all people with Rh negative blood.

One dangerous consequence is hemolysis, a violent form of blood destruction, which occurs in a baby born to an Rh negative mother, usually if the father is Rh positive. Rarely, the trouble not occur unless the mother has been sensitized, either by a transfusion or by previously having had an Rh positive baby. (Such women can have children who are either Rh positive or Rh negative.) It usually does not happen with first-pregnancy — the tendency increases after the second or third baby.

Statistics on the problem develops only about one in 40 or 50 births when the mother is negative, the father positive. And it is now possible to save such babies by a blood exchange — that is, by spending a transfusion. Most of their blood is withdrawn and all the baby's blood is replaced. A possible blood is transfused. This procedure has saved the lives of thousands of babies.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had an infection of the upper eyelid for about six months. It has become very itchy, red and crusty. My doctor prescribed an antibiotic ointment without relief. Should I continue this treatment a year later it was officially applied to the Red Ensign where it still remains.

Red Ensign

Until 1864 this flag was officially confined to the sea, but then the government passed a cabinet order approving it for use on land.

Those were the official steps that led to the use of the Red Ensign in Canada, but the red banner had a long, up-and-down history behind it before it reached this side of the Atlantic.

FLOWN FROM STERN

The present red duster goes back to the adoption of the Union Jack in 1801, but proud scows were used in mediaeval ships when they were the personal banners of the highest-ranking person aboard. They were traditionally flown from the stern because the senior officer always stayed there close to the helmsman. In the 13th century, national ensigns replaced individual ensigns.

During the reign of Henry VIII, English ships had ensigns based on the cross of St. George — white and red. In 1707, after the legislative union of England and Scotland, the old union flag was used in the upper left corner of the ensign.

The present ensign was used on all British ships from 1801 to 1864 when the Royal Navy adopted the white ensign as its own; the blue ensign was given to the Royal Naval Reserve and Red Ensign was restricted to use on merchant ships.

In time, it was approved for marine use in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Tanganyika, Cyprus, Somaliland, Western Samoa and Southern Rhodesia. Similar permission was given to the Hudson's Bay Company, the British North Borneo Company, and their British yacht clubs.

Meanwhile, as the Red Ensign was gaining its prominence as the top of Canadian flag poles, the emblem of three maple leaves, on which the government based its new flag design, was also carving a permanent niche.

This emblem was associated with Canada back in 1868 when three gold maple leaves on a green background were put on the arms of Upper Canada (Ontario). Three green maple leaves on a gold background were put on the arms of Lower Canada (Quebec).

The three leaves appeared on the crest of the Royal Military College Club soon afterwards. Later they found their way on various military uniforms and equipment.

In 1921, when the leaves were declared the official emblem of the country, they were put on the bottom portion of the Canadian Shield — the key area. That area now comprises 1-40th of the Red Ensign.

In 1939 the cabinet, after conferring with the military council, authorized a battle flag for the 1st Canadian Division that featured three huge red maple leaves on a white background as its central design.

The flag used by the Queen as Queen of Canada has its entire lower half devoted to three red maple leaves on a white background. And since the Liberal government came into office, spokesmen say maple leaves appear in about two-thirds of proposed flag designs it received.

The question of a distinctive Canadian flag has been talked about for years. In 1946 a Commons committee worked on the issue, but no action was ever taken on its recommended design. No firm commitments were offered until 1962 when the Liberal party included a distinctive flag as a plank in its election platform. The promise to fly a flag design within two years of taking office, was repeated in the 1963 election.

This means that a flag design would have to be submitted to Parliament before April, 1965.

Prime Minister Pearson submitted the government's proposed design May 27, after the emotion - charged issue was blown up over the country in a few weeks.

The prime minister revealed his intentions of proceeding with the flag issue at a fast pace when he invited a group of reporters to his home May 16 and showed several flag designs that were being considered. Although he had said earlier that MPs would be free to vote as their consciences dictated, he later made it clear the government would stand or fall on the result of the vote.

Three days later, the prime minister went to Winnipeg to address the Dominion command of the Royal Canadian Legion —among the strongest advocates of the Red Ensign.

He told a noisy meeting of 1,500 that he believed "most sincerely" it was time to unfurl a distinctive maple - leaf flag. Several times he was shouted down by protesting legionnaires.

The next day, also in Winnipeg the government's favored flag design were made public. Back in Ottawa, the following day, the cabinet began considering the question and in another two days a design decision was reached.

On May 27, the proposed design was revised—three red maple leaves on a white background with vertical bars at each end. The resolution said that while this would be Canada's national flag, the Union Jack "will continue to be flown as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth."

For the next few weeks the Commons again heard a daily round of heated questions and comments on the "two-flag resolution."

Some members, particularly from Quebec, who earlier said they stoutly favored a new flag, complained about being put in a position of voting for the Union Jack. Other opposition members, who didn't want a new flag, didn't want to appear to be rejecting the Union Jack.

passed clerk charged in connection with the Montreal small-bomb bombings of May 17, 1963. Shipped bail last September. He is believed to be in Algeria.

The FLQ operated in cells of three to four persons each. It announced its existence in leaflets left at three Montreal armories, along with harmless firecrackers, March 1, 1963—the beginning of a series of bombings and other bombings in this particular group. The terror ended with a dynamite explosion at another armory nearly three months later, May 25.

Those leaflets described the FLQ as "a revolutionary movement made up of volunteers ready to die for the economic and political independence of Quebec."

A MAN DIED

The person who died as a result of the terrorist activities was Wilfred Vincent O'Neill, 45, a night watchman, killed when an FLQ bomb exploded behind an army recruiting centre on Sherbrooke Street West.

Four FLQ members went to prison for manslaughter as a result of O'Neill's death. Colonial Hudon, 21, a draughtsman, and Raymond Villeneuve, 20, a student, got 18 years each. Jacques Dirosy, 19, a photographer, got two years, and Yves Labonte, 19, a clerk, got six.

Hudon, Villeneuve and Georges Schoeters, 24, a Belgian immigrant and graduate economics student, founded the FLQ early in 1963. Police say considered the legal methods of promoting separatism futile.

Schoeters, the youngest member from outside Canada, got 10 years for placing explosives and causing explosions at various places.

Four more FLQ members went to prison for placing the bombs that ripped apart mailboxes in suburban Westmount and crippled Sgt.-Maj. Marcel St. Loja, 43, an army demolition expert.

Denis Lamoureux, 20, student, and Marie Bachand, 20, an interior decorator, both got four years and Francois Gagnon, 20, student, and Pierre Schneider, 20, a CBC office boy, were each given three-year terms.

Prureau is wanted on similar charges of placing explosives in Westmount and causing bodily harm to Leja through criminal negligence.

Sgt. - Maj. Leja, recently awarded the George Medal by Governor - General Vanier for valor in the Westmount action, rejoined his wife and teenaged son at their suburban home a few weeks ago after nearly a year of hospital treatment. He is still undergoing regular physiotherapy and speech therapy.

His FLQ member, Richard Bisier, 19, a former elevator operator, who was given six months for placing explosives but released in February after serving four months of his term and now is a night-club singer.

Alain Gabriel, 21, and Alain Brouillet, 21, both students, and Andre Garand, 22, a publishing-house employee, all had their sentences delayed for two years and were given their liberty in the meantime on condition of good behavior. Gabriel and Brouillet pleaded guilty to public mischief, Garand to placing explosives.

The only woman in the group, Schoeters' 26 - year - old wife, Yvonne, an x-ray technical and mother of two children, was given a suspended sentence for placing explosives.

Two accused were found to be innocent.

Thant Pledged Enough Troops For Cyprus Job

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant was understood so have got informal pledges late Friday of enough troops to keep the United Nations peace - keeping force in Cyprus for a second three months beyond June 27, its present termination date.

He called in delegates from the nine countries having soldiers policemen in the 7,000-member force to get their replies to a query he put two weeks ago. Whether their governments would stay in for another three-month term.

Diplomats said Thant would issue a report early next week recommending that the Security Council continue the force for another three months and the council would take it up June 27.

They indicated that Austria, Australia, New Zealand, Denmark, Ireland and Britain are disposed to stay in the force—Ireland with the proviso that the terms of reference must remain unchanged and Britain with the proviso that other countries concerned must agree to her staying on.

Sweden's Swedish spokesman said what their countries did would depend on what the council decided. A Canadian spokesman referred queries to Ottawa.

It has been assumed in Ottawa that Canada will agree to keep its three - month term of duty—for its 1,122 soldiers in Cyprus though there has been no official announcement to this effect as yet.

own creation," said Dr. Winks. "That's the four major groups. The "Red" and "Negro" groups resent racism, does not regard himself as Negro and refused to mix with "the local coloreds."

Descendants of slaves brought to Canada by the United Empire Loyalists "tend to think of themselves as founders of the nation, British North Americans who, after all, were Loyalists too."

Dr. Winks said both groups feel themselves superior to the descendants of War of 1812 refugees who were brought to Nova Scotia by British ships.

And the fourth group are descendants of fugitive slaves who fled from the U.S. slave states into British North America in the middle of the last century.

"The descendants of these fugitives are viewed by the line of Loyalist slaves as outsiders. The fugitive line in Ontario, in turn, looks down upon the Nova Scotian who were added in their escape by the British government."

Dr. Winks's paper dealt primarily with the history and settlement of the Negro in the Maritime provinces, where, in the last few years, extensive educational campaigns to inform Negroes and whites alike of the nature of anti - discrimination legislation have taken place.

He said the Negro's remark that things are worse in the U.S. "serves only to indicate how far the Negro-Canadian still has to travel on his own journey toward self-respect."

But while Canadians rationalize too, tending to use Negro achievements in Canada to relatively hide the problem that lies in wait."

Negro Canadians are widely dispersed nationally and arrived in different waves of immigration. Dr. Winks said, "they were well aware that they would meet avoid discrimination by attracting as little attention to themselves as possible.

As a result, "Negro Canadian not only failed to unite, they viewed Negro unity as the greater danger."

Diefenbaker Says Country Is Divided

NORTH BAY (CP) — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker said Friday that Canada has never been as divided as it is today.

"Can you ever recall when the nation was so divided?" he asked during a campaign rally on behalf of Richard F. Donnelly, Conservative candidate in the June 22 Nipissing by-election.

"There have been differences and divisions in the past but never to this extent," he said. "Never with race against race, individual against individual, province against province, as we have it today."

He also said that next week, with serious problems awaiting attention, the government will spend its time dealing with the "Pearson Pageant," as he described the new flag proposed by the Liberal government.

"You cannot impose a flag upon a nation," he said. "It must originate in a feeling of national pride in our heritage and in our hope for the future."

HELD COURSE

He said his Progressive Conservative government had been charged with being anti-American because we maintained our own course, while preserving our friendship with the U.S.

"Now as a result of the present threatening attitude we have an 80-per-cent reduction in U.S. investment in our country."

He said as far as the government is concerned unemployment no longer exists. "Yet 370,000 people are drawing unemployment benefits."

He said in his view unemployment has been brought about by automation and it cannot be eliminated "until young men and women are taught to operate such machinery."

The Conservative government, he said, had undertaken a vast program to provide technical knowledge and training.

Mr. Winch, who earlier in the Commons said MPs were becoming childish and asked whether a disaper service had been ordered for them, was then asked himself, "now who's wearing the diapers?"

HAD MATCH

The flagpole scene also witnessed a shouting match between Augustin Choquette (Lotbinière) and Louis - Joseph Pigeon (PC — Joliette-l'Assomption - Montcalm) over the Union Jack.

Mr. Pigeon said he would try to delete the Union Jack reference in the government flag resolution. The Liberal MP said he had advocated that Canada become a republic, but he supported the idea of flying the Union Jack to mark Commonwealth membership.

The last flying was scheduled for 12 p.m., and from 3-4 p.m., but the flag nearly stayed put after the lunchtime showing. A public works employee had to get a ladder and climb the pole when one corner of the flag became untangled from the halyard.

Retired Teachers Honored By Colleagues at June Tea

The annual June tea of the Federation of Women Teachers was held at Tabernacle Church auditorium.

In tribute to more than 40 years of service, corsages were presented to Miss Lillian Hart, Miss Fay Young, Miss Jane Smyth and Miss Grace Tucker, who posed for photographs. It was regretted that Miss Kathleen MacPherson who also has the distinction of having taught more than forty years, was unable to be present.

Among those at the head table was an honored guest, Mrs. Irene Raney, who will be on the staff of a Belleville Secondary School in September.

At the attractively decorated smaller tables many other teachers were being served dainty sandwiches, delicious small cakes and tea by a ladies' unit of the church.

During the meeting that followed, Mrs. Florence Graham made a presentation to Mrs. Cora Dier who retired this year. Mrs. Dier's reply reflected her own quiet sincerity.

Mrs. June Sine gave a concise report on topics of special interest discussed at the spring regional assembly held earlier at Collins Bay Secondary School.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Mrs. Irene Phillips presided at the installation of the following officers for the year beginning in September; past-president, Mrs. Helen W. Calnan; president, Mrs. June Sine; 1st vice-president, Miss Alice Heasman; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Jean Sowden; secretary, Miss Patricia Miller; treasurer, Miss Colleen Lemon.

Mrs. Dorothy Blakely voiced the appreciation of Belleville Women Teachers to President Mrs. Helen Calnan and her efficient executive for their effort and achievement during 1963 - 64.

Mrs. Calnan in a brief reply thanked her executive and the many others who had helped make her duties lighter and more pleasant.

Can't Find Any Cookies Girl Can Eat

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP)—When her two-year-old daughter wanted a cookie and Mrs. Sam Cohen couldn't buy one for her, the Toronto mother started a campaign.

It isn't that she can't afford a cookie. Her daughter is an allergy sufferer and Mrs. Cohen can't find any cookies on the market that the little girl can eat.

The result of her anger was formation of Allergy Informa tion, a group of people with similar problems. It began with if a dozen women meeting in March to exchange information. It has grown so far to include 90 members in Ontario, Alberta and Vancouver.

Their first organized step has been to circulate a petition to doctors and laymen asking them to support an effort to get ingredients of food products listed on labels. They hope, as well, to see more information and more allergy foods made available in Canada.

NEED BROADER DIETS

The letter with the petition reads in part:

"We do not attempt to diagnose or give medical advice. Our interest is in dietz and food —how the scope of prescribed restricted diets can be enlarged with new recipes, and what and where products free of ingredients that are dangers for us can be purchased.

"Even people without allergy problems in their families are often anxious to know the ingredients of many of the food products they buy. But for us this becomes vital, as when ingredients such as milk and wheat appear in the most unexpected places."

The petition had 967 names on it by early June. Allergy Information hopes to have nearly 2,000 by June 30, at which time it planned to present it to Health Minister LaMarsh with a request that legislation be enacted to require all foods be labelled as to ingredients.

The petition is partly the result of a suggestion from the federal food and drug directorate, one of the group's Allergy Information has approached.

"Cookies are not luxuries for people who have little else they can eat," Mrs. Cohen says. "I decided it was time somebody made a holler."

She says even recipes are difficult to find. "They suggest you substitute water for milk, for instance. It tastes terrible and it just falls apart."

Mrs. Cohen says she has talked to manufacturers and research centres with no results.

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION:

I have been wondering if you would possibly be able to give me from perhaps some of your many readers' a recipe for a German Coffee Strudel. I believe it is called, with pastry crumbs on top. The other is a frozen fresh fruit cake also made by a German lady. Would any of your readers have these at all? — Irene K.

ANSWER:

Will you come to our rescue in your usual generous fashion please? Irene wants "German Kremer Strodel" and a frozen fresh fruit cake. Please send your letters to me in care of this newspaper.

QUESTION:

I have been reading and clipping from your delightful column for years and just now can hardly wait to try my hand at Moore Bread clipped from the paper. However, I have a small problem and a friend suggested that I ask you for help.

Our Church Women along with our A.O.T.S. Men's Club are sponsoring our first chicken barbecue very soon. We hope to serve 800 people. We wondered if you would tell us how many bunches of carrots and celery we would need to make into sticks for 100 people. We can carry on from there depending on the number of tickets sold. . . . Eleanor A.

ANSWER:

The rule is to allow 4 sticks each. That is 2 carrot sticks and 2 celery sticks each IF you do not supply salads OR pickles and olives. So if there are no salads or pickles or olives, to serve 100 you will need 3 average bunches of medium-size carrots and one big head of celery. The carrots are cut into 3 lengthwise strips which are then cut in half crosswise, giving you 10 strips from each carrot. The celery is cut intovening as a penalty for riding strips approximately 4" long by without headlights.

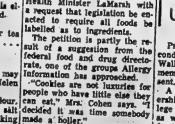
½" wide, using outer stalks and all stalks right up to the leaf section.

The common mistake is to prepare too many carrots and they are often left over, particularly where the crowd is elderly and dentures abound.

QUESTION:

Please give a recipe for tea biscuits that can be frozen . . . A.P.

ANSWER:



TEA BISCUITS (which may be frozen — Thanks to Helen P.)

Sift 2 cups all-purpose flour, Resift with ¼ teaspoon salt decided it was time somebody and 4½ teaspoons baking made a holler." powder. Cut in ¾ cup shortening, then add 1 cup milk all at once. Mix with a knife and turn onto floured board. Gather in to a ball, then knead for 30 counts; roll and cut with floured cutter. Place touching on oiled pan, and bake 15 minutes at 450 deg. Fahr.

Helen added: "Mary, the biscuits that you tasted had been frozen for 2 or 4 weeks. I usually make and bake 4 batches at a time and wrap in foil and freeze. To serve, thaw one hour at room temperature and heat in original foil wrap at 300 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes."

Mr. and Mrs. James Richard Young and Rev. Harry M. Davis are pictured after their wedding in Bridge Street United Church. The bride is the former Catherine Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley D. Rorabeck of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry A. Young, also of Belleville.

YOUNG — RORABECK

Bridge Street United Church was the setting recently for the marriage of Catherine Ann Rorabeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley D. Rorabeck to James Richard Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry A. Young, all of Belleville.

The doublering ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry M. Davis. Mr. Alec Gordon, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Shirley Fisher.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta designed with scoop neckline, long lily point sleeves and controlled skirt with slight Chapel train. The fitted bodice and skirt front were enhanced by appliques of Chantilly lace. A corset of orange blossoms held her elbow-length veil. She carried a white Bible covered with a single gardenia, pink sweetheart roses and white Stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Joan Rorabeck, Oshawa, sister of the bride and Miss Sally Young of Belleville, sister of the groom, were identical floor-length dresses of blue chiffon, matching flowered head-dresses and carried cascade bouquets of white mums.

Mr. Manson Jones, Belleville, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Earl Young, Belleville, brother of the groom, and Mr. Glen Stinson, Tamworth.

For the reception held in the church parlours, the bride's mother received wearing a delft-blue Shantung full-length coat over printed sheer dress and matching Shantung hat. Her corsage was of yellow mums and white stephanotis. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a pink lace dress, matching jacket and pink hat. Her corsage was of white mums and stephanotis.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a three piece ensemble of blue wool with hat of blue net and flowers and corsage of gardenia and roses.

Guests were present from Burlington, Toronto, Oshawa, Picton, Deseronto, Napanee and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Young will reside at 246 Elgin Court, Oshawa.

Wedding Song Eliminated From Ritual

KINGSTON (CP)—The traditional wedding song Here comes the Bride, no longer will be heard at United churches here.

The song has been removed from the marriage ceremony and other changes have been made in an attempt by the United Church of Canada to make the service more religious and modern.

Rev. Kenneth A. Fenton of Princess Street United Church, said today the streamlined service will be used for the first time in Kingston today.

"For the past two years and more, the committee on church worship and ritual has been revising many of the orders of services used in United Churches of Canada," said Mr. Fenton.

An example of the language updating, he said, is the elimination of the words, "I plight thee my troth." Because there is no modern English equivalent, it was eliminated.

Also "thee" and "thou" have been replaced by "you" in church liturgy, he said.

WILLIAMSON — REID

Baskets of pink gladioli and pink chrysanthemums formed a lovely background setting in Albert College chapel on Saturday, June 6, 1964 when Tamsin Margaret Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Reid, Belleville R.R. 1 was united in marriage to Wallace Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Williamson, Long Branch, Ontario. The Rev. Alastair Ihlg of Albert College officiated at the ceremony, when traditional wedding music was rendered.

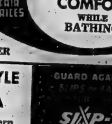
The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a white floor length bridal gown of peau de soie enhanced with a long sleeved lace jacket. Her matching lace veil flowed from a circlet headdress and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white baby breath interspersed with trailing ivy.

Mrs. Gloria Parris, Plattsburg New York, sister of the bride, as matron of honor and Mrs. Joan Williamson, of Long Branch, sister-in-law of the bridegroom as bridesmaid were identically attired in pink peau de grenadine street length dresses with matching short sleeve jackets and matching corsets. Each carried a spray of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Norman Williamson attended his brother as groomsman, while Mr. O'Donovan Francis of Plattsburg, Mr. John Williamson and Mr. Bruce Williamson, both brothers of the bridegroom were the ushers.

A reception following the wedding was held in the Pinnacle Room at Hotel Quinte where the bride's table was most attractive and centred with a three-tier wedding cake. The colorful bridal bouquets added to the nuptial setting. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a street length dress of blue pean de grenadine with matching blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother who wore a floral print silk dress with lavender accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a flowered silk print with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.



Guests were present from Toronto, Florida, Montreal, Rochester and Plattsburg, N.Y., Prescott, Ottawa, Kingston, Oshawa, Montreal.

Previous to the marriage the bride was honored at miscellaneous showers given by Mrs. Alec Cunningham, Belleville, Mrs. Norman Williamson, Toronto, and by Mrs. George McCrindle of Toronto.

SIR GILBERT PARKER

(conclusion)

"Time is long, and the true things outlast all hatred, all injustice, all unfairness, everything." — Sir Gilbert Parker.

Back in 1902, "The Standard" of London wrote on the 28th of June:

"It was with the very greatest satisfaction that the announcement was received in the distinction of being represented by one of the most famous men of letters in the world, and such a high authority in Imperial politics, learned on Thursday that his Majesty the King had been pleased to confer the honour of knighthood upon Mr. Gilbert Parker.

"No member of Parliament enjoys greater popularity with his constituents than the member for Gravesend, and all parties and classes are of one opinion, that Sir Gilbert is eminently worthy of the high honour. It is felt that the constituency is raised in honour with its member."

"As to Mr. Parker's principles," and we now quote from the "Standard" of September 22nd, 1900, "it is sufficient to say that he is no faddist, but he takes a broad, and tolerant view of all questions, Imperial and local.

"He has travelled too much, taken too keen an interest in the affairs of the world to be narrow in his ideas, and it is encouraging to learn that he has returned from his travels a firm believer in Great Britain's Imperial responsibilities.

"He commenced his work as an Imperialist early in life, and his subsequent career and experience have strengthened rather than shaken his views on this most important matter. In the year 1888, when he was only 24 years old, he was associate editor of the new "Sidney Morning Herald," the leading paper of Australia. That was the year in which the seeds were the first breathings, as it were, of Australian Federation, and Mr. Edward Hixton, who was the principal delegate from Australia in England recently, and Mr. Gilbert Parker were old members of the same club, and constantly discussed this great question, while Mr. Gilbert Parker probably wrote the first leading articles that were published in Australia concerning the possibilities of federation.

"The 'Sidney Morning Herald' up to that time had not been decisive and definite in its opinions, so Mr. Gilbert and Parker had experience and knowledge of the working of federation in Canada — that is to say, the experience of having lived there and having been born there, as a Britisher of Scottish officer, having been stationed at Quebec — his opinions had full weight with the newspaper with which he was connected, and he continually urged the additionally talked Australian Federation.

"He was, and is at heart and in practice, an Imperialist in the highest sense, believing that as long as England has Colonies, she must develop her trade with those Colonies, and their trade with her in return. That she must be responsible for all the interests of those Colonies so long as they remain in the Federation which we call the British Empire.

"Holding these views, if was quite natural that he should watch the slow growth of the Imperial spirit at the centre, that is England, with more than ordinary interest, and that he should work for the cause with a practical sense of what it involved.

"That his principles were well-founded, and that he was standing in the right direction has been shown in the last year, when the wildest dreams of the Imperialists were realized, and they were called — have been realized in the assistance sponsorious response — and the loyalty which the Colonies had given to the Federation of the Colonies of Australia, as to which the Royal Proclamation was gazetted on the very day that Mr. Parker was adopted as member for Gravesend."

Regarding his knighthood, the "St. James's Gazette said: "Among the many knights we give to-day is one that, although it has been honoured in the persons of Sir Conan Doyle and Sir Gilbert Parker . . . The latter has not only made the question of Imperial trade his own, but by his literary writings has done much to give the people of this country an insight into the life and habits of thought of those most interesting sons of the Empire, the French Canadians."

Someone has said: "History has its foreground and its background. . . Some events must be labored in succession, the great others diminished; the great majority will be lost in the darkness of the horizon." We would like to thank both Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Gilbert for this glance which renews an awareness of how our English heritage way down there, at the turn of the century and beyond was achieved and guided through distinguished men and efforts of many men, such as one right from our own centre of Bellewille: Sir Gilbert Parker.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR I. Q.?

People who arrive late cause the hostess much anxiety and a few headaches. Here are some questions we're often asked about how to proceed:

1 If the dinner guests are late for dinner, should you go ahead and serve anyway?

2 If they arrive at the tail-end of the cocktail period, should the hostess delay serving until they've had a drink or two?

3 If they arrive during the intermission, can you stand until they're seated?

4 Should the hostess make introductions during dinner, or wait till later?

5 If the main course is being served, should the late-comer be served the first course or start with the entree?

6 If he doesn't arrive until dessert, should the hostess offer him the main course anyway?

7 If a guest is late to a dinner party in a restaurant, should the host settle his guests at the table or wait till the late-comer shows up?

8 If a guest arrives while others are eating, should the host offer him a cocktail even though others have finished with theirs?

ANSWERS:

1. If the dinner is in danger of spoiling, the hostess should serve on time. But she may wait an extra twenty-minutes or so before serving.

2. If there's no reason to serve on the dot, she might delay cocktails, as a courtesy, but she shouldn't keep her more punctual guests waiting too long for the late-comers to catch up.

3. The men seated to the right of a late woman guest rise and help her be seated, but the others need not rise.

4. The late guest can introduce himself to those near him, and the hostess can do the rest later.

5. Rather than delay service, the late guest starts with the entree.

6. It may be a bit cold at this point, but she should offer him what's left.

7. Rather than have everyone milling around outside and feeling uncomfortable, the host should get his guests settled at the table and leave instructions to have the late guest shown to where he arrives.

8. He may, but the guest, if he is polite, should also order his main course immediately to prevent further delay.

MAIL CALL

Question: While I was visiting a friend the other day, her front doorbell buzzed. She was in the kitchen at the time, getting tea, and didn't hear it. Since she was busy, I opened the door and walked in on a couple who live up the block. When my friend came into the living room and found her friend there, she seemed taken aback, but glossed the whole thing over by asking the new guests to have tea, also. When the visitor left, my friend said she wished she had knocked the door herself, since this particular neighbor is a notorious busybody and she prefers not to have more to do with her than is absolutely necessary. Needless to say, I felt I had made a fast pas and was duly apologetic. But, at the time, I thought I had done the helpful thing by answering the door. What is your opinion of the matter? — Mrs. H. G., Garden City, N.Y.

Answer: Correctly, if your hostess did not hear the doorbell, you should have told her someone was at the door, so she could have answered it herself. A guest should never take this sort of responsibility on herself. If you'd known that she was company and suggest she call at a more convenient time. As it was your opening the door and bringing the caller into the living room made it difficult for your hostess to politely back off the limb you had placed her on, but she did manage to recover gracefully and to handle the situation with the necessary tact.

Eldest Daughter, 12, Gives Her Parents a Rough Time

DEAR BAFFLED — You are baffled. But so is she. Can you imagine how close she is to tears when she screams at you? At 12 she longs to assert herself; half the time you let her and count on her.

A bright girl like this eldest one would appreciate a discussion with you rather than a scolding. Point out that as a leader it's her job to be fair and helpful to the flock. And praise her when she's good.

DEAR DORIS — I am in love with a certain lady who is a few years my junior. We have many things in common, such as religion, hobbies, etc. We have been the best of friends up till now even to the point of embracing, but she has called a halt to that, for what reason I do not know.

She has had one or two disappointments in her life in regards to marriage. Would that tend to sour her against further associations with men? Would her mother tend to have some influence over her? She is old enough to know her own mind and her mother has said she would not object to her marrying.

She also is steadily employed which may account for her independence. I would do most anything within reason to regain her confidence and affection, as I have no one else to share my life with. — BACHELOR STILL HOPING.

DEAR BACHELOR — Once bitten, twice shy. So she backs away from anything which begins to look serious. And mother is doubtless keeping a hold on her girl — consciously or unconsciously.

You: friend needs to face the ongoing nature of life. Could you treat her to a little wholesome neglect?

DEAR SEARCHING — Lucky you with your experience of a good teacher and the sensitivity to enjoy him! You'll never lose what you have gained through knowing him.

Move on, little girl. There are other new and exciting people coming into your life and will be, all your life. Life is change. Letter on you'll find you don't even wish it would stand still.

DEAR DORIS — We are having our 50th Anniversary, and what I want to know is would it be in bad taste to put on the invitation: "No gifts or money!" As our age we could do without the gifts and we don't need the money. I will go by whatever you suggest. — COUPLE SEVENTY-FIVE.

DEAR COUPLE — Would you call off Christmas from now on too, because you don't need the presents?

People want to express love. Don't prevent them. And don't slap them in the face by suggesting "no gifts."

DEAR DORIS — I would like to know if there is a military school for boys that is open just for the summer months. If there is such a school, could you inform me where to write to get information on it. — ROBIN.

DEAR ROBIN — There are several army cadet camps in Ontario operated in the summer months for students. To qualify for admission a boy must be 14 years old or in grade nine. San Antonio, Texas, Is Called Truly Distinctive U. S. City

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOAN

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — "I have sustained a continual bombardment and cannonade for 24 hours. . . our flag still waves proudly from the walls — I shall never surrender or retreat. . I call on you in the name of Liberty, of patriotism and everything dear to the American character to come to our aid with all dispatch. . If this call is neglected, I am determined to sustain myself as long as possible and die like a soldier who never forgets what is due to his own honor and that of his country. Victory or Death."

The letter was signed William Barret Travis, Lt. Col. Comdt., and dated Feb. 24, 1836.

The aid so desperately sought by young Travis, lately assumed of command from Davy Crockett, was not forthcoming, nor had it ever been requested. By some miracle, the garrison held out for 13 days after the makeshift fort fell only when all inside, save for a few women and children, were dead.

The battle had been lost, but six weeks later the war was won. Armed with a battle cry that was to become the most stirring call in Texas history, a San Jacinto finally routed the armies of the hated Mexican tyrant, Santa Anna. The state of Texas was opened for ultimate annexation by the United States. Annexation also instantly employed which may account for her the incredible heroism of men who fought for weeks knowing full well their only destiny was death.

ALAMO STILL STANDS

The Alamo is the central Spanish mission known as the Alamo still stands, almost in the heart of the city of San Antonio, San Antonio. Its dank hall and walls are lined with moving mementoes of the battle — even the "Arkansas toothpick": the original of Travis's letter; the rifle Travis gave to a boy not knowing he would need it no more; rifles and other weapons; and personal effects.

It was Will Rogers who was said to have placed San Antonio in the category of Boston, New Orleans and San Francisco as among the few truly distinctive cities of the United States. While the Bay is to San Francisco, the Golden Gate is to San Antonio what Old England was to Boston, Mexico is to San Antonio what Paris is to New Orleans, the annual Fiesta celebrating San Jacinto Day is to San Antonio.

So far, neither San Antonio nor its April fiesta is a tourist trade attraction. It is to the apparent contradictions between loyalty to Mexican culture and hatred of Santa Ana's cause anyone concerns. Not only does San Antonio boast native-born matriarchal matrilineal inherited and authentic as any in Mexico, but it has also produced some of the finest flamenco dancers in the world. And that harkens back to Old Spain, not just Old Mexico.

The high point of San Antonio's year is Fiesta, the belle known to the citizens than to tourists. Its salient feature is the only parade in the world with floats that float, for the whole bit takes place on the narrow, shallow, winding San Antonio River, hardly more than a stream but easily one of the most charming waterways in the country.

It courses for a couple of miles through the heart of San Antonio, under city-street bridges, past waterfront restaurants await garde night clubs, and antique shops hung with wrought iron and lantern.

LIFE OF ITS OWN

The river has a life of its own not readily seen from above. Its banks are lined with little parks and gardens shaded with cottonwoods. Above, but far away in another world, host the city hall and the skyscrapers.

There is no river quite like it in the country.

The fiesta parade is like most parades, except for the floating floats and the fact that spectators rent chairs and boxes along the banks. There is activity all over the length of the river, but the stage on one side and seats on the other where performances are given and children were dead.

The battle had been lost, but six weeks later the war was won. Fungus Diseases Attack Iris

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Many fungus diseases affect Iris.

In rainy seasons blossoms may be spotted and blighted by two fungi. To control, pick off and destroy blooms as soon as noticed.

Many fungi cause leaf spotting. The main offender causes spots in top half of leaf after blooming. Most of these fungi do not attack root but kill the leaves and weaken the plants and eventually the plants die. Control by spraying every ten days or two weeks with freshly prepared Bordeaux mix. Add a sticking agent such as a little mild soap solution, or use Zaneb following manufacturers directions. Maneb, or phaltan are also effective. Remove old leaves and debris in fall and spring. This helps to prevent many of the Iris pests.

If rust - red powdery spots appears on both sides of the leaves. To control, clean plants of old leaves and dead leaves around plants. Burn leaves. Spray with Zineb, Ferbam. Repeat according to directions.

In Rhizome-rot, black shiny hard spots develop in cool rainy weather, and is found on drying plants in the spring.

Control by destroying badly infected plants, treat others with ceresan. Follow directions of manufacturer.

DEVELOPS RAPIDLY

In crown gall, leaf and flower stock of crowded plants are infected. This moves down into the rhizomes and causes a dry rot The leaves often turn brown but the fungi stays close to the ground. The rot develops rapidly forming white spot that turn light brown then dark brown or black.

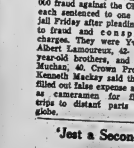
To control, remove plant and soil from area and for a 6 inch extension of area. Take great care not to scatter infected soil. Dust area with one pound 20 percent PCNB dust (sold under the trade name of terraclor) for each 40 square feet. Soak rhizomes for three hours in 0.5 per cent solution of formalin at 110 degrees farenheit.

In black rot, affected plants send up no new leaves in spring or they turn yellow soon after emerging. They wilt and die. Roots and rhizome are covered black spots develop on old decayed parts. Control by discarding all diseased plants. Treat soil with PCNB.

Mosaic causes yellow mottling or stripes. Potato and peach aphids carry this virus. Control the aphids with malathion and discard infected plants.

INSECTS

Aphids — spray with lindane or malathion.



Iris borer — the moth stage emerges in August or September. The small gray moth lays eggs in old leaves or other debris. In the spring the borer emerges and attacks the leaves when they are five to six inches high. It eats its way down into the root. Not only does it damage the leaves and not but it also leaves an open wound for the entry of fungi and virus diseases.

Control — Keep plant area clean. Spray with one part of 47.5 percent thimet diluted with 300 to 400 parts water. Malathion sprays are effective if used before the larvae enters the leaves. Give plants three application weeks apart from early April to mid-May. Verbenia moth and weevil attack seed pode. Control — cut off pods and spray with malathion or lead arsenate.

THREE SENTENCED

MONTREAL (CP) — Three men who participated in a $29,000 fraud against the CBC, were each sentenced to one year in jail Friday after pleading guilty to fraud and conspiracy charges. They were Yvon and Albert Lamoureux, 42 and 35-year-old brothers, and Gordon Muchan, 40. Crown Prosecutor Kenneth Mackay said the three filled out false expense accounts as cameramen for fictitious trips to distant parts of the globe.

Bulletins From Birdland

By WINIFRED R. WILSON

COMMON MERGANSER

Mr. and Mrs. American Merganser, fresh water birds, are at this minute chasing each other over one of Canada's many small inland lakes. At this time of year a bear their purring courtship notes as well as their characteristic, hoarse croaks. You may not realize that the two belong to the same species, their coloring is so different. He has slowly shining black, green head, while her head is red with a decided crest, and she has a sharply marked white throat and neck in the air he appears to be mainly white.

The flight of mergansers is distinctive. In comparison with most ducks they are very long drawn out because their bills and bodies are both long and they fly with their long necks stretched out. Length is accentuated by the horizontal carriage.

EARLY WINTER HERE

Our pair may have wintered somewhere along the St. Lawrence river or on one of the Great Lakes but believe it or not, though the majority spend the cold winter in the U.S., quite a number remain in this age to find fish or other food to keep them alive. Fish, crayfish, or frogs, without crossing a southern border. Now the pairs are thinking about settling down to housekeeping right here in Canada.

Their home is usually in a hole in an old tree, but might be in a bank, among rocks, or even in a discarded bank's nest in a tree It is always near water, and made of grasses.

Father Merganser has no longer interested in his family once the young or so eggs have been laid. Mother must do the hard work of bringing up the children, teaching them to feed themselves and how to evade danger. At first she does the fishing for them, and they swim nearby, watching. Mergansers are very low in the water at all times, but when fishing swim with their heads under up to the eyes In this way they see their prey and then dive for it.

SPECIAL BILL

The bill of a merganser is especially adapted for this. There is a downward hook at the tip, and the edges are serrated. This is very useful in the fish Thanksgiving of Cambray.

Ottawa Girl Will Grace Fashion Pages of Magazine

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—An 18-year-old Ottawa girl who can't decide whether to become a model or a diplomat will grace the fashion pages of a slick U.S. women's magazine in August.

Judy Carter, a pre-arts student at the University of Ottawa, was chosen as one of the 10 best-dressed college girls in North America this spring in a competition at 1,000 American and Canadian colleges sponsored by the magazine Glamour.

She was the only Canadian and the youngest girl chosen.

Judy receives an all-expenses, two-week visit to New York this month and the opportunity to model next fall's campus clothes in the magazine's August issue.

The tall, slender blonde is taking the sudden excitement in stride.

"My parents were thrilled and quite proud when I won the contest, but of course they are worried that I won't want to continue my education."

GOING TO TORONTO

Although the contests often are a stepping-stone to a modelling career for the winners, Judy still plans to go to the University of Toronto next fall after her first year of her arts course.

"I want to specialize in political science and economics. Then, if I don't eventually become a professional model, I would like to go into external affairs or work for the United Nations."

Judy is a native of England whose family came to Canada six years ago. Her father, G. F. Carter, is an electronics engineer with the federal government.

She admits to a bias for English fashions while saying forthrightly that, "on the whole, Canadian women have very poor fashion taste."

"They seem to be about five years behind everyone else.

"Maybe I'm prejudiced, but English girls seem to be about the best-dressed in the world, with New York women a close second.

"English women have a taste for simplicity and a sense of fashion rightness — they know it's much better to be underdressed than over-dressed."

DRESS TO SEW

Judy favors simple clothes She has no favorite color but leans to navy and is busy sewing lots of white and pink clothes to wear during the summer.

In the fashion competition, she won a contest for the best-dressed girl at her university. Then she had to submit to the magazine three photographs of herself wearing three different outfits.

Her three outfits were a navy blue and white checked suit with a white blouse for college wear, a green tweed suit with a sheath dress underneath for dressier occasions, and a formal, full-length sea-green evening gown.

She chose the three from outfits made for her by her favorite dressmaker. But she often makes her own school clothes.

"I don't like to attempt anything complicated."

Judy already has made one weekend trip to New York and to Charlottesville, Virginia, for fittings and a photography session.

The girls, accompanied by a flock of fashion editors, photographers, makeup experts and hairdressers, took the train to Charlottsville where they were photographed on the University of Virginia campus.

"Virginia is an all-male university, so we caused quite a stir on the campus. We arrived at 10 o'clock on a Friday night and within half an hour every one of the 2,000 men knew we were there."

URGE VEGETABLES

Nutritionists recommend that meals include potatoes with servings of two other vegetables, preferably one yellow and one green.

Ann Landers

Can Parents Tell if They Are Doing Their Job Well?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Recently in reply to a mother who was concerned about her daughter you wrote, "If you have done your job well you need not worry." What I would like to know is, how do I know if I am doing my job well?

Our three children are from two to eight years of age. I try to be a good mother but I keep wondering what I am doing wrong — or worse yet, leaving undone.

I dread the time when our children will be teen-agers. I hear and read so much about today's "teen-age monsters" that I wonder if I will be able to cope with them. Most of my friends whose children are older than ours have their hands full and they don't know where to turn.

ANN LANDERS

What can I do NOW to instill in our children the proper values so they will grow up to be solid, well-adjusted adults? — LOOKING AHEAD.

DEAR LOOKING — The fact that you are thinking NOW of how to instill in your children decent values so that they will be solid, well-adjusted adults is good evidence that you yourself are solid and sensible.

A mother's instincts are far better than all the advice in the world. May I suggest a few guidelines to backstop the instincts?

Let your children know you love them and that they are important to you. Make each child feel worthy and useful in his own right so he will not be driven to out-do his brothers and sisters in a compulsive or destructive manner.

Insist that each child accept responsibility for himself and his belongings. Children who grow up with chores to do develop a living pattern of dependability, cooperation and usefulness.

Be consistent. Say what you mean and mean what you say. Give your children everything they have coming — both rewards and punishment.

Make friends of your children. Keep the arteries of communication open. Talk to them and listen to them when they talk to you. This should start at birth. The parents who wait until their children are "old enough to understand" wake up to find that that day has come and gone and that somehow they missed it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband passed away one year and left very little insurance.

I don't want to put my preschool children home and go to work because now that they have no father they need me more than ever. I read an ad seeking someone to address envelopes at home which sounds tempting. It promises at least $50 a week. Is there a catch somewhere? How do I find out? — MILLIE

DEAR MILLIE — There may be a catch. Write for the particulars and ask your Better Business Bureau to look at the material they send you. Some of these make-money-at-home outfits are curvy. What they really want to do is grab your dollar by selling you special equipment, an instruction book, or stationery. Once hooked, they'll tell you your work is not up to standard — and you've been had.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband's mother passed away recently. Several of our friends sent floral offerings which we appreciated a great deal.

When some of these friends came to call after the funeral, we thanked them for their beautiful flowers and told them how much it meant to us that they had been so thoughtful.

Yesterday I told my husband I was ordering some personally monogramed white note paper so I could write thank-you notes to all the people who had sent flowers. He said, "It isn't necessary. We thanked most of the people verbally."

I feel we should send notes, even if we did thank them in person. He insists I am wrong. Am I? Please settle it — MRS.

DEAR MRS — He IS wrong Go ahead and send the thank-you notes. When folks go to the trouble and expense to say it with flowers, the least you can do is say it in writing.

Do you lack self-confidence . . . have trouble making friends? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 25c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Power of Waiting Sets Man Apart From Lower Creatures

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Late spring is a time of waiting. The sprigling of gardens was done many weeks ago. Seeds have been planted. Rich, black soil now covers the slumbering life in all these hard - shelled little possibilities that men buy in packages. Now, excepting the a bit of weed-pulling, we must wait. Let the dark, rainy nights, bright mornings, glad, golden afternoons and dewy evenings nourish the seeds in their beds. Let breezes caress tiny plants; let the warm sun bless them and all the lengthing hours of springtime enliven and refresh them. Let golden bees and emerald humming birds casually visit them as they go about their chores. And let the seeds and seedlings alone until they have a chance to grow.

Man is capable of gardening, not only because he has the intelligence and the tools to plow or spade, to plant and hoe, to cultivate and to harvest, but because man has the power to wait for his expectations to be realized and for his desires to be satisfied.

The lower creatures seek a more immediate satisfaction.

Man's power of waiting makes for much of his misery and his glory. If he could only take at once what he wants or ignore his wishes altogether he might be as comfortable as an amoeba. But then, again, he would also be as insignificant. He knows that all his enjoyments are but fragmentary; he hungers for a fulfillment that cannot be realized at once, and he strives for achievements that are long in coming.

NEEDED IN HEALING

The power of waiting is greatly needed in every kind of healing, physical and spiritual. How hard it is to endure prolonged bedrest when one is ill. If we then give in to fretfulness, restlessness, complaints or self pity our poor emotional health will frustrate healing. Impatience augments the illness. We need to understand that the Divine Healer works with doctors and nurses and with all those who are devoted to the healing arts, but He takes His time. The Great Physician cannot be pushed or rushed. The ill need to wait in quiet restfulness.

Emotional wounds must be treated with patience. They take time to heal. When we have forgiven those who have offended and hurt us and some attempt has been made toward reconciliation, when we have weeded out evil and have sown the good seed we must expect a creative pause before desired results can be seen. Feelings of shame, guilt, hurt and resentment do not die at the roots as soon as these weeds are pulled. And feelings of forgiveness, restoration, and goodwill do not sprout and bloom the day they are planted. But God and time are inseparable partners and encouragement to discouragable co-workers. They will work together. Give God time.

God's patient dealings with things of the earth should teach us to be more patient with ourselves, and God's patience with us should teach us to be more patient with each other.

The Golden Years

A Son Talks Back, With Love, To Unhappy Retired Father

By THOMAS COLLINS

The letter that appeared here from a Retired Man to his Son has been disturbing to many thoughtful young men. Carl J. Moore, Jr. of the Stetson College Law in St. Petersburg, Fla. He has written a reply for his generation:

To a Retired Father:

You charge the young men of my generation with passive arrogance toward you. You say that we young ones think we are superior and that we patronizingly regard you as an insignificant cog in our machine of life.

You are partly right that an attitude of passive arrogance exists between our two generations, but not for the reasons you enumerated. I think the trouble begins in your point that the world we have today is the legacy of your generation.

My generation is advancing into a new area — into the legacy of yours. We are somewhat afraid and we feel an unparalleled need for hurry. For the legacy from your world has not come without mutilated blessings. Vast riches beyond compare.

But there also is a liability which must be seen and noncient. My generation realizes, as does that it does not hold a copyright on wisdom but there is one distinction: for you. I was the first baby ever born; for me, my son will be the last.

CAN'T AFFORD MISTAKES

Obsolescence is the need for hurry, a word in my generation, not only in the giving of machines and industry, but to some degree within our society. In these areas we cannot afford the mistakes of a depression, or of a war. The mistakes may destroy the birthright.

It is this part of your legacy that is responsible for a feeling of belligerency in many ways the world you faced with its problems is much preferred to the one I must face.

I am proud and grateful for the struggle you and Mom made to bring me to my point in life. And I am truly sorry if you feel that what you have been could not matter less to me. I am a personal and living monument to you. I am what you created and built. What I am is what you have made, and my son — your grandson — is a continuation of that construction. Can this really be cause for complaint?

USE YOUR WISDOM

You said you would like me to ask occasionally for some of your wisdom. That wisdom is used by me every day. Have you forgotten that for almost 20 years I was a silent observer of everything you did and said? Don't you know that every time we talk your words are constantly constructing, reconstructing, and adding to what I have gleaned from you in the past? The very thoughts that I express through my mind are weighed and measured by something you have taught me to use as a guide.

Are we really so far apart? I think not. For I am very conscious and unconsciously my every thought companion. Can mundane letters between us useful purpose? Can the time between really count as a measure? I think not. For I am always remains with you, and a part of you always with me even though the physical distance between us may be great.

You have given me a job to do, and I am about my father's business. You have placed a burden upon me, and I am happy with it. That your love and prayers are always with me, I know. That mine are ever with you, you should know.

Sincerely,
Your Son.

Investigate Quickly Low Oil Pressure

By EUGENE B. MELMOE

When the oil panel light or gauge warns of low pressure, only the optimist thinks in terms of easily calibration. He could be right, of course — but a damaged engine might quickly prove he is dead wrong. It's usually best to adopt a "fear the worst" attitude and investigate promptly.

In some cases, abnormally low pressure is due to oil which is too light or thinned out by gas or water dilution. Obviously this can be easily remedied via an oil change. Another quickly cured cause is for the feed line connections . . . or a clogged oil intake. Naturally, oil pump wear is going to affect pressure, too — so this factor can't be ignored — when hunting down trouble. The pressure relief valve adjustment might be off, or a weak spring could be the answer. Then, we have the more bitter pills to worry about — worn main, camshaft or connecting rod bearings — which produce engine knock as well as pressure drop. This doesn't complete the entire list, but it does give a fairly quick rundown of the possibilities to be considered when oil pressure falls below normal.

From L.P.: "Should one expect oil mileage to parallel gas mileage, as far as city vs. country driving is concerned?"

No. Gas consumption is higher during city driving, while oil consumption is greater at highway speeds.

S. H. asks: "If the brake light stays on when the engine is running, even though hand brake and foot pedal are released, does this mean a no brake pedal clearance?"

It's possible, but a defective stoplight switch is the usual reason.

M. N. writes: "After 12,000 miles, the original spark plugs in my car are still misfiring evenly at all speeds. So naturally I can't be impressed by your statement that 10,000 miles is too much to expect from plugs."

Tired plugs may continue to run an engine, but they also waste gas and power, whether you know it or not.

From C. A.: "With 9,200 miles on my '61 I had to replace the muffler and the shop mechanic said I should also get a new shock absorbers."

Double-check his diagnosis elsewhere. Normally, at least 25,000 miles of good service can be expected from shocks . . . and often a lot more.

Income Tax Explained

By C. A. MILLER

The writer has received numerous letters each year from taxpayers who have taken children from the Children's Aid Society or other similar institutions, into their homes.

Some want to know if they can claim these children as dependants, while others are wondering if they must report as income the money they receive from the children's maintenance.

These children may not be claimed as dependant as the taxpayer has not their full custody and control. The organization which placed the children in the taxpayer's home may remove them at anytime.

The argument appears to be that the money received for the board and lodgings of the children does not cover all of the expenses incurred.

Regardless of the situation these children can not be claimed as dependants unless they are legally adopted.

In regard to the payments received for the children's keep, the total received in the year does not have to be reported on the income tax return.

If any profit was made, then the profit would have to be reported as income. To determine if any profit was made, the expenses, such as the cost of food and clothing including washing, mending, etc must be deducted from the payments received.

Judging from the letters I receive, there is never any profit made upon the boarding of these children.

If you have a problem not covered in this article, write to me in care of this newspaper and I will bring you correct information.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems, please enclose a self-addressed five cent stamped envelope and that is the fee for each question you wish answered.

QUESTION: My husband and I have no children of our own and we have taken in a boy and girl from the Children's Aid Society. The money we receive for their board does not cover the cost of their keep. Can we claim them as dependants?

ANSWER: No, you do not have full custody and control of them.

QUESTION: Do I have to report as income the money I receive from the Children's Aid for boarding children in our home?

ANSWER: No. It is only the profit, if any, that must be reported.

Pictures like the above one of Negro demonstrations in the U.S. have shocked Canadians for years. A Negro reader suggests today that Canadian teenagers practise a "polite discrimination."

Teen-Age Canada

Letter From Negro Boy Most Interesting One

By JACK HUTTON

Are Canadian young people guilty of polite discrimination when they smugly fat-slut stories about racial tension below the U.S. border?

Do they agree in school debates that the color of one's skin should make no difference while never inviting colored schoolmates home because the block might think it strange?

Are they buddies with a colored student while he is the star of the hockey, basketball or football team and centre of attention but mum when he believes he can go out with any girl in the school?

These only asking those questions, not saying they are fact sorrywhere. But they cropped up in my mind after a letter from an obviously embittered reader, a 19-year-old Negro who has been seeking a job in Vancouver, Winnipeg and Toronto.

At his request, I've withheld his name. But you may find what he has to say upsetting. In fact, since he has lived and travelled across Canada you may have met him.

Our correspondent (let's call him John) writes: "I've wanted to sit down with you sometime because I understand you write for Canadian young people in quite a few newspapers. However, I'm writing so I can state my thoughts calmly.

DISCRIMINATION

"Whenever I've seen your column, you've talked about things that affect Canada, changes in mathematics, teen-age secret stories, even the Beatles.

"Fine, I'm not knocking this. You obviously do it well or you wouldn't have your readership. What I'd like to know, however, when someone like yourself will have the guts to talk about a taboo topic: teen-age discrimination.

"It doesn't exist? Just read on.

"I was born in Detroit, Mich., where my father was a stock clerk for a small plant. As long ago as I can remember, he wanted to own his own home. First, he wanted all his kids to get the education he didn't.

"Now, this didn't bother me at first. My best chums in public school were two white boys from around the corner. But funny thing happened. Half way through our first year in high school, one of them told me, "Sorry, but my folks say we shouldn't spend so much time together.

"Just like that. Wham. That's when I decided I was heading up to Canada as soon ah I could hold down a job. All of a sudden I decided this was what Dad had meant in his talks, I couldn't stand it.

"I graduated from high school one year ago this spring and never had a doubt about my destination. Because I'd never seen the west coast, I drove with a buddy to Vancouver, B. C.

"The first night I answered an ad for a room. When I got from the landlady was like a kick in the stomach. This was no different from home. She turned me down with some excuse.

(I can't quote the entire letter, so should say here that John looked unsuccessfully for a salesman's job. He lived with a nice family who tried to convince him the first landlady was an exception, but he was suspicious by now.)

"I moved on to Winnipeg and found a selling job that paid not too badly. Then the other side of the coin hit me. I wandered into coffee shops where school gangs just about my age were sitting. I couldn't make contact with them.

FULL CIRCLE

"Finally, I moved to Toronto. Would you believe it, I found I'd gone full circle. Here I found people my age who figured it was fashionable to know at least one Negro — provided he didn't step over invisible boundaries.

"I soon discovered what was happening through a chance remark from someone who didn't know I was listening. And, funny thing, I wasn't even angry. Only hurt and disappointed.

"Maybe I'm misjudging a whole country, because I have found it in Calgary, Saskatoon, Montreal and Quebec. But I'm so disillusioned that I'm heading back to Detroit. At least my original friends are there.

"Just one small problem. What do I tell dad?"

Magazines and newspapers are talking about a "long hot summer" in Canada's slums across the border. I quote John's letter as proof that the problem exists here too.

Will attitudes change? The answer is up to our generation.

RECKONING TO THE TOURIST — The Irish Tourist Board is campaigning to get rid of the image which presents the island overseas as a land of picturesque poverty — which the Irish refer to as the "pig-in-the-parlor" image. The board is promoting two commodities the island has in quantity, tranquility and space. Marble Head Beach in County Donegal is typical of the many almost deserted beaches. Promoting antly a paradise for golfers and fishermen, the board a also is developing the mildland lakes for coarse fishing.

(CP Photo)

Blarney Gets Their Bejabers

Irish Tiring of "Shamrockery"

By CAROL KENNEDY

DUBLIN (CP)—It may be on something of a snob appeal," said one tourist board official. "After all, people in other countries are often prepared to pay heavily for two things we have for the taking—tranquility and space."

The farther west you go in Ireland, the more of each you get, until you stand on a headland in Kerry or Connemara gazing out over the fossing Atlantic and realize the truth of the Irish saying, "our next parish is America."

Despite her industrialization plans and new economic vigor, Ireland remains a peaceful, pastoral isle, her lakes and seas crammed with fish, her beaches almost deserted in spring and fall. The undulating roads, lined with wild fuchsia hedges, are empty as the sky, and in countryside, though choked with Celtic antiquities, has yet to be invaded by camping-trailering hordes.

The food is still a revelation. Few Britons lucky enough to escape to Ireland in the post-war austerity years will forget the first fine careless rapture of steaks thick as a man's fist, rivers of butter and cream, game and countless other vanished luxuries.

SPORTSMEN'S LURE

The island is predominantly for sportsmen and fishermen. A five-year scheme is under way to develop the midland lakes for coarse fishing. Another area due for development is the Shannon, whose airport is proudly described here as "the aerial crossroads of the world." At present the most tourist attraction is Bunratty Castle with its medieval feasts. The castle wines are to escape much from the weather. The Irish have a habit, maddening at first, of greeting a seeming morning with the tolerant, "Ah, sure, it's a nice soft day." But on the whole this philosophy is apt — the soft, moist air is so relaxing that George Bernard Shaw blamed it for making people indecisive. Arland Ussher, another Anglo-Irish writer, blamed it for inducing celibacy.

There is still a lack of good hotels outside Dublin, and the occasional country-house establishment is apt to be expensive as the capital. But as British travel writers have been saying lately, qualities common to grand hotel and humblest inn are a welcoming desire to please and a sense of cultivated ease.

Indeed, the Irish playwright Paul Vincent Carroll summed up Ireland's holiday appeal when he wrote in another context:

"Perhaps distracted foreigners, driven desperate by the ever-multiplying complexities of a machine and gadget-ridden age, will visit her to try to relearn . . . the unutterable simplicities of living."

Bond Market Largely Inactive During Week

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian bond market was largely inactive with prices unchanged this week, with the rate for day-to-day money returning to the three-per-cent level after touching the 3.50 per cent mark the previous week.

The amount of day-to-day money available this week dropped $13,000,000 to $183,000,000.

The short-term Canada market was unchanged with the 3¼ per cent issue due Dec. 15, 1964, closing at $99.75 and the 3½ per cent issue due Feb. 1, 1965, closing at $99.75, both unchanged.

The long-term Canada market was inactive in anticipation of next week's prospective government financing. The 5¾ per cent issue due Dec. 15, 1964, closing at $99.75 and the $99.62 asked.

The municipal market was only moderately active, with a handful of small new issues sparking trading.

The provincial market featured a new $15,000,000 Saskatchewan issue which was placed privately. The issue was oversubscribed, bond dealers said.

The 91-day treasury bill offer this week saw a drop of .02 per cent to 3.35 per cent, while the 182-day bills slipped .01 per cent to 3.69 per cent.

The corporate market was unchanged in light trading.

Resigns Post As Supt. Of Pensions

TORONTO (CP) — J. M. Rowat, 53, resigned from his position as superintendent of pensions for Ontario Friday following differences of opinion with Laurence R. Coward, chairman of the Ontario Pension Commission.

Mr. Coward said the appointment just did not work out. He said differences with Mr. Rowat took place in the administrative level, and not on policy.

Mr. Rowat, appointed to the post last October, said he and the chairman "did not quite agree on the job should or could be developed, but I wouldn't say that was the entire reason."

Ontario's adoption of the Canada Pension Plan, and the subsequent cancellation of many parts of its own portable pension legislation, resulted in the job not developing as he hoped, he said.

ENGAGED

Mr. Rowat spent 13 years as pension consultant with Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited where he was in charge of the company's six pension plans and also supervised the firm's savings and stock investment program.

Sir Winston Opposed Halt Of Aerial Raids

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Britain's then prime minister, Winston Churchill, opposed a halt on aerial raids over Rome during the Second World War but efforts of Pope Pius XII prevailed and Rome finally was declared an open city.

In a secret correspondence made public Friday by the U.S. state department, Churchill wrote the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt on Aug. 4, 1943, that declaring Rome an open city would be a great victory for the Axis.

"What will the Russians say?" he wrote. "It would be taken as a proof that we were going to make a patched - up peace with the King (Victor Emmanuel III) and (Pietro) Badoglio (head of the Italian government) and had abandoned the principle of unconditional surrender.

". . . The British chiefs of staff say these 'open city' conditions, applied to us, would paralyse the whole further campaign; and certainly the Germans would threaten Rome with bombardment if they were attacked or broken. We think this is a great danger."

WANTED BOMBING

Churchill maintained that bombing of Rome's marshalling yards should be continued to put maximum pressure on the Italians but Roosevelt declared in a telegram that to turn depleted to make Rome an open city would place the Allies in a "difficult position.

The Pope and his emissaries had appealed directly to Roosevelt, arguing that the religious sensibilities of millions of Roman Catholics throughout the world would be sorely wounded if Vatican City was damaged.

Nurse Shortage In Federal Hospital

OTTAWA (CP)—The shortage of nurses in federal hospitals was discussed Friday at a meeting of representatives of the armed services and health departments. Staff organizations and the civil service commission.

No results were announced.

The staff organizations are seeking a salary increase of $1,000 a year for starting nurses, who now receive between $3,180 and $4,350.

The veterans affairs department said 166 of its 1,777 nursing positions were vacant at the end of May and the health department said only 560 of its 715 nursing positions are filled.

Rabbi Feinberg's New Book May Tweak Jews and Gentiles

By ALAN WALKER

TORONTO (CP) — A radio singer who became Canada's best-known rabbi gives a disillusioning view—and thought in a new book that promises to tweak sensitive nerves in Jews and Gentiles alike.

When Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg retired in 1961 as head of Toronto's Holy Blossom Temple, this country's largest Reform Jewish congregation, he said his work was just beginning.

In the last three years Rabbi Feinberg, now 64, has continued his battle against bigotry, discrimination and general injustice by lecturing and preaching widely; by writing for magazines and newspapers; and by codifying his views on a number of significant human problems in "Storm the Gates of Jericho," a blend of nostalgic autobiography, warm humor and hope.

Rabbi Feinberg's parents emigrated to the United States from Gorodok, Lithuania. His father repaired umbrellas for a living in Bellaire, Ohio. Rabbi Feinberg remains an American citizen.

BOOK OF MANY MOODS — Rabbi Abraham Feinberg, an ardent fighter against bigotry and nuclear weapons, has published a book covering many subjects and many moods. Rabbi Feinberg, former head of Toronto's Holy Blossom Temple and one-time singing star, writes on subjects ranging from thirteen - age experiences with women to his battle against fascism and injustice. He has worked on the book, "Storm the Gates of Jericho," for the past three years. (CP Photo)

QUIT TEMPLE POST

The young Abraham's intelligence dismayed him for the rabbinate and before he was 30 he was head of Temple Israel, New York City's second largest Reform synagogue.

"The commercialized synagogue turned my stomach," Rabbi Feinberg writes. "Could I find the mustard-seed of faith under those brick and brass and brocade?"

He could not, and in a blaze of publicity he quit in 1930.

The next thing he knew he was "Rabbi Ezra — the Prince" of the air waves with fan clubs all over the United States.

"A rabbi!" asked sponsors incredulously. "How can women identify with him? They'll think he has a long beard."

Photographs of the beardless "Frome," dressed in velvet smoking jacket and leaning seductively against a fireplace, were distributed.

But the life of a singer didn't satisfy him. He returned to active preaching in 1934 and came to Toronto's Holy Blossom in 1943.

Battling fascism took up most of his spare time in later years. He became known among newspaper men for his "blistering statements" condemning what he felt were encroachments on individual liberty.

CALLED FOR BOYCOTT

His book tells the inside story of many of his escapades including his 1952 call for a boycott of a concert by the German pianist Walter Gieseking, who had supported Hitler; and his dramatic opposition to the 1954 release from a New Brunswick prison of the former Nazi general Kurt Meyer, who had been sentenced to life for killing Canadian war prisoners.

Sharing the fate of many anti-fascists and pacifists—he's a national vice-chairman of the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament — Rabbi Feinberg has often been called a Communist and follower of the Moscow line. He likens himself in his book to one of a pair of socks, neither right nor left.

"I am neither—and I strongly resent the conspiracy of the poles, and ad hoc alliance of extremes, which would have me kissing communism to fight fascism," he writes.

Although Rabbi Feinberg stresses the universality of his book, much of it is stamped with the impress of his Jewishness; his insistence on the equality of Jewish and Christian belief; and his dissatisfaction with the practices of Orthodox Judaism which he says are old-fashioned.

ILLOGICAL LAWS

His lament — meaning Christian ministers who have a tendency to introduce him to audiences by saying, in effect: "Rabbi Feinberg is a man of so much peace and goodwill might even take him for a Christian."

He recalls the intelligent colleges students who came asked him if Jews get cancer.

Orthodox Jewish dietary laws have "absurdity without logic," he writes, and he speaks of the strict Orthodox dogma, that takes "and Jews, not Jesus" in a ritualistic, strait-jacket.

The book's style ranges from farce in Rabbi Feinberg's description of his first sex experience with women to tragic poetry in the chapter describing the death of his youngest sister.

His final lesson seems to be that help for the world's future must come from the present and the past:

"I cannot be entirely without nostalgia for the days when a personal God laid down the law from heaven and a father laid down the law in the home."

Blast, Fire In Munitions Store Kill 10

Canadian - born Stuart Underhill, writer of the following dispatch, is an assistant general manager of Reuters news agency and a native of Vancouver.

By STUART UNDERHILL

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) Shattering explosions and a fire in a munitions store killed 10 persons, injured more than 300 and razed a Dominican Army training camp here early Friday, unofficial sources reported.

The first official casualty list was four dead and 112 injured but list added the figures were expected to rise. Troops were combing the smouldering ruins for further victims.

(In Washington, the U.S. navy said it was dispatching a fire-fighting ship to the Dominican Republic to help put out fires. The navy said it was also sending four explosives experts and other assistance.)

In the main streets, mercantile were strewn with broken glass. Armed police patrolled to prevent looting.

TURN BACK THOUSANDS

Police and troops turned back thousands of persons who tried to reach the area after the first explosion. Those who inflamed near the roadblocks fled in terror when a new series of explosions began three hours after the first.

The burst of heavy shells and the crackle of small - arms ammunition continued long intermittently the pre-dawn sky above the column of flame was lit up by scores of red tracer shell.

Cause of the disaster was not immediately known.

The camp was capable of holding up to 2,500 men.

The United States withdrew in the business district more than a mile away and settled down and windows were rattled off.

100 Years Ago

A Momentary Conversation Was Momentous for Canada

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—One hundred years ago Monday, two bitter opponents in pre-Confederation politics — John A. Macdonald and George Brown—met on the floor of the legislature in Canada's old capital, Quebec, and spoke quietly to each other for the first time in years.

While others watched the conversation with interest, the leaders of the Upper Canada conservative and reform factions agreed in a few words to solve political deadlock for the good of the country and seek a way out of the dilemma that had stymied constitutional processes to a deadlock.

Three years later — 15 days later, confederation of the British North American Colonies—Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the united provinces of Lower and Upper Canada—was proclaimed and delivered to the new Dominion.

What happened leading up to the momentous conversation on June 15, 1864, is a story of legislative stalemate, partisan rivalry between the French parties, and personal bickering likened by one historian to washerwomen arguing over a tub.

BORN OF DEADLOCK

Goldwin Smith, assembly political philosopher and controversialist who had been history professor at Oxford and Cornell before settling in Toronto in 1871, said the real parent of Confederation was deadlock.

In the Parliament of the union of Lower and Upper Canada there were two general elections and four new cabinets within three years, and still the government's opposition forces were so evenly divided that little be accomplished.

George Brown, founder of the Toronto Globe in 1844 and leader of the Upper Canada reform Liberals—the Clear Grits —championed a federal union of the two provinces with representation in the legislature strictly governed by population.

Macdonald, leader of the Upper Canada Tories, supported the equality of the two provinces in the legislature under the Act of Union, but principle had contributed to the stalemate, with the assembly seats usually divided between what now is Quebec and Ontario, and political divisions within the provinces following the pattern of the geographical division.

MET IN SECRET

Federal union had long been discussed, but there were divisions, too, on the extent to which it should be carried. Brown favored federal union of United Canadas. Macdonald — if he favored it at all — felt it should include the other British North American colonies.

Brown had proposed and become chairman of a 19-member committee which investigated the possibilities of federation. It met in secret, but reports written about it afterwards indicated that though some of the political bickering continued in private, the members made an earnest effort to find a solution to Canada's problems.

On June 14, 1864—between the legislative council and the Anglican Bishop of Montreal to raise a loan on church property, and one incorporating the town of Napanee, Ont.—Brown brought in his report. It said:

"A strong feeling was found to exist among the members of the committee in favor of changes in the direction of a federative system, applied either to Canada alone or to the whole British North American provinces, and such progress has been made as to warrant the committee in recommending that the subject be referred to a committee of the next session of Parliament."

Only a few hours later, the legislative crisis reached a new peak. The government headed jointly by John A. Macdonald and E. P. Taché was defeated on two minor questions.

Members milled about the floor of the legislature wondering what the next step out of the stalemate could possibly be. Brown spoke to two Conservative MPs, promising to cooperate with any government that could find a solution. They asked whether he would be willing to confer with their leaders. He would.

The next day—June 15—as the legislature met, Brown and Macdonald held their momentous and momentary conversation. It was not a debate, but it was squarely in the centre of the chamber, neither on the government or opposition benches.

Would Mr. Brown have any objection to meeting Alexander Galt and Alexander Campbell, asked. Galt was a Liberal who had joined Macdonald earlier. "Certainly not," was Brown's reply to Macdonald.

During day - to - day adjournments of the house, meetings and things were being worked out. Brown, Galt and Macdonald met in a room at the St. Louis Hotel in Quebec.

Finally, a memorandum was drawn up, noting that it was only "the extreme urgency of the present crisis" that would draw the opposing factions together, and agreeing to work towards federation.

At a legislative councillor said afterwards, "a political millennium had arrived."

Indians Spoil McGaha's Debut ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Yankees Stop Topslot Chisox Twice

By MURRAY CHASE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam McDowell is through as a pitcher, that's for sure, but for Mel McGaha the end came two years too late.

McDowell is the lefthanded fireballer who is making his third attempt to stay with Cleveland. Indians. McGaha managed the Indians in 1962, when McDowell's rookie season was punctuated by a trip to the minors.

McGaha made his debut as manager of Kansas City Athletics Friday night but lost a 3-0 decision in Cleveland. McDowell stopped the Athletics on four hits for his third victory without a defeat since returning to the Indians two weeks ago.

The 21-year-old hurler started experimenting with his pitching not long after, he signed with the Indians four years ago for a reported $100,000.

McDowell, expected to be the successor of Bob Feller and Herb Score, won three games and lost seven while compiling a 6.08 earned run average as a rookie. The experiments didn't help last season either as he finished with a 3-8 record and a 6.35 ERA.

DOWN TO PCL

Then came Portland in the Pacific Coast League, where he stopped testing, started pitching and won eight games without a defeat.

One day after starting his third, and possibly last, trial with the Indians, he won in relief. Two days later he beat Chicago White Sox 3-2. To date, he has allowed only 5.65 runs a game and struck out 30 batters in 29 innings.

McDowell's performance Friday was one of five complete games by AL pitchers. Steve Hamilton and Whitey Ford went the distance as New York Yankees swept the league-leading Chicago White Sox and Jim Camilo Pascual and Minnesota Twins outlasted Washington Senators 2-1 and Boston Red Sox whipped Baltimore Orioles 9-3 behind Dave Morehead.

McDowell's difficulties twice got him into bases-loaded trouble, but he escaped safely. He walked six Athletics and hit two more. The Indians scored their runs in the third inning on two scoring home on Bob Chance's single.

GENE EIGHTH WIN

Gene Green his eighth straight game since losing opening day and recorded his fifth shutout of the season in halting the White Sox on four hits. Tony Kubek batted a two-run homer in the Yankees' three-run sixth. Hamilton, 4-0, scattered nine hits in the opener; his first start for New York. Roger Maris singled across two runs and Joe Pepitone slammed a two-run homer in the fifth inning as Bobby Richardson got the other RBI off his 10-year major league career.

Pascual became the league's first nine-game winner—he has two losses—as he beat the Senators for the 10th straight time. Camilo Versalles sparked the Twins' attack, knocking in single, a double and a triple.

The Red Sox supported Morehead's pitching with four singles. Felix Mantilla and Bob Tillman each connected with one man aboard wholly Tony Conigliaro hit one with the bases empty.

Morehead struck out 12 Orioles. One of the seven hits off him was Brooks Robinson's two-run homer in the seventh.

Takes Over St. Catherines Hawks

Brenchley Junior A Coach

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Tommy Ivan, general manager of the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks, announced Friday that Roger 'Chirp' Brenchley, 31, will coach the Hawks' Ontario Hockey Association Junior A team here next season.

Brenchley will take over from Ivan, who is general manager and coach of St. Catharines for the last three years. Campbell will remain general manager's post and will also perform that Ivan described as "additional duties" for Chicago and its affiliated teams.

Brenchley, born in England, moved to Niagara Falls with his parents at the age of 11. He started his hockey career with junior and senior teams there and later played with Hershey and Baltimore of the American League. Philadelphia of the Eastern Semi Pro League, Johnstown of the Inter-State League, New York Rovers of the Eastern Amateur League and Richmond Rams of the English League.

Because of his British birth he was eligible to play for England in the 1936 Olympic hockey tournament at London. It was his goal in the third period which gave England a 2-1 win over Canada, the first time a Canadian team had suffered a defeat in an international hockey tournament.

Brenchley coached Port Huron JFrgs of the International Circuit the last two seasons and prior to that handled clubs in Philadelphia, Johnstown, Pa., and Sudbury.

The Flags Friday announced a working arrangement with Chicago.

Watson Rams Wrong Target

Hiro Outsmarts Whipper

By GEORGE CARVER
Sports Editor

Popular Whipper Billy Watson used his head here last night — as a battering ram — picked the wrong target, and lost the main bout before Memorial Arena's largest crowd in two years.

His powerful opponent from Japan, Professor Hiro, after the pair had split falls, appeared on the way to victory when it happened.

He tossed the Whip out of the ring and was keeping him there with deadly judo chops. Referee Sam Goldsp, public enemy Number Two last night, got behind Hiro when he charged the Whip trying to get back.

Watson saw the Jap coming, lowered his head and butted forward. Goldsp was too close behind the charging Japanese and when Watson stepped aside was got the full force of the Watson noggin in a protruding waistline.

He rolled over and out and stayed there for at least two minutes. Meanwhile Hiro under advice from his man Friday, pounded, pummelled and judo-chopped Watson.

The Whipper, practically out, rolled off the apron and stayed there until the now-conscious referee counted him out.

The Japanese won the first fall with a powerful shoulder judo hold in ten minutes, but a furious Whipper got that one back in two minutes with a savage attack and his famous "Commando" hold.

The "Scuttlin' Hillbillies" underwent savage treatment from two of the toughest mat artists in the game, Professor Hans Schmidt, but won the semi-final when the two heavies were disqualified.

The Hillbillies had the crowd in an uproar with their body kicking, tumbling antics but got the worst of it at close quarters.

The heavies stamped, jumped, kicked and ripped, the mountaineers into submission in the first fall, but the Billies came back with double flying kicks to put Schmidt out of business in the second heat.

Schmidt and Atkins turned on the punishment heat in the third fall pounding, gouging and kicking until the referee, tiring of accustomed semaphoring, disqualified the pair.

Ray Villmer won over Don Jardine after 18 minutes of fast wrestling in the preliminary.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The sports headlines shrieked the news some time ago about the fabulous millions the big television networks are parting with to bring professional baseball and football to the living room private eye.

If you want to raise your boy to be a millionaire—well, almost a seven-figure bloke—forget about baseball and football—soothe him on a set of golf clubs—like a cowboy club and start him swinging.

For that's gold in them that clubs—if they are swung properly and you can make the television cameras.

Today, the statistics show, the biggest paycheck any athlete gets in a television sports event is in the royal and ancient pastime.

Take Jack Nicklaus, for example. The big handsome young blonde put $266.66 in his pocket for every swing he took in the World Series Tournament.

"That ain't exactly hay, brothers." Even Willie Mays with his $110,000 a year salary can't match that kind of loot. Willie gets $617.56 a game. Figuring he's at bat four times each game, Willie deposits $162 in his bank account every time he steps to the plate—and even Willie swings at least a couple of times each "at bat."

Whether it's swinging a club, carrying or tossing a ball, taking a horseback ride or throwing a punch, no other sport matches golf in paying off so much for so little effort.

In his two dates on World Series Golf, Nicklaus took 275 swings at golf balls in 72 holes to get the producer's signatures on cheques totalling $76,666.

Nicklaus will get a chance to add another $50,000 to that and the September 13-15 when the newest classic in the sports world is played at Akron. As yet Nicklaus hasn't qualified for the World Series of Golf—only Arnold Palmer has that distinction as the winner of this year's Masters—but the experts figure Nicklaus will be in the four-man field for the series by copping the title in either the U.S. or British Open or the PGA.

Even if Nicklaus is shut out as a winner of the big four tournaments of 1964, he can still make the Series field in case Palmer doubles up and cops more than the Masters. As the defending champion, Nicklaus automatically qualifies for another wheel at the big money if any other golfers take two titles in the big four lineup.

The experts rate Nicklaus' best title chances are in the U.S. Open, because the Congressional Country Club course in Washington favors him more than Palmer.

They see an element of suspense involved in the question of whether Nicklaus can qualify for the series. "Palmer's win in the Masters," they say, "was a comeback of sorts and about up the theory that Nicklaus was the unbeatable king of the hill."

"Despite Nicklaus' terrific record the past couple of years," one said, "Palmer is still the great crowd-pleaser, the man with Arnie's Army and that army includes millions who watch him on television."

Palmer has been on World Series of Golf twice and has been shut out on bonuses both times. Top money man in the business, he has yet to cash in on a golf's richest prize—that $266.66 per swing Nicklaus grabbed from him each time they competed in their four rounds for $100,000.

While Nicklaus took home the loot, Palmer holds the record of a 68 for the World Series. This year may be his turn to break more records on the Firestone Country Club course. The Series as well as PGA titles are two of golf's prizes that have eluded him. This could be the year to correct that omission.

'Columbia' Sweeps Cup Trials

OYSTER BAY, N.Y. (AP) — With only 33 seconds remaining before the race time limit expired, Columbia swept across the finish line Friday and dealt Constellation an 11-second defeat in the America's Cup defence yacht trials on Long Island Sound.

It was a dramatic end to a long afternoon of light-air sailing over a twice-around windand-leeward course of 21½ miles, which is too long for the prevailing southwest winds.

The other U.S. pair, American Eagle and Nefertiti, did not make an official race of it. Eagle finished first, but missed the time limit by five minutes, 33 seconds. Nefertiti was 34 seconds farther back.

SOUTHERN TOWN

The world's southernmost town is Puerto Williams, Chile, 360 miles north of Antarctica.

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Worrall of Toronto, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, charged Friday that the people of Canada are letting their country's amateur athletes down.

Worrall told a press conference the COA has received a paltry $150 following a public appeal made five weeks ago for $100,000 to finance transportation and other expenses of sending a 108-athlete team to the Olympic Games in Tokyo next October and to provide funds for the administration of the COA over the next four years.

Later, he declared in an interview it was incredible that we should get such a paltry response from the public and it certainly proves at this point that the people of Canada are letting our young athletes down.

Worrall stressed that Canada's team to Tokyo is a truly national team representative of every Canadian province. "This is a Canadian effort and that's why we want national support."

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Emile Griffith remains the welterweight champion of the world after outpointing top challenger Louis Rodriguez and the pattern of their long rivalry remains unchanged.

The outcome, as has been the custom in all of their four fights, was a split decision and brought a giant boost from the loser's stump.

Meeting for the third time in little more than a year with the title at stake, Griffith and Rodriguez kept their televised 15-rounder close all the way.

Referee Harry Kessler scored it 69-67 for Griffith, judge John Romero had it 70-66 for Griffith and the disinterested vote came judge David Zenoff, 71-70 for Rodriguez.

There were no knockdowns and the only damage was a slight cut suffered by Rodriguez in the second round. The wound was mended and never reopened.

Griffith, who lost the title to Rodriguez in New York last March and got it back in the same city in June, didn't think there was any question about who won this one.

"Rodriguez seemed to lack the zing-zing he usually has; I hurt him more in the body. But don't take anything away from him, he's a good fighter."

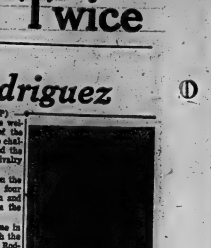
"I thought I won," declared Rodriguez, adding, "Griffith had plenty of protection. I can't beat him in Las Vegas, New York or the Virgin Islands."

Luis said the referee was unfair in handing the constant infighting and elbowes, and his chief handler, Angelo Dundee, agreed.

"We got the works. The referee kept harrassing Rodriguez."

Vancouver Stage For Track Meet

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans were announced Friday for Canada's biggest track and field meet since the 1954 British Empire Games and for bringing together Olympic team members from Canada, West Germany and the U.S. for a dual meet and probably some U.S. Olympic team members.



A group of 11 local track and field men confirmed plans for the meet at Empire Stadium here Sept. 15-16.

Selected clubs and high school also would be invited to participate in special events in the meet.

The local syndicate, operating under the name of Athletes International Athletic Limited, is reported to have put up $17,000 to finance the meet which would give Canadian athletes an opportunity to face top-flight competition before the Olympics in Tokyo next October.

SEES 5,000 FIRES

The Ontario Forestry Association says about 5,000 forest fires will start in Canada in 1964.

California Cuties softball team originator and star Trino Palacios (Miss Jane") received his greatest thrill in 1961 when his zany crew was selected by the Department of Defence to tour the Far East to entertain members of the armed forces.

The Cuties, who topped at the Belleville Fairgrounds Monday, at 7.15 against local stars, travelled 18,000 miles delighting service men in isolation fans along the way. The Californians won thirty out of thirty-two games against the best service competition available.

Britons Near Davis Cup Semi-Finals

LONDON (AP) — Defending champion Great Britain moved within a step of the semi-finals in the European zone Davis Cup tennis tournament with a doubles victory over Yugoslavia Friday, and racial demonstrations flared in the South African-France meeting at Durban.

The South Africans took a surprising 2-0 lead over the French on matches that saw six men arrested for tossing handfulls of coins. Roland Garros courts and unfurling a banner which said "No to apartheid."

West Germany forged into a 2-0 lead over Denmark at Munich while Sweden and Italy split the opening two singles matches at Turin. A counter must win three of five matches to advance.

Britain took a 2-1 lead over Yugoslavia when Mike Sangster and Robby Wilson defeated Boro Jovanovic and Nicola Pilic in doubles 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 at Manchester.

Suns Blast Leafs Off Top Rung

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Just about a year ago Toronto Maple Leafs decided they could do without Neil Chrisley, their leading hitter of the 1963 season, and let him go in favor of younger talent.

The Leafs certainly could have done without the 31-year-old outfielder-first baseman Friday night. Chrisley contributed three hits in six official appearances, including a home run and a double, as Jacksonville Suns downed the Leafs 8-1 and 9-1, decisively ousting them from leadership of the International League.

Pending the outcome of three more meetings in the next two days, the Suns held a 1½-game lead over the Leafs with more competitive coming up fast. Syracuse Chiefs inched within two games of Toronto by splitting with Richmond Virginians, winning 3-2 and losing 5-0, while Rochester Red Wings trailed the Chiefs by half a game after winning a pair of 4-0 decisions over Columbus Jets.

Buffalo Bisons were rained out at Atlanta.

Ironically, it was pinch-hitter Ed Spezio, filling in for Chrisley against left-hander Ron Nischwitz, whose three-run homer in the sixth inning decided the opener against Toronto. But Chrisley's three-run blast was the highlight of a six-run seventh inning that buried the Leafs in the nightcap.

The sweep gave Jacksonville five straight victories and 12 in 14 starts.

Fred Hopke took a third strike from reliever Julio Navarro with the bases loaded for the final out as the Virginians blew the first game at Syracuse but the Chiefs couldn't solve Mel Stottlemyre in the second as he blanked them on five hits. Elvio Jimenez decided it with a three-run homer in the sixth inning.

The Red Wings, who haven't given up a run in 25 innings, got a five-hitter from Nels Chittum and a two-hitter from Dave Vineyard as Joe Altobelli compiled a streak of nine straight hits before hitting into a force-out in his last appearance of the nightcap.

Americans Lead In Cup Series

LONDON (CP) — Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., and Billy Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., won singles matches Friday which sent the United States women tennis stars into a 2-1 lead over Britain in the Wightman Cup series.

The British salvaged the doubles match when Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones and Deidre Catt defeated Miss Moffitt and Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-3, 4-6, 6-0.

In the singles, Miss Richey turned back Miss Catt in a two-hour baseline duel 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, and Miss Moffitt won over the left-handed Mrs. Jones 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Four more matches — three singles and one doubles—on double dates today with the United States needing to win two of them to clinch the trophy for the fourth year in a row.

The earliest photograph was taken by the French scientist Joseph Nicephore Niepce in 1826.

No runs, eight hits and five collections.

Those are St. Louis Cardinals' totals for the last two games.

Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles Dodgers picked up Friday night where teammate Don Drysdale left off Thursday night, blanking the Cardinals 3-0 under almost identical circumstances.

Koufax allowed only four hits while posting his eighth National League victory and third shutout. Drysdale also allowed only four hits while winning his eighth and recording his fourth shutout. And, in each game, the Cardinals got a good look at an umpire's thumb.

Outfielder Carl Warwick, pitcher Ernie Broglio and infielder Julian Javier were thrown out Thursday in two separate arguments.

On Friday, manager Johnny Keane and pitcher Bob Gibson were ejected for arguing as a force play at second base in the Cardinals' half of the eighth.

The Cardinals have lost eight of their last 11 games and 14 of their last 20. They have skidded to a 24-27 record — still are only four games behind the leading Philadelphia Phillies.

The Phillies were walloped by New York Mets 11-3 but remained six percentage points in front of the second-place San Francisco Giants, who lost 4-3 to Milwaukee Braves.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati Reds shut out Houston Colts 3-0 and Chicago Cubs belted Pittsburgh Pirates 7-1.

The Dodgers scored the only run Koufax, 8-4, needed in the fourth inning against Broglio, 3-5, when Willie Davis reached base on a force-out and came around on singles by Wally Moon and Tommy Davis. They added two in the seventh on a hit batter, a walk, an error by Julian Javier and a single by Willie Davis.

Joe Christopher drove in three runs for the Mets, two with a homer, and sparked two uprisings. He drove in a run with a key single as the Mets batted around for five runs in the third and capped a four-run seventh with his homer. Christopher also tripled in the ninth and scored on a wild pitch.

WINS GAMES

Tracy Stallard, tagged for Richie Allen's 13th homer, won it for a 4-3 record. Dennis Bennett, 7-4, took the loss.

Eddie Mathews hit a two-run homer for the Braves and Harvey Kuenn hit one for the Giants but Milwaukee scored the winner in the eighth on singles by Hank Aaron, Lee Maye and Joe Torre off Gaylord Perry. That ended Perry's string of scoreless innings in relief at 23. Joe Nuxhall, 5-5, checked the Colts on four hits for his fourth shutout while Hank Robinson provided two of the Reds' runs off Ken Johnson with a homer and a sacrifice fly.

It was the first meeting between the two pitchers since April 23 when Johnson pitched a no-hitter and lost to Nuxhall 1-0 as the Reds scored in the ninth inning on two errors.

The Cubs struck for six runs in the sixth inning to beat the Pirates, the first grand slam homer of Ferg Amalfitano's career capping the uprising.

'Dancer' Home For Plate Run

TORONTO (CP) — Northern Dancer, proud choice as Horse of the Year after winning the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness returned home by van Friday from New York to prepare for the 105th running of the Queen's Plate June 20.

The three-year-old Windfields Farm colt, owned by millionaire industrialist E. P. Taylor, has won $453,437 this year—all in United States funds—and has a lifetime bankroll of $544,072.

After the Queen's Plate at Woodbine, Northern Dancer will be shipped to Saratoga for the Travers Stakes, a $75,000 race for three-year-olds.

He will meet Quadrangle again in the Travers Stakes, a 1¼ - mile contest. Quadrangle beat the Dancer in the Belmont, ruining the Canadian colt's opportunity for immortality — the triple crown.

The Queen's Plate is a 1¼-mile event. The Belmont was 1½ miles.

Bathgate Wins Golf Title

TORONTO (CP)—Andy Bathgate, right winger with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, scored a five-under-par 66 Friday to win the fourth annual professional hockey players golf tournament.

Bathgate, an assistant golf pro during the summer, held a four-stroke margin over Ken Girard of Toronto, who shot a 70. Vic Hadfield of New York Rangers was tied for third place at 75 with Bob Armstrong, former Boston Bruin defenceman. Former Leaf Dave Creighton scored a hole-in-one with a six-iron on the 166-yard 16th hole.

Youth Travel Program to Open July 1

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — On July 1 three groups of high school students from Newfoundland, the Montreal district and the Toronto-Hamilton area will arrive in Ottawa for a day's visit en route to widely separated homes.

From then until the end of August, up to 1,000 students in the 15 to 17 age bracket will criss-cross Canada in the pilot project of a federal-provincial youth travel program which is planned to grow to 7,000 in the centennial year, 1967.

In addition to those travelling under the joint governmental program, about 2,000 students are expected to visit other parts of Canada this year under scholarships sponsored by 15 voluntary organizations with financial help from the federal Centennial Commission. This number of visitors is expected to grow to 10,000 in 1967.

Under the program, the federal government is paying the transportation cost — averaging $90 a student — and is contributing to the administrative arrangements. The provinces, receiving the visitors, are responsible for education, arrange to select host young travellers and to receive and billet visitors in private homes.

SPEND SEVEN DAYS

Each of the 17 travelling units will spend seven days visiting and touring their host areas, their hosts at time being in addition to their visits.

Under the schedule as arranged now, two Scotians will visit Sudbury, Winnipeg and Regina. A Sudbury unit will go to Prince Rupert, B.C., and three Western Ontario assemblies at Kingston will go to Peace River, Alta.

Manitoba youths will travel from Winnipeg to Brockville, the Maritimes and Montreal.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Mrs. Harry Foster entertained friends from Belleville over the weekend, who had come to see the tornado in bloom. Later they took in a drive to Picton and Mrs. Don Thompson, Glenora Road, to see their lovely garden. On the afternoon the ladies viewed the many antiques in the home. Three of the ladies were naturalized. They had much in common with Mrs. Thompson. They enjoyed visiting with the hostess' mother, Mrs. Vance, who is always interesting for a woman of her years.

Three visitors from Odessa also visited Mrs. Foster to see the orchids. They had met at the pen-pal picnic at Beaver Lake last summer. The visitors who were relatives went on to the Outlet to do some bird watching. They expect to meet again at Beaver Lake for the picnic on June 17th.

Mr. Allen Aiorth and friend of Wooler were visitors the same day and took glides of the orchids.

Mr. Clarence Calnan was a guest on Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster and family.

E. P. Taylor Decries Twin Double

TORONTO (CP) — E. P. Taylor, chairman of the board of directors of the Jockey Club Limited, said Friday there should be a balance between commercialism and sports in thoroughbred racing.

He told the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society that by commercialism, he meant the twin-double and the carding of nine and 10 races a day.

"I don't think the twin-double is helping the sport of racing and most of the better racetracks are neglecting it," he said. "I think it will die a natural death."

As the breeder of Northern Dancer, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness Stakes, Taylor said horses in Canada are getting better and urged Canadian breeders "not to breed to bad mares or to breed good stallions to bad mares."

Artist Transforms Places, People, and Products Into Funny Faces and Puzzles

By JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO (CP)—Quick, what do the words "Royal Canadian Mounted Police" mean to you?

A hardy woodsman, policeman musing his dogtrot across the barren wastes?

An impeccably garbed officer in blue, red and yellow astride a horse?

To Robert Mulvenna the words could mean anything from a chubby-faced little man to a rambling, style bungalow.

Or how about "British Columbia"? Sure, it's Canada's westernmost province. But to Mulvenna it means a pixy-like character with a big hat and slender waist.

The 55-year-old former journalist specializes in art that requires a pen, imagination and block capital letters. He transforms the names of people, places and products into funny faces and puzzles.

The ruler: Block capitals are used exclusively. No free lettery touch and no letter is distorted beyond the point of easy recognition. Each letter must qualify as often as it occurs in the featured word or slogan. The idea is for people to pick out the letters and try to determine what the word is.

Mr. Mulvenna, a Toronto native, sells his puzzle drawings to advertising agencies, companies, church groups and others. He got the idea years ago after a journalistic career that included the Toronto Telegram, Syracuse Telegram and Pittsburgh Morning Post.

STARTED WITH HOOVER

"I struck with it through the years and kept experimenting until I had mastered the problem," he says.

"My first—and pretty horrible—examples featured Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover at the time they were in the public eye in the late 1920s.

"In early years, the churches were my best customers. The Church of England used seven or eight series in a Sunday school publication featuring everything from Bible place names to Canadian rivers and lakes.

"From the letters in 'Royal Canadian Mounted Police' I managed to portray a Mountie and developed a letter of thanks for the secretary of state for Canada."

Mr. Mulvenna recently produced a baseball series on what latters of them.

Home runs for Orange Crush: Thompson and Pearson.

In the second game of the evening Essex won over Weldrest 11-7.

CHURCH REBUILT

LONDON (Reuters) — St. Mary le Bow, the church that houses the bells whose peals determine who is a Cockney, was reconsecrated Thursday by Dr. Robert Stopford, Anglican Bishop of London. The church was destroyed in a Nazi air raid in 1941. The 12 bells were restored in 1961. Legend has it that a Cockney, by definition, is anyone born within hearing distance of them.

Judy Garland Admits Marriage To U.S. Actor

HONG KONG (AP) — Judy Garland said Friday her honeymoon trip to her travelling companion, Mark Herron, is "absolutely legitimate."

In a gaily - decorated suite aboard an American liner, the singer said Mrs. and Herron were married June 6 aboard the 18,000-ton Norwegian cargo ship Bodo three miles off the British colony.

Earlier Herron said they were married "six or seven days ago" aboard an unidentified ship in Hong Kong harbor.

Miss Garland, 42, and Herron are sailing for Tokyo aboard the liner President Roosevelt.

Miss Garland said the couple went through another marriage ceremony Friday afternoon in a hotel.

"This time it was a traditional Chinese ceremony with candles and joss sticks," she said.

Intimates of the singing star in Hollywood had termed earlier reports of her marriage "just a gag," saying she had not been divorced from Sid Luft.

Herron said Miss Garland had received a Mexican divorce.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Family responsibilities require special consideration. Promises made in past should be fulfilled. Vacation plans, activities in spotlight. Slight delay to be expected.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Communication, messages, receive attention. Make call if necessary. Leave nothing to chance Check directions, instructions. Adhere to important details personally.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Fine for experimenting for "tinkering." Advantageous to make sure mechanical devices are in working order. Give special thought to hobby. Give mind a rest. Attend church of your choice.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): There are numerous plans developing. Best to keep them in "discussion stage." No day for final decisions. Absorb knowledge ideas but wait where definite action is concerned.

If today is your birthday . . . you are natural investigator, would make fine teacher, salesman — and could succeed in communications industry.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Leo, Virgo, Libra. Special word to Taurus: Try to keep Golden Rule in forefront. You'll be happier today as a result of being kind, sympathetic.

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

Aries (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): Don't become involved in office disputes. Start work weak with clear conclusion. In personal life, strive for understanding. One who seeks argument is merely insecure.

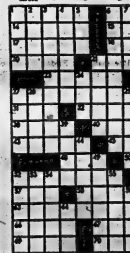
Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22): Money questions best postponed. Decisions to be made behind "closed doors." Investment problems require early time. If you are patient — you earn both respect and profit. Wait!

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): You may find yourself the center of attention. But remember that humor, sympathy are necessary qualities. Offer aid to Cancer-born individual. You can gain admiration of value.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Day when procrastination could be your worst foe. Wait for all facts, directions. Slow pace — conserve energy. Many who walk proceed as one heading to back them up. Highlight versatility.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Avoid making major issue out of minor setback. Friend who appears cantankerous may only upset. Do some fence mending. Attend to details. Work today can be your "ace in the hole."

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Family dispute not as serious as it might appear. Some change necessary, including minor concession. Avoid rocking boat. Maintain steady course. Not so good for surprises.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Stick close to "home base"; remain with the "familiar." Going too far afield today could prove costly. Stress harmony. Attend to matters affecting home, family members.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): If you worried where financial question is concerned . . . you may run into roadblock. Key is relaxation. Time on your side. Don't force issues. Be willing to wait for proper time.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20): Steady pace will overcome obstacles. Trying to be everywhere at once spells confusion. No day for "small talk." You gain most by adopting specific method. Stick to one course.

If today is your birthday . . . you have deep understanding of problems most persons face. You are creative, energetic. Success indicated in theatrical work, public relations, the sell-ing of luxury items.

General Tendencies: Therapy conflicts, problems, delays. All could benefit from Aquarius. Pisces message.

QUESTION: As my family suffers from hay fever each summer, I would like to know where would be a good place for us to stay for a holiday where we can be free of pollen and enjoy ourselves. Your advice would be much appreciated — Mrs. M., Belleville.

ANSWER: Many holiday areas in Canada are entirely free from ragweed pollen and others have so low an air-index that they offer similar vacation relief.

ONTARIO

Northern Ontario, including the towns of Temagami, Kirkland Lake, Timmins, Cochrane, Kapuskasing, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie, is considered a safe retreat. Dorset, Lake Joseph, and some of the other wooded areas in the Muskoka Lakes district should be nearly as satisfactory. The area about Lake Nipissing is not free from ragweed but the index figures for 1961-62 at North Bay suggest that this locality should be safe. The greater part of Southern Ontario, including many of Ontario's major cities, is heavily polluted with ragweed.

In general, hay fever in Ontario is caused by tree pollens in April and May, grass pollens in June and July, and ragweed pollens in late summer. Ragweed pollens are at the highest incidence from the middle of August to the middle of September.

QUESTION: As we are newcomers to the area and often read about interesting column, could you please tell us something about the Sandbanks near Picton, and how to get there? I understand it is a lovely place for children. — Mrs. I. S., Trenton.

ANSWER: West Lake and Island Lake formed in prehistoric times when a bar (now the Sandbanks) closed off a deep bay. The Sandbanks, unequalled on the North American continent, are the phenomenon of the sand dunes of gleaming white sand which have piled up over the years, burying a hotel and several houses, extending for miles, and dividing West Lake from Lake Ontario. This area is now a provincial park, and an excellent place to spend a day on a picnic. Your best way of getting there is by Highway 33 to Consecon, just past the junction of Highway 34, turn off to the south on Prince Edward County Road 13 which takes you right to the Sandbanks.

QUESTION: We are thinking of driving to Alberta to visit Banff; please tell us the points of interest which we could take in on our visit? We plan to go in July. — J. W., Belleville ANSWER: Banff National Park is Canada's oldest and second largest national park. Banff Park comprises an area of 2,564 square miles in the Canadian Rockies. The two main resorts within the park, which lies 75 miles west of Calgary, are Banff, park headquarters, and Lake Louise. Brochures on the points of interest may be obtained at the parkgates, but the following will give you some idea of the things to see: Banff Museum, The Luxton Museum, Buffalo Paddocks, Upper Hot Springs, Cave and Basin Springs, The Cave, The Cascade Rock Gardens, Tunnel Mountain.

Fee for the park is $2, $3 with trailer, and the stickers will be honored by all other National Parks of Canada.

In reference to Mr. Kahnt's letter of last week disputing our answer to the question from J. O., of Trenton, about the comparison of the U.S. and Canadian gallons, allow us, Mr. Kahnt, to quote a letter from one of our readers:

"Dear Sir: In regard to the letter of June 6 about the difference between the U.S. and Canadian gallon, as a Grade 8 student it has been shown to me that the only way to arrive at the correct answer is by cubic inches, as follows:

"1 U.S. gallon comprises 321 cubic inches.

"1 Canadian gallon comprises 277.274 cubic inches.

"Therefore, 6 times 231 cubic inches equals 1,386 cubic inches, and 5 times 277.274 cubic inches equals 1,386.370 cubic inches.

"It can be readily seen (the student it has been shown to me) that the only way to arrive at the correct answer is by cubic inches, as follows:

"5 Canadian gallons are equal (approximately) to 6 U.S. gallons.

"Yours sincerely, D. S., Belleville."

Long-Heralded Flag Debate Ready To Open

Official Stand of PC's Not Yet Spelled Out

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP)—The curtain goes up today on the long-heralded Commons debate on Canada's new flag.

After the daily question period, Prime Minister Pearson is expected to start speaking in support of the Liberal government's resolution calling for a flag design of three red maple leaves on a white background with vertical blue bars at either side.

The same resolution would allow the Union Jack to be flown as a symbol of Canada's Commonwealth connection.

Although Mr. Pearson has said the government will not be demanding its resolution changes are almost certain to be proposed from the opposition benches.

The New Democratic Party is expected to suggest a flag with the Canadian Red Ensign of three.

EXPECT AMENDMENT

The Creditiste party is believed ready to introduce an amendment calling for having the Union Jack reference out of the resolution. The Quebec group may also call for adoptions of a flag divided diagonally into red and white sections with a green maple leaf in the centre—similar to a design proposed by The Native Sons of Canada.

At least one Conservative backbencher is expected to be armed with an amendment calling for elimination of the Union Jack reference.

The Conservative party's official stand on the flag issue has not yet been spelled out. Several of its members are advocating a Canadian Red Ensign supporters, and outside the Commons Opposition Leader Diefenbaker has suggested that a modified version of the ensign be adopted.

Several of the questions asked by MPs in recent stormy question periods in the House may be answered today. These include to what extent the vote on the resolution will be regarded by the government as a confidence test, and when the government wants the new flag to start waving. (1957 is near).

Another question to be answered is how long today's debate will last. Other pressing business awaiting the Commons

Lodge Will Resign Says Times

WASHINGTON (AP) — The New York Times says that Henry Cabot Lodge has asked to be relieved as ambassador to South Viet Nam within 30 days because of his health. The White House said President Johnson has not received a letter of resignation.

Lodge, 61, won New Hampshire's Republican presidential primary on write-in votes and now has 46 delegates who say they will vote for him on the first ballot at the Republican national convention opening in San Francisco starting July 13.

Lodge's son, George Cabot Lodge, reported Sunday that he had informed the ambassador Friday that the draft Lodge movement was supporting Governor William S. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who entered the presidential race that day.

"My father sent me a telegram saying he was delighted by the decision to support Scranton," the younger Lodge said. "He said 'Please tell Governor Scranton how happy I am.'".

PROMPTED BY HEALTH

The Times dispatch, by Max Frankel under a Washington dateline, says:

"Lodge told President Johnson that the resignation was prompted by reasons of health, which he did not specify. The timing of the request, dated yesterday, will assure his return home no later than one day before the start of the Republican convention . . .

"Mr. Lodge's move will free him of the restraints of the foreign service and enable him to participate in efforts to deny the Republican presidential nomination to Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona."

Goldwater now has 619 delegates pledged to him for first ballot support, according to an Associated Press survey. He's expected to win 36 more in Texas Tuesday, which would push him past the total needed for the nomination.

Fraser River Rises to Highest Level Since Floods of 1948

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Fraser River rose Sunday to its highest level since the disastrous 1948 floods as a flood threat continued in British Columbia.

Peak levels of 32.94 feet at mission in the Fraser Valley and 32.88 feet at north-central Prince George were recorded on Fraser River gauges. The mission gauge later showed a fractional drop.

"We can not be out of the woods yet," said a provincial government official after the latest readings were taken.

The Skeena, which twists its way several hundred miles from northwestern B.C. to the sea at Prince Rupert, dropped substantially to ease the flood threat continued in British Columbia.

Synopsis: Little change is expected in the present unsettled weather picture as a series of weak disturbances moves southward south of the lakes. These will maintain cloudy skies and produce showers or thundershowers today and Tuesday near southern Ontario.

Dr. Gerald A. Morton, publisher of The Ontario Intelligencer and president of the Quinte Broadcasting Co., and H. Myles Morton, vice-president of the newspaper, today announced that the general contract for the new building has been signed with T. A. Andre and Son Ltd. of Kingston. This firm has erected several fine buildings in the Quintes area in the past few years, including the Victoria and Grey Trust Company structure. Where prices were competitive, several Belleville firms received the preference in the letting of sub-contracts.

The new building will be located at the southwest corner of the intersection of Bridge and Pinnacle where the old Post Office stood. This property was purchased from Crown Assets in 1960. The new building and its parking area will extend from Bridge Street southerly to McAnnany St. and west from Pinnacle St. to the lane which runs beside the CJBQ studios.

USED FOR PARKING

The south portion of this property has been used as a parking lot for Ontario Intelligencer employees. The other half of the property has been leased free of charge, to the Y's Men's Club, which has rented parking space. The new building, when erected, will add considerably to the appearance of this portion of the business district, which the razing of the old Post Office and a fire farther west on Bridge Street have left rather desolate in appearance for some time.

The target date for completion has been set for April 15, 1965 and before next summer comes both The Ontario Intelligencer and CJBQ expect to be operating in their new quarters.

The paper will be printed on a five-unit press, (capacity 80 pages, 37,000 copies per hour), purchased a year ago and stopped in a temporary building on the property since that time. This press will not only make it possible to use color, print a larger paper, and get editions out for faster delivery, but will also result in improved reproduction of both type and pictures.

Official Suggests Reason

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—A United States county attorney said Saturday modern psychiatry and prosperity in the Second World War might be behind a change in the popular mood toward capital punishment which is evident in that juries are reluctant to convict criminals.

George Scott, county attorney for Minnesapolis, told the annual meeting of the Ontario Crown Attorneys Association the public is "so overly concerned with the danger of convicting an innocent person" that the offender's interests often appear to be placed before society's interests.

Mr. Scott, speaking to 36 delegates at his meeting which ended Saturday, said "we don't have the answer yet. We haven't got an effective cure or antidote."

Proposed Federal Agency For Indians Said Important

KENORA, Ont. (CP)—A proposed federal economic development agency to sponsor Indian business enterprises was termed of major importance here Saturday at the end of an Indian-white conference.

The federal government was requested to set up the agency in one of more than 60 resolutions passed by the 100 delegates at the conference, sponsored by the Indian-Eskimo Association of Canada.

Officials said the proposed development agency was of major importance and was seen as a large part of the answer to the problem of economic depression afflicting many Canadian Indian population.

Martin O'Connell, a Toronto investment dealer, told delegates the federal Indian affairs department's economic development division is not equipped to do the job of lifting the Indian's economic level.

"The dimension of the job is not being recognized. The money isn't there. The people aren't there."

Mr. O'Connell, a director of the association, said the idea is for the proposed development agency to take a long-term approach to the problem, possibly over 20 years.

The resolution said the agency —separate from the Indian affairs department—would have a substantial supply of capital to promote Indian enterprises such as co-operatives, train Indians to managerial positions, provide technical training for operating equipment and be responsible for business feasibilibty studies on behalf of Indian enterprises. It would also handle job placement.

The resolution was approved a day after Alexander Phillips of Fort Arthur, general manager of the Northwestern Ontario Development Association urged delegates to petition Prime Minister Pearson for a $100,000,000 development fund.

Scranton Opens Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governor William S Scranton of Pennsylvania today begins a six-state tour in an attempt to win nominating convention delegates and close the Republican bandwagon as it rolls toward the Republican presidential nomination.

But since he opened his campaign last Friday, Scranton has picked up little concrete support, while Senator Barry Goldwater has been adding to his already commanding lead—619 to Scranton's 113 delegates by Associated Press count.

Tuesday, Texas Republicans are likely to push Goldwater over the top—the 655 needed to nominate—by pledging their 56 delegate votes to him.

While all signs pointed to a two-horse race—Goldwater vs. Scranton—for the nomination,

Florida Whites Copy Negroes

Segregationists Stage Counter-Marches

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — White segregationists for the first time have opened a nonviolent marching campaign to dramatize their cause and to offset mass demonstrations by Negroes in a tense racial war of nerves.

Negro integration leaders reviewed their protest marches last Tuesday night; white counter-marches were held Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

Sunday night, some 190 white marchers restricted their activity by walking around a block containing a downtown park where the old slave market is located. The march was short and uneventful.

The two previous nights the whites had marched through the Negro section of the city, under heavy police escort.

This strange struggle in the oldest city of the United States keeps 300 policemen and 50 reporters footsore from marching with both sides.

And it looks as though the daily marches and counter-marches will continue indefinitely. What happens when the two groups meet on their marches is a matter of nervous conjecture.

"We wanted to see if the white people would be affected the same rights the federal courts have given the Negroes," said Rubber Mauncy, a leader of the white marchers.

Mauncy said the counter-demonstrations were designed to show that local Negroes—but not outsiders — are still the friends of local white persons.

"And these marches by white persons will contract the national publicity given to the integrationists," Mauncy said.

Segregationist leaders have emphasized the marches are not a Ku Klux Klan project, although the nightly pre - march speaker is Klan lawyer J. B. Stoner of Atlanta who denounces integration and the civil rights bill, making free use of the word "nigger."

Among the white marchers, many are farmers, mechanics and carpenters and few, if any, are white-collar workers. No professional leaders have taken part and even some of the white segregationists have angrily refused to get in line.

On Saturday night, about 200 heavily guarded whites walked through the Negro section, waving Confederate flags and a huge banner that said "don't crowd on me."

But, unlike the Friday night march, there was little apparent tension and no incidents. Negroes lined the street, laughing and singing, "we love everybody."

Britain's Head Devises Formula For UN Control

Breaks Deadlock Over Weighted Vote System

By JOHN TALBOT

GENEVA (Reuters) — The world trade conference, saved from almost certain failure when agreement was reached Sunday night on permanent world trade machinery under the United Nations, meets today in its final plenary session.

The agreement is expected to be formally ratified at the plenary session which will bring the three-month conference of 119 countries to a close.

The 75 developing countries at the conference accepted a compromise draft known as the "Heath formula"—on continuing permanent world trade machinery to carry on the conference's work.

It healed what had appeared to be an irreparable split between the developing and industrialized countries over the voting arrangements and safeguards for Western interests in the proposed machinery.

The majority group of developing nations refused to accept a weighted voting system designed to safeguard Western nations from being automatically outvoted on all issues.

WORKED OUT BY HEATH

The 11th-hour formula was worked out by Trade Minister Edward Heath of Britain.

The developing countries agreed on recommendations for principles governing international commodity trade, access for products of developing countries to the markets of developed ones.

They also agreed that a list of principles governing international trade — many of which were unacceptable to the developed countries—be left to the continuing machinery to be made more generally acceptable.

The continuing machinery would become a permanent organ of the United Nations General Assembly, meeting at intervals of not more than three years.

It will sponsored the world trade conference.

PLAN PERMANENT GROUP

The agreement provided for a permanent standing committee, known as the trade and development board, to be established as part of UN machinery in the economic field. The committee would meet twice a year.

It would consist of 55 members elected by the conference

Expected To Push Nuclear Ban

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev headed for Copenhagen today, starting an 18-day Scandinavian tour during which he is expected to plug for a ban on nuclear weapons as the countries he is visiting as well as Central Europe.

Accompanied by his wife, Nina, and a party of Soviet officials, Khrushchev left Moscow by train Sunday night to board a ship today at Kaliningrad.

He is due in the Danish capital Tuesday morning.

(Danish police prepared strict security precautions for the visit and all police leave was cancelled, Reuters news agency said.)

A cheering crowd of Muscovites saw the 70-year-old Soviet leader off on his third foreign trip in three months. Khrushchev visited Hungary in April and the United Arab Republic in May.

WILL AIM AT NATO

As he tours Denmark, Norway and Sweden, Khrushchev probably will try again to crack the North Atlantic Alliance's north defence ring by asking the Scandinavian countries to join in turning the Baltic into a sea of peace.

Khrushchev has often urged a ban on nuclear weapons in Central Europe and Scandinavia. He has been particularly anxious to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons to West Germany in NATO measure. Nuclear weapons also would be banned from Communist East Germany under Khrushchev's proposal.

Although there is considerable anti-nuclear sentiment in Scandinavia, NATO members Denmark and Norway have been unwilling to act independently of their Atlantic Alliance partners on the nuclear-free zone.

Neutral Sweden officially supported a nuclear-free central and Northern Europe as far back as two years ago. But it always insisted on firm controls

Broadway Crowd Beat Two Men While 8 Negroes Beat Two Men

NEW YORK (AP)—Two men, who knocked down two Negroes for allegedly molesting their wives, as they walked along Lighted Broadway Sunday night, were mobbed and beaten by eight Negroes minutes later. Dozens of strollers just watched.

As the two men's wives screamed and begged for help, one bystander did call police.

Of 50 persons who merely watched, an unidentified detective commented: "That's about par for the course."

The victims were Israel Massa, 30, and his wife, Ann, 27, and Edward Costa, 38, and his wife, Margaret, 30, all of Brooklyn.

Police gave this account:

Today is the Massas' 11th wedding anniversary. They had a late dinner with their friends and the foursome were strolling on Broadway between 51st and 52nd streets, headed for a nightclub, when two men made obscene remarks to the women, but were ignored.

Then the pair put their hands on the women. Costa and Massa knocked the men down. The Negroes fled to a lunchroom on Broadway near 52nd Street.

The couples then headed down Broadway.

The lunchroom, a witness told police, the Negroes turned to patrons, whom they apparently knew and said: "Come on. Let's get those guys, they roughed us up."

At 49th Street, eight men jumped Costa and Massa, throwing them to the sidewalk and kicking them about the body and face.

The victims turned to the crowd and said: "Don't anybody interfere. We got a knife."

By the time police came, the attackers had fled.

We yelled for help but nobody helped," one of the women said.

The Costas and Massa were treated at hospital for face and body cuts. Costa was detained for x-rays. Said Mrs. Costa:

"It's a disgrace. Not one person lifted a finger to help my husband and me. Nobody

Martin Claims No Election In the Offing

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Liberal government will continue its policy of promoting economic growth and development in Canada through increased trade and incentives to industry, External Affairs Minister Martin said Saturday.

Speaking to 300 delegates attending the annual Southwestern Ontario Liberal Association convention, he said the government has no intention of calling a general election, but will continue to provide the Canadian people with a "good, orderly and strong administration in Ottawa."

He said the government has the strength to carry on in its present status for another four years.

The minister said economic development in Canada has progressed in the last year with construction of new factories and expansion of old factories facilities across the nation.

"While we have improved the job situation in Canada, the program is not completed," Mr. Martin said.

WILL IMPROVE

He emphasized that the Canadian economy will continue to improve through increased design trade and mentioned the export of Canadian automobile parts to the United States along with the importing of parts from that country as an example.

"Trade is a two-way street and the government's hope is to develop a trade policy which will put Canada in a position of a leading trade nation," Mr. Martin said.

Senator John Connolly, federal minister without portfolio and prominent leader in the Senate, said in an interview a federal election is an unlikely possibility.

Mr. Connolly said that because there were two federal elections in the space of a year, coupled with a number of recent provincial elections, it would be extremely unlikely to have a general election in the near future.

The veteran Liberal politician said the current Canadian flag controversy is not an issue of sufficient importance to force an election.

Tour of Lonsdale District Most Enjoyable of Series

The last architectural tour for the season drew a crowd of forty-two on Sunday. After leaving Bissington at 2 p.m. Farrell's blacksmith shop, filled with the atmosphere of other days, the motorcavalcade proceeded along the Fourth Line Hastings to see two deserted early homes.

First was the Tripp house, set far back on the north side of the road under a magnificent elm tree, a little gem of classic architecture. Simple, heavy fries below the eaves suggests the Greek Revival, but the fact that the doorway is set centred between the two windows suggests something a trifle earlier; we think this house may date to about 1840. The front door leads right into the square parlour, and there are tiny bedrooms behind and a kitchen wing to the right. A stove in the centre of the parlor will have heated the place adequately. There were never any stairs to the upper storey, it seems; just a ladder from the kitchen and.

Further east, the Capt. Devine house was much admired for its simple dignity and attractive situation. It is said to have been built just after the date of 1813 and has a very large stone Regency Cottage in style, with its hipped roof and delightful Gothic gable over the forty years' service. The weekend was also the occasion of the farewell in this area of Lt.-Colonel and Mrs. Arnold Brown, who leaves Canada in July to become head of The Army's International Public Relations Department, with HQ in London, England.

'O VERANDAHS

We noticed no signs of verandahs, but this is natural except one more recent on the eastern end. The floor plan is delightful, with the hall cut up differently at different times. There are two great stone chimneys, one at each end of the house, suggests the late fifties, and this may be no coincidence, for we are told the house changed hands in 1857. The present owners have a fine, concisely built and carefully white-washed, and the floor joists resting on a massive twenty two feet square, were not just tree-trunks but nicely sawn two-by-tens as the modern mason.

Capt. Devine is said to have annoyed his neighbors by damming up the stream and running a saw mill briefly, causing some flooding in the surrounding fields. Big open fixtures of the house is the woodshed, cosy lined within the simple rectangle of the house, in the north - west corner.

In Lonsdale the group was privileged to see a quaint log cabin, still retaining its machinery and bedding, put together of wood and iron. The mill was built for the brothers Lester in 1865 by James McCullough was the first miller, 1830-65. With this mill and a woollen mill and the Bissington store, five hundred men were employed in Lonsdale at one time, and there were more than a store, a hotel, a school, two hotels, a blacksmith shop, a saddle and harness store, a grocery store, a post office, a doctor, and a dentist and an undertaker.

THINGS OF BEAUTY

Inside the mill, the wooden supporting columns, three on the ground floor and three on the second floor, are things of beauty. The mill building, doubtless, had a long English tradition behind it (it may have a Ford, from Lancashire!) and this chamfered each post lovingly and shaped each column far top and bottom with a vigorously-cut curve in a style at least two-centuries old at the time.

Lonsdale's stone architecture is very beautiful, the stone fitting of an attractive brownish color and of a better texture than Belleville's, but the community itself is picturesquely situated, a museum piece.

The most interesting house is on the brink of the hill north of the mill. It was built by a Lezier, and is a Regency cottage, with stone lower part and clapboards above and a balcony on top. The belvedere contains bedrooms lighted by high strip windows all around. It is good to see such a house carefully preserved, though one finds the use of aluminum siding windows, and paint a little out of harmony with the house's age.

The United Church, built for the Methodists in Bissington in 1903, was opened for the group. It has an almost timeless and unassuming air. Inside, it keeps its original wood stoves (patented 1858) and pulpit and pews and gallery. It is also a world apart, the most modest distraction being a memorial plaque to the First World War. The style of the building is Italian. Except for the vestibule, the facade of the church is delightfully proportioned.

ITALIAN TASTE

One marvels at how hard the Italian taste hit this area in the 1870's. Some of the prettiest houses along the Third show traces of it.

The Ketcheson house, at which the group were entertained with tea and coffee, was built of cream brick, the Belleville Ontario Farmhouse type which was derived from the Regency cottage, with centre entrance, single window to left and right, ordinary pitched roof (not the "gambrel" roof of the earlier) and rears much room upstairs for bedrooms and (a tricky to execute) and a little Gothic gable over the front door. Summer kitchen and woodshed grow in a "tail" out the back, and a verandah is standard equipment in front.

The most notable thing about the buildings visited on this tour was the perfect adaptation of building and site to every case. The church on its hill, the mill on its flood, the Lazier-Cappell house with its important rooms above and other rooms below, the Devine level, the Davies house spread on a rise overlooking a little stream, the Tripp house with its great elm planted to cast a cooling shadow "from the south and west, and the Ketcheson house its slightly rising lawn cooled by the breezes from under an avenue of shade trees to the west. How ludicrous, by comparison, seem our various ranch-style bungalows, even urban houses, handsome, so many, but fitter to stand alone on some open plain than to adjusting saves with more of the season.

The previous tour — of Victoria Avenue and Charles St. in Belleville, has been reported till now. So much interest has been generated by this series of architectural walking tours that people actually have come out to invite the party in as it passed; no less than three householders did so on this one tour.

NOT GOOD CONDITION

The tour proceeded along Victoria from Church St. as far as Bridge, to see the great old house there, in good repair, condition but still showing signs of its former grandeur. One wonders whether Lady Haultain had a hand in designing it: his touch was there, but his sense of proportion not good, but he built in the style rich men wanted and could afford.

The Haltianne house with its belvedere at Albert St. has recently been fixed up and its graceful piazza painted. There is a hairdresser in one part of the building, but the door (for parking lot) the house has been ..sympathetically treated and is a pleasant to the neighborhood.

The Gothic Revival house at the corner of Charles is known by kept up, dark and shady with its trees. An early photograph shows a verandah with intricate trellising (there is still somewhat similar work at the back, invisible from the street). The verandah is hardly necessary now for shade, but would help the proportions of the house. The arched window over the front door is unusually fine — especial, in the Gothic taste. The lintel of the door may be Greek in style. This house is to be compared with the one above the Corby Library. Both are of cream brick. The woodwork in the front half resembles that in the Robertson house, but with rosettes instead of lions' heads.

MODEL CORNER STORE

The corner store across the way on Charles is a model of its kind. It is a dignified square brick house of maybe the 1850's, with later additions. The porches are very functional, for displaying fruit or sheltering customers, and the whole effect is well - proportioned, inviting, friendly, and on the whole an asset to the neighborhood. It is to be contrasted with some too - slickly modernized buildings nearby. Some "gingerbread" brackets were unfortunately removed recently from the porches of this store. They were not old (put on around the turn

Third Party Made Overtures Says Castro

HAVANA (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro said Saturday overtures had been made for an improvement in U.S.-Cuban relations but that Cuba cut them short recently because of a rain of American threats and pressures against his Communist government.

He hinted that a third party made the overtures but declined to say who or exactly when. He denied that Cuba had initiated any such moves but said at an impromptu press conference:

"We are never opposed to conversations with the United States on the basis of equality and mutual respect for sovereignty."

Last Tuesday the foreign ministry denied Madrid dispatches that said Cuba was seeking the intervention of a third country to investigate the prospects for settling differences with the U.S.

Three Injured In Crash-Landing Of Viscount

TORONTO (CP)—Three passengers were slightly injured and 60 other passengers escaped unhurt after a four-engine Air Canada Viscount airplane crash-landed at International Airport here Saturday.

None of the three crew members were injured.

The three injured, all released from hospital after treatment Saturday night, were: Michael Lecchio of Hamilton, who suffered contusions to his left foot and ankle; Donald Verinot of suburban Downsview, slight concussion; and Salvatore Chiplicini of Toronto, a bruised left ankle.

An Air Canada spokesman said Flight 3277 from Montreal was forced veered to the left as it came in for a landing, clipped some trees and sheered off one wing as it crashed through a snow fence. There was no fire.

William Kirkpatrick, 32, vice-president of a Toronto advertising agency who was on the plane, said he was doing when the plane prepared to land.

"I was awakened by a loud crash," he said in an interview. It seemed as though the aircraft lost its power on the left side. Some people were screaming and shouting, but generally there wasn't much panic."

He said some people filed out the doors and others knocked out the emergency exit windows to escape.

"Everybody was clear of the plane in less than two minutes," he added.

Sixty Boats Take Part In Rendezvous

TRENTON — The first RCAF Power Squadron Rendezvous on Saturday was well attended, with around 60 boatsmen turning out, and although heavy winds and an unexpected thunderstorm forced the cancellation of several events, competition in the events which were held was keen. In charge of the rally was FL-Lt. Tony Leicester.

Winner of the first heat of the trials for the 1964 boats' trophy, was "Sichbob," captained by Robert Laidley.

Mrs. Geoffrey Vaughan of Trenton won the ladies' line-throwing contest, and winners in the children's balloon bursting event were Mary Ann McNeil and Brian Romney. The contestants, in outboard motors, were equipped with spiked poles and asked to burst the trial balloons.

In the evening, yacht club members played hosts to the rally guests, at the club room where the Ted Reid Trio entertained.

July 5, 6, 7, and 8, the power squadron international rendezvous will be held at Baker's Island with boatsmen from Canada and the U.S. expected in port to take part in 11 interpational events.

FOUR LOCKED THROUGH

Saturday, four boats were locked through Lock No. One on the Trent. Sunday, 14 boats were locked through. Roughly twelve boats a day have gone through the lock so far this year, (since navigation's opening on May 23), at last year, in spite of the fact that locks at Campbellford and Peterborough were tied up until June 1 for repairs.

James Howard, the lockmaster at No. One has been off work for a few days, owing to a pulled leg muscle, but will be back to work this week.

RELEASE PRISONERS

BUCHAREST (AP) — Romania announced Sunday it has been releasing thousands of political prisoners and plans a general pardon in August that will see "practically all" interms out of jail by the end of the year. Diplomats saw the move as an effort by the Communist regime to win friends in the West.

India, Pakistan Leaders Talk Peace But Word Not Getting Down to Troops

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — Leaders of India and Pakistan are talking of peace for Kasmir in stronger terms than they have for years but it is clear that word is not getting down to the front line troops.

Reports from both sides of the cease-fire line in divided Kashmir Sunday said there had been sporadic firing between Indian and Pakistani troops for three days. Both sides lodged complaints with United Nations observer team.

An unconfirmed report from Jammu on the Indian side, Delhi and Rawalpindi, said there had been heavy firing at three points and one firefight lasted five hours. Indian officials declared Pakistanis fired mortars and machine-guns. Each side charged the other with shooting at and killing civilians and cattle.

Thus, despite peace talk coming from two capitals, things are continuing on the front lines as they have for 16 years, since India and Pakistan fought over the Himalayan state and began the bitter rivalry that was to poison their relations.

Thousands have been killed on both sides since 1948 and the long frontiers between the two countries have been in constant turmoil. Religious rioting has swept Moslem Pakistan and predominantly Hindu India.

DEATH SPARKS REPORTS

The death May 27 of Prime Minister Nehru, who had been searching for a solution, appeared to be the signal for renewed peace efforts in New Jammu, on the Indian side, Delhi and Rawalpindi.

President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan said in a radio broadcast shortly after Nehru's death that his country felt a loss too and would extend the hand of friendship to India. Nehru's successor, Lal Bahadur Shastri, quickly replied that India also wants peace and that it was the "natural destiny" of India and Pakistan to be friends.

Important Revision

Canadian widows and their dependent children in years to come may bless the name of Premier Joseph Lesage.

Because of his refusal to accept the original Federal old age pension plan, that plan has been "revised."

Really, the changes are much more important than a mere revision. One of Lesage's objections to the original plan was that it made no provision for benefits for widows and dependents. Such benefits have now been added. They immeasurably increase the importance of the plan. No longer is it merely a method by which Canadian wage earners can provide for their old age and that of their spouses. Besides providing protection against what some life insurance companies call the "hazard of living too long," it also goes far to lift the shadow of destitution from the family of a wage earner who dies too soon.

Benefits will vary with the income of the wage earner and the number of children in the family, and when there are no children, the age of the widow. A man must have contributed to the pension fund for at least two years, or a third of the total number of years possible for him to contribute, in order for his family to be eligible for these benefits. But once the plan is in operation, benefits will be uniform for those in the same circumstances. They will vary from a minimum of $43.75 a month for a widow of 45 with no children to a maximum of $168.23 for a widow, any age, with five children. How this will affect present mothers' allowances we are not certain, but it is evident that the payments, together with children's allowances which we presume will still be paid, will make the lot of fatherless families much easier.

An Old Story

Mrs. E. Davie Fulton, wife of the former Minister of Justice, told the Canadian Conference on the Family that the modern family is in trouble because its traditional values are being attacked from all sides.

"Children are told that sex is sinful, yet we use it constantly to sell our products," she declared.

This is becoming a standard complaint, but even when it was first made by our generation it did not deserve to rank as a revelation. Other civilizations faced a similar problem.

Puritanism was known before the Puritans. And puritans fought losing battles in other ages, before their retreat today.

The trouble with hedonism is that its universal acceptance as a creed makes pleasure short lived.

First love comes only once and if it is enjoyed to the full at the beginning of puberty its thrills cannot be recaptured in the first flush of maturity.

Where none cherish chastity, Don Juan finds his conquests insipid.

The end result of tomorrow's wine bottle is the temperance crank, for the wine warms best the throat long unslaked.

The trouble with "Fanny Hill" is not that it is obscene—whatever that may be—but that it coarsens the taste so one can no longer savour more delicate examples of erotica.

But how can you tell the young to fast that they may later feast with better appetite?

You can only herd them back from the banquet table—but this is well-nigh impossible if you insist on heralds spreading the tales of its splendors throughout the land.

Mrs. Fulton fights in an old cause, in goodly company, but never in the past were the dice so heavily loaded against the champions of moderation.

Overlooked Feature

California designer, Rudi Gernreich, is all fired out, he has been so busy taking orders for his newest creation, a topless bathing suit for women.

This will probably stir some interest in certain quarters, but few people will pay much attention to the really amazing feature of the new style.

Though the new bathing suit requires approximately only half the material of past styles, we will bet a dollar to a moldy doughnut that it costs twice as much.

If the white and Negro leaders do not get together on common ground, we don't need Khrushchev to bury us; we will bury each other.—John J. Cassese, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of New York.

Burden of Instant Decision

Detroit Free Press

News items have a way of coming up in related pairs.

In Dearborn the other night a senior car crew arrested an automobile thief. As one author apprehended the question its pair of compatriots the one at the wheel tried to speed away.

The officers got off a single shot, unluckily, for a seriously wounded both the driver and his companion. They turned out to be a 14-year-old and a 15-year-old.

In dark of night a policeman has scant opportunity to compile sitting in an automobile. Moreover, car theft is frequently a means selected to such graver felony.

Still, such incidents always raise critical questions. Should not policemen be sure of whom they're shooting at before pulling the trigger? In a case of car theft — with no immediate evidence of other crime — a sufficiently serious offense to call for gunplay?

. . . .

Now the other item, which came from Boston only a few hours earlier. There, a lodge order denied a 12-year-old and 14-year-old young companions to take a long unwarranted ride in a woman lying in her casket. They had been in a stolen car, the 15-year-old at the wheel, when they killed her on her 48th birthday.

Now let's imagine it had come out differently. Police officers stopped the car, the youngsters tried to speed away and was shot—perhaps fatally even. The car clearly innocent: women would still be alive.

Or transposing it again, suppose the Dearborn officers had not come upon the stolen car and its occupants were charged with their escapade, unscathed themselves, with modest penalty for leaving somebody dead on the pavement.

. . . .

Pondering the possibilities both ways. You will sense the burden of instant judgment which policemen must carry in dealing with criminals and protecting the public.

Having examined this aspect, let's add the fact that policemen who fired the shot have a justifiable presumptive action: Those left behind by the Boston woman might say decidedly less. The parents and friends of the two boys he wounded might give an equally decided no.

This being so, society is left to cast the deciding vote. Before doing so, consideration should be given to the weight of the "mere boy" crime. Instances against the seriousness of a crime that can — and frequently does — include homicide, however unintentional.

It's not an easy decision to render.

British fliers C. W. Brown and John W. Pilot Alcock, with Brown as navigator, flew their Vickers Vimy twin-engined biplane at an average 120 miles an hour. For their achievement, they shared the £10,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail and were both awarded knighthoods.

Yanks Grab A Good Man

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

You have to hand it to the Americans. They know a good man when they see one.

They've been smart enough to persuade Canada's leading service airman to settle in their country when he retires from the Royal Canadian Air Force a few weeks hence.

Air Marshal Wilfrid C. Slemon, who has been deputy commander of NORAD, has accepted a civilian position in Colorado Springs. It will keep him close to flying for he is to become associated with the Air Force Academy Foundation, a private group which acts as an unofficial liaison organization. All the best for pollution and a bumper crop lagoa.

Air Marshal Slemon is a distinguished leader in the air age and Canadians will have some pangs of regret that his abundantly unusual abilities are lost to his own country.

On the other hand this example of the "brain drain" will at least give us an influential friend and a vantage in a land where it may do Canada considerable good.

Swiss Have Tourist Sub

Tacoma News Tribune

Those nasty little digs about the Swiss Navy may come home to roost after all, one of these days. The world's first tourist submarine is now supplying the waters of Lake Geneva, and who knows what may develop next?

This passenger submarine is fascinating in itself, whether or not it leads to development of an inland fleet. This 160-ton messerschmitt, intended to be the big attraction at the Swiss National Exhibition, will carry 40 persons on sightseeing tours in the famous lake.

There is one small fly in the ointment. The aforesaid famous lake also has become notorious for pollution and shumpage — not of underwater grass. Thus the view of sightseers may be somewhat restricted. Even so, what could be a pleasanter way to spend a hot summer afternoon then to submerge in the cool depths of Lake Geneva and watch the underwater world go by?

'Dropout' Term Badly Used

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

"Dropout" getting to be a bad word, an expletive as crushing as "son-agar", its coinage debased by language. School dropouts in the currency, as their currency, are shiftless, prideless youngsters, perversely opposed to an education, probably of weak mentality, and either juvenile delinquents or naturally doomed to become so. It is heartening to see active measures being taken to combat this cruel delusion, as is a New York forum at which some 100 children gave their own views.

Boys and girls do not so much drop out of school as they are discouraged out by parents who don't care, intimidated out by racial discrimination, bored out by failure of teachers to rouse their interest, sometimes even pushed out by schools that don't want them either, the seminar showed. The problem of school dropouts will be dealt with productively, not by heaping anathemas upon it, but by treating the ills of a whole society that made it inevitable.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 18th, 1945

1940-1945. Four years ago at this time, Germany began that series of blows which took her armies to the south side of the Channel in a short time with the overrunning of the Netherlands and Belgium and the workup of France. In the previous fall Hitler had opened the World War No. 2 by attacking Poland and in April of the spring of 1940 he had driven into Denmark and Norway. But it was in the month of May of that year that the world suddenly was brought face to face with the full strength of this monstrous enemy.

It was four years ago at this time that Winston Churchill came on the scene as the British people and took the helm. He has a peculiarly shrewd understanding of the mind of the Nazis and of Hitler. He has also great gifts of leadership and administration. Depending upon the British people for a stoutness of heart and for confidence and resolution in the hour when Britain was practically standing alone as a warring nation. Everyone recalls the anxiety of the following months and the relief that was felt when British buried back in defiance of the Luftwaffe in mid-September 1940.

In the course of the intervening four years between 1940 and 1944 the scene has changed. The world democracies are gathered for the attack upon the Nazi "empire." Hitler has been driven back from Russia, Italy has officially been lost to him and Allied troops are killing thousands of Hun troops engaged in the Italian peninsula. Hitler and his henchmen have striven to divide the Allied Nations but at this time he has seen the faintest sign that he would succeed. Allied unity is certain and it aims to annihilate German tyranny over Europe and the world forever.

To Your Good Health

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Perspiring Feet Annoying, Try New Aerosol Powders

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has a perspiration problem with his feet and they have tried just about everything. He has been buying new shoes as often as every month. The doctor says the perspiration has to come out somewhere, but there's a limit, and my husband has a complex over it. Help if you can. — Mrs. E. K.

This may sound like a small problem — except for people who have to combat it, but it can be a miserable nuisance.

The pattern of how we perspire varies a good deal from one person to another. When it comes to the feet, there is much less chance for evaporation, of course, and this multiplies the discomfort.

Your goal isn't to stop the perspiration, but rather to reduce it, and to keep it from accumulating so much. These methods may help:

1. Change shoes daily. This may make them last longer, by giving them more "rest" between exposure to salty perspiration. If the shoes become so wet that they are still damp the next day, then changing shoes becomes double important, since dry ones can accumulate the moisture; damp shoes can't absorb much.

2. Change socks daily, oftener if possible.

3. Sandals or other types of open footwear will allow air circulation, hence evaporation. If your husband can't wear sandals at work, a "sock-less" weave" shoes might help. What about sandals after he gets home from work?

4. Wear wool socks. This may sound odd because wool means "warmth" to most of us. But wool socks (or bulky cotton ones) will absorb more moisture.

5. Wash feet daily. If work conditions permit, wash them at night and dust on fresh socks.

6. Sponge the feet at night with a 30 to 40 percent formalin solution. Then dress the person a bit and reduce perspiration. Sponging with a 3 percent aluminum chloride solution every two to three days is also effective. (One or the other of these solutions may be tried.)

7. Use foot powder. Any standard type is fine, and the newer aerosol powders, which you spray on, are excellent. Spray or dust the foot daily (or oftener) and sprinkle some in the shoes. The powder absorbs moisture and suppresses bacteria, these suppressing odor as well as protecting skin and footwear.

If each of these factors contributes only a little, it still accounts up to substantial relief. And, as discomfort subsides, the nerves relax. This gives additional help, since sweating is related to nervous tension.

Dear Dr. Molner: Just how is salt important in the body system, especially the kidneys. Can such liquids as pop, milk, tea and coffee take the place of water? — J. A.

Fluid — which means water — is so important that we die if we have to go without it for more than a brief few days. Lack of enough water is an invitation to kidney trouble.

You can drink it in the form of the liquids I mention, plus soup, fruit, juice, etc. Watermelon and fruit are largely water, and even bread, rolls like beef have much more water than you might think.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a cyst on my breast. If I have it removed by surgery, will it recur? — Mrs. M. K.

No. But there is no guarantee that other cysts will not form.

Strictly Personal We Live in Most Violent Age of Time

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What appalls me is not so much the reaction of that crowd in Albany toward the boy who threatened to jump, but the reaction of so many readers to the story. They were actually shocked by it.

This half-witted 19-year-old, you may remember, stood on the narrow ledge high on a hotel, while the crowd gathered below. As he paced around the ledge, the crowd became restless, and began to shout, "Jump, jump!" Some men below made bets on whether he would jump. As one woman remarked, "I can't look around all night; I just missed my favorite television show."

Of the dozens of letters I received about the incident, a typical one said: "If it had been 50,000 Soldiers Demanding at ancient Rome, one could understand it — but the twentieth century, and a crowd of presumably average, everyday Americans!"

In the opinion of that correspondent, and all the others, the 3,000 people in the watching crowd were somehow "un-human." It was unbelievable that they could represent a cross-section of the population. In this century, we don't qualify his statement. The adjustment must be by practical means (which Hitler used to prefer provided he was getting his way).

Dr. Seeshun, however, stressed that this did not necessarily imply a redrawing of frontiers because Sudetens today were thinking in terms of a United European. But the only united Europe now in sight is that of the six-nation Common Market. That will not have room for Czechoslavakia for a long time.

Mr. Proos of Radio Bremen was quick to see the danger in the Seebohm statement could do all over the world, and especially to the West German cause for reunification of Germany.

A struggle between Hitlerian Germany and the Allies has left the Sudetenland by the unready West Germany after that Hitler was sure he could march on Poland without moving the Western Allies to action. But Britain proved that calculation monstrously and tragically wrong.

Now, as West Germany seeks to launch a new initiative for the Minister of Transportation to put a quick end thereto for How insensitive to world opinion, how forgetful of history, can one get? One measurement seems to have been provided by the West German Minister of Transportation, Dr. Hans-Christoph Seebohm.

Fortunately his viewpoint is far from typical. Hans Bemmer, editor of Radio Bremen, asks in short direction the minister thinks he is speaking.

Dr. Seebohm was speaking to the other day to a gathering of 100,000 Sudeten Germans at ancient Rome, no one could understand it — but the twentieth century, and a crowd of presumably average, everyday American!

Scranton

political circles buzzed with a New York Times report that Henry Cabot Lodge has resigned as ambassador to South Viet Nam.

In any event, there was little inclination to see in the ousting an active quest by the ambassador for the nomination. In fact, two leaders of the national Draft Lodge for President Committee, turned up in Scranton, Pa., Sunday "to offer all possible help" to the Pennsylvania governor.

STARTS IN IOWA

Scranton, who had to sweep uncommitted delegates and win some of those already in Goldwater's column, starts off in Des Moines, Iowa, late today. Before the week is out he plans stops in Topeka, Kan.; Minneapolis, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Denver, Colo., and Boston, Mass.

These six states have a total of 166 convention delegates, more than one - fifth the 655 needed for nomination.

Scranton said Sunday that the reaction to his candidacy has been "fantastic" and that he is confident he can overcome Goldwater's lead.

"I would be in it if I didn't think I could win," the governor said on ABC's Issues and Answers. He said he entered the race because party moderates "were downhearted" after Goldwater won the California primary.

Without naming Goldwater, eight senators who are considered in the party's liberal or moderate wing joined in a declaration of principles challenging some of his ideas.

They strongly endorsed the United Nations, social security, union labor rights and civil rights.

Senators Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Kenneth B. Keating of New York and J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, all up for re-election, prepared the declaration. They were joined by Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Jacob K. Javits of New York.

Weds Girl He Won In Lottery

LONDON (AP) — John Butler, 27, is honeymooning today with the girl he won in a Liverpool Lottery.

Butler bought a three-pence ticket during a charity drive by students of Birmingham College of Technology.

The prize was a blind date with any member of the college's out-ball team. Butler won, and chose Jill Teague, now 20.

One date followed another. They were married during the weekend. Said Jill's mother, Mrs. Evelyn Teague:

"People thought the lottery was in bad taste and I must admit I thought it a bit dangy. But the outcome could not have been happier. They are ideally suited."

Wayside Inn at Shannonville, Quinte Yacht Club Entered, Considerable Sums Taken

Police today were still seeking out clues in the looting of an estimated $6,000 from Shannonville's Wayside Inn early Sunday morning.

The haul, which included two days' weekend take at the popular hotel and dining lounge, was taken from an office safe after thieves forced a rear door into the building.

It was the second successive burglary staged in the area Sunday morning and police are probing the possibility both were the work of the same gang.

Also entered was the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club at Victoria Park where thieves pried three padlocks off a bonus - vending vault and escaped with about $100.

Entry was gained to the yacht club by removing a screen and forcing a window. Discovery of this by police checking the building uncovered the break-in.

At the Wayside Inn, owner Milk Keenan went to bed after securing the premises for the night about 2 a.m. He discovered the burglary about 8 a.m. when he found his office ransacked.

It was believed the thieves turned the dial on the office safe until they discovered the combination. Police said drawers inside the steel cabinet had been forced in the hunt for cash.

Neither did the thieves leave the bar empty - handed. Police say about six bottles of liquor and wine also were missing in the break-in.

Officials at the yacht club in Belleville meanwhile were still checking stock today to ascertain if it had been tampered with during the break-in.

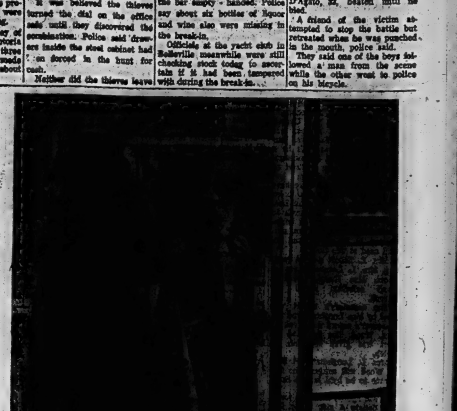
Members of Beaverbrook's family attended the private ceremony at Randells Park here.

His ashes were then taken to his country home, Cherkley, where he died after being seriously ill for a week.

Commend Boys For Informing Police of Beating



HAMILTON (CP)—Two boys were commended Sunday for informing police of a brutal beating and trailing one of the victim's three attackers.

Police said Bill Smith, 14, and his half-brother, Clifford Whesmack, 9, were the only ones to take action among some 25 persons who saw Frank Antonio D'Agnio, 23, beaten until he bled.

A friend of the victim attempted to stop the battle but retreated when he was punched in the mouth, police said.

They said one of the boys followed a man from the scene while the other went to police on his bicycle.

Then take care of the people's souls as well as their bodies and see that they are clothed.

Miss Burns is from Saskatchewan and answered the call for help some time ago. Smoked Ham Basted With Maple Syrup

MONTREAL (CP) — Smoked ham basted with maple syrup may become a traditional meal in Quebec on St. Jean Baptiste Day, June 24.

The Canadian planning the eight-day festivities for this year's holiday honoring Quebec's patron saint produced the recipe after interviewing some 300 housewives throughout the province.

With the suggestions received, two chefs at a Laurentian resort in Val David prepared a full course meal for a group of women journalists.

The menu included chefs Krets and Grand'maison of Le Septentrion who used bouillon with vegetables, baked ham Laurentian style, buttered asparagus, potatoes Hollandaise, Quebec cheeses, stewed rhubarb and strawberries and cookies flavored with maple syrup.

The two Laurentian chefs gave the following recipe for smoked ham:

Required; A 14-16 lb. ham, 1 tablespoon ground cloves, 1 lb. brown sugar, 20 ounces maple syrup.

Best results are achieved if the ham is not too salty. Most will smoked. (A well-salted ham should be soaked in cold water for 24 hours.)

Remove skin from ham and score fat. Rub with cinnamon and cloves and cover with brown sugar. Place in a roasting pan and pour syrup mixed with an equal quantity of water. Cook slowly in a 350-degree oven for four hours, basting frequently with the syrup and water mixture.

Add more water if the liquid in the bottom of the pan appears to be drying out. Garnish with apple slices that have been dipped in flour and fried in butter.

Working With Families of Alcoholics

This week The Ontario Intelligencer is publishing a series of articles that take a positive line at what can be done to further the health and well-being of the alcoholic. The articles are reprinted from the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation, Toronto in their publication "Addictions." Addictions is available on a free subscription basis to doctors, clergymen and other interested laymen. The Foundation is an agency of the Province of Ontario.

(PART ONE OF A SERIES)

SEVEN STAGES IN THE FAMILY CRISIS

The family of the alcoholic has been seen for the most part either as the victim, as a threat from his misbehavior, or as the tool his habit has made it. But the natural fate of families caught in the crisis of alcoholism has never been studied systematically. Until the past. The first such study is that of J. K. Jackson (University of Washington School of Medicine, Seattle). The results of her investigation may be of great help to all agencies which treat alcoholics or deal with their problems.

Jackson's study was limited to the marital families of men in Alcoholics Anonymous. Men were drawn during three years spent as a "member" of a women's auxiliary of Alcoholics Anonymous. Fifty women were in the group during the period of the study — all with alcoholic husbands. Fifty-seven of all the husbands were members of A.A. Jackson made a stenographic record of the A.A. group discussion of their family problems, and of the auxiliary's meetings. This record was then analysed in an attempt to discover the common factors in the order of events, behaviors and attitudes. From this analysis, a picture of the pattern of group effects emerged which showed the wives involved in a growing crisis. Jackson sees as the efforts to meet it and adjust to it could be divided into seven stages:

REFUSAL TO SEE

Stage 1: For the most part, the early stages of the excessive drinking by the husband are met by wives in a pragmatic and personal problem solving attitude. Spurred by a series of intoxication, especially those which cause embarrassment, may strain the marriage relationship, but they are usually patched up. Once over this strain, talk about other problems can often be avoided. The wife tries to discover some "formula" by which she can divert the husband's drinking and keep it within bounds. She tries to behave the husband stands on his right to drink like any man" and resents interference any hint that he cannot control himself.

Stage 2: Attempts to deny the problem are further failed, and as excessive drinking continues, the wife tends to alienate it is begun — usually when the family finds itself being marked out or punished. The couple, for example, learn that they can't be invited to a party; or, when they visit friends, drinks are not served, or are carefully limited. This social isolation increases the importance of interaction between husband and wife. At the same time the importance of drinking becomes more intense. But talk about it is also more painful and must be avoided. Advice from relatives and friends is resented as unjustified interference, but the wife herself somewhere do not know what to do.

The wife begins to feel she has a failure as episodes of drunkenness by the husband become more frequent. During periods of sobriety, the husband tries to make up for his failures by treating her especially well. But his next bout of drunkenness only magnifies the tension. Each interval of sobriety rekindles the hope that the past is past, and prevents the wife from thinking of adjusting to a husband who is an alcoholic. If there are children, they may begin to show emotional disturbance at this time.

REPAIR ABANDONED

Stage 3: In this one course the family is forced to make some adjustment to a state of disorganization. The husband's drunkenness is accepted as a permanent problem. Sober periods still awaken hope — but hope weakened by past disappointments. The wife now tries mainly by to relieve present tensions, to meet emergencies: she has given up trying to solve the whole problem, to "reform" her husband. When he gets drunk, the accumulated hostility between them may be allowed to her Day drinks grow more frequent and hurt core another. The husband and the wife will then feel guilty for behaving in an unwomanly way.

Stage 4: Partners now become severely disturbed. They have probably learned what the other person is, but they are divided in their loyalties. Either is very good to them when sober.

In this stage, the family's self-sufficiency is likely to become disrupted. The husband may get into trouble with the police — perhaps land in jail. An emergency may occur in which the wife is finally forced to seek outside help — the police, or a social agency. Relations between husband and wife are not improved by her recourse to such help.

Stage 5: As the disorder progresses, the wife is forced to take over full control of the family. She is the strongest factor on the basis that her husband is helpless. She becomes actual head of the family, treating the husband as another child. She assumes responsibility for the household expenses, for control of the children, and care of the husband. To any show resentment of this change, especially where the children are concerned, and by to get them to side with him against the "bossy" and "unsympathetic" mother.

The family thus becomes more stable, but it still suffers from disorganization. The man's pay cheques tend to become smaller and less regular. He is liable to accidents and illness. His behavior may become more violent or more bizarre. He may need hospitalization. The wife's life is to get acquainted with more and more relatives, friends and the husband may talk of drinking. Sometimes he does not drink.

TIME OF SEPARATION

Stage 6: The episodes of drunkenness do not stop, however, but occur sporadically. Longer and more disastrous for the family. Finally the wife decides to cut the problem by ending the marriage. If she has not already done so, she now orderly basis in spite of the husband's alcoholism, this decision may be easier for her. She may just separate from the husband, or she may divorce him. Often this does not follow an exceptional crisis, as when she alcoholic husband has tried to do violence to her or the children, or has done something to bring the police to his door. Sometimes it is provoked or caused by the husband's desertion. But in either the separation has the effect of disrupting the household up, at least for a time, and the family may be resolved.

Actual or threatened separation may be avoided, however, and Stage 7 may be entered instead.

Stage 6: Separation from the alcoholic husband results in a partial reorganization of the family — as a unit without a man at the head of it. The situation is similar to that in any other divorced or separated families. But in some respects it is not quite the same. The wife with the husband is not quite over. She may still feel guilty over having deserted him, and cast out a "sick man." The husband may assert his claim to good behavior and work on the children to reacquire their loyalty, or, when he gets friends, he may endanger the wife's job by going into her place of work. The family is partly released, but it is not through with the alcoholic and the problem of alcoholism.

Stage 7: Reorganization is reached if the husband's alcoholism is arrested, whether through Alcoholics Anonymous, medical and social treatment, or by his own initiative. Named on how he broke up, it is now reunited. But the problems of the family are by no means solved the next meeting. A reunion may even of International Day, June 27th, at the cottage with each member to bring a of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Glover on favorite dish for the children. Crowes Lake, when the teachers

New Concept In Education Of Retarded

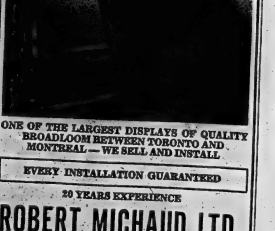
ORILLIA, Ont. (CP)—A new concept in educating mentally retarded children is being dramatically put into effect at the Ontario Hospital for the retarded here.

A carefully planned curriculum designed to educate each person to the limit of his capabilities constitutes a major breakthrough in the wall which once surrounded the mentally retarded.

Before the new concept here, only 25 patients a year were released as fit to make their own way in society. Last year, with the new system in its earliest stages, more than 200 patients were sent out of the hospital as useful citizens.

Education director Bill McCormack says one youngster is in grade 3 in the House of Commons. Another earned four promotions in a factory and now is making $180 a week.

"He drove up to see me in his new car," Mr. McCormack said. "He's bought a $27,000 home and is getting married. How's that for progress?"



Mr. McCormack gave up an industrial executive's job to obtain his master's degree in psychology and dropped $10,000 a year in the process. His assistants has a teaching degree.

"We've made a start, though," Mr. McCormack says. "The teachers we have are learning as they go and learning well."

Mass parent visits have become an annual affair under the new program and they likely will become more frequent.

Mr. McCormack points out that it sometimes takes years to bring a child to kindergarten level. Sometimes they never make it, but with patience and a methodical curriculum based on the first year, the hospital is making greater strides than had been hoped for.

"Dear Constant Reader:
It doesn't surprise me.
He could probably learn a few things about money himself."

Sometimes we get mad at Holly.

She's in charge of a special department at The Bank that takes a very one-sided view of banking problems: Namely a woman's.

Each month she exchanges letters with women who have all kinds of problems about money. How to save. How to handle it. How to spend it.

Traditionally, this is supposed to be a special preserve of men. But Holly doesn't think so. So she's making it her business to help women take the major role in money management. Sort of a Carrie Nation of the banking business.

If you think Holly Armstrong is wasting her time, you should know that 60% of banking in the country is already being done by women. So that gives Holly a pretty impressive majority.

You can get her woman's view of banking or money problems just by writing to her at this address: Holly Armstrong, 55 King Street West, Toronto, Ontario. Or drop into your nearest branch and ask for the manager.

And don't feel bad about being a man.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

ELEVATOR ETIQUETTE

Ours is an elevator culture. Nowhere in the world do people log more vertical miles of travel. In apartment houses and hotels, offices, garages, subways and above, we have come to depend on the elevator. Why then are our elevator manners so conformity bad?

It would seem that, traditionally, elevators are for shoving. About the only time a rider stands silent, albeit confused, is during a rare moment of meditation when he stops to consider the ins and outs — or ups and downs — of elevator etiquette. Should a man take off his hat? When? Do ladies always leave first? Even from the back of a crowded elevator in an office building at 8:50 a.m.?

The happy solution to these and similar taxing problems seems to be: If you don't know, forget it, and shove.

Edward Thompson, chief elevator starter at Washington's Sheraton-Park Hotel, has been observing elevator foibles and phobias for 26 years. On a recent visit, while waiting for an elevator, we asked him if the elevator manners of our fathers were different from our own, and Thompson had a ready reply.

"People seem more hurried and impatient these days. Maybe they're not any less kind than they used to be, only in more of a hurry."

MORE COMFORTABLE

Still, when you slow down to think about it, proper good manners today are more comfortable, less formal and elaborate than at any time in history. And elevator etiquette these days is simply a matter of doing what comes naturally.

It's both a matter of manners and comfort, for instance, for a man to remove his hat indoors (although lobbies, corridors and elevators of non-residential public buildings are considered public, hotel and apartment house elevators and halls are indoors), but if the elevator is crowded, his hat, quite correctly, doesn't leave his head. This saves hat, temper and room for someone else. In the same way, it makes more sense for a man to step out of the elevator and out of a lady's way than to stand there "politely," contributing to the crush that jams her in.

Thompson mourns the widespread conversion of manually-operated elevators to the new, electronic, self-service cars. The automation of his life's work came as a shock to him, but far worse is the terrible notion that the elevator man's pool of jokes-for-all-occasions will dry out with the species. Hotel humor, he insists, will never be the same. But he does admit the new cars have advantages.

"People will think more about where they are going. They'll start talking to each other at landings, asking who pushed what button and holding the doors for each other, so people will do the same for them sometime. They won't have anyone to tell them stories, so they'll have to talk to each other as they ride, and smile and be friendly. If the car is delayed, they won't have an operator to get mad at, so they'll have to take it easy and relax. It'll be good for 'em. People'll start acting like elevator men for each other."

If Thompson is right, this could be the start of an epidemic of courtesy in elevators all over America. The traditional hurried shove, with scowl to match, will disappear routed by appreciative smiles and gestures of consideration all around.

Writers Say That Kelly's Dog Not Only Smart Pet

DEAR READERS — Remember the letter from the neighbors who wrote about Kelly's dog who wouldn't eat meat on Friday? Well, that letter unloosed a torrent of testimonials which strongly support that our furred and feathered friends are at least as smart as people — if not smarter. Here are some samples from my mail:

ANN LANDERS

From Highland Park, Illinois — If you think Kelly's dog is unusual what would you say about our English Setter, Leviticus?

We got "Lev" when he was four months old — a gift from friends who are deeply religious. These people adhere rigidly to the strict dietary laws of their faith.

Leviticus not only refuses to eat meat which is not kosher but the meat must be served to him on a Yiddish newspaper. We have tried both the Chicago Sun-Times and the Chicago Daily News, but Lev cannot be fooled. — RIGHT HAND UP.

DEAR RIGHT HAND UP — I have no comment whatever to make on Leviticus, particularly since Mrs. Helen Palmer, the Women's Editor of the Toronto Star, sent me a clipping from that paper describing a kosher cat, owned by Rabbi Louis Farrell.

The mixing of meat and milk is forbidden by Orthodox Jewish law. Rabbi Farrell's cat must have known this because he refused to drink milk when meat is served. Frequently the kosher cat demonstrated his dedication to this dietary law for guests — to their utter amazement.

From Miami — I don't want to take anything away from Kelly's dog, but did you know there was a chimpanzee down in Daytona Beach who used to play gin rummy? His master began by letting the chimp play a few hands for kicks. When that chimp blitzed one of the best card players in Florida in three hands, the boys got mad and wouldn't let the monkey sit in the game

From Seattle — Our Weimaraner, Ellsworth, loves classical music. He sits meditatively when Ormandy or Bernstein recordings are on the hi-fi. When the kids put on the rock-and-roll Ellsworth leaves the room. Several months ago our daughter bought some Beetle records. Ellsworth whined and moaned and finally put his paw on the knob and turned the machine off.

Columbus, Ohio — Our dog "Strib" was only a mutt but he was an awfully smart mutt. When I was nine years old, Mom announced to the family that we were going to have a new baby in the house.

The very next morning, "Strib" went out for his morning walk and returned carrying a baby shoe in his mouth. He proudly laid it at Mother's feet. For the next several months he kept bringing home baby shoes — about one every two weeks. This went on until the new baby came and then he stopped.

From Kansas City — Our oldest daughter went with a guy I could never warm up to. When he came to call our beagle had to be put in the back hall. Sparky hated that fellow, and he sure did show it. She married the guy and he turned out to be a real rat. I told my two younger daughters I didn't want any fellows coming to the house a second time if Sparky didn't like 'em. This may sound nutty, but both girls used Sparky as a guide and today they are married to two fine young men and are very happy.

From Los Angeles — Our mynah bird, Socrates, had a fairly large vocabulary and he did a good bit of talking. We always thought mynah birds were stickly imitators, but now I'm not so sure. Three days before the California election for governor I was having an argument with a friend. I said to him, "I'll bet you $20 Nixon will win." Socrates poked his head through the cage and shrieked, No, No, Pat Brown will win; Pat Brown will win." How do you like them apples?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Shepherd's Pie Makes Main Dish

by Mary Moore

When I am in the midst of making a meat pie I feel that the preparation goes on forever. You grind or chop the meat, you prepare and cook the vegetables, you make the pastry, you assemble it in proper sequence. But when it goes into the oven the main course of dinner is ready.

Eleanor had a somewhat similar reaction to making the following Shepherd's Pie, but was radiant over the final results.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Spareribs; Baked Sweet Potatoes; Creamed Brussels Sprouts; Celery Hearts; Canned Peaches; Nut Bread; Coffee.

SHEPHERD'S PIE:

4 cups ground roast beef, 2 medium carrots, cut into fine dice, 1 large stalk celery (preferably green), chopped finely, 1 medium onion, chopped, ¼ green pepper, chopped, ¾ cup leftover gravy (see below), 1 cup water, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 can mushroom cream soup, approx. 2 cups mashed potatoes, (1 package instant will suffice — see below).

Prepare vegetables and cook them in the 1 cup water for 15 minutes. Stir in gravy. (If you have more gravy use less water for vegetables and vice versa — you need 1¾ cup gravy-water mixture in all.) Add ground roast beef and all remaining ingredients but potatoes. Turn into medium large buttered casserole. If used, prepare instant potatoes according to package directions' Mix 1½ cups boiling water add ½ teaspoon salt and bring to boil. Remove from heat and add immediately ⅓ cup milk. Stir in one envelope of mashed potato flakes and 1 tablespoon butter until smooth.) Or use 2 cups leftover mashed potatoes. Whip in electric beater if desired, adding a little more milk and butter to make mashed potatoes softer for this Shepherd's Pie purpose. Spoon mashed potatoes onto meat to make wider border allowing mea filling to show at centre. Brush top of potatoes with beaten yolk of one egg. Sparingly top potato border with finely grated cheese. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes, turning on to burner for last 2 minutes to delicately brown top of potato border.

NOTES:

1) The meat mixture is quite generous and this dish will serve from 4 to 6 people. The meat in the centre was bubbly and when the dish was brought to the table it was very attractive. 2) If you have no leftover roast beef you could make this Shepherd's Pie using 1½ to 2 lbs. hamburg meat but it would have to be browned in 2 or 3 tablespoons butter before adding to vegetable-liquid mixture. The total liquid could be water reduced to 1¼ cups and when meat is added to cooked vegetables in water, add also 1 or 2 beef bouillon cubes.

Napanee Girl Slightly Hurt In Accident

PICTON (Staff) — A one-car accident sent a Napanee girl to the Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital Saturday afternoon.

Miss Colleen Cryster, 20, of Napanee, was driving a 1960 Volkswagen on Lake St. on route to Picton. About a half-mile from the town limits, the car slid on some gravel on the edge of the road, and in an attempt to straighten it out, the car flipped and rolled over twice landing on its wheels.

Miss Cryster was knocked out by the impact, and was taken to hospital where she was detained over night for observation. Her condition on Sunday was reported as resting comfortably.

Miss Marlyn Culley, 19, also of Napanee, a passenger in the car, was also taken to the hospital, but after treatment for assorted bruises, she was allowed to go home.

The car was considered a total wreck. Provincial Constable Harry Sisty investigated.

Man Injured In Scuffle

PICTON (Staff) — A 22-year-old Belleville man, Gerald Vanbrona, has been charged with assault causing bodily harm following a fracas in front of the Royal Hotel in Picton on Saturday.

As a result of the incident a Picton man, Aberdeen Marcle, was taken to the Prince Edward Memorial Hospital and later transferred to the Kingston General Hospital. He was believed to be suffering from a fractured skull. He was reported this morning, however, to be in good condition and it is expected he will be released from hospital some time later today. His skull was not fractured.

Police say that scuffling started between the two men in front of the hotel. It is believed that Mr. Marcle fell to the ground, hitting his head very hard on the sidewalk.

Picton police are investigating.

Khrushchov will spend six days in each country, ending his tour in Sweden July 1.

The governments of the three host countries—all constitutional monarchies—will extend correct and gracious receptions to their Communist visitors. But the Scandinavian public is not likely to give Khrushchov anything resembling the ecstatic welcome he received from the Egyptians.

Long

may cause a brief—or possibly a lengthy — interruption during the flag proceedings.

At one time, Mr. Pearson said an interim supply bill authorizing payment of the government's bills to July 31 and a constitutional amendment, necessary before the Canada Pension Plan can take effect, would have to be disposed of before the flag debate. But, on Friday, he said the flag debate would begin definitely on Monday.

The constitutional amendment, which first has to be approved by the Quebec legislature, would allow the federal government to pay survivors' benefits traditionally a provincial responsibility. Mr. Pearson said he hoped Quebec will give the matter a speedy passage, so the Commons can deal with it later in the week.

Forecasts on how the debate will go range from it being a calm, dull affair to it developing into a fierce, hotly-fought contest with passions inflamed on all sides of the 265 - seat House.

The proposed maple leaf design was made public May 29 and since then thousands of such flags have been produced by private manufacturers. Details of the government's final version still have to be officially announced, but changes in the shade of color, the size of the leaves and the width of the blue bars have been indicated.

Hundreds of letters have been pouring into the prime minister's office daily on the flag, most said to be favoring the maple leaf design.

But representative influential opinion across the country has been sharply divided.

The Association of Canadian Clubs endorses the maple leaf design. The Royal Canadian Legion has adopted the Red Ensign as its official flag. The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire has told Mr. Pearson it deplores that Canadians "are being deprived of their right to vote on the flag question.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said his province will "continue to fly the Union Jack if we are the last place in Canada to do it." Quebec Premier Lesage was "passably" pleased with the maple leaf design.

H. T. Mitchell, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said the proposed flag would "mark a step forward a rapprochement between French- and English - speaking Canadians." The flag issue contains the greatest dividing force the country has ever known, commented Joe Morris, executive vice-president of the Canada Labor Congress.

How does the maple leaf design appeal esthetically? The basic concept is good says Alan Jarvis, editor of Canadian Art Magazine and a former director of the National Gallery of Canada. "Monstrously pedestrian," says Harold Town, Toronto abstract artist.

The verbal furore has been accompanied by demonstrations, so far generally peaceful affairs.

Two weeks ago some 1,500 supporters — belonging to both the Red Ensign and maple leaf camps — demonstrated on Parliament Hill at the same time. On Friday, the government tested the maple leaf design before about four hours over a New Democratic MP's protests. And,

Asked about the New York Times story, White House press secretary George E. Reedy said that Lodge's post "is a presidential appointment and the president has received no such communication."

Lodge, the 1960 Republican candidate for vice - president, had denied several times that he planned to leave his Saigon post.

Despite his refusal to discuss politics, Lodge's supporters entered him in several presidential primaries. After winning New Hampshire's 14 votes, he added 30 from his native Massachusetts and one each from Alaska and Ohio.

His supporters threw their support in California's June 2 primary to New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller, but Goldwater scored a narrow victory and captured the state's 86 Republican convention votes.

to support a program leading to the economic emancipation of the Indian.

E. R. McEwen, the association's executive director, said "we have not really measured the need. One hundred million is a relatively small amount of money."

Delegates decided against naming a fund figure for the proposed agency.

A second key resolution, given unanimous approval, called on the federal government and the provincial governments to make arrangements to extend provincial-municipal help services to the reserves.

The resolution reflected the key plank in the policy of the Indian-Eskimo Association, an alliance of 70 organizations.

Delegates approved a wide range of other resolutions which generally called for increased government assistance in education, housing, health, welfare and sanitation for reserves.

RESERVES TO REMAIN

Mr. O'Connell, summing up a three-day session, said delegates had confirmed that Indian reserves will remain an important part of community life "as far ahead as we can see."

Because of this, Indian assistance programs will have to reach out into the reserves and assistance must fortify the identity of the Indian.

Along with this, he said Indians must participate to a greater extent in white society but "the Indian must retain his identity as this integration takes place."

The Kenora conference was the first of nine workshops in the association's three-year program. It brought together whites from government and industry and Indian leaders from Northwestern Ontario reserves —where more than one-fifth of the province's 80,000 Indians live.

Successful Living

Possessor of Gun Must Exercise Self-Discipline

DEAR DORIS: My boy, 15, bought a B-B gun and took lessons in its use from a police sergeant. He headed the class. Now he wants to buy a .22 rifle. I opposed this.

You see, after learning how to handle the B-B gun, I came home one day to be told by my daughter that he had shot a robin. This upset me terribly and I am trying to understand just why he felt this sudden urge to shoot this type of bird. (Game birds are listed in the manual.)

Am I making a mountain out of a mole hill?—Widow.

DEAR WIDOW—It's a shock, that's for sure. But a boy with a gun and the thrill of being a good marksman is likely to be tempted. Guns call for a high grade of self-discipline—at any age!

Discuss with the sergeant a punishment to fit the crime. And let future behavior decide about the rifle.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I am writing on behalf of my sister, my girl friend and myself. None of us tan. All we do is freckle. It really bugs us because we live right near a beach but you'd never know it.

Doris, we've tried everything from lemon juice to milk to just plain sun tan oil but nothing seems to work. Nothing looks worse than a sleeveless dress and freckled arms and backs. My sister and girl friend also have trouble with their legs and faces.

Also, what can one do with large pores on one's face? — Freckles.

DEAR FRECKLES: Past a certain point, all you can do with freckles is enjoy them. Many people do! You may fade them with lemon juice and disguise them with make-up—and then you've had it.

Wearing a sun hat is one way to avoid adding several thousand extra cells to nose and cheeks during summer.

Enlarged pores result from blocked oil glands. The cure is cleanliness—soap-and-water scrubbing, frequently; plus a diet low in fats and sweets, high in fresh vegetables and fruits. Extreme cases call for a skin specialist.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WONDER: Twenty-one is too old for 17. He probably doesn't say anything when you cheat because he is too good-natured and too poised to be jealous. This is no way to test him out.

• • •

TO PERPLEXED MOTHER: The best all-round handbook I know on child care is "Up the Years from One to Six". It is published by the Department of National Health and Welfare, and available through your local or provincial health department. (Incidentally, you asked me to send you what I might have C.O.D. The only thing I request when people write to me is a five-cent-stamped envelope. I am afraid that if I were to send your reply C.O.D. it would not reach you.)

(Doris is a university graduate who has studied human problems and how to handle them. Let her help you with yours.)

DEAR DORIS — A very good friend of mine, a grandmother and a divorcee, is to be married for the second time. Since she has everything money can buy, we are wondering how to honor her prior to the wedding. Would a handkerchief shower be suitable.

We thought of having an afternoon tea but don't know if we should have anything else or not. — ANOTHER- GRAND-MOTHER.

DEAR ANOTHER — Afternoon tea—yes. Handkerchief shower—no. How about a combined gift; something handcrafted and special? A lovely china figurine, for instance? A plaque on the side or bottom of an "object d'art" could record the occasion and the givers. Nothing could be more flattering.

DEAR DORIS — I am to be mother of the groom in July. I have a rose bengaline faille and I am wondering if it would be all right to wear. Should I have a dress made of nylon instead? Do they wear short gloves any more? — GROOM'S MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER — Bengaline faille is a bit stiff for a midsummer wedding. The soft summer materials are lovely, either in nylon or silk and cotton mixture. Long sleeved gloves are best with short-sleeve or no-sleeve dresses; although short ones are still o.k.

(Teen-agers — When writing to Doris give your right name. She won't tell on you.)

Naldo Bracci of White River Found Not Guilty of Charges Of Malfeasance, Misconduct

WHITE RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Judge F. W. Ross of Port Arthur has found Naldo Bracci not guilty of charges of malfeasance, misconduct or breach of trust in handling the affairs of the White River Improvement District.

At the same time, Judge Ross criticized ratepayers who signed a petition against Mr. Bracci and then did not testify against the improvement district chairman at an inquiry into the district's affairs.

In a 30-page report released Saturday by the district's board of trustees, the judge also rapped lawyer John Ryan of Sudbury for withdrawing from the inquiry a written submission calling alleged irregularities.

The judge's report is the outcome of a preliminary hearing Feb. 20 and a day-long judicial inquiry May 13 in this community on the CPR main line, 190 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

A petition signed by 122 White River residents, alleging improper conduct of the community's business and saying that Mr. Bracci had quarrelled materially as the result of his position, prompted the board of trustees to ask for the inquiry.

GIVES SUMMARY

Judge Ross reported:

"To sum up in concise and unmistakable terms, I find that the administration of the corporation (of White River) has been satisfactorily conducted and that no evidence of malfeasance, misconduct or breach of trust on the part of the trustees, or of any official has been presented."

Judge Ross said if the inquiry did not bring to light any information, as if there is a stone left unturned it is the fault of those who signed the petition and then would not testify at the inquiry.

He said they apparently purported to act through Rev. John Kaptein, a Roman Catholic priest, and Rev. Michael Dunhill, an Anglican priest, who were "trustees" for certain ratepayers.

"The status of these so-called trustees is not clear, but the real purpose is quite apparent. It was to shelter under the same cloak as does the writer of an anonymous letter; to accuse without responsibility.

"Something between the date of the submission, March 9, and the resumption of the inquiry of May 13, each one of these apparently public - spirited citizens had a change of heart. When the time came they were not willing to identify themselves, let alone testify."

WITHDREW SUBMISSION

Mr. Ryan, who represented Father Kaptein and Mr. Dunhill, withdrew his written submission alleging that Mr. Bracci had benefitted from his position and did not call witnesses or present any evidence.

Judge Ross commented:

"Had this been an ordinary case in court, Mr. Ryan could not have taken this step, without leave of the presiding judge; and I would not normally grant such leave unless an excuse was offered, and then only on terms as to costs. This was an attempt to force the proceeding and to all those in attendance."

He said Mr. Ryan's conduct was "completely astonishing."

James Kelleher of Sault Ste. Marie, solicitor for the improvement district, used Mr. Ryan's submission as a basis for calling witnesses and presenting evidence after the submission was withdrawn by the Sudbury lawyer.

COULDN'T NAME COUNSEL

Judge Ross said he would have liked to appoint counsel to take charge of developing the Municipal Act, did not allow this. The judge dealt with each allegation in the Ryan submission.

He said there "does not seem to be the slightest ground" for an allegation that parking restrictions in White River favored Mr. Bracci.

"On the contrary, the parking by arrangements appear to have been carefully worked out."

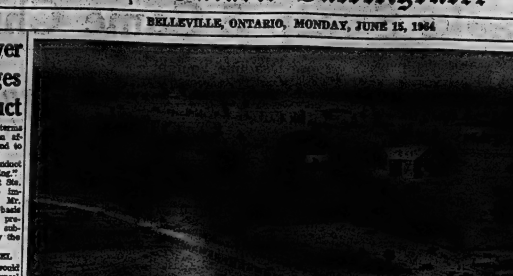
He also found nothing wrong with Mr. Bracci's investment of $4,000 in Nordav Investments, a company planning to develop a subdivision of land acquired from the CPR.

There he feared there might be a conflict of interest, Mr. Bracci divested himself of his interest in the company at the same price he bought it, "losing both interest in the deal."

Judge Ross said that Mr. Bracci's efforts to introduce a municipal zoning by-law, alleged to be detrimental to the community, were as a result of consultation with the department of municipal affairs which "indeed imposed it on us."

REPORTS ON EVIDENCE

All evidence brought forth at the inquiry "negated the proposition" that Mr. Bracci used knowledge received by him as district chairman to realize financial gain, the report said.



Judge Ross also dealt with allegations by Mr. John Winkelmeyer, former Ontario Liberal leader, in a provincial election campaign speech at Sudbury in August, 1963.

The judge said Mr. Bracci did not control the location of the Trans-Canada Highway, that his only financial interest in the location was as the holder of a mortgage to protect him against loss under his guarantee of a loan, and that neither Mr. Bracci did not interfere with the sale of Crown lands.

The judge's report also says that Mr. Bracci did not sell stone or any other material to any contractor doing work for the improvement district. "Mr. Bracci does not own or have any kind of interest in any stone quarry."

He said paving work was done for Mr. Bracci by a contractor which was also doing work for the district under the department of highways.

"Mr. Bracci states that the rate to him was, if anything, greater than that charged the corporation and I have no doubt that it was."

AIRVIEW OF AIRPORT! — New Belleville flying field is directly south of Thurlow township's second concession, has 2,700-foot airstrip operational day and night.

New Flying Club, Airport Just East of City Opened; Over a Thousand Attend

Belleville's first flying club for only is off the ground—it's away to a flying start.

And if its public inauguration yesterday is any barometer—public enthusiasm, its organizers should be in high spirits for many a day.)

And for nearly a thousand members of the public who flocked to the event, it was a double occasion. Unveiled at the same time was Belleville airport from which the new club and school now operates.

The airfield, with a strip 2,700 feet long—operational day or night—and shortly to be extended again—is little less than three miles east of Belleville, running south of, and parallel to, Thurlow township's second concession.

Club officials also had a double-barrelled reason for surprise. Not only did the local citizenry turn out in numbers but fellow fliers also turned up in flocks of flights.

Before the day was out about 20 private aircraft had homed in on the field bearing best wishes for the new venture.

The opening coincided with a meet of Ontario Flying Farmers Association on Big Island and before departure for their destinations around Southern Ontario association members came down on the fledgling field en masse.

BUILT OWN PLANE

The day was rounded off with a flash of the curious with the arrival at the field of David King, of Kingston. David added a privately owned homebuilt aircraft to the lines of mass - produced models lining the field to draw much of the crowd's attention and admiration.

The plane, modelled on a French - style biplane and powered with a Volkswagen motor, took him more than a year to build in the basement of his home.

The school officially became a reality only a few days before Sunday's formal opening. However, it has long been in the offing for its prime mover, Belleville man Jim Marker, one of the district's top private pilots.

Mr. Marker sought out the site four years ago and has been using the field himself for some time. In the interim he worked to set up a full-scale operation with instruction and aircraft maintenance facilities. Obstacles were finally cleared when the proposition was put to the long - established Kingston Flying Club who readily agreed to take the organization under its wing.

OPEN EVERY DAY

Now Belleville has a full-time private air operation with an airfield open seven days a week.

Its flying school has one full-time instructor — Cliff Durham — and a part-time instructor.

It also means something more potentially important to the non - flying fraternity, particularly businessmen.

With the establishment of the field and its Kingston club link, 65 air-charter service is now available for the first time in the immediate Belleville area. For those in a hurry, all it means is a fast telephone call and a plane is on its way to Belleville.

"We can have an aircraft here by the time the caller arrives at the field," claimed an official.

Katanga's Future Hanging In Balance as Troops Leave

By DAVID PASKOV

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — The future of the Congo's Katanga province, the third largest source of copper, hangs in the balance as the last of the United Nations troops prepare to withdraw.

When the original withdrawal from Katanga was postponed last December, the UN military force consisted of nearly 7,000 men.

By June 30, only a small civilian staff will be left to administer about 1,500 technical assistance men on loan to the Congolese government from UN agencies such as the World Health Organization and the International Labor Organization.

The entire Congo operation has cost the United Nations more than 200 lives and about $400,000,000 since July, 1960.

More than 1,500 Canadian soldiers and airmen have served in the UN Congo force, and the final 179 are among the servicemen being withdrawn this month.

Those of the Belgian population who stayed and the large numbers who eventually returned after the UN gained the upper hand in the province, now fear another outbreak of fighting between Katangans and Congolese for control of Katanga's mineral revenues.

In addition to copper, Katanga has large deposits of cobalt and uranium, used in the manufacture of nuclear weapons.

MINING CENTRES TENSE

Mining centres like Kolwezi and Jadotville, in the western part of Katanga, now known as Lubumbashi, are tense. Even in the Katanga capital, Negro districts are full of rumors of another secession attempt.

One - time secessionist President Moise Tshombe's former gendarmes are believed still to be in possession of a large number of weapons, although many have sold whatever army equipment they had at the time of the surrender to UN forces.

A force of gendarmes, said to number at least 3,000, is reported to have collected on the other side of Portuguese Angola's border with Katanga. These would constitute a serious threat to the Lumumba province

Union Miniere Company has its main copper refineries.

Reports from Angola say the gendarmes have been promised by their leaders that they can return to fight in Katanga once the UN troops leave.

Seven battalions of Congolese army soldiers based at Kolwezi are not considered effectively mobile because of a shortage of vehicles and spare parts.

Congolese troops in Katanga have the additional task of keeping people at work.

Since devaluation of the currency last November, living conditions for blacks have dropped to one-quarter of their former level. Threats of strikes have only been staved off by fear of army action.

Race Pile-up Kills 2 Horses, 6 Riders Hurt

LAKE MOGREGOR, Alta. (CP) — Two horses were killed, six riders were injured and nine were unseated within an hour Saturday during the 10th annual race meet held at this resort area 60 miles southwest of Calgary.

It started in the third race —an open saddle horse race —when two horses collided and died instantly. A horse ridden by Pereva Collins of Blackie, Alta., failed to make a turn and crashed into a horse ridden by Jim Salisbury.

Collins received a broken shoulder and broken pelvis.

In the next race, 10 horses were entered in a three-quarter mile race and in a pile up at almost the same spot as the first accident seven riders left their mounts. Roddy Haynes of Taber, Smokey Wilson and George Kelly of Gleichen were treated at hospital and released.

EMPLOYS THOUSANDS

E. I. Du Pont de Nemours of Delaware, largest chemical company in the world, employs 84,000 employees.

Many Injured In Welcoming The Beatles

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Forty persons were taken to hospital following a stampede at Sunday when an estimated 200,000 Australians turned out to welcome Britain's pop-singing Beatles.

All 40 were released after treatment. Another 100 persons were given first aid for fainting hysteria and minor injuries suffered in mob scenes outside the Beatles' hotel.

At one point, police had to force horses through the crowd to rescue collapsed teen-agers, children and elderly people. They brought them out along over the horses' necks.

Earlier, at the airport, about 4,000 teen-agers—some of whom had waited there 18 hours — screamed, shouted and waved banners as John Lennon, Paul McCartney and George Harrison flew in from Adelaide with attendin drummer Jimmy Nichol.

The group's regular drummer, Ringo Starr, who missed their first two Australian concerts because of illness, arrived here earlier from London to screaming welcome by 2,000 fans. A girl burst a blood vessel in her throat while screaming and went into a hysterical faint.

American Specialists Give Assessment of Soviet Union Since First Sputnik in 1957

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

With a flaming roar, the great rocket inched upward, slowly gathered speed, and flashed from sight, hurling the first beeping Sputnik into space. It was Oct. 4, 1957. The Soviet Union, not the United States, had pioneered the astounding new space age.

Many people were awed or dismayed by the feat.

Some, nevertheless that the Soviet Union could contribute major achievements, seized on a theory the Soviets had built upon stolen secrets and captured German experts to vault into space and to produce nuclear weapons.

But behind the curtain of secrecy, it was clear the Russians were emphasizing education, science and technology as prime avenues to national growth and for world prestige.

How strong are the Soviets in science today?

Judgments are coming from American specialists who by the dozens have been to the Soviet Union in cultural exchange programs to peer over the shoulders of their Soviet counterparts.

THE SCOREBOARD

Some of their assessments:

Physics and Mathematics—Good theoretical work."

Biological sciences in general —"They're 20 years behind."

Biochemistry and molecular biology, including research on the genetic code—"Very mixed bag. They're very slow in merging the skills of chemists, biologists and physicists." Lysenko (Trofiam Lysenko, who champions environmental influence as changing hereditary characteristics) is still entrenched. Good scientists working at it, but still it's a heavy dead hand on genetics research."

Cancer research—"About as good as it comes. From their top men. Then there's a wide gulf. They are putting major effort into this area."

Computers and computer research—"They are 10 years back, unless there's a top grade work is going into space or military efforts."

Chemistry — Some good research in special institutes. But the Soviet chemical industry lags.

Geophysics (the study of the earth)—The Soviets work at it least as strong as the U.S., and is ahead of everyone right now in study of the Arctic regions.

Atomic and nuclear research —The Soviets are stepping up their thrust toward getting fusion or H-bomb reaction to produce electric power. The United States would "have to spend at least twice as much as now is budgeted to match what the Soviets are doing" in terms of research workers and experimental facilities.

DOING ORIGINAL WORK

High energy physics, using accelerators to probe the atomic nucleus—The Soviets are less productive. But they are doing some original work, are apparently putting more manpower into this research, and "a younger generation is growing up that is impressive." They may be "five years behind us now, but watch out what they can do in the future. Twenty years from now, the U.S. could be a poor second."

New elements—The Soviets are "are putting more effort than we are into research to create new elements—beyond the 103 now known—are perhaps "only a few behind us and us, and have a chance to scoop us by doing something imaginative."

Rocketry—This effort "is lavishly supported. Two or three groups are making good headway, with far to average quality work. They have two or three theoreticians who are unmatched and a small well-trained technicians and engineers."

Photosynthesis — "I was depressed by what I saw. Their hands are tied by lack of equipment, for one thing."

SHARP CONTRASTS

In general, the Soviet Union "is still a very unequally educated world, with brilliant exceptions," says Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, Russian-born scientist. A well-known cancer researcher now with the Fels Institute for medical research at Temple University, Mr. Shimkin last year spent since 1956 — better visits Russia in 1960.

"There has been marked improvement since 1956 — better housing, better laboratory equipment. Their large equipment is good. But the little stuff tends to be bad—a syringe will leak, or sticky taps won't hold, for example."

Scientists interviewed mentioned the following weaknesses, as seen through Western eyes:

Dogma—The Lysenko school and the Pavlovian stress on conditioned-reflex in physiology and psychology are blinders in research thinking or approaches.

Teaching versus research—Both have valuable stimulus from one another insofar as universities mainly do teaching, and special institutes are charged primarily with doing research. University teachers especially are likely to fall behind, and become sterile.

Centralized control—Political, or political-scientific, hierarchies have a main voice in saying what research should be done. Scientists have far less chance of choosing what they are enthusiastic about pursuing — or changing the direction of research when or if it turns up something more important or interesting than expected.

Industrial support — The Soviet Union does not have a broad an industrial base and know-how.

Technology—The Russians suffer "from the European mania to look things up." Even at institutes gender some only a few miles apart, a scientist in one place cannot easily enter one, but not the other. There appears to be less free exchange of ideas and information among their scientists.

Manpower — War-time losses of millions of men were a severe drain, in human resources for science and other cultural endeavors.

Disease control—Basic health care services are better appraised and distributed, several American specialists felt, and the Soviets also possess easier machinery for basic epidemiologic research into causes and cures of diseases.

SOVIET STRENGTHS

Soviet scientific research has its strengths, too:

"Theoreticians are building more new institutes, "with a tremendous investment going into research."

They have an impressive corps of students and young scientists in numerous fields.

Medical research is quickening, and "in 10 years they may be more advanced as we are."

The Soviet challenge is strong, and apparently still growing.

Halifax, Victoria Hardest Hit if Nation Disarms

By JACK PICKETTS

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Halifax and Victoria are likely to be most seriously affected by the problem of people having to move elsewhere in the event of disarmament, a University of British Columbia professor said Sunday.

Dr. Gideon Rosenbluth was delivering a paper on the problems of regional and occupational mobility in the event of disarmament to the Canadian Political Science Association's conference on statistics.

Other towns, including Trenton, Ont., had high proportions of their labor forces in defence-sensitive industries, but the number of people involved was not at the same magnitude.

Dr. Rosenbluth said if defence expenditures are replaced by other expenditures from public or private sources, both business and labor will face problems of mobility.

"Members of the armed forces, some civil servants and some employees of private firms will have to find a new employer in a different industry. In many cases they will have to change the type of work they do and learn new skills" in order to

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

I do not know a more beautiful sight on a warm summer day than a flotilla of yachts heeling to gentle breezes with white wings bowing a salute to landlubbers.

It is a picture of symmetrical beauty, the proportionate parts moving in lithe easy grace depending on the vagaries of the wind.

The picturesqueness of such a scene is never more sharply focussed than in the annual sail-past, the inaugural summer feature of the majority of yacht clubs of the country.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will "stage" such a nautical extravaganza "live" and in natural color here next Saturday afternoon.

Years ago when this current landlubber was a crew member of the yawl "Vagrant" of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron of Halifax, the annual sail-past or inspection "parades" were things of sheer white-winged beauty.

The RNSYS boasted craft from 70-foot schooners (Little Bluenoses) down to bobbing dinghy types. In sailing order the fleet rode past the commodore's barge off Point Pleasant Park. It resembled a chain of stately swans drifting gracefully before an impetuous cuddle of cygnets.

Here on Saturday some thirty-five sailing craft and fifteen power boats will sail past Commodore Orland Pinkston and party on the official barge "Pink Lady," and on what is hoped will be the sun-sparkled waters of the immediate bay and harbor.

At four o'clock after assembling in the bay area the craft will proceed in single file past the official yacht anchored some 150 yards off the Victoria Park southern point.

The flotilla will be led by Vice-Commodore Ian Merck heading the leadboats. Next will come the centre-boarder led by Past Commodore Freeman Burrows, the power craft led by Past Commodore Ernie Colbourne bringing up the rear.

Sailing craft will salute by lufting their jibs as they come abreast of the commodore's barge. Power craft will dip their ensigns. Crews will add a navy touch by standing to attention.

Commodore Pinkston informs me that members who do not own boats and wish to take part in the sail-past, should contact Rear Commodore Harold Craig, who will arrange for crew positions on participating craft.

If it is one of those "rare days in June" and not one productive of "wet sheets and flowing seas" the sail-past will be a picture well worth seeing by those who do not go down to the bay in boats.

The event which officially opens the yachting season here will be followed by Commodore Pinkston's reception and a buffet dinner at 6.30.

And speaking of yachting, the club's junior sailing program's dates of instruction are from July 1 to August 27. Boys and girls from 12 to 16 years who can swim 300 yards are eligible for the course supervised by the directors and under the instruction of Jack Premsler, Bryant Yealland and Shawn Boyle.

GARDEN FETE

The Quinte Figure Skating Club is presenting its annual colorful Dessert and Coffee Party Wednesday evening starting 8.30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percival Lawns of Dr. and Mrs. Don Scott, 158 Dufferin Ave.

Dr. and Mrs. Scott proved perfect host and hostess at last year's inaugural party at their home and club officials anticipate a large attendance Wednesday evening.

A novel feature of the Dessert and Coffee Parties sees the gentlemen in "sporting roles," while club ladies look after the dessert. There are fun and games for the children as well. Drop around, it's a lot of chatty fun.

Went To 39th Hole

Clark Wins British Open

GANTON, England (CP) — Gordon Clark, a 29 - year - old Englishman who plays golf only about twice a week, won the British Amateur golf championship Saturday with a birdie on the 39th hole in the longest final round in the championship's history.

Clark edged out Michael Lunt, also of England, the defending champion and British Walker Cup player, with a six-foot putt.

The previous longest final was played in 1912. In that game, John Ball defeated Abe Mitchell, both of England, at the 38th hole. The full round is normally played over 36 holes.

Clark has only one other golfing credit—runner-up in English championship in 1961.

When the pair reached the 34th hole, Lunt, a 29-year-old textile executive, was two up. He hooked into the gorse on the 34th and three - putted on the 36th, allowing Clark to square the match and force it into extra rounds.

They halved the 37th and 38th holes, and on the deciding 39th both men got down the 385-yard fairway in two—Clark short in front of the green and Lunt short to the left.

Lunt chipped short of the hole and Clark chipped passed it. That left both players with six foot putts. Lunt missed.

Yanks Sweep 5-Game Chisox Series

By MURRAY CHASE
Associated Press Sports Writer

"We have been going good, and we are going to get better," said manager Al Lopez of Chicago White Sox shortly before his American League leaders started a five-game series with New York Yankees.

The White Sox now are in second place.

The Yankees took care of that, taking just 90 hours for a sweep of the series. They completed the annihilation Sunday, taking a doubleheader 8-3 and 4-3 in 10 innings.

The double loss coupled with Baltimore's two victories over Boston Red Sox put the Orioles on top, one game and 10 percentage points ahead of the White Sox, who have dropped six straight.

The third - place Yankees moved four percentage points behind Chicago, holding a seven game winning streak, longest in the majors this season.

Chicago managed only 28 hits in the series and scored only 10 runs.

Another highlight of the five-doubleheader day was the 30 home runs that were hit in the league. The total for the major league record set June 10, 1962.

TWINS HAMMER SENATORS

The power - laden Minnesota Twins led the league with their 8-3 and 9-3 victories over Washington Senators. The Orioles clobbered the Red Sox 5-0 and 8-1, Kansas City Athletics edged Cleveland Indians 6-5 in 10 innings and the Detroit Tigers surpassed by Los Angeles 6-5 and 8-4.

In games Saturday, New York dumped Chicago 6-3 while Baltimore took a 6-3 lacing from Boston, Detroit beat Los Angeles 8-5, Washington defeated Minnesota 4-2 and Kansas City beat Cleveland 5-4.

Singles by Elston Howard and Joe Pepitone and Ron Hansen's error scored one Yankee run while Bobby Richardson's sacrifice fly took care of the other.

Pepitone singled home Archie Moore with the winning run. Dave Nicholson clouted a three-run homer for Chicago in the sixth.

Juan Pizarro suffered his third loss in 10 decisions in the opener. Howard and Phil Linz rocked him for two-run homers in the second. Linz added a solo homer in the eighth.

Baltimore moved into first place behind the five-hit pitching of Chuck Estrada and Dick Hall in the nightcap. Estrada won his first game since May 31, 1963. Jerry Adair drove in two runs for the Orioles, giving him five for the day.

Brooks Robinson hit a home run, a triple and two singles while Luis Aparicio collected a triple and three singles and stole three bases in the opener.

HITS THREE HOMERS

Harmon Killebrew pounded out three homers for Minnesota, giving him 28 for the season. His hit two in the first game while Bob Allison and Zoilo Versalles added one each. Versalles also homered with two aboard for the Senators.

Minnesota also got four homers in nightcap, including Allison's 18th. The Twins' Johnny Goryl was through start of the game in the sixth after charging and punching pitcher Jim Duckworth, who threw him a pitch. Duckworth was fined $50.

Home runs decided both for the games won by Kansas Athletics and the Indians. Jim Gentile who previously knocked in three runs, connected in the first inning of the opener while Dick Green hammered a two - run homer in the seventh in the second-game triumph.

John Romano also homered in the sixth for Cleveland.

The Tigers won the second game on Don Demeter's two-run double in the four-run seventh. Dick McAuliffe's eighth-inning homer won the opener.

Jimmy Piersall, Bobby Knoop and Joe Adcock homered for the Angels in the first game.

Ajax Hands Joyces 1st Defeat

By PETER CARVER

Joyce Seniors dropped their first decision of the season yesterday afternoon in Lakeshore baseball action in Ajax. Three bad innings and one pitcher cost them a 12-7 verdict at the hands of a free-swinging Ajax squad.

Gord Vaughn made his second start in as many games and when Ajax got to him, coach Gord St. Louis was forced to take the mound and finish up.

Joyce's next start will be this Wednesday night when they meet Brockville at the Fairgrounds. Their record to date is two victories against one loss.

Belleville jumped into the lead in the third inning when recruit Cliff McGrimmon got on board by error. Two ground outs and an Ajax infield miscue scored both.

The winners got to Vaughn in the fourth when Reg Daze led off with a line shot bouna run over the left field fence. An error, a double, a single and Tripp's three-bagger hit plated four runs and Ajax led 4-1 after four. Belleville closed the gap to one run in the fifth as McGrimmon walked and scored when Doug Dafoe poled a long home run into deep left centre.

Both teams played good defensive ball until the seventh when Ajax exploded and shelled Vaughn. Four hits, a walk and a sleck defensive effort allowed Ajax to salt the game away with a five-run splurge.

St. Louis allowed only five hits and three runs during his one inning stint when the hitting Ajax Merchants iced their cake. Belleville rallied in their last time at bat for four runs to take a bit of the sting out of the defeat. Follwell and Hurst opened with walks. Soulis and Dafoe filed out. St. Louis scored Follwell with a base hit and Hurst came home when McGrimmon singled. Mavety drove in the final two runs with a sharp single. Follwell filed out to centre to end the game.

Mack Rowland held Joyces to a mere five hits. His control was spotty as he allowed nine bases on balls while blowing third strikes by eight.

Vaughn suffered the loss. In seven innings he was touched for ten hits and nine runs while walking one and striking out the same number.

Jim Breckenridge led the Ajax hit spree with a perfect four for four effort. Daze had three hits including his circuit clout. Tripp with a triple and a single, Marshall, Rowland, Tedlock, Bret, Vaughn and Rennick rounded out the attack.

Doug Dafe with a homer and Diffty Follwell with a double had the only Belleville extra base hits. Mavety, McGrimmon and St. Louis had the other safeties.

Belleville assistant coach Court Brailey suffered a broken nose in the third inning when

Two Five-Hitters

Lombanks Blank Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Reporter

TWEED — Shutout twice already this season on their home diamond, Tweed Lombanks turned the tables here yesterday, blanking Ellis Juniors 2-0 in a 9 and 0 softball tilt postponed two weeks ago.

The win boosted Wally Moffatt's crew into a tie with the Juniors, four points back of Trudeaus and Trenton. Trudeaus visit the Lombanks here tonight in a regular scheduled tilt at 6:45.

Tweed made the most of Junior misplays for a 2-0 lead in the first frame before a fair-sized crowd. They added an insurance marker in the fifth and left the bases loaded on three occasions.

Ellis had their opportunities, on five hits and an error, and missed their best chance when Malloy led off with a single in the fifth. Blaine Healey struck out the next two men before an error by Moon's bunt put a second man on. Malloy was held at third, however, and Muirhead's long blast was caught in left to end the threat.

Healey pitched the distance for the victory and was tough in the clutches. He struck out nine, walked none and hit one batter.

Bobby Ethier went the route for the losers, also allowing five hits, two of them scratches. He fanned four but issued five free passes and hit one.

A lead-off walk, a bad throw on an attempted force at second and Gore's bunt that went for a base hit loaded the sacks in the Tweed first. One run scored when the ball was thrown into home on a forces play and Ethier's second walk of the inning forced in another. Moon was spiked as Merow scored the first run.

Gray doubled down the left field line, advanced as Morton grounded out and scored on Dick Graham's sacrifice bunt in the fifth.

Eldon Gray paced the Lombank hitters, slamming a double, a single that almost knocked Bob Boyle out of the game, and also collected an infield scratch. Bert Sherry and Gary Orr added singles.

Stu Malloy rapped a triple and double for Ellis Juniors and Stu Muirhead also doubled. Bob Boyle and Carl Boomhower contributed singles.

Ellis Juniors — Moon c, Muirhead cf, Boyle lb, Gardiner ss, Boomhower 2b, Ethier p, Malloy 3b, McFarlane rf, ReiQuay lf, L. Lewis rf.

Tweed — Carleton cf, Merrow c, Gorr lf, Gray 3b, Morton ss, Graham rf, Sherry 2b, Cotton 1b, Healey p.

Minnesota Twins would like a chance on Dean, the controversial Angel, but are reluctant to break up their power trust.

The Twins already have made one offer for Dean Chance of Los Angeles Angels, a 23-year-old right hander who has had harsh words with the Angels' front office. But the Twins were unwilling "to meet the asking price—slugger Bob Allison.

Whether the fourth - place Twins would continue to pursue Chance or try to make a deal for pitching help elsewhere was the No. 1 question today with only hours remaining before the major league trading deadline was reached at midnight.

Besides the Twins, other teams have been in the trade market recently. Philadelphia Phillies made an offer to New York Mets for pitcher Al Jackson, and New York Yankees have tried to deal with Boston for pitcher Bill Monbouquette.

The Phillies approached the Mets, offering starter Art Mahaffey and reliever Jack Baldschun for Jackson. They also offered starter Ray Culp even-up. The Yankees were trying to pry Monbouquette loose with a package that included pitcher Ralph Terry and catcher - outfielder Johnny Blanchard.

Over the weekend, Cincinnati Reds sent veteran outfielder Bob Skinner to St. Louis Cardinals for minor league catcher Jim Saul and cash.

Clark Wins Belgian Grand Prix

FRANCORCHAMPS, Belgium (AP) — Jimmy Clark of Scotland the world driving champion, won the Grand Prix of Belgium auto race for the third straight time Sunday after Dan Gurney and Graham Hill suffered mechanical troubles almost within sight of the finish.

Clark, driving a Lotus-Climax, had been running in third place while Gurney, the Costa Mesa, Calif driver who had been setter all kinds of records in his Climax-powered Brabham, took a long lead.

But with two laps to go, Gurney made an unexpected pit stop and Britain's Hill shot into the lead. Then Hill's BRM broke down and Clark went on to win.

Bruce McLaren of New Zealand, driving a Cooper, took second place and Australia's Jack Brabham, driving his own Brabham - Climax, finished third.

Farrell 10-Game Winner

Seven In Row

By MIKE RATHEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Farrell pitches with a gun at his back. The gun's name is Nellie Fox.

Farrell, who figures the scrappy Fox is the latest in a long line of attacking pitching arsenal, became the first 10-game winner in the major leagues Sunday night as he scattered eight hits in Houston Colts' 4-1 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals.

A converted reliever acquired from Los Angeles Dodgers for $125,000 in the National League expansion draft, Farrell is in his third and most productive season as a starter. And that's where Fox, acquired from Chicago White Sox, enters the picture.

"He keeps me bearing down", says the 30 - year - old righthander. "He is always on my back."

Farrell had a 10-20 record for the Colts in 1962 and was 14-13 last year. But with the helpful intimidation of the little second baseman he has reached his first plateau en route to a 20-victory season with the best record in the majors.

SEVENTH STRAIGHT

Farrell's latest triumph was his seventh in a row and brought his record to an eye-opening 10-1. It also extended the Cardinals' skid to four straight and 18 out of 24.

The league-leading Philadelphia Phillies swept a doubleheader from New York Mets 9-5 and 4-3, boosting their lead over second-place Atlanta Braves to one-half game. The Giants rode homers by Orlando Cepeda and Jim Hart to an 8-3 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

Elsewhere in the NL, Milwaukee Braves swept a double header from the Dodgers by identical 2-1 scores and Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 5-2. The second game of the Cubs-Pirates doubleheader was rained out.

Saturday, the Phillies hammered the Mets 8-3 while Pittsburgh bombed Chicago 10-7, Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 3-2, San Francisco downed Milwaukee 6-4 and Cincinnati battered Houston, 6-1.

Farrell allowed the Cardinals' only run in the sixth when Bill White tripled and Ken Boyer singled. Al Spanger provided the runs Farrell needed with two-run single in the last cupling a three-run fifth inning that put il away against Bob Gibson.

John Briggs, starting his first major league game, produced the Riverside Drive Phillies in the opener. Briggs singled twice, slammed a double, drove in two runs and scored twice, riding home on Richie Allen's 15th homer in the fourth.

John Callison took over the lead in the night-cap, driving in three runs with a homer and a double. Art Mahaffey got the nightcap victory after Ray Culp won the opener.

Cepeda and Hart, who drove in three runs, hit consecutive homers against starter Jim O'Toole in the third inning. Willie Mays also figured heavily in the attack with a single, double, triple and three runs scored. Ron Herbel got the victory with an eight-hitter.

The Braves unloaded 11 extra - base hits — including the 350th homer of Hank Aaron's major league career—and became the first team in two years to sweep a doubleheader against the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

Aaron, Felipe Alou and Denis Menke homered in the opener while Tony Cloninger pitched a five - hitter. Gene Oliver slammed a bases-empty homer and a run-producing double in the nightcap.

Billy Cowan and Lou Brock slammed two-run homers as the Cubs whipped the Pirates. Dick Ellsworth, a bore-hit pitcher until the ninth when Gene Freese accounted for the Pittsburgh runs with a two-run homer.

ADVANCE TO FINAL

TURIN (AP) — Torino of Turin beat its city rival, Juventus, 3-1 Sunday night, advancing to the final with Roma of Rome in the Cup of Italy soccer competition. Halftime score was 1-0.

Suns Whip Leafs 5-3, Up Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jacksonville Suns left no doubts in the minds of Toronto Maple Leafs during a weekend International League series that they were going to make a strong run for the league championship.

In the five-game series, the Suns allowed the Leafs one victory and bounced them from the league leadership into second place, 3½ games behind Jacksonville.

The climax came Sunday when southpaw Gordy Richardson allowed the Leafs only six hits and set them down to a 5-3 loss. Saturday the teams split a twin bill as Ed Grba came up with a three-hit, 3-0 victory for Toronto before the Suns retaliated with a 2-0 shutout paced by Ron Cox's seventh homer of the season.

In other Sunday games Columbus Jets swept a twin bill from Rochester Red Wings, 9-4 and 4-3, after outlasting Red Wings through 17 innings Saturday for a 7-6 win.

REMOND WIN PAIR

In the same vein, Buffalo Bisons grabbed a pair from Atlanta Crackers Sunday, 6-0 and 4-1, and scored a 7-2 victory Saturday powered by Choo-Choo Coleman's four - run, pinch - hit homer in the sixth inning.

Richmond Virginians took both their Sunday games against Syracuse Chiefs, 2-0 and 11-8 after an eight-hit 3-0 shutout was handed them Saturday by Chiefs' Bruce Brubaker.

An error by first baseman Neil Chrisley was the difference between a shutout and a 5-3 victory for Richmond in the Sunday game at Jacksonville. The error came in the ninth inning and opened the door for three unearned runs by the Leafs.

WINS FOURTH LEG

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Overtrick, driven by John Pelgerson, won the fourth leg of the Harness Tracks of America Pace Saturday night at the Meadows in 1:59. Overtrick took the $10,300 - one-mile race by five lengths over Fir. Ike Byrd. Hi, Lo's Solar finished third. Overtrick has won both legs of the series that he has entered. Egyptian Pride, winner of the other two legs, did not race Saturday night because of a leg injury.

Vaulter Sets New World Mark

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Fred Hansen of Coerge, Tex., set a world record in the pole vault Saturday with a leap of 17 feet, two inches in a pre-Olympic invitational track meet.

Hansen had broken John Pennel's pending mark of 17¾ with a 17-1 leap just a week ago in the U.S. Track and Field Federation district championships at Houston, Tex.

Pennel, of Miami, Fla., pressed Hansen all the way, finally dropping out at 17-3 because of a bad fall on his second try.

Pennel was taken to hospital for observation after injuring his back in the spill. Pennel holds the record at 18-10¾.

NAMED TO HALL

CHICAGO (AP) — Wallace (Bud) Werner, late American skiing great from Steamboat Springs, Colo., and two former ski stars were named Saturday to the United States Ski Association's Hall of Fame at Ishpeming, Mich. Werner was killed April 13 by a snow slide while making a movie in Switzerland. Also named to the hall were Roy Mikkelsen of Auburn, Calif., national champion in 1933 and 1935, and Rolf Monsen of San Francisco, three-time Olympic squad member.

Harness Meet Attracts Crowd

Dash Racing Is Success

Split heats, fuzzy payoffs and a good crowd made the race meet held at the fairgrounds on Saturday night a success. There have only been three meets run since the first of the season but each night the crowd has been larger, the betting heavier and the enthusiasm greater and before the year is finished harness racing will be a popular sport in the district.

An innovation on Saturday night of dash-racing was approved by the gathering of horse fans. The first heat of the race was a dash of three-quarters of a mile with the second heat a full distance. This gave the speed horses to get a piece of the change that is offered in purses and makes the picking of winners a little harder. There was plenty of action for the daily double and the quinella betting in the eighteen on the sixth race every combination except two were sold and one of those would would have netted the bettor more than $300. As it was the payoff was $42.90, a nice sum of money for picking the first two horses in a race regardless of finish.

Atom Bellas, owned and driven by Don Heath of Stirling was the only straight-heat winner at the meet. Both her trips were a mile distance and the little pacer was much the best of her field. In the second race, Joan Way was the best in the dash with Lilla Jes Grattan coming from far back to be second after being sixth in the first trip. Ace Hanover and Todd Byrd divided first and second money in the third race, the Brighton horse winning the first trip and the Kingston pacer the second heat.

In the Free-For-All Lint, who won a week ago and paced the fastest mile of the season, again paced a mile in 2.11 2/5 after losing fourth in the dash race. Chief opposition came from Hal's Penne, owned and driven by Bernard Hunt. Mr. Hunt has this pacer in splendid condition and will be tough to beat in any competition. In the sixth heat the hunter came in the wire for a team and a photo finish was necessary to declare the winner.

'Later Mel' Easily Wins Rich Filly Race

TORONTO (CP) — The royal week of racing is launched at Woodbine Race Track where two trial runs for the $50th running of the Queen's Plate occupy top attention this afternoon and where a filly called Later Mel took the honors Saturday before 17,283 spectators.

Later Mel won the Canadian Oaks Stakes, the richest filly race in Canada as handily, she easily staked a claim to start in the Plate, Canada's big three-yearold race of the season.

Guided by Avelino Gomez, the filly disposed of 12 others in the $36,640 Canadian Oaks by a margin of nearly fourlengths.

The win was fourth in six starts this season and the purse boosted her 1954 earnings to more than $65,000. The winner's share Saturday was $36,140.

Northern Dancer, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness and then third in the Belmont Stakes so he failed to wrap up the triple crown, returns to action Saturday as the short-priced favorite in the $20,000-added Queen's Plate.

FIRST AT HOME

The Canadian-bred son of Nearctic - Natalma, from E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm of Toronto, will be performing before the home folks for the first time since he started a successful invasion of the United States late in June.

The 1¼ miles of the Queen's Plate figures to be more to the liking of the Dancehall than the 1¼ miles of the Belmont Stakes. He won the 1¼ miles of the Kentucky Derby by a neck and the 1 3-16 miles of the Preakness by 3¼ lengths.

Opposition for Northern Dancer are expected to come from two divisions of the 1 1-16 miles of the $71,600 total today in the first division in Grand Garven, the only Canadian-bred horse ever to beat the favorite. That was last year before Northern Dancer invaded the United States.

Grand Garven, an unusually large horse, tried to qualify for the Kentucky Derby but was badly in the Derby Trial and was shipped back to Canada.

Bill Hartack again will be astride Northern Dancer in the Queen's Plate. His last four mounts Saturday at Woodbine, including Nashua in the Canadian Oaks, led Bostonian to get the winner's circle.

Television Settling Down To Sleepy, Summery Pace

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, as if resting up for more than three months of the year, the U.S. political scene, has settled down to a sleepy, summery pace.

This reviewer was confronted with an hour or so to kill Sunday after NBC's Meet the Press when Senator Barry Goldwater's campaign manager neatly floored Joseph Alsop and the U.S. networks offered only Mr. Ed, Lassie and The Bill Dana Show, and there's nothing more dreary than seeing a comedy for a second time when it hasn't it was only mildly diverting.

Then I found myself watching a 14-year-old movie — Jimmy Cagney in a gangster part. If critics of television are looking for some clue as to why they more likely to be found in reruns of old movies than in recently-made TV series.

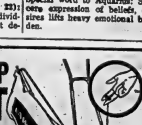
The Tracks

NEW YORK (CP-AP)—Miss Cavandish closed with a mighty stretch run for a three-length triumph in the $120,975 Coaching Club American Oaks at Aqueduct Saturday and took the third leg of New York state's triple crown for three-year-old fillies.

Under Howard Grant's whip, the daughter of Cavan, the 1962 Belmont Stakes winner, caught Castle Forbes an eighth of a mile from the wire of the 1¼-mile race and pulled away to win.

Castle Forbes, winner of the Acorn, first leg in New York's triple crown, hung on for second. She was 1½ lengths ahead of Scarse, winner of the Mother Goose, second leg of the three races.



Miss Cavandish, carrying the silks of H. S. Nichols, earned $78,543.75 in the richest American Oaks and paid $5.70, $4.40 and $4.40 as the second choice. Castle Forbes returned $3.80 and $4.30 and Scarse paid $4.00 to show.

Youth Road Deaths Alarming Australians

MELBOURNE (CP)—Australian police and road safety authorities are becoming increasingly alarmed at the rise in the highway death rate among young people.

So far this year 1,104 persons have died on Australian roads, and at least 345 of them, one in every five, were under 21 years of age.

But fewer than 10 per cent of drivers in Australia are under 21. In most states 18 is the minimum age at which a person may hold a driver's licence.

Police are even more worried by the fact that drivers under 21 caused 16 per cent of the accidents last year in which people were killed or injured.

Statistics show young girl drivers are less accident prone than boys.

One step aimed at reducing the carnage among young people in the state of Victoria is legislation to begin nearly providing for a three-year probationary period for new drivers.

Among causes blamed by authorities for young-driver accidents are: Inexperience, excessive speed, inattentive driving and breaches of traffic laws.

FUTURE CONSTRUCTION

VANCOUVER (CP) — Freeway construction in metropolitan Vancouver will cost about $300,000,000 in the next 20 years, J. A. C. Andrews told a business seminar. Mr. Andrews designed the new Port Mann Freeway through suburban Burnaby.

Ludwig Erhard Arrives Home

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany returned to Bonn Sunday after official visits to Canada and the United States.

He said on arrival at the airport he is convinced that the United States and Canada would come to West Germany's aid in case of emergency.

"They are our real friends who will support us whenever policy and developments make this possible," the chancellor said.

German reunification is more than an item of memory in both countries, he added. It is considered a real problem.

Scouting activities

The 20th Belleville Cubs and Scouts recently took part in special ceremonies.

The Cubs held a special meeting on Tuesday evening, May 26. In charge of the ceremony was Akela Mr. Claude Hennessy, assisted by Elsie Akeen Howard and Rikki, Miss Linda Bradford.

Two Cubmes, Dennis Veech, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Flesch of R.R. 4, Belleville, and Robert Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson of 59 Elisabeth Crescent, Belleville, were invested as Cubs.

Some of the Artillery members, including the president, Mrs. Margaret Nickerson, were present for this occasion.

Another special event was a campfire for the 20th Group on the grounds behind Union Hall on Wednesday evening, May 27. Akela Mr. Claude Hennessy and Scoutmaster Mr. Norm Gerow were in charge of a going-up ceremony in which two star Cub Eric Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson, became a Scout. Some of the parents were present for this ceremony. The evening concluded with the group sitting around the campfire for hot dogs and soft drinks.

Northern Japan Port Is Numbed By Giant Quake

Earth Tremors Worst In Over Forty Years

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—A giant earthquake set off fires and shattered buildings today in the important industrial - commercial city of Niigata in northern Japan. Property damage was estimated in the millions. Loss of life in the city was not fully determined, but for the entire stricken area it was given as 26 dead and 108 injured.

The quake—strongest in Japan since the catastrophic quake of 1923 wiped out Tokyo and Yokohama—hit a vast area of the main Japanese island of Honshu at 1:01 p.m. (12:01 a.m. EDT) today.

Sending a massive ground wave through 10 northern prefectures (states) with a total population of 15,000,000, it left behind a trail of wrecked and suffering, flaming industrial installations, broken homes, highways, railroads and costly fisheries in the once-placid countryside.

Word from Niigata remained fragmentary tonight. But an emergency telecast from the city the stricken showed huge fires still ablaze, a destroyed bridge and an eight-story railway hospital sitting on its shattered foundation.

NEAR EXPLOSIONS

Explosions could be heard in the background as the pictures flashed on screens in Tokyo.

Shortage of water made it impossible to fight flames from burning oil tanks. There was fear that oil spreading over the waterfront and lowland areas might ignite.

Besides Niigata the hardest hit cities were Murakami, Minabara, Mineyama, Toyosaka. Damage was not as heavy at Sakata, which was without gas water, electricity or not telegraph and telephone communications.

In the northern area the total of houses destroyed was listed at 771, with 625 others damaged, 136 slightly damaged and several hundred flooded at first flood level.

Five bridges were washed away, the railways were cut in 36 places and highways damaged at 24 places.

The training centre for nearly all of Japan's domestic population, Niigata is on the sea of Japan 160 miles northwest of Tokyo and is a chief port for trade with the Soviet Union.

EARTHQUAKE SCALE

The quake registered a force of 5 on Japan's 7 - maximum scale in the northern cities of Niigata, Sendai and Sakata. But by a freak of nature it did little damage in Sendai and Sakata.

The U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey in Washington said the reading was 7.25 on the Richter

Renewed Violence Feared

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters) — Police braced for renewed violence today in this troubled British colony following a slashing attack on Britain by Premier Cheddi Jagan.

Jagan accused the British government Monday of carrying out "a carefully laid scheme to remove my government from office and to destroy the People's Progressive Party."

British Governor Sir Richard Luyt assumed full powers here Saturday and was expected to appoint a tribunal to hear appeals from 31 politicians and union officials arrested during the weekend.

The latest arrest was made Monday when a leading supporter of Jagan's party surrendered to police and was flown up the River Essequibo to join the other arrested persons at the Mazaruni penal settlement, 80 miles from here in the interior.

He was Merrills Annibourne, general secretary of the Progressive Youth Organization.

DEFENDS ACTION

Luyt defended his action, saying in a nationwide broadcast Saturday he intended to take strong steps against those who preached or promoted violence like those guilty of "depraved deeds" during the last four months of racial killings in which at least 26 persons have been killed and a hundred wounded.

British Guiana's troubles resulted from a 17-week union recognition strike in the sugar industry.

Unrest in the sugar industry has led to the calling of a state of emergency three times in the last three years, the last on May 22.

Meanwhile, an East Indian working in rice fields was reported beaten to death by masked men in an outbreak of violence on the west bank of the Demerara River.

Five Negroes were arrested in the same area after children were beaten and an East Indian arrested.

The premier said the governmental assumption of full powers made the suspension of British Guiana's constitution almost complete.

"Efforts by the colonial office to withstand the situation can only conceal the facts," Jagan said.

MAKES CHARGES

He charged the detention of leaders of the government and opposition party activists was part of "a series of criminal attempts to wreck the governing party and remove it from office."

Forbes Burnham, leader of the United Force (second opposition party) has been detained.

The arrest of four persons from his party "will effectively paralyze the work of legislation and other measures," he said.

Prominent among those arrested was Jagan's deputy premier, Brindley Benn.

WAITED FOR HELP — Mrs. Margaret Costa kneels alongside her injured husband, Edward, on Broadway near 49th street in New York after he and Michael Massa, left, were beaten by eight Negroes while dozens of strollers just watched. One bystander called police but the attackers fled before officers arrived. Massa and Costa had knocked down two Negroes who had put their hands on Mrs. Costa and Mrs. Massa two blocks up Broadway. The pair got Brooklyn couples down Broadway. (AP Wirephoto)

Debate Buffeted By Powerful Winds Of Oratory

No Plebiscite on Flag Says Prime Minister

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's proposed maple leaf flag finally reached the House of Commons Monday and, as predicted, it was buffeted from both sides by powerful winds of oratory.

"It will not be the flag of a person or province, tendered Prime Minister Pearson, who clenched fist pounding emphasis into his words. "It will be the flag of the people of Canada by the decision of their representatives in Parliament."

"If the government had calculated a means whereby division could be secured in this nation, they could not have gone about it in a more effective manner," said Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, as most of his Conservative followers pounded approval on their desks.

Above them, the galleries were jammed with spectators, many of whom stood throughout in the clammy humidity to listen to the leaders open the flag debate. Some had waited for hours to get in; hundreds were turned away.

Among things they heard during the first day was the splitting of the resolution into two parts by Speaker Alan Macnaughton so the question of a new flag will be dealt with separately from the authorization of the Red Ensign Jack as a symbol of Canada's membership in the Commonwealth.

They also listened to Prime Minister Pearson reject the idea of a plebiscite or a federal-provincial conference on the flag; and Mr. Diefenbaker propose an amendment to the resolution that, if accepted, would require a plebiscite to be held.

The flag debate continues today.

On the question of confidence in the government, Mr. Pearson said: "If the government resolution is defeated, then on a matter of such major importance the government has obviously lost the confidence of Parliament."

From Mr. Diefenbaker came this comment: "It is wrong to force a flag on the people of Canada and secure from them their allegiance to a symbol to some ridicule as nationalism—the patriotism of men and women who love their country."

The flag, said Mr. Pearson, would unite Canadians and help alter the sense of national unity. "I say to him . . ." said Mr. Diefenbaker, "he has created in this nation cleavages, fissures and separations that more than a generation of people to come will remember."

For 70 minutes the prime minister lambasted Monday night as "too late" and the champion of "comparative theories" by the young parliamentarian who formed about half the audience of 120.

They rejected cross - Canada bilingualism and biculturalism outright and called instead for "coexistence" of two autonomous groups in Canada.

This implied that French would become the only official languages in Quebec and English the only official language in the rest of the country. Canada would be divided into two "associate states" which would be self - governing but joined in a common market.

Speakers called for an end to use of the English language in Quebec labor-management relations and English instruction in the province's schools.

Montreal Dockers Quit Jobs

MONTREAL (CP)—A mass meeting of 1,500 striking Montreal longshoremen is scheduled for today to hear results of emergency negotiations aimed at ending their walkout which tied up Montreal harbor Monday.

Judge Jean Lippe met Monday night with officials of the Montreal International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) locals in an effort to settle a pension dispute which led to the walkout.

Representatives of the shipping Federation of Canada, which participates in the pension fund administration, turned down an invitation to attend the talks on the grounds that the union should return to work before any further negotiations.

No statements were issued after the meeting in Judge Lippe's office but it was reported that he persuaded the pension fund administrators to stall implementation of changes in the plan which triggered the walkout.

The longshoremen's strike brought shipping operations in Montreal harbor to a virtual standstill, leaving some 86 ships idle in their berths although the walkout did not affect the other major St. Lawrence River ports.

ANNOUNCED INCREASE

The eight-man pension board, made up of four Shipping Federation and four ILA delegates, sent out a circular last week saying pensions would be raised but had been increased to $56 a month from $50 at the age of 65.

This aroused opposition among the union members. Their nine-day strike last October was settled with the understanding that Judge Lippe would make an official inquiry into the state of the welfare and pension funds.

The union members protested the pension changes had been made without consulting the membership and without waiting for Judge Lippe's report.

Labor Minister MacEachen told the Commons Monday that Judge Lippe is trying to deliver an interim report on the pension dispute and that the report could be the basis for resuming work.

Judge Lippe handled the pension question in his position as federal industrial inquiry commissioner.

Court Order Ends Strike In One Day

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Trains were rolling again today as court orders ended a one-day strike against six mid-continent railroads.

An estimated 5,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen walked out early Monday, stopping traffic and freight-handling on the lines.

Railway lawyers quickly obtained temporary restraining orders in federal district courts, banning strikes and picketing.

Union officials said the men were returning to work as the orders were served, but one official said the strike would resume when the restraining orders expire.

Injunction hearings are set for late this week and next week.

The stoppage, affected Tennessee, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana and Colorado.

The railways are the Missouri Pacific, Missouri - Kansas - Texas (Katy), Texas and Pacific, the Texas and Louisiana lines, the Southern Pacific, the Texas - Mexican Railway, and the St. Louis - San Francisco Railway.

Louis E. Coral of Cleveland, public relations director for the union, said the strike was called to "clear up a lot of local conditions that have existed for years — rules, work conditions, everything."

Babies Bring as Much as $7,500 In U. S. Black Market, Probe Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Senate subcommittee opened hearings today on the sale of infants for adoption and heard testimony that children are sold for as high as $7,500 on a baby black market.

Chairman Thomas J. Dodd (Dem. Conn.), chairman of the subcommittee to investigate juvenile delinquency, began the hearings with a statement that the clandestine trade in babies, both born and from foreign countries, has created legal, religious and health problems.

Mrs. Oettinger recited a host of facts, figures and cases to illustrate the need for the legislation which was introduced a year ago by the late senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.).

She said the problem of black-market placement of children centres on the unmarried mothers and their infants. In 1962, she said, "90 per cent of the children adopted by a non-relative were born out of wedlock."

St. Kitts Couple Charges OSD Neglected Health of Their Son

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines couple today asked Ontario Education Minister William Davis to investigate the medical records of their 15-year-old son who is not graduating from the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville because he attended for only two months this term.

"We have little hope of Bruce obtaining his graduation diploma but we want to establish that his absence from the school this year was caused by medical negligence at the school," said Gordon Fisher, the boy's father.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher had charged last April that medical facilities at the school were inadequate.

In a telegram to Mr. Davis today, the couple maintained Bruce's illness and subsequent absenteeism were caused by inadequate medical care facilities at the school.

They have been informed by the school that their son will not graduate with the rest of his class Wednesday.

Bruce was injured Sept. 10, 1962, while playing football and was in and out of Canadian Sanitarium for 15 days. He told his parents he saw the school's attending physician only twice during that time.

Mr. Fisher said he was not notified of his son's illness until the 15th day and received permission from the attending physician to bring him home. He was taken to St. Catharines General Hospital where the family physician discovered a bleeding duodenal ulcer.

The boy remained in hospital two weeks and was under the doctor's care for an additional three months.

When his health had not returned to normal in early April his parents withdrew him from the school along with their daughter, Marilyn, 17.

Mr. Fisher said there are two registered nurses and a doctor, who has a private practice in Belleville as well, to care for the school's 500 students ranging in age from five to 20 years.

At a similar school in Milton, Ont. — attended by another of the couple's children, David, 9, — there are two registered nurses, three supply nurses and one doctor for 163 students from five to 12 years of age, Mr.

Defence Minister In Cyprus

NICOSIA (CP) — The RCAF Yukon aircraft bringing Defence Minister Paul Hellyer of Canada to Cyprus landed safely here Monday night after making most of the 1,700-mile flight in darkness. France on three of its four engines.

The airport crash trucks and fire engines stood by as the turboprop plane, with its port inboard engine feathered, made a gentle landing at dusk.

Hellyer told reporters the only time he was in the least concerned during the 1,300 miles in which one engine was out of commission was during a brief thunderstorm along the way.

The Yukon could have been flown back to Marville but with the concurrence of the passengers—Hellyer and a dozen armed services officers and newspaper men—the crew decided to continue to Nicosia. They arrived 45 minutes behind schedule.

Canadian Firm Shipped Flags Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — State Secretary Lamontagne said Monday newly - manufactured Canadian flags — Eaglets were recently sent to the Northwest Territories by the federal public works department.

He was replying to Bert Leboe (SC—Okanagan Boundary), who asked whether boxes of cartons labelled "New Canadian Flag, U.S.A." were shipped to northern points.

Mr. Lamontagne said in a written answer that certain flags in question were in boxes in marked "Canadiana Textile Print" Tech Limited, Port Credit, Ont."

Queen Invests Three Men With Order of the Garter

WINDSOR, England (CP) — The Queen invested three men as knights companion of the Order of the Garter in a venerable ceremony at Windsor Castle Monday.

And for the first time in the 616-year history of the order of chivalry, a woman marched at the head of the procession.

Dr. Conrad Swan, born in Duncan, B.C., bears the title Rouge Dragon Pursuivant of Arms and, as the most recently appointed member of the Royal College of Arms, he carried and led the entourage through the historic pageantry.

The six-foot-tall former history lecturer wore a scarlet tabard or coat of velvet, black breeches and a Tudor cap embla zoned with a red rose.

The Queen buckled the jewelled garter around the knee of each of the knights and invested them with the other insignia of the order—riband, star, mantle and collar.

Field Marshal Sir Gerald Templer, former chief of the Imperial General Staff; Lord Alexander of Hillsborough Opposition leader in the Lords; and Viscount Cobham, former Governor-General of New Zealand, were admitted into the order begun by Edward III in August, 1349.

Dr. Swan, 36, came to England when he was 13 and then returned to Canada to take degrees at Assumption University, Windsor, Ont., and the University of Western Ontario at London, Ont. He lectured at Assumption from 1956 to 1959.

When he came back to England he applied for the job of pursuivant, or apprentice herald of the red dragon, a position created in 1485 by Henry VII.

His is a full-time occupation. With 12 other officials of arms to the Queen, he performs legal tasks for the royal household, oversees titles and arranges ceremonies for state occasions.

Stormy Finale for B and B Tour Seen in Making in Quebec City

QUEBEC (CP) — The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, winding up a cross-Canada tour of 23 cities, is expected to come face to face today with Quebec's angry young separatists and ultra-nationalists.

Scores of separatist and quasi - separatist students and young professional men showed up unexpectedly Monday night at the commission to present a minor preparatory session, turning it into a lively two-hour forum with strong separatist overtones.

The vocal young men are expected to return with more arguments for the main sessions this afternoon and evening when all 10 members of the commission will be present.

The commission, completing a three-month series of unprecedented informal meetings, was Any participant protested that the associate state plan would wipe out any distinct group the 1,200,000 French-Canadians living outside Quebec. He was shouted down by many in the audience.

Robert Marceau, a law student acting part in a lead-off panel discussion, called for a new constitution creating new institutions for Quebec to replace the Crown. He said the symbols of monarchy have no meaning for French-Canadians.

Mr. Marceau drew applause when he called for a provincial television and radio broadcasting system to replace the French network of the CBC.

Milton Sindelicks, a bilingual Dutch immigrant on the panel, said Quebec should require immigrants to learn French and integrate with the French-Canadian majority.

Dethroned Indian Princess Described as Being 'Used' by Whites Seeking More Control

MONTREAL (CP) — Dethroned Indian princess Kahn-Tineta Horn was described Monday as being "used" by a group of whites seeking control of Indian participation in Montreal's 1967 world's fair and the $2,000,000 Indian village.

Miss Horn said she didn't want the title princess, since "real Indian ladies didn't have princesses but Mr. Wuttunee had insisted on giving it to her last August.

Miss Horn said she was concerned with Mr. Wuttunee's "attacks on Christianity and his involvement in controversies such as about the flag and French-English relations."

She referred to him as "William X," and said he had sought help from the Black Muslims, U.S. Negro supremacy group.

Mr. Wuttunee was more interested in staging beauty contests and pageants than in dealing with the real issues facing North American Indians, she added.

She would like to see the council become a Parliament of the Indians. The memories of the past are all bad, but we have good dreams and I would like to see those dreams come true."

Fear of Death Way to Cure Alcoholics

CHICAGO (AP) — A Canadian researcher said Monday that instilling of fear of death is a promising way to cure alcoholism.

Dr. David Archibald, director of the Alcoholism and Narcotics Research Foundation of Canada said such a fear is given by administering a small portion of an experimental drug, scoline, with liquor into an alcoholic patient's veins.

The result is a temporary stoppage of breathing, he explained.

It creates terrible fear of death. It is a very deep fear which goes right into the subconscious."

The patient recovers his breathing in a minute but after this treatment patients associate alcohol and the inability to breathe and death, he continued.

Archibald's remarks were made at the opening session of a five - day meeting of the Canadian Institute of Alcohol Studies at Loyola University.

Alcoholism could be reduced greatly, he added, if drinkers of distiller spirits were encouraged to drink beer. Rarely do persons drink beer because it becomes alcoholics, Archibald said.

Beer drinking, he suggested, could be encouraged by lowering the price of beer and raising the price of hard liquor. Archibald called this "the best instrument or tool" for fighting alcoholism.

Police Officers Are Defended By Speaker

TORONTO (CP) — Ernest Leonard of Washington, field service director for the International Association of Chiefs of Police, says North American show too much tendency to forget the rights of citizens and devote their efforts to protecting the rights of offenders.

"Police officers have gone before had to face such a perplexing and frustrating situation as they confronted," Mr. Leonard told 45 northcentral region members of the association meeting here Monday.

Police are accused of brutality, harassment and incompetence, he said. The better they do their job, the more complaints are made against them.

"We don't make the laws. If the public doesn't like the laws, the public can change them."

Mr. Leonard said that although many criticisms had arisen from racial integration difficulties in the United States, the simple answer to these criticisms is that the police must control demonstrations.

He said that in one case a civil rights group withdrew its charges of speed-trapping and the use of unmarked cars for highway patrol when police problems had been explained.

HASNT ENFORCEMENT

Commissioner Allan Gill of the Ontario Provincial Police told delegates that although all the states of the U.S. and eight provinces in Canada are now speeders who are endangering the public, Ontario has no such law enforcement.

"I can't give you a very good reason why speeding is not an arrestable offence in Ontario," he said. He concluded, however, that a shortage of officers was part of the problem.

Ontario has 2,805 officers in uniform and a clerical staff of 550, in view of the move to a five-day week, a good many more men will be needed. Expert opinion is that Ontario needs 4,000 men in uniform.

Water enforcement, now under OPP jurisdiction, presents the most pressing problem, and Mr. Silk said that in order to put men on the lakes, he must take them off the highways.

He said that in some cases the OPP is giving free service to municipalities which should hire their own police force or at least pay for OPP operations.

Lieutenant - Governor Thet Rowe told the meeting he believed there is a growing respect for the quality and calibre of police officers as guardians of the rule of the law.

Chrysler Leases Property on North Front St.

North Front Street between Valleyview Crescent and 401 Highway is rapidly becoming an industrial area, still another auto firm representative having leased property along the street.

Today Donald J. Whalen Real Estate said that 190-frontage owned by the Belleville Livestock Sales had been leased to a Chrysler Motors representative.

While information is that the lot is scheduled to be used as a used car lot, there is also rumor that a building may be erected.

The Livestock Sales property is sold by Mr. Frost. Street has been used periodically for auctioning of used car sales.

But along the same street permanent quarters have now been established by four local dealers.

Trudeau Motors for several years has operated a used car lot on North Front Street and last week Elliott Motors officially opened their new garage and showroom along the same street.

Hedger Motors is currently building a garage and showroom, and also last week a new Ford dealership was opened on North Front Street.

Vedar's Garage also operates a dealership on North Front Street, while Northtown Motors operates a used car lot.

Citizen Offers Piece of Land For Garbage

TRENTON — In a letter delivered to council yesterday, "by hand," Mr. Charles James, one of the principles of Fraser-Glenburnie Investments Ltd., offered to make available to the town a piece of land along the waterfront on the Bay Quinte for garbage dumping purposes.

Mr. James who said he had been following the Stanley Heights gravel pit dispute in the newspapers, pointed out that the land he was offering was away from residential property and that with the prevailing winds blew off the land and out into the bay area.

As Mr. James did not indicate the land would become town property once it was filled with town garbage, council will have to come back, thanking him for his offer and asking him the buying price for the land, once it was filled.

INCREASE BUDGET

Trenton council voted last night to increase the police budget for this year by $6,000 to permit the department to buy two police cruisers.

The police commission has indicated in the past it would prefer to continue to rent the cars, but voted last week to buy cruisers, if council made money available.

COUNCILLOR HONORED

Veteran councillor Ross Burtt, who has served the town for 20 years, both as mayor and councillor, was honored last night by his fellow councillors, who named a proposed new housing development in the North Byron St. area, "Burttdale Heights."

Recently, council voted to name four streets in this development for four old Trenton families: the Corys, the Bleeckers, the Irelands and the Grahams.

CONSTABLE COMMENDED

Constable Frederick Nokes of the Trenton Police Department was commended in a resolution of council last night for his "heroic" action in jumping fully-clothed into the Bay of Quinte early Saturday morning, to pull a Belleville area man, Stanley William Potter, to safety after Mr. Potter had inadvertently driven his car off the government dock at the end of Albert St., behind the Legion Hall.

Constable Nokes pulled open the door of the submerged car and held the unconscious man's head above water until he could be pulled up onto the dock by Inspector Robert Haker of the Trenton Fire Department and Sgt. Russell Ring of the police department.

Potter has been charged with drunk driving and is free on bail, awaiting a court appearance.

Cut-Off Date For Dumping Under Debate

TRENTON — What happens when an irresistable force meets an immovable object?

Councillor Jennings and E. M. Parker Jr., representing Stanley Heights residents seated best on finding out the answer to the age-old conundrum at last night's meeting of town council.

Mr. Parker, cast in the role of the "irresistable force", was trying to wrest a promise from town council that garbage would not be dumped in the sub-division gravel pit, beyond March 31, 1965.

Councillor Gould was trying equally hard not to commit himself or other members of council on a cut-off date for the dumping.

Mr. Parker argued that since the Subdivision residents had only the promise of Mayor Bert Diamond that the pit would be filled only to the level of 378 feet above sea level, and Councillor Trenton, council has the final say, they had to effect, nothing, unless council fixed a cut-off date something in writing that the pit would not be filled to the brim, with the residents taking a year or so to do it.

Councillor Gould felt that the mayor's promise might not have been reached by the specified date and then the Trenton Public Utilities Commission or Trenton Hydro might want to use the pit unless it were filled to the required height.

At last night's argument resulted in council passing a resolution to the effect that: (1) the pit will not be filled above 368 feet with garbage; the east seven inches being soil; (2) there would be a covering of garbage in the pit; (3) all garbage dumping would cease on March 31, 1965 (a weeks' leeway) March 31, 1965.

Mr. Parker said ready of the residents would be satisfied with a cut-off date they could name to prospective buyers for their property.

Remove Citizen Blocking Road To Dump

TRENTON — In spite of the fact that Trenton town council and representatives of the Trenton Stanley Heights housing development have come to an agreement regarding dumping of garbage in a nearby gravel pit, one lone citizen resident is still fighting back.

Bright and early this morning a Stanley Heights resident blocked the only access road to the dump as he sat down in a camp chair and settled in for a move. Police were called and the seated resident, along with his camp chair, was forcibly removed from the roadway allowing trucks to proceed.

Jack Goldberg Replaces Allore On Commission

TRENTON — Jack Goldberg, a Rotarian and actively concerned with the John Howard Society locally, was last night appointed to the Trenton Community Gardens' Commission, to replace retiring chairman Robert Allore on the body. Daniel Senik was re-appointed chairman last week, when Mr. Allore's resignation was announced. Mr. Allore is moving to Montreal in July, in connection with his work.

Ross Brummell, an active member of Trenton Legion Branch 110, was appointed to the commission, to replace Councillor Duncan McDonald, who announced his retirement from the board last night. The councillor, a member of the commission for two years, said he was resigning because he felt council was laying itself open to criticism by having three appointees to the commission.

WRITES LETTER

Trenton council has received a letter from Mrs. Howard Tuckaberry, who claims that he would be "within his legal rights" to sue council and the Trenton Planning Board if a commercial enterprise is permitted in an area where he was refused permission to start up a store last year. The lot he intended to buy was sold by the town to a man who now shows signs of starting up a commercial enterprise, according to Mr. Tuckaberry.

"This comes under the Ontario Discriminatory Act," said Mr. Tuckaberry, in his letter to council. The letter was signed "fraternally yours."

Councillor Gould was told that council has no knowledge of the "man" referred to in his letter, setting up a commercial enterprise in the area in question.

ADAMS—In loving memory of our dear son, Colin James Adams who passed away June 16, 1962.

Through the smile may hide tears.
Deep in our hearts you still live,
Despite the passing of the years.

Confirms Reports Provider Not up to Specifications

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate Defence Minister Cardin confirmed Monday reports coming here and in Halifax for months that construction of the new naval supply ship, the Provider, didn't go according to plan—or the original financial estimates.

He informed Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) in the Commons that total cost of the ship—as it has been $16,800,000 The original announced price was $14,100,000.

Mr. Cardin also said current sea trials of the 22,000-ton Provider, biggest ship in the RCN, have determined that "some equipment was either deficient in performance or in need of some adjustment to provide for greater efficiency."

Because the Provider was still conducting trials, the total amount to be spent on "these deficiencies and adjustments" was not yet known "but it is expected that a proportion of such costs will be borne by the shipbuilder under the terms of the warranty agreement."

The builder was Davie Shipbuilding Limited of Lauzon Que.

ESTIMATE COST

Outside the Commons, authorities estimated the repair costs at $600,000.

Mr. Cardin also said the Provider is going to Newcastle-on-Tyne to pick up requirements for "certain items of equipment which will be paid for under the warranty by the supplier, Clarke Chapman of Newcastle.

There was no available estimate of the cost of these "items.

Outside the Commons, officials said the defective parts were hydraulic pumps which didn't come up to required tolerances.

One source said the regular RCN crew selected for the Provider has been waiting for weeks to take over the ship and that they will have to wait longer pending the ship's return from England and ports at Lauzon.

Mr. Cardin also informed Mr. Fisher that normal repairs to the aircraft carrier Bonaventure since 1957, have cost $6,754,978.

He said a $1,280,000 refit will be carried out on the carrier in August and that a $5,000,000 refit is planned for 1966.

FOUR WHEELS show on this sketch of the "Dorchester," first locomotive in Canada. Brigitte Abendahein of Belleville looks at the sketch as her uncle, Belleville artist and silk-screen printer Nick Mika, explains a point.

Sketches of Early Locomotives In Portfolio Printed by N. Mika

How many wheels has a locomotive? There are nearly as many answers to the question as there are sizes of locomotives, but to Nick Mika of Belleville the only answer means one of his sketches is authentic.

Mika started at the beginning of world by mass a series of sketches of ten famous Canadian locomotives, to be printed in a portfolio for the 125th year during Railway Week. And since the portfolio is expected to be sold mainly to railroad buffs the sketches had to be authentic. For the more recent locomotives, the accurate sketch was plain. The railroad, private individuals and libraries have countless accurate photographs and descriptions.

For the earlier models however, the sketches are sometimes vague and undependable. For accurate information, Mika had to go to museums and libraries in Montreal and Toronto.

And of the earliest Canadian locomotive, there are no pictures and there is no definitive description. There are earlier sketches, but in collection of all the early sketches of the Dorchester, some show it with four wheels, some with six wheels, and some artists drew it with eight wheels. There are several versions of how the smokestack looked. Various impressions of how the suspension was arranged and one or two wholly original boiler designs.

After checking all printed sources and speaking to railway veterans and officials, Mika has come up with a sketch he considers accurate. It shows the locomotive with four wheels, leaf spring suspension, wooden boiler and a conservative smokestack. The sketch, like the other ten sketches in the portfolio, has been reproduced in full size for silk screening, and it's too late to change anything if anyone wants to argue details.

Copies of the portfolio will be sold in Belleville during Railway Week. The original sketches are now the property of the C.N.R.

Opening Play of Festival At Stratford Divides Critics

Written for The Canadian Press

By BILL ROSS

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian Stratford Shakespearean Festival Monday night opened its 12th season, dividing the critics but delighting the audience with an opulent production of the Bard's Richard II.

With William Hutt as the deposed king, his first title role for a long Stratford career, and Leo Ciceri as the usurping Harry Bolingbroke, the play's major contrasting personality, the company of six acting calls from the enthusiastic audiences who comprised a distinguished cross-section of government business and the arts in Canada.

Lieutenant-Governor W. Earl Rowe attended.

The production was directed by Stuart Burge of the Bristol Old Vic and was his Stratford debut. Critics found that he had given the play an uneven start that required most of the first act to get it off the ground. By that time Richard was well on the way down and Bolingbroke was ascending the throne.

The costumes, by Desmond Heeley, who has dressed many previous Stratford productions with a lavish hand, are as conspicuous as ever, and John Cooke has composed a discreet non-obtrusive score which none-the-less effectively heightens the spoken lines, especially in the Tower scene.

The play encompasses Richard's fall from the peak of his reign, when he arbitrates a challenge between Bolingbroke and another noble by banishing both, through the course of Bolingbroke's successful invasion of England to reclaim his inheritance which the king has unwisely sequestered to finance an Irish campaign.

It is essentially a study of two characters: Richard, tender, debauched, eloquent and vain, deficient of practically every manly virtue; Bolingbroke, the man of action, not cruel but capable of any deed necessary to amount of $90.

No Evidence Of Bribery Says Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons privileges committee quietly ended the Girouard-Davey case Monday.

The committee reported to the Commons that it found "no evidence of bribery or attempted bribery."

There is no question of privilege involved in the present reference," the report added.

The committee spent 15 sittings looking into charges by Gerard Girouard, MP for Lachelle, that before he switched from Social Credit to the Conservative party, Liberal Party Director Keith Davey offered him a fat election fund to join the Liberal party.

In the committee hearings, Mr Davey flatly denied the charge.

The committee report, signed by Chairman Larry Pennell (L—Grant-Stadlmand), said its findings had been arrived at in private session after hearing three witnesses, Maurice Morcau (L—York - Scarborough), Mr. Girouard, and Mr. Davey.

WAS NAMED

Mr. Moreau was one of three Liberal MP's whom Mr. Girouard named as discussing politics with him in a Hull, Que., night club and arranging a meeting with Mr. Davey.

After listing the committee members the witnesses heard, and expressing appreciation to the staff of the Commons for arrangements, the report said simply:

"Your committee reports that it found no evidence of bribery or attempted bribery. There is no question of privilege involved in the present reference."

A motion to seek house concurrence in the committee report is unnecessary and is not likely to be moved.

REJECT RED BID

VIENNA (AP)—A majority of member nations in the World Postal Union has turned down Communist China's effort to oust National China and win membership for the Peking regime. The majority went for a U.S.-sponsored resolution to take no action, 55 to 40, with 23 abstaining.

Only the Cuisine Is French

PARIS (Reuters) — The French housewife will soon be cooking her husband's steak and potatoes on gas from another continent.

Or, if she lives in northeast France, it may be imported from Holland.

France has big natural gas reserves at Lacq in the southwest, but these are already being used to full capacity. So the country is looking further afield for new, cheap sources of gas.

Before the end of this year, Sahara natural gas will be coming into the country at the rate of 450,000,000 cubic metres a year according to an estimate given here by Francois Callot, head of the French Bureau of Mining Documentation.

He predicts that from about 1966, France will also be buying some four to five billion cubic metres a year from the Dutch gas wells at Groningen.

The Dutch gas, if it comes, will feed northeastern France and the Paris region. But negotiations between France and Holland on the subject have not yet been completed.

Nor has a decision yet been reached on plans for piping Sahara gas by a Mediterranean submarine pipeline either from Arzew, in Algeria, to Carteagena, in Spain, or through Mopeco, Tunisia, across the Straits of Gibraltar.

In the meantime, France will receive the Sahara gas in liquefied - natural - gas tankers, the first of which is due to be ready next autumn.

The gas, liquefied at a plant at the Algerian terminal near Oran of a pipeline from the Sahara gasfields, will be shipped in liquid form and unloaded at Le Havre, in northern France. From there, it will be delivered to Paris by pipeline.

Aussie Drawl Said 'Sloppy'

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)— The Australian drawl, which sometimes confused Canadians who came in contact with Aussie servicemen during the war, has been attacked by a leading Australian speech expert.

Sloppy, slovenly speech has become "a kind of unfortunate status symbol" for Australian boys, said Arthur Delbridge, senior lecturer in English at the University of Sydney.

But it's not so with the girls, he says. "It's accepted for the girls to speak properly, and the boys speak properly they are censured by their mates of not being manly."

He said American schools were more inclined than Australian to give public speaking a place in speechcraft.

Because most Australian TV programs and popular songs have came from the United States, Australian children think the prevailing American pronunciation of many words, he said. But this was not necessarily for the worse.

Another speech expert, Bryson Taylor, said he did not think the American influence would ever wipe out the Australian accent.

He said: "Sure, our young people are copying American pronunciations. But I think what is emerging from this is something new, which I call the Pacific accent. But it is still basically Australian."

That Last One for Road May Bring OPP as Chaser

"If you take that last one for the road, you may have an OPP for a chaser," says Ontario Provincial Police Corporal Harold Howting of the identification branch of the OPP detachment in Belleville. Corporal Howting addressed the Rotary Club of Belleville at its regular luncheon meeting on Monday.

In opening, Corporal Howting said it was the duty of a Provincial Policeman to protect the lives and property of people. He added, "if he does, he's a hero and if he doesn't, he's no good".

Corporal Howting said "with today's high - powered automobiles, it takes a lot of brains to operate them, unfortunately very few use them. Accidents do not happen" he said, "they are caused".

Following Corporal Howting's brief remarks, the club members were shown some colour slides, showing evidence of the effects of a head - on crash, high speed and alcohol. The photographs, of twisted metal and flesh, were taken by Corporal Howting.

Corporal Howting pointed out that of all the accidents in 1963 just shown the members, only one was prosecuted for mechanical failure of the auto. mobile. He said a young chap had just purchased a large truck for his business. The steering gear failed and before the man could stop the vehicle it struck a tree, killing him. The remainder of the accidents shown were caused by carelessness and alcohol.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian D. MacKinnon and thanked on behalf of the club by Rotarian E. David. Guests and visiting Rotarians were introduced by Rotarian J. Marker. Corporal Howting received the official thanks of the club from president Hall.

PICTURES TOO SHOCKING ...for Canadian eyes!

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first Great War, the Star Weekly this week features a complete section of pictures from a priceless collection at the Canadian War Museum in Ottawa. Many of these never-before-published battlefield scenes were thought to be too shocking for the Canadian public. Now, a brilliant and outspoken article makes both the mud and the glory live again. Never before an article quite like this one which tells on one hand of Canadian soldiers sent to the front line with almost useless rifles and, on the other, Canadian heroism which served as a model for all Allied fighting men.

No Knife Found After Shooting Says Chief

ST. THOMAS (CP) — City police constable William Pettit, 26, was shot and seriously wounded 22-year-old John Koola Saturday night, believed Koola had a knife in his hand, Police Chief Wilfred Whiteman said Monday.

"A shot was fired . . . no knife was found," Chief Whiteman said.

Police said, Koola was shot in the stomach by Const. Pettit after disturbances by two men at a downtown hotel and tavern.

Monday Koola and 24-year-old Edward Lavoie, Frederick Eaton, also of St. Thomas, had their cases adjourned to June 22. Bail of $150 was set for each man, charged with creating a disturbance.

Police said the shooting occurred following an incident at the hotel where two men were reported smashing furniture. The hotel incident followed the breaking of windows and an alleged assault at a nearby tavern.

Called to the hotel, several policemen chased two men down Manitoba Street, in the centre of the city. One of the men ran into a parking lot where he was arrested. The second man went into a row of apartments across the street from the lot, Chief Whiteman said.

The officer (Pettit) was approaching the apartments when Koola ran from a doorway with what the officer thought was a knife in his hand."

Chief Whiteman said Crown Attorney Peter Cullen, out of town Monday and Tuesday, will return Wednesday and they will confer on what action, if any, will be taken on the shooting.

Koola, father of two young children, had a three-hour operation for removal of the bullet Saturday night and Monday night was in "fair condition" at hospital.

Not a Policeman's Job

Chief of Police I. L. Robertson of Sault Ste. Marie, wants parking authorities to assume complete control of parking meters.

Originally parking meters were advocated as a means of dividing scarce parking space equitably amongst a large number of would-be users. Since this control would have an important effect on the flow of traffic, it was natural that the police should be given a role—and in some cases sole control—in the administration of meters.

In most centres, though, the pretence that meters are primarily designed to ration available space has long since been abandoned. They are now an important revenue-producing device, and this is proven by the fact that, while the ratio of parking spaces to would-be users tends to decline, the permitted stay in a parking space has been lengthened. The first parking meters took pennies, the objective being to collect as little as possible and get the parking motorists on his way as quickly as possible. But now two-hour meters are coming.

While the collection of money and the maintenance of meters has, as a general rule, been taken from the hands of the police, they are still required to hand out tickets for overtime parking. This is nonsense. A car properly parked at a meter is no hindrance to traffic flow, regardless of whether or not the meter has received its tribute, and Chief Robertson is right when he says ticketing cars at meters should be no part of police duties.

We must admit, though, that his reason for his stand strikes us as woefully weak. "It makes me angry to think some of us have to work for the parking authority when we don't get one cent," he declared. The police and the parking authority employees have one thing in common —they are all public servants. Who gets the money does not enter into the question and Chief Robertson weakens his case by raising this point.

Misunderstanding

Half the trouble in the world, and most of its misunderstandings, are the result of a refusal to listen—or read.

On Thursday, Ontario Attorney-General Arthur Wishart announced that Magistrate J. L. Roberts of Niagara Falls, Ont., has been appointed the province's first chief magistrate.

Attorney-General Wishart said: "One of his main duties will be to introduce uniformity of sentencing principles throughout the province."

Friday Magistrate Roberts declared: "Uniformity of sentencing is not possible. Many people believe uniformity is highly desirable, but by the same token we all know that no two sets of circumstances and no two accused people are the same."

The Canadian Press reported that Magistrate Roberts had ruled out the possibility of uniform sentences, "only hours after Attorney General Arthur Wishart announced this would be part of his duties."

The Attorney-General, of course, made no such announcement. He sought "uniformity of sentencing principles." Magistrate Roberts, in opposing uniform sentences, outlined the sentencing principles in which he believes, thus in imposing sentences differences in circumstances surrounding offences and differences in the characters of the offenders must be taken into consideration. The uniformity of sentencing principles which Magistrate Roberts will seek is thus that sentences should vary to fit the crime and the criminal.

There is not necessarily any difference of opinion between Attorney-General Wishart and the new chief magistrate on this point. Those who jumped to the conclusion that their views were diametrically opposed completely disregarded the difference in meaning between the phrase "uniformity of sentencing principles" and the similiar phrase "uniformity of sentences."

"I loved my beginning when I was young; I doted on my middle age, they were great years and I'm rejoiced to find that what I once thought would be dreary, dismal, and uneventful, is beyond compare the happiest time of my whole life."—A 64-year-old retired British headmaster, Fielden Hughes.

Most of Victims Civilians

By Max Born in "The Bulletin of Atom Scientists"

In the first World War, the total number of killed was approximately 10 million, 95 per-cent of whom were soldiers and five percent civilians.

In the Second World War, over 50 million were killed, comprising almost equal numbers of soldiers and civilians (3 per-cent to 48 percent).

During the war in Korea, of the nine million dead, 84 percent were civilians and only 16 percent soldiers.

Whoever still believes in war as a legitimate instrument of politics, in agreement with traditional ideas of a hero's death for the sake of wife and children and defence of the home and should now realize that these are fairy tales and not indications at that.

Nuclear weapons have driven this development to extreme, making it obvious to everyone.

It depends on us, on each individual citizen in every country of the world, for a stop to be put to the existing nonsense.

Today, it is no longer the cholera or plague bacillus that threatens us, but the fatalism, cynical reasoning of politicians, the indifference of the masses, and the dogmatist and other scientists' evasion of responsibility.

That which they have done, as I tried to explain, cannot be undone; knowledge cannot be extinguished. What is finished is finished, has its own laws. But scientists world and should use the respect that they gain through their special knowledge and ability to show the politicians the way back to reasonableness.

As the Gottingen Eighteen tried once. (In 1957, 18 distinguished German scientists, including Professor Born, signed a declaration opposing the Federal Republic of Germany to renounce the development or possession of atomic weapons of any kind.)

All of us must fight against official lies and encroachments; against the assertions that there is protection from nuclear weapons through shelters and emergency regulations; against the suppression of those who enlighten the public about it; against the now-unbridled nationalism, "glories," passion for great power; and we must especially fight against the ideologies which pronounce the infallibility of their doctrines and thus separate the world into irreconcilable camps.

There is still hope, but it will only exist if we are true to it and fight against the diseases of our time.

Work Camps To Be Costly

Watertown Times

One of the proposals in President Johnson's anti-poverty program would call for the establishment of work camps for young men in a number of categories, including those who are unqualified for military service, cannot find a job or are unable to attend school. The cost of the camp idea is being subjected to some good-natured kidding in Washington and political circles.

For example, Congressman M. G. Snyder, Kentucky Republican, had some wry comments to make after quoting R. Sargent Shriver, heading the president's anti - poverty project, as saying it would cost $4,700 a year for each enrollee in the suggested work camps.

"My question is," said Congressman Snyder in a House speech, "why $4,700 per year. Why send them young men's work camps? Why not Harvard?"

He feels that the government could buy a jobless boy a sport car, give him $4,700 spending summer spending money, and, educate him in college for the same number of years to put him in a work camp.

Tuition fees, board and room at Harvard are listed in the United States office of education to total $2,701 a year, Congressman Snyder said.

President Johnson has said the work camps would be patterned after the old CCC, the Conservation Corps (C. C. C.) of the depression period of the 1930's.

Maybe the basic flaw of the work proposal is its similarity to that of the old C.C.C. camps — clearing brush, reforesting, building roads, erecting dams, etc.

But — while the exact figures are not available as the motor sent. it is dead certain the cost per enrollee at those C. C. C. camps was considerably less than $4,700 a year. If there had been anywhere near that much money floating around — there wouldn't have been any depression.

Sabbath Day Indisposition

Sault Daily Star

These declining church statistics have been traced to the existence of a strange illness so called "morbis sabaticus." Literally translated into modern parlance it means Sabbath (Sunday) day sickness which results in spiritual death or stagnation.

Morbis sabaticus begins late Saturday (early Sunday) following the late night movie, but its first symptoms appear between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock, since it is just about that time the infected person first wakes up.

For some it is only a very brief moment but it is long enough for the victim to decide that he is not in any mood to get up and certainly isn't well enough to be in church by 11 a.m.

At about 10 minutes before noon the critical period of the disease is over and the patient may then take his choice of afternoon outdoor sports, following a sumptuous meal, of course. (The appetite is never affected.)

Strictly Personal Opposite of Small Truth Is a Lie

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the most distressing and depressing habits of the human mind is a process we might call "selection and rejection." We select whatever buttresses our beliefs and prejudices, and reject whatever confounds them — even if it is from the same source.

I received a letter recently from a reader objecting to a piece of mine about "extremists." He pointed out that Jesus was an "extremist" when he violently drove the money-changers from the temple.

People do this all the time, and the Bible is one of their favorite devices for selection and rejection. Jesus' message was one of love and nonviolence; yet this person picked out the one line in the Gospels to justify his own beliefs.

If the Bible is open to vindicate his indifference to the social problem of poverty, he could point to Jesus' words, "the poor ye have always with you." But the radical reformer wants to prove the opposite, and quotes Jesus' remark that "it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter Heaven."

The pacifist quotes from Jesus; so does the nationalist. The optimist takes what he wants; so does the pessimist. The moralist finds texts to his quotes; so does the libertarian.

"Christianity has not failed, it's tried and failed," said Chesterton, a half-century ago. "It has never been tried at all, it has never been tried, of course, because of this tendency to draw out of it that which suits that most appeals to our fancies and prefjudices, and to make that one element the whole of religion."

And this is not necessarily because the Bible is a "mass of contradictions," as it is often, life itself is a paradoxical affair and learning how to live the good life means to make more than simply a warm heart: it calls for sleeping and understanding the opposites.

This we cannot and will not do. "The opposite of a small truth is a lie," said a famous scientist, "but the opposite of a great truth is also equally true." Such statements make us uncomfortable; they confuse our categories of thought. But unless we can grasp the fact that the whole art of life consists of boldness and tentativeness, of balance, we shall perpetually veer from one extreme to the other, never doing justice to the contraries.

If the problem were easy, we should have solved it by now. If just following the Golden Rule were like arithmetic, it would be done. We fall partly because our feelings are not good enough, but also because we select and reject, and fail to see that the part we reject contains an essential truth in the structure of existence.

But no one was more surprised than the youngster himself. He was playing ball with some chums and entered his gaze on the softball rather than where he was going. He made a perfect one-point landing in the river, and emerged a moment later with the help of his chums, a bedraggled, crestfallen lad, but none the worse for his experience.

Robbers broke and entered the offices of the Belleville Insurance Agencies, operated by C. D. Crosby and C.P.R. Street over the weekend, and after ransacking the company desks made off with about $20 in cash and stamps. No effort was made to open the office safe.

Some Queries For Levesque

Calgary Albertan

Although it is painful to admit it, Canadians on both sides of the Ottawa River owe a debt of gratitude to Quebec's vociferous natural resources minister, Mr. Rene Levesque.

He keeps the pot boiling — not always in the most constructive manner, admittedly, but by frequently challenging our notions he occasionally has the effect of forcing us to examine them.

If Mr. Levesque wishes to enrich the Canadian debate further, his duty is clear.

If he is to continue talking separatism, he owes it to his followers and to us as well to be explicit in concrete terms. How could Quebec survive on its own? Where would development capital come from, and what would Quebeckers do about the strings that would likely be attached? How would a Quebec that must open its doors for assistance keep its French character, its cultural encroachment from the rest of the continent?

The answers — if there are any — are long overdue.

Contact Dermatitis Is Skin Irritation by Touch

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is contact dermatitis? Does it mean that you are allergic to something you touch? — M. E. S.

The "derma" part of the word means skin; the "itis" means inflammation. So dermatitis means some sort of skin disease.

It may be a rash, an itch, a swelling. Poison ivy is a case of dermatitis. Some sort of germ, fungus or whatnot can also cause skin trouble. Dandruff is dermatitis of the scalp, and so on.

There are many things that can bother the skin. Some people are allergic to pollen in the air. They are sensitive to it, and their noses run, their eyes water, they sneeze, because they breathe particles of pollen from plants.

Others eat a certain food to which they happen to be sensitive, and their stomachs rebel, or they break out with hives, or a rash, and that's a "food allergy."

But it is also possible for people to be allergic (or overly sensitive) to things they touch. This is contact dermatitis. The skin becomes irritated where the substance touches the skin.

Hay fever can be quite easy to recognize. It can come at other allergies. But some are very hard to recognize. This includes — as it spades — the contact allergies.

Because, you see, the skin doesn't necessarily become red at the first touch. It can take quite a long time, perhaps weeks or more, to develop. Two examples: A man whose finger became red and sore. It was traced finally, to a package of nickels. He usually had some nickels in the pocket where he kept his loose change.

Soap or detergents, usually safe enough, bother some people after continued use. There was a stenographer who was allergic to carbon paper, and another who was allergic to lipstick. A woman was allergic to a contact dermatitis from the chemicals used in manufacturing her girdle. Another got sore hands on her hands because of the paint on her broom handle.

So that's contact dermatitis. While often it is easy to figure out what is causing the trouble, other times it is very difficult, because the skin is in touch with things, once in a while, can be troublemakers.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, who is 25, has had diabetes for 18 years. After reading a health article, he has been taking hundreds of milligrams of vitamin C when he feels "a cold coming on." I fear the excessive quantities will be harmful to the kidneys. What amount would be right? — I. G.

The recommended amount for an adult is 75 milligrams a day.

Vitamin C has several known functions: preventing scurvy, aiding the healing of wounds, aiding strong bone and tooth structures, preventing the capillaries (tiny blood vessels) from becoming fragile.

There have been other claims for it, but without any proof. For example, that it will prevents colds, others that it retards hay fever, etc. I don't know of any evidence to support me think these things are really so, but I'm open to being convinced if anyone will give me facts rather than opinions.

However, no harm results from excessive amounts since the kidneys readily eliminate Vitamin C. It's a waste of money, though, to take more than you need or can use.

Letter to The Editor

Opposes Restriction On Watering of Lawns

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

It becomes steadily more evident that regulation of our every activity is the ultimate goal of government at all its multitudinous levels.

Enduring indignity upon indignity, our society has bowed its head, continued to yield unflinchingly to the slow decrees of creeping authoritarianism and insidious bureaucracy.

Consider: literary censorship, anti-bias control legislation, tribunal rather than judicial decision by governmental agencies expropriation laws, blue laws and lawn-watering restrictions.

Mr. Gerid Hyde and his utilities commission have now decreed that I may water my lawns only certain hours, closely regulated hours, of certain days. These hours do not suit my convenience, and I feel sure that many other citizens will be inconvenienced also.

A household-ed living on the odd-numbered side of the street, who regularly leaves for his summer cottage after working hours on Friday, and returns late Sunday night has only fourteen hours per week to water both front and back lawns. Providing, of course, that he is unemployed, self-employed, or a merchant, and therefore not restricted to be at his place of employment during some of the allowable watering hours.

A rather extreme situation? Not at all!

The typical of contemporary official thinking to resort to further restrictions of personal choice to alleviate troublesome situation, rather than to attack the problem at its root. Is that what is in hand, since our city is blessed with a vast source of treatable water, it would seem that what is required is merely better or larger facilities for pumping. Surely this is not an insurmountable problem!

And, we would ask Mr. Hyde, as our city grows, what next? Eliminate lawns completely? Bathing restrictions perhaps? Perhaps we should begin by training ourselves to drink no more than one-half a cup of water per day against the time when your pumps cannot cope with the accelerated drain of a city of, say 35,000 thirsty souls?

F. H. Mazer,
(cottager, employee and householder on the odd-numbered side of the street).

BACK IN BUSINESS with a modern men's clothing store in Belleville Plaza, Joe Burke plans to make Belleville his home. He worked in Toronto for a year after his Front Street store burned last year.

Joe Burke Opens Store In Plaza

Joe Burke is back in business, with a complete switch in style. The "Joe" of Honest Joe's on Front Street, he went to Toronto about a year ago—after his store was lost in the Mayer building fire—and worked in the city for a year. June first of this year, he opened his new shop at the Belleville Plaza.

Don't look for any sign of "Honest Joe's" in Burke's Men's Clothing. The new store is small, neat and exclusive. Off-the-rack suits go up to $100 each, the store is an agency for a custom tailoring firm in Hamilton and the styles are all next week's. The shop will cater to the teen-man with a special department before the schools open next year. Formal rentals are available through a tie-in with a Toronto firm and Mr. Burke is thinking in terms of a home-fitting service for this line.

Why the switch? Lots of reasons, according to Burke. His father was in the men's clothing business in Belleville from 1921 to 1936, and he's always wanted to be a clothier.

Burke plans to run the new store himself with no more than one or two assistants, and he hopes to have a tailor working on the premises within a few months. The tailor will not make complete suits, but will be able to provide fast service on modifications and fittings.

And the change in business is the only change for Joe Burke. A bachelor now, he plans [illegible] marry Miss Ethel Levinson of Trenton sometime this month. The couple expect to live at 71 Hunswood Drive in Belleville.

ORDERS NEW SLUGS

BALTIMORE (AP)—The U.S. Army has ordered 60,000 rounds of a new cartridge which carries two bullets, the Baltimore Sun reported Monday night. The Sun, in a dispatch from its Washington bureau, said the new cartridges had been satisfactorily tested at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md.

Says He Got Payments From Former Officer

TORONTO (CP) — Robert J. Wright, 33, a former member of the provincial police anti-gambling squad, went on trial Monday before Mr. Justice E. G. Moorhouse in Ontario Supreme Court on three charges of bribing a fellow officer "with the intention of getting him to interfere with administration of justice."

Constable George Scott testified that while he was acting as an undercover investigator for the OPP he was paid a total of $1,000 by Wright for advance information on raids.

He said the payments were made Feb. 29, March 30 and April 29.

Const. Scott said he and Wright had been fellow members on the anti - gambling squad, but after Wright was transferred to regular patrol duty at Belleville, was approached by him to work for the operation.

He said Wright told him there would be $200 a month for the two of them if they supplied raid information for the Ramsay Club at Niagara Falls, and the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans Club at Cookville.

Const. Scott testified Wright said operators of the clubs were anxious to "protect several prominent people" who attended the clubs from the embarrassment of being found-ins.

The trial continues.

Erhard's Visit to Washington Something Less Than Success

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There seems little doubt, despite Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's protestations to the contrary, that his visit to Washington was something considerably less than a success.

Not only did he return empty-handed, he also provided new ammunition for his political opponents who are already charging that the trip was ill-timed and prepared.

Certainly the timing was off, for that is not altogether Erhard's fault.

His main objective in his talks with President Johnson was to get American support for some new Western initiative on German reunification and American approval for wider trade with Communist China.

Apparently he got neither. And no one is particularly impressed by his rather half-hearted statement that he had "a good and successful journey" and the reunification problem had not been forgotten.

On the German question, Erhard had strikes against him even before he got started.

It is unlikely the American administration would entertain any firm action on such a contentious question on what is virtually the eve of a U.S. presidential election. And the new Soviet-East Germany friendship treaty, announced Friday but revealed to Britain, the U.S. and France three days before, put a new complexion on the whole idea.

The same argument of the November U.S. elections can also be used against Erhard's effort to get American approval of his scheme to extend trade with China and eventually establish a German trade mission in Peking. So now will have to be content with merely expanding commercial exchanges within the present framework, without a formal treaty.

The new treaty with East Germany is a much more moderate document than the unilateral treaty Premier Khrushchev has been threatening the West with for years, but still it does guarantee East Germany's frontiers.

Before Erhard's visit there were reports the U.S. might make some gesture towards West German public opinion on reunification. But now it goes back to the Western ambassadorial group who will "continue" to examine the possibility of an initiative towards Moscow. This, in the view of many observers, amounts to shelving the issue.

Reports from Bonn suggest there is a feeling here that the Washington trip and its results, or lack of results, constitute the first political blunder since Erhard took over last October from Konrad Adenauer

Senate Leaders Drive to Pass Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Senate leaders drove to complete action on amendments to the civil rights bill today, but southern opponents had control of the situation.

An early morning caucus of the Dixie forces was called by Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem. Ga.) to consider how many more amendments to call up for a vote.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem. Minn.), floor manager of the bill, told reporters he saw a good chance that voting on amendments would be completed by tonight.

He said, however, that this was based just on his "feeling of the pulse of the Senate" rather than on any understanding with the southern foes of the measure.

If the southerners insist on bringing up a large number of additional amendments, he said, the Senate will stay in session very late into the night in an effort to dispose of them.

EXPECTS TWO-DAY DEBATE

Humphrey said that once action on amendments is completed, he expects two days of general debate before the Senate reaches a vote on passage of the bill.

Debate on the bill and all amendments has been limited to one hour for each senator since the Senate's history-making 71-29 vote last Wednesday to invoke its anti-filibuster closure rule. Never before has the rule been applied to cut off debate in a civil rights measure.

But despite the tight limit on debate, southern senators can call up for a vote more than 100 amendments still on file if they wish to do even if they run out of time to explain or discuss them.

After 14 roll call votes Monday, all which all amendments offered by opponents of the bill were moved down, leaders recessed the Senate at 8:46 p.m.

Humphrey said earlier plans to continue into the night were abandoned in favor of trying a reasonable approach one more time" in hopes the southerners would not press all their amendments.

Iceland Got New Flag

VANCOUVER (CP) — Iceland had a problem when it came to choosing a national flag and Canada might benefit from her experience, suggests Thor Thors, Icelandic ambassador to Canada.

In a weekend interview here he said his island country was split in 1918 on whether to include a red cross in the flag design. Finally "everyone agreed we needed a flag and this need overcame our differences."

The country decided on a flag featuring a red cross, outlined in white and slightly left of centre on a dark blue background.

Council Rejects 3 Applications For Franchises

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Council Monday night rejected franchise applications from London, Windsor and Kingston.

Representatives of the eight clubs which participated in last season's schedule felt it would not be in the best interest of the OHA to expand its Junior A operation at this time.

Bill Hanley, business manager, said the application from the London club was accompanied by the necessary $1,500 performance bond.

Hanley said the Toronto Maple Leafs, who co - sponsored London's Junior B team last season, would probably have a B club in the Treasure Island rink this season providing a satisfactory agreement could be negotiated with rink management.

He said that, contrary to published reports, there was absolutely no discrimination against the salary limit to $80 from $60 weekly for Junior A players.

The OHA meeting also allowed the split-gate bylaws. Next season the 10-per-cent split will go into a pool to be divided among the eight clubs. Previously it went to the visiting team.

The 1964-65 season will open Oct. 7, two weeks earlier than last year.

minister presented the government's case for the proposed flag—three red maple leaves on a white background with vertical blue bars at each side. "A striking and beautiful design, said the prime minister.

TIME FOR A NEW FLAG

The time has come, he said, for a new and distinctive flag that cannot be mistaken for the flag of any other country.

The formal links with Britain had changed over the years as Canada evolved from a colony to a fully independent nation. The ties now were based on friendship, and kinship, and with these changes come a natural change in symbols.

He traced the history of the Red Ensign up to 1945 when it was authorized by the cabinet to be flown where a distinctive Canadian flag was required.

"In my view, the time has come for a further and final change," he declared.

With almost every pronouncement, Grits cheered and the prime minister were being pounded in applause by Liberal backbenchers.

He paid tribute to the Red Ensign, and there was another applause. He quoted Mr. Diefenbaker's remark in the 1942 conscription debate when he said a plebiscite might destroy the unity of Canada, and there were many applauds.

"This is the right moment" in the history of Canada to decide on a national flag, he said, and he was drowned in a clatter of desk tops. "Today we need confidence, if our country is to ordained." And there was more noisy support.

PM HONOURS VOLUNTEERS

Pearkin shone on Mr. Pearson's forehead as he worked through his 75-minutes presentation. The light on all the quotes, statistics and history. The crowd crept his ground slowly, perfectly, as he all the posing arguments as he went.

Only when he knew many people were opposed to the new flag. They were patriotic, loyal Canadians who had honest disagreement must be respected. A question such as the flag aroused passions and prejudices. That was why national symbols were so important—because they could unite Canadians in their growth, nourishing loyalty and unity.

There was a responsibility on the part of MPs to handle the matter in a manner worthy of its historic importance.

In the tradition of responsible government, he was glad that Parliament to decide on the flag question. If Parliament rejected the government's proposal, then the government lost the confidence of Parliament. If Parliament approved an amendment for another design—and that design could be a Red Ensign or anything else—then that was Parliament's decision.

But he said the Red Ensign is basically the flag of the British Merchant Marine, not really Canada's flag. Canadian soldiers from some British colonies Canada would not be abdicating its sovereignty by adopting a new distinctive flag.

HAVE HISTORICAL VALUE

He said the maple leaf design the only suitable one for a distinctive flag, but the three red maple leaves on a single stem also go back 100 years in Canada history.

He said they were seen on the Canadian militia until 1921, some of which were distributed to school children bearing the signature of Queen Victoria. The Opposition leader had also proposed a maple leaf be used on the design for the 100th world's fair.

"All this is pretty impressive ammunition," he decided, to the approving shouts of his supporters.

Ralph Cowan (L—York-Humber) was one Liberal backbencher, who was soon to retain from the government, but with a Red Ensign in his buttonhole, listening attentively.

Mr. Pearson then asked the time limit be fixed and set below the din of a three - minute cheer - stumping session. Externally, Right Minister Martin patted him on the back, and Mrs. Pearson smiled down from the gallery spectators. the prime minister appeared be tired and happy.

Most of the applause from Opposition groups, other than the Liberal benches went to the prime minister.

When Mr. Diefenbaker rose to speak his disciplined party line up a rousing semi-riot, banging their desk tops.

He said the government, course in its concepts that it is right because it may be able to command a majority of the House, to give to individual Canadians everywhere the right to decide the question of the kind of flag that they believe will unify, strengthen and maintain the great traditions of our country."

Not since 1931, he said, had Canadian leaders claimed that a distinctive national flag "should be other than the Union Jack with a difference in the French contribution upon it."

ATTEMPTED DOMINATION

This was an attempted domination of Parliament by the executive. This kind of thing is since the Spanish decade of 1902.

He concluded with a demand for "a roll call of the people of Canada."

Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment says:

"As the proposal to change Canada's national flag will affect the unity and destiny of Canada now for years to come, the people should be consulted before taking steps as may be necessary to conduct a plebiscite or referendum upon their opening arrangements as he went. In the House of Commons, in order that all Canadians may be given their rightful opportunity to declare their choice concerning a national flag."

Mrs. Diefenbaker watched from a gallery, surrounded by a group of ladies, all wearing miniature red ensigns on their dresses and suits.

The decision by the Speaker to split the resolution in two parts was taken after a 90-minute procedural wrangle that was launched by Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre).

Mr. Knowles argued in favor of the split, pointing out a series of questions that involved the government lost the confidence of Parliament if Parliament approved an amendment for another design—and that design could be a Red Ensign or anything else—than that was Parliament's decision.

But he said the Red Ensign is basically the flag of the British Merchant Marine, not really Canada's flag. Canadian soldiers from some British colonies Canada would not be abdicating its sovereignty by adopting a new distinctive flag.

"All this is pretty impressive ammunition," he decided, to the approving shouts of his supporters.

When Mr. Diefenbaker rose to speak his disciplined party line up a rousing semi-riot, banging their desk tops.

He said the government, course in its concepts that it is right because it may be able to command a majority of the House, to give to individual Canadians everywhere the right to decide the question of the kind of flag that they believe will unify, strengthen and maintain the great traditions of our country."

Not since 1931, he said, had Canadian leaders claimed that a distinctive national flag "should be other than the Union Jack with a difference in the French contribution upon it."

ATTEMPTED DOMINATION

This was an attempted domination of Parliament by the executive. This kind of thing is since the Spanish decade of 1902.

He concluded with a demand for "a roll call of the people of Canada."

Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment says:

"As the proposal to change Canada's national flag will affect the unity and destiny of Canada now for years to come, the people should be consulted before taking steps as may be necessary to conduct a plebiscite or referendum upon their opening arrangements as he went. In the House of Commons, in order that all Canadians may be given their rightful opportunity to declare their choice concerning a national flag."

Mrs. Diefenbaker watched from a gallery, surrounded by a group of ladies, all wearing miniature red ensigns on their dresses and suits.

The decision by the Speaker to split the resolution in two parts was taken after a 90-minute procedural wrangle that was launched by Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre).

Mr. Knowles argued in favor of the split, pointing out a series of questions that involved the government lost the confidence of Parliament if Parliament approved an amendment for another design—and that design could be a Red Ensign or anything else—than that was Parliament's decision.

But he said the Red Ensign is basically the flag of the British Merchant Marine, not really Canada's flag. Canadian soldiers from some British colonies Canada would not be abdicating its sovereignty by adopting a new distinctive flag.

HAVE HISTORICAL VALUE

He said the maple leaf design the only suitable one for a distinctive flag, but the three red maple leaves on a single stem also go back 100 years in Canada history.

He said they were seen on the Canadian militia until 1921, some of which were distributed to school children bearing the signature of Queen Victoria. The Opposition leader had also proposed a maple leaf be used on the design for the 1967 world's fair.

"All this is pretty impressive ammunition," he decided, to the approving shouts of his supporters.

Ralph Cowan (L—York-Humber) was one Liberal backbencher, who was soon to retain from the government, but with a Red Ensign in his buttonhole, listening attentively.

Mr. Martin then asked the time limit be fixed and set below the din of a three - minute cheer - stumping session, External Affairs Minister Martin patted him on the back, and Mrs. Pearson smiled down from the gallery spectators. the prime minister appeared be tired and happy.

Most of the applause from Opposition groups, other than the Liberal benches went to the prime minister.

When Mr. Diefenbaker rose to speak his disciplined party line up a rousing semi-riot, banging their desk tops.

He said the government, course in its concepts that it is right because it may be able to command a majority of the House, to give to individual Canadians everywhere the right to decide the question of the kind of flag that they believe will unify, strengthen and maintain

Beatles Are Proven Best Music to Grow Radishes By

NEW YORK (AP) — Radishes like music.

They like some kinds of music better than others.

They grow better when they're listening to Beatles music.

They like Lily Pons' operatic coloratura.

They don't care as much for Dvorak's symphonic works.

What they really like the most, though, is The Beatles.

Radishes go wild over The Beatles.

This discovery was made by Lynn Boshkov, 16 - year - old daughter of a Columbia University professor, in a sophomore biology class experiment at White Plains High School.

FATHER SUFFERED

Her father, Stefan Boshkov, associate professor of mining engineering, was inclined to laugh off the experiment but he didn't laugh about having to listen to Beatle music around the house day after day.

But he finally conceded his daughter had proved something with her experiment.

She planted four large trays with-radish seeds last December and kept the trays near a sunny window inside the house. They all grew in the same type soil and got the same amounts of water and sunshine.

However, when the plants had grown about three-quarter of an inch above the soil

Court Rules Farm Tractor Not Motor Car

LONDON (Ont. (CP) — A farm tractor is not a motor vehicle in terms of the Motor Vehicle Claims Act, Mr. Justice John Brooke ruled Monday in the first test of a tractor's definition under the provincial act.

As a result, William Cudney of Mount Brydges, some 15 miles west of here, will not be able to receive payment from the province's unsatisfied judgment fund for his damages and costs that were awarded him by Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes in a jury action at Sarnia Feb. 7, 1963.

Mayer Lerner, Mr. Cudney's lawyer, argued that the tractor had be believes is a test case of a tractor's definition when he sought an order for payment from the fund for Mr. Cudney who was injured in an Oct. 3, 1959, collision with a farm tractor.

Despite the 1963 civil judgment, Mr. Cudney has been unable to receive payment from the fund because a tractor is not defined as a motor vehicle under the claims act.

Mr. Lerner argued that under the new act, passed July 1, 1963, there is no definition of whether a tractor is or is not a motor vehicle. It should therefore be classified as a motor vehicle to allow payments from the unsatisfied judgment fund.

Mr. Justice Brooke agreed with W. J. Mitchell acting for the minister of transport, that because the new claims act makes so many references to the Highway Traffic Act, it is reasonable to consider related statutes when considering the claims act.

The Highway Traffic Act clearly excludes farm tractors as motor vehicles, he said.

fare plan was nearing completion before the walkout and an interim report had been submitted to both sides with the pension setup as the next order of business.

It was understood the arrangement to deal with the welfare problems first was agreed upon by both factions of the eight-man board.

The first day of the walkout passed without incident and harbor police reported all was quiet on the waterfront.

Many of the idle dock workers spent the day standing around the ILA headquarters.

Barges Smash Bridge Causing Bus Accident

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two barges smashed a gap in the world's longest bridge before dawn today and a Trailways bus plunged over the edge into Lake Pontchartrain, killing six passengers.

Bystanders recovered some of the bodies from the bus, submerged in about 15 feet of the brackish water. A coast guard helicopter rescued one man and plucked another body from the lake.

The heavy barges, one loaded with gravel and the other with a big dredge, knocked down about 200 feet of the causeway low bridge resembling a highway on stilts.

The causeway extends 26 miles from New Orleans north across the lake, which was smooth as a mirror. Cause of the collision was not immediately determined.

ter is to spend two days in Cyprus as part of his visit to Canadian forces in Europe and the Middle East.

ENT CUSTOMARY

He told an airport press conference that the prime minister's close failure was "not the customary arrangement for flights of this type." He praised the crew for "cool heads, cool hearts and cool heads."

Hellyer said the plane encountered a thunderstorm off Cyprus and "there was a question in my mind—lest only for a second."

He was welcomed to Cyprus by Arthur Andrew, Canadian high commissioner; Polycarpos Georgadis, Cyprus interior minister; Lt.-Gen. Kendal Singh, Indian commander of United Nations forces in Cyprus, and a small squad of armed Canadian officers. The minister reviewed a 30-man guard of honor from the Royal 22nd Regiment. VA Canadian military band played on the tarmac.

Hellyer told reporters he came to Cyprus to see and speak with members of the 1,100-man Canadian contingent in the UN peace - keeping force and to "learn first hand of their experiences with respect to their duties here."

Answering questions, Hellyer said he expects to make an announcement before his departure Wednesday as to the length of stay of the present Canadian contingent, a question which most in the minds of the troops rushed from Canada in March. He declined to indicate the nature of his announcement.

LIKELY WILL GO ON

He said it would be "fair to assume that we (Canada) would continue our participation" in the United Nations force in Cyprus if the Security Council extends its mandate. However, the Canadian government has not yet specifically approved such an extension. The UN's original six-month mandate expires June 27.

"Our government feels the force has been useful up to the signed tasks very satisfactorily so far," Hellyer said.

He said Canada might increase the size of its contingent, he replied: "No I don't think so." The question was not raised in view of demands in some Greek-Cypriot circles for withdrawal of the Canadian contingent — about 3,000 men —serving in the UN force, and replacement by other national forces.

Hellyer said Canada's contribution to the force cost the money approved by Parliament in March, and "I would expect the contribution to remain at its present level."

The 41-year-old minister appeared unruffled after the trip. He passed up an opportunity for a brief rest in his hotel suite and insisted on going directly to a diplomatic reception at the Canadian high commissioner's residence while his otherwise might have been delayed because of the behind - schedule plane arrival.

MAY MEET DEMAND

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Sharp said Monday slight increases in Canada will be able to supply some of the British demand for beef. He said the problem in supplying beef to Britain has been that Canadian prices were "out of line." The price spread was narrowing and he expected prices soon would come into line and Canada would be able to supply some of the British market.

Jackie Robinson Urges Negroes to Vote Democrat If Goldwater Nominated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negroes protesting segregation in St. Augustine, Fla., heard former baseball star Jackie Robinson urge them to vote Democratic if Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona wins the Republican presidential nomination. They then marched through the city.

More than 300 Negroes marched through the downtown area Monday night in a demonstration so quiet it was more like a funeral procession than a segregation protest. The Negroes walked to a park and held a 25-minute service before returning to the church where the former Brooking Dodger star had spoken.

The orderly procession was under heavy police escort. State troopers and other officers warned the small number of white onlookers to keep quiet. A crackdown by state police resulted in the confiscation of about 50 weapons in widespread auto checks.

In an executive order, Governor Farris Bryant consolidated all state law enforcement agencies for the emergency created by the tourist city's racial unrest and in effect, placed the police under state control.

Elsewhere on the racial scene:

In Washington the Senate plowed steadily toward a final showdown on the civil rights bill, fighting off the latest attempts to amend it. By a vote of 63 to 28 the Senate defeated an amendment aimed at eliminating the controversial public accommodations section.

Senator Goldwater (Republican), the leading contender for the Republican presidential nomination, voted for the amendment. He has been critical of this section of the bill.

Senate leaders expect the measure will be passed some time this week possibly Wednesday or Thursday, and returned to the House for action on Senate amendments.

At Cincinnati, the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the Memphis, Tenn., school board to desegregate its junior high schools in September, 1965, at the senior high schools by the beginning of the 1966 fall term.

The Appeals Court previously enjoined the board from operating a bi-racial school system and directed the board to adopt a plan for desegregation. The present decision was on an appeal from the district court's approval of the plan.

Prince Edward County, Va., told a federal judge at Richmond it had taken no steps toward meeting a Supreme Court order to re-open its public schools.

The county board of supervisors asked Judge Oren R Lewis to spell out possible penalties in case they find it impossible to comply with the judge's planned re - opening directive. The schools were closed in 1959 to avoid a federal court's racial desegregation order.

The University gave Negro integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King an honorary degree and a standing ovation during convocation exercises.

B. C. to Fly Red Ensign

VICTORIA (CP) — No matter what Parliament decides, the British Columbia legislature in front of the British Columbia legislature, Premier Bennett said Monday.

"We'll always have the Red Ensign flying in B.C. as long as we're the government," he told a press conference.

Mr. Bennett said if Parliament approves the proposed maple leaf flag it will be flown in front of the legislature—but only in addition to the three flag being raised, the Ensign, the Union Jack and the B.C. flag.

Baptists Urge Total Ban on Alcohol Ads

HAMILTON (CP) — The assembly of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec decided Monday to urge a total ban on alcohol advertising on radio and television.

A resolution adopted by the assembly says the total ban is its first preference. In descending order it calls for no advertising of drinks in broadcasting time popular with minors and no such advertising to associate drink with heroes and loyalties idolized by youth.

The resolution directed that a letter be sent to the Board of Broadcast Governors pointing out that glamorizing alcohol brands by associating them with friendliness, distinction and sexual attractiveness seems to contravene directions of the board.

Another section of the resolution urges parliamentary health analysis tests for automobile drivers, was referred back to the executive committee.

SAID INFRINGEMENT

Professor Gerald Hagrop of McMaster divinity school said if such tests were used in a breath test he would consider it a gross infringement on his rights.

"This would be an increase in the police state that would be more serious than the alcohol problem," he said.

The balance of the resolution, which urged that initial debates be referred to clinics, was passed by the 1,100 delegates representing 50,000 baptists in 450 congregations.

In another discussion, Rev. Robert Yates of Toronto said Baptists should endorse a law permitting sale of birth control devices.

He said Christian doctors who must prescribe birth control for certain patients do so in the knowledge their actions are illegal.

Boys, 5-6 Rob Bank Of Ireland

DUBLIN (AP)—Dublin police arrested Monday what they said was the world's youngest bank robbers—two boys aged five and six. Each had $3 on him.

The boys broke into the bank of Ireland on Cromlin St. during its lunch closing. One clambered through a window and fell through the door above the sidewalk. The idea was for him to loot the cash drawers and pass the cash out to his partner.

But the bank porter who had heard the noise, returned and caught the inside boy under a counter.

Police said no action would be taken against the boys because they are legally classified as infants. They were handed over to their parents.

Bank managers decried lighted security — to keep somebody on duty during the lunch hour.

Death on the Roads

We're Going to Surpass All Records!

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Almost every province has new or stepped-up traffic safety programs this year in an effort to slow road deaths that are climbing like a supercharged sports model on a steep hill.

A Cross-Country Survey by The Canadian Press shows measures ranging between an ambitious five - pronged attack in Saskatchewan and New Brunswick's intention to keep highway markers in shape.

British Columbia has become the first province to make seat belts mandatory on new cars. Newfoundland is making drivers replace cracked glass. Prince Edward Island is increasing penalties for unsafe driving.

Manitoba has set up a committee to examine all angles of highway safety. Ontario is putting out more mobile vehicle-checking units. Quebec undertaking a complete revision of its auto code. Intensified driver education is the rule around the country.

Meanwhile, in the first quarter of the year more Canadians than ever were converted into statistics for the up-curve of traffic fatality graphs.

DEATHS UP

Deaths on public roads, according to preliminary figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, rose to a record 643 from 537 in the same quarter of last year. The increase of 106 was almost 20 per cent and the figures appeared headed past the 1963 year's record of 4,184.

They were accompanied by the customary increase in vehicle registrations, which appeared about to go over the 6,000,000 mark. Registrations last year were over 5,900,000. And forecasts by provincial officials indicate they will hit about 6,100,000 this year.

The big increase in deaths was in Quebec, where the toll rose by 94 to reach a record 233 and where John Mackenzie of Montreal, secretary-treasurer of the Royal Automobile Club, says there are unique highway problems.

"We have poor roads," he says, "because we are paying for sins of the past. Because we are so far behind today in the fields of education and health, we have to pay twice (through toll roads) for up - to - date roads."

He adds that the provincial police is greatly undermanned and that, because of the dual language situation, the Canadian manual for uniform traffic laws has "gone by the boards." In Montreal the accident situation was worse, than "practically anywhere in North America, because of inadequate traffic laws and not enough police.

TOUGHER TESTS

Deputy Transport Minister Jacques Verreault says new drivers are going to have to pass a tougher questionnaire and road tests will be much more extensive. Legislation is planned for school bus safety.

Alberta, which had a numerically smaller but larger percentage jump from 3 to 43 in the first quarter, has new legislation for registering trailers —which it has some 4,000— and equipping them with rear lights; making brakes mandatory on large trailers; and ordering rear lights for all motorcycles. O. A. Griggs, motor vehicle branch superintendent, also says the province now has the most easily readable licence plates in North America following a five-year study of the point.

R. Paul Lawrence, general manager of the Alberta Safety Council, says there is little need to step up reduction of highway hazards "because the province has been building safety into our highways for many years— we're far ahead of most provinces in that respect."

LOSING GROUND

Neighboring Saskatchewan lost ground in the first quarter—21 fatalities against 16 —but hopes to catch up with these measures:

More personnel for RCMP highway patrols; a meeting of police and crown officers to lighten traffic law enforcement; appointment of a special legislature committee on highway safety; increased government grants for driver training; investigation into provision of scholarships for investigation of traffic accidents.

The Saskatchewan Safety Council plans to ask the government for compulsory annual vehicle inspections and drivers' tests. It also wants compulsory seat belts—now, cars from 1964 on must have belt fittings only —and some stiffer regulations in the Vehicles Act.

Ontario, with first quarter deaths down four at 214, had no major new measures in progress but was stepping up existing programs such as school safety patrols, high school driving instructions (classes to increase from 75 to 125) and the work of community safety councils.

The transport department was increasing to eight from five the number of mobile units that travel around the province giving voluntary mechanical checks to vehicles. Also, stiffer braking standards have been made effective.

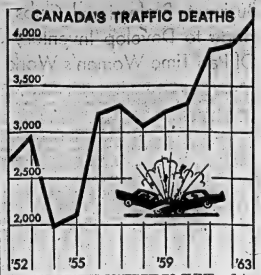
SEEK DANGER SPOTS

Manitoba, whose toll also has dropped from 22 to 15, awaits the report of its nine-man committee set up at the last session of the legislature. Meanwhile, a driver testing system established in Winnipeg is to be extended to all parts of the province, and an analysis is being made to determine highway danger spots. The legislature also has made speeding and careless driving separate offences.

British Columbia, holding its own at 63 deaths, has made seat belts on new cars mandatory from the start of this year and from July 1 it will be illegal to sell unapproved hydraulic brake fluid. It plans a mobile vehicle testing service to go along with the present authority of police to order testing of cars considered unsafe.

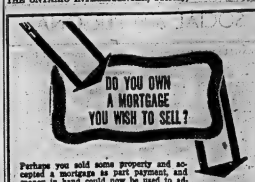
B.C. also has what it calls a "continuing program designed to keep up public awareness" of driving safety including weekend appeals by Highways Minister Phil Gagiardi.

HEAVIER PENALTIES



Prince Edward Island, with a record number of tourists expected as it celebrates the centenary of its participation in Confederation talks, has a new Highway Traffic Act enacted at this year's legislature session and expects to have a highway safety council operating this summer. Officials expect the moves will bring the province abreast of latest traffic requirements.

Another step will be to increase penalties under the new act for unsafe driving.



The tiny province had only two fatalities in the first quarter, down from three a year earlier.

Newfoundland, where deaths were down to nine from 13, has introduced legislative amendments to the Highway Traffic Act to allow persons to receive driver training at age of 16 rather than 17 and to make it illegal to operate a vehicle having broken or cracked window glass. A year-around driver training program is conducted by the Highway Safety Council.

Nova Scotia (22 deaths against 19) and New Brunswick (down to 20 from 22) are launching no new programs. Nova Scotia is extending its driver education system. New Brunswick is making a special effort to keep highway signs and markers in good condition.

ROAD DEATHS CONTINUE TO CLIMB — Intensified traffic safety programs are being introduced in almost every province this year in an effort to reduce the rising number of traffic deaths on Canadian roads. Fatalities have been climbing steadily since 1958, as shown on graph tracing road deaths since 1952. Statistics for the first quarter of this year indicate the number of traffic deaths in 1964 will surpass 1963's record of 4,184. (CP Newsmap)

If all gasolines are the same how come B-A gasolines can give you more power and faster pick-up?

The reason is simply this: B-A Gasolines keep your engine clean so that it can operate at peak efficiency.

Here's how B-A Gasolines do it.

First, B-A Gasolines contain a special detergent to keep the carburetor clean. This gives you smoother idling, positive pick-up and better fuel economy.

Next, B-A Gasolines burn clean and prevent excess combustion deposits from forming on pistons, rings and valves. This means less engine friction and less blow-by. You get more power from every gallon of gasoline.

And of course, there is B-A's exclusive Final-Filter on the pump hose that filters out harmful dirt particles which could interfere with your car's proper performance.

Business, Professional Clubs Hope to Develop Inventory Of Part Time Women's Work

In the eight months since her appointment as head of the Women's Bureau at Ottawa, Ethel McLellan has been looking into all aspects of the employment of women in the province, says Kay Rex in the Business and Professional Women Magazine.

Pension plans are a particular interest of hers at the moment.

She intends to study the pension schemes to see how flexible plans with respect to retirement ages, contributions and benefits is to be derived from contributions. Where women contribute at the same rate as men, pensions plans do not always give them the same benefits.

In some plans should a single woman or wife who has been working, die before retirement, a undistributed pension contributions go into the estate. However, the plan may make no provision for the continuing support of dependents such as close for a man whose wife will receive survivorship benefits upon his death.

The Bureau director is changing the traditional point of view that man is the provider and woman the dependent is not greatly changed, Mrs. McLellan says. She sees no reason why a widower should not be as much entitled to receive a survivor's pension as a widow. It is quite feasible that a woman may be employed to support an invalid husband. At the same time single women may be the supporters of brothers and sisters.

PART TIME WORK

Mrs. McLellan also hopes to look into the possibility of developing some kind of inventory of part-time work available for women in Ontario. The increasing numbers of women between 30 and 35 continue to enter the labor force which already includes some 732,000 female workers. The Women's Bureau director says part time work may be the answer for many women with families. Mrs. McLellan feels that any job most exciting, particularly when viewed in the light of what is happening all over the world. She believes the recent appointment of Mrs. Esther Peterson to the White House post in the United States is important everywhere more attention is given to the things of importance to women.

Mrs. Peterson, head of the Women's Bureau at Washington and also the labor secretary of Labor has been named Special Assistant on consumer matters in the United States.

The director of the Women's Bureau of Ontario is not afraid to speak out on issues because women are not standing up for themselves. She was quite indignant at the advertisements she made with respect to women receiving the same pay as men for equal value of work. The legislation was set out in the Human Rights Code in 1962 and it has not been enforced, women have only themselves to blame, she pointed out at the meeting. "If they don't know or they are afraid to do anything about the fact that they have a legal right to equal pay with them when they do the same work.

If women are afraid of losing their jobs if they file signed complaints, they should turn to one of their community women's organizations for help, she said.

The rights of women are important but there are times when the individual woman feels a situation also have to be kept in mind. A minimum wage to go into effect throughout Ontario provides for a $1 minimum for men in the industrial section of Hamilton, Windsor and of June and 85 cents for women rising to $1 by March, 1965. In the rest of the parts of the province the new minimum provides for $1 cents for men and 80 cents for women. By the end of June, rising to a $1 minimum for men by December, 1965. Mrs. McLellan pointed out that in some areas the rate of pay for women is extremely low and thus the increase to the minimum must be gradual.

"It takes just as long for communities to adjust," she says.

"You can't force a principle at the expense of people. In some instances employers would have to close their doors. We must protect jobs as well as wages."

NOT BRIDGE TO MARRIAGE

The women's Bureau head is critical of the attitude of young women who sometimes look upon merely a bridge to marriage. This, she says, helps keep alive prejudice against working women.

She is equally critical of the parents whom she thinks have a responsibility in making their daughter realize the importance of having a good education in preparing for a job that will be highly technical and self-supporting world. A girl should not just be pulling time in either at school or in a job until she "catches a husband," but should be preparing for all of every opportunity to learn.

Continuing education is what country nowadays, says Mrs. McLellan. Girls about to marry may find themselves in the all likelihood they will be taking employment again when their families are grown.

they should be prepared to cope with the demanding needs of the time.

Mrs. McLellan is married to Edward McLellan, an engineer is with the Bell Telephone Company of Canada. She is a honors graduate in politics and economics from Queen's University, Kingston. Several years she worked as an accountant with an investment firm before her appointment as director of women's activities in the Ontario Department of Transport.

Working With the Families of Alcoholics

This week The Ontario intelligencer is publishing a series of articles that take a positive look at what can be done to further the health and well-being of the alcoholic's family. The articles are reprinted from the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation's magazine Together. Additional Addictions is available on a free subscription basis to professional people and interested laymen. The Foundation is an agency of the Province of Ontario.

(PART TWO OF A SERIES)

By MARGARET COME, (Psychiatric Social Worker)

Most people who have known or attempted to help an alcoholic, have been concerned to some extent with his family. In recent years, however, few have seen the alcohic and his family as a unit of interacting individuals, each of whom affects, and is affected by, the behavior and the personality of the other. The tendency was to think of the man and the problem drinker in isolation, instead of in relation to significant people in his life. Only as he is seen more fully in this context, and we deepen our understanding of him as a member of the family, will we learn about the role in treatment skills and possibly begin to move into one aspect of alcoholism, that of stabilizing the family life for the children of alcoholics.

EARLY PARENTAL INFLUENCES

The alcoholic, like everyone else, began life as a member of the family, and much has been written about the role in the parents played in his developing alcoholism. While there is a fairly widespread agreement on the fact that significant early parental relationships, or lack of them, play a major role in the development of the personality, there is very little to show why some of those who have suffered certain childhood deprivations become alcoholics.

My concern is, however, is with the fact that countless clinicians present, namely, that the personality of the alcoholic is affected by early parental relationships or lack of them. This may or may not be true, but it is the presence of certain characteristics which the excessive use of alcohol, which seems to play a significant part in the development of the personality of family life. These characteristics would also seem to take on significance in the rehabilitation of the family after the drinking is controlled.

Evidence from various studies so far that there is no one personality type amongst those who become alcoholics; it has been generally accepted, however, that many alcoholics do have certain characteristics in common. Some of the most frequently observed characteristics of alcoholics seem to have particular significance for our consideration of the alcoholic's family member would seem 'to be:

— a difficulty in accepting appropriate dependency needs

— excessive dependency needs which often show up as a strong resistance to dependency

— a lack of self-discipline often seen in the impulsivity and indulgence of others

— a preoccupation with self

— a negative attitude towards authority figures, sometimes expressed or acted out hostility

— a sense of inadequacy in certain situations

— an unrealistic approach to problems

—limited interests

— shallow or superficial interpersonal relationships which may be characterized by manipulate or share with another individual at a mature level.

It is clear the alcoholic after the alcoholism has developed more severe, these characteristics become accentuated and may be a source of considerable resentment to the spouse, often leading to a competitive struggle for the dominance. Another source of considerable or constant marital disharmony before or after the alcoholism develops, depending on such basic factors as the original stability in the marital partner, the reaction of the marital partner to the excessive drinking and associated social and emotional problems.

THE NON-ALCOHOLIC SPOUSE

It has already been mentioned, the alcoholic does not exist in a vacuum. His personality and his behavior affects those closest to him, particularly his wife. Because of the inter-action between them, each one helps to keep alive or to accentuate the other's problem. What does the wife contribute to the family problems and-or the on-going excessive drinking? She is often seen as tragic, brave and patient, a helpless victim of circumstances. The clergyman, physician and friends of the family, counsel the wife of an alcoholic as if she is a stable, kind capable and non-involved person. This is not borne according to studies made to date. She is not the innocent bystander in a drama of mistreatment and misery. Segall says that she is "equally responsible for the making of the marriage and the participant in the creation of all the pain and unhappiness that follows".

The husband of an alcoholic woman has not been studied to any great extent. However, he has been found by clinicians to be generally less patient and less accepting than his wife, less able to use help, and more likely to be a determinate in the marriage. For believes that is due in great part to the wife's tendency to be more acquiescenses her husband's illness, to the greater permissiveness in our culture for drinking problems, and to the wife's financial dependence or difficulties generally in raising children alone.

ALCOHOLISM IN THE "NORMAL" FAMILY

I would now like to take a closer look at the families from which the largest group of alcoholics come. This is the family which has a certain degree of relative stability and meaningful interpersonal relationship, the family in which the father, over a number of years, has been a responsible member, at least financially, and-or emotionally. Whatever the relationship problems that conflicts there may have been in either partner have been accepting that a child, developing the disruption or disorganization of family life.

MANY FEARS IN FAMILY

What are the feelings, attitudes and ways of reacting which typify the family from mom to most or many families as they live through the experience of living with an alcoholic member? I list these not in any order of occurrence or of importance. The consequence of lies at some time the need to hide or deny the problem, a tendency to blame the drinking, the drinking, family life answering, play their own interesting part in of identity of the alcoholic member? I list these not in any order of occurrence or of importance. MANY FEARS IN FAMILY fear of what neighbours will say or think, fear of financial deprivation, fear of the future when one is really losing one's mind. Many families go through the experience of supporting the sick member, not so much in a need to deny the problem or to help him, but to help each other but rather to save themselves from the consequences of loss of job and-or sentences. Most wives go through a varying series of attempts to cure him by nagging, babying, bribing, pleading, taking over, and submitting to his every demand, including abuse.

Many families there are frequent and constant quarrels and differences that may never be resolved when the alcoholic problem is solved. The non-alcoholic partner often lines up the children and-or other members of the family so as to identifies with his illness that the whole family life and, the individual partners in particular, learns is geared to keeping the father sober, or coping with the consequences when he has been drinking. Some wives leave home time and again, usually not because they want to, but to punish or show their independence. Some find a way of going on without the alcoholic partner, almost as if he weren't there, even though they are still under the same roof. Many mothers take on the role of separation by over-identifying with the children and their interests and needs, to the exclusion of the alcoholic.

SUGGESTIONS FOR FAMILY AID

There are several general implications of all this on family life if continued over a period of years:

— in relative degree the roles of all family members may become distorted or lost sight of.

— individual members may feel relatively misunderstood without opportunity or psychic energy to Work this through.

— the family as a unit and individually may feel isolated from normal social contacts and experiences. Individual members are thrown back more and more on one another, with less and less chance of these relationships being satisfying.

— meaningful family goals may be lost sight of in the hurly-burly of crises and values that were there before may be changed.

— the wife and mother may be so absorbed in controlling and drinking or curing the alcoholism that she has little energy or thought to give to the children's emotional development and problems beyond that of day-to-day care.

— personality differences and inadequacies in both marital partners may become accentuated, which in turn may increase the need to increase the consumption of alcohol. This sets into motion new or different reaction or interaction between family members and the effected vicious circle is observed.

Bare-Bosom Swim Suits Highlight Fashion Show

TORONTO (CP) — Bosom-baring swim suits may be the most challenging fashion in sight for the coming season, to think of showing them in public will be stopping on the law.

The latest swim wear previewed at the opening Monday of the Garment Salesmen Ontario Market Week in Toronto here. The show, displaying all sorts of Canadian fall fashions, continues through Friday.

Girls modelling the swimsuits drew the attention, as expected, of conventioneers who are at the show to decide on what fabrics to stock in their stores.

One suit featured a long-sleeved transparent blouse-type top with opaque panels at the topless variety, had only two thin straps crossing front. A third showed a long bra-like top.

There was no indication of how popular the topless and transparent suits were with buyers.

Set a police morality squad should officials in a later interview that women displaying them in public could be liable to charges of indecent exposure.

LIABLE TO CHARGE

Sgt. William Pilkington of the Metropolitan Toronto police department said women could be caught wearing the new topless bathing suit in public would be liable to charges under Section 159 of the Criminal Code.

The law states: "Every person who wilfully and without lawful excuse is node in a public place or is nude and exposed to public view is guilty of an offence, whether or not the property is his own is liable to six months imprisonment or a fine of $500 or both.

Another section of the attorney-general must be obtained before proceedings can be started on charges under the code, so that current public attitudes toward the offence can be considered.

Mrs. Estelle Shiff, vice president of Sea Queen of Canada Limited, sponsors of Mondays fashion gala, White said: She noted that two years ago the firm production of two-piece products were relatively less than two per cent of its total production and few were bikinis.

This year, he said, his firms sales of two-piece swimsuits were about 30 per cent of over all sales and shops can't keep up with the bikini demand.

PREDICTS FASHIONS

Meanwhile, Vivian Wilcox, fashion editor of two Toronto publications, Chatelaine and Style magazines, predicted that flounced, flared and pleated skirts will be the fashion this fall.

She told the buyers at a breakfast meeting that the influence of the 1930's is apparent in many fall styles — black suits with wide pants, beadhugging hats, little black crepe dresses with V-necks and camisole tops.

She predicted the following trends:

—The shift dress with looser bodice, to give a slender look and long, tight sleeves.

—Mullticolor fabrics in tweeds, plaids and giant houndstooth checks in coats and suits with Swede trim on tweeds as well as men's stripes, wrap coat styles, belted in front or all around and pleated skirts.

—Low-waisted jumpers, pantskirts and back-pleated skirts for back-to-school wear.

—Mohair skirts in plaids and tartans with velvet gowns and floor-length skirts for home wear.

—Tubular quilt jackets, pants and jumpsuits in tartans and pastels for all wear with ski sweaters and matching caps, gaiters and knee socks.

—Ruffled housecoats with bolero or stretch lace to match.

—Middy blouses and pleated skirts in children's wear; with jumpers featuring the new plaids, coats and ski wear of leather-like fabrics, colors from black and white trios to shades of green, red, brown or beige.

Barbecue Bonus

For "blue sky" cooking at its best, try tossing cherry tomatoes to steaks, finished off in gourmet style. Just crumble some Canadian blue cheese into soft butter and spread on top of the steaks when they're just about done to your liking. Leave 'em cooking till the grand cheese taste gets inside the meat. Ummmm . . . delish ! Good idea for hamburgers too !

"Walk-Away" Salads

Be the first on your street to hand out Salad Cones to the youngsters. Just dunk some raisins to creamed cottage cheese, then scoop it into the cone-shaped pastry fill with ice cream. Fine idea for picnics and backyard suppers !

Calling All Buttermilk Fans

Here's your chance to make a few converts to your summer drink . . . mix it with chocolate ! For two servings of Chocolate Frosted Delight, mix together a cup of buttermilk and a cup of chocolate milk. Add a spoonful of vanilla ice cream and big scoops of chocolate ice cream. Beat at high speed until smooth and frothy, then serve in tall glasses.

Casserole Salad

Macaroni and cheese, that family winner, can come in on nifty salad attire for summer meals. Just add some French dressing and dainty sour cream to cold macaroni and cheese and spoon into lettuce cups. For variety, try adding creamed cottage cheese along with the cheddar when you make this dish. Delicious, hot or cold !

Un-stuck Marshmallows

Here's a hint for your next marshmallow toasting session. If you take along a bag of butter, you can prevent the marshmallows from sticking to the forks or sticks. Just thrust them into the butter before you spear the marshmallows . . . then you'll enjoy every precious golden morsel !

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I just heard that the mother of a friend, passed away several months ago. Although I rarely see this friend and have not spoken to her in other city several years ago — I still would like to send her a note, since I knew her mother fairly well and liked her immensely. Would it be possible to send condolences this late? I hate without adding to her sorrow? — Mrs. E. A., Washington, D.C.

Answer: Condolences may still be sent and, even though late, probably would be sincerely appreciated.

Question: Am I wrong in becoming irritated at guests who just assume too much when they're in your home? For instance, as I was pouring tea in the kitchen, a friend who was visiting took it upon herself to answer the doorbell when it rang without even asking me. A gossipy neighbor, I always try to avoid was at the door and my visitor ushered her right into the living room. Since she was there I had to offer her tea, as well, and she made herself comfortable for the rest of the afternoon. If I had answered the door myself I could have headed her off and been spared a miserable two hours of listening to this woman drone on about everybody's business. Would you do me a favor and print this letter? I tried not to let my visitor see how annoyed I was at what she had let us in for when she opened my door, but perhaps she'll read my remarks in your column and won't overstep herself in the future. — Mrs. W O. H., Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: A visitor should never make herself so much at home that she takes any responsibilities from the hostess. If the doorbell or the phone ring, a guest — even an old friend or a relative — should let the hostess, if she's busy, whether she may answer it for her, and do so only if the hostess gives her consent.

Question: A couple recently came to dinner, which I served about nine. We had coffee in the living room, and I expected they'd leave about eleven or so — but was I ever wrong. They stayed on and on until about 1:30, when they finally got the idea — possibly from my yawning — that it was about time to leave. My husband and I both work, and next morning neither of us was exactly bright on the job. When this happens, what's a host and hostess do to protect themselves? Would it appear rude simply to say we have to get up early in the morning and suggest we continue the conversation at a later date? This couple is notorious for their late sit- ting, but they are nice people and I wouldn't want to be abrupt and hurt their feelings. What's a polite "out" in such a situation? — Mrs. L. C., Syracuse, N. Y.

Answer: When guests just don't know when to go home, the hostess can start emptying ash trays and carting away coffee cups as a gentle hint. But if this doesn't work, she can always make her husband the fall-guy by breaking into one of his soliloquies with a subtle, "Darling, I'm afraid you'll simply have to end the discussion here. These people have to get some sleep, and I think we've kept them up late enough." At least this way it doesn't appear you're giving them the heave-ho. Instead, it sounds like your long-winded husband has been holding them practically captive. If you hand them their hats with much apologizing for making them stay so long, it should send them on their way immediately in a happy frame of mind.

St. Mark's WA Observes 50th Anniversary

A sunny warm day was quite in order and appropriate for the celebrating of the 50th anniversary of St. Mark's Woman's Auxiliary of the Mission and Society of the Anglican Church of Canada in Bonarlaw.

Evensong and thanksgiving prayers were conducted by Rev. Robert Stewart, the rector and an address by His Grace Bishop Evans was heard by about 70 guests from most of the Anglican parishioners as far south as Belleville and Trenton. An appropriate solo was rendered by Mrs. E. Woodbeck with Mrs. Neal at the organ.

Before the close of the service, Bishop Evans dedicated an electric organ, the gift of St. Mark's W.A. to the church, also a lectern the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Woodbeck in memory of Mrs. Woodbeck's father and mother, Bertha and Jason Baker.

The flowers on the altar were donated by the W.A., also two others baskets of flowers in memory of Mrs. John Eastwood, a charter member and donated by her two grandchildren of Whitby. The second basket was in memory of all the deceased members donated by the present W.A.

Following the service the guests were entertained at tea afternoon tea in the Sunday School rooms in the basement. Mrs. Berlow, the president graciously welcomed the guests. She read several letters of greeting followed by a lovely little poem. In closing she asked for two minutes' silence in memory of the deceased ones. A paper was given by each of the two charter members left, Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Brown. The deranged man and his homemade flamethrower. Walter Seifert also spared two teachers to death when he invaded a Catholic elementary school last Thursday and aimed the flamethrower in the classrooms.

A demonstration on the use of the telephone with many points brought to mind regards to the speaking voice and the position of the receivers to make a well understood voice given by Mrs. Bakey. She made a tape recording of several of the ladies' voice to emphasize her point.

A gift was presented to the president, Mrs. E. Anderson who thanked the ladies for their fine co-operation during the past two years. She also gave a report of the Guelph conference at which time she was the delegate as district director. Thank-you notes were received from Mrs. M. Ketcheson and Mrs. John Melvihill.

State Laws Regarding Burial of Jewelry Differ

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I was particularly interested in the letter from the young man who wanted to know what you thought about having his mother dug up because he heard from relatives that she had been buried in expensive jewelry.

My nephew had an experience which might throw some light on this subject. His young wife died suddenly. He was so grieved that he gave no thought to the wedding ring or the wrist watch she was wearing at the time of the accident. When she was laid out the wrist watch and wedding ring were on her hand.

ANN LANDERS

After the funeral the mortician handed my nephew an envelope and told him it contained his wife's jewelry. My nephew said, "I thought she was buried with it."

The mortician replied, "It is against the law to bury people in jewelry."

So, if a loved one is thought to be buried in jewelry perhaps it would be wise to check with the undertaker and find out what he did with it. — MAY JUSTICE BE DONE.

DEAR MAY — Each state has its own burial laws. My Illinois experts tell me there is no law in this state which prohibits burying a person in jewelry. In fact, a Chicago funeral director was buried recently wearing his diamond cufflinks because his wife requested that this be done.

DEAR ANN — I am almost out of my mind with worry. My husband and I (both 55) raised a lovely daughter. She was married eight years ago to a young man who seemed superb in every way. They now have three youngsters.

Last week my daughter sobbed out her story. She is at the breaking point. Her husband has been abusive to her from the start. He has had one affair after another and has lost all her love and respect for him. He refused to get outside help and the poor girl is going to pieces.

She is not a complainer, Ann. I hadn't heard one word about her trouble until now.

God knows I don't want to interfere with her life, but I can't bear to see her go on this way. Do I dare invite her and the children to my home? We live in a neighboring city. It would not be easy, but we could manage.

I haven't said anything to my husband. I wanted to get your opinion first. Help, please. — HEARTSICK.

DEAR HEARTSICK — I am opposed to "inviting" married children to "come home." Many marriages might have been saved if the wife had no alternative but to stay put and work out her problems.

Don't invite your daughter to come home, but let her know if life becomes intolerable, or if her husband continues to abuse her physically, she and the children have a place with you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am the fifth grade English teacher at Stewart School in Cincinnati. As an experiment, I read to my class the letter from your column about Jerry, who was put in charge when the teacher left the room.

Two of Jerry's best friends behaved badly. When the teacher returned she found the room in an uproar. Jerry reported his friends as the trouble?makers and they lost their privileges for one week. The friends became angry with Jerry for "snitching." He wanted to know if he was in the right or not.

I am sending you the responses from my fifth-graders. As you can see every student agreed with your advice. Interesting! — E.R

DEAR E.R. — Very! I was further pleased to see that your fifth graders can also spell and put sentences together properly. Cheers for Stewart School in Cincinnati.

"Take the Rough With the Smooth" Is Advice From Woman Ambassador

By KATHLEEN WESTCOTT

VIENNA (CP) — Margaret Meagher, Canada's first woman ambassador, has a word for women in the diplomatic service. It is adaptability.

"It is important to realize that this is a job of work, some of it routine," says the blue-eyed brunette who is ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Austria. "One must of course like people, but the main thing is adaptability.

"There are some postings where life is not as comfortable as in Canada, but the inconveniences are more than compensated for by the interesting life. One must learn to take the rough with the smooth."

Miss Meagher, a 53-year-old native of Halifax, has had it rough and smooth. She got into the service before it was officially open to women—a many-power-short 1942 and by 1945 was still being paid as a Grade 4 clerk while doing a diplomat's work as third secretary of the embassy in Mexico City.

She was ready to move up, having specialized at Dalhousie University in political science and modern languages, when it was decided in 1947 to admit women diplomats.

IN ATOMIC AGENCY

By the time she was named ambassador to Israel in 1958, she had risen as first secretary and later counsellor at the high commissioner's office in London and Canada's delegate to Paris in Tel Aviv, which at that time shared a Canadian ambassador with Greece.

By virtue of her Austrian ambassadorship — which she took over in 1962—she also is the only woman on the board of governors of the International Atomic Energy Agency, which has its headquarters in Vienna. This is an executive committee of 25 members that gives general direction on the programs and policies of the special technical agency of the United Nations.

Her duties as ambassador include protecting the interests of individual Canadians in Austria, fostering trade and commerce and supplying information about Canada to the Austrians and interpreting Austrian developments to the home government.

To find out what's going on, and for relaxation, she likes to drive around the country — in her own car and without the official chauffeur.

FOUR LANGUAGES

"You can't get to know a country and its people if you only sit in its capital," she says.

She also enjoys opera and music—which Vienna offers in abundance — and plays bridge and golf.

An able conversationalist she speaks French, German and Spanish—she can hold her own on the diplomatic social circuit and has a reputation as a hostess. She is equally at home lunching in the self-service cafeteria of the Atomic Agency and entertaining in her official residence.

But too many people, she said, have the impression that most of a diplomat's life is spent at cocktail parties. She emphasized that the social life is useful in establishing relations with people on a personal and friendly basis, which become handy in carrying out official duties.

She finds the diplomatic service interesting and stimulating. "There is an opportunity to work with people of different outlooks and cultural backgrounds."

She doesn't regard herself as doing a man's work.

"I think there's a place for women in the diplomatic service," she says. She adds there are almost 30 women in Canada's foreign service and undoubtedly some will reach the rank of ambassador.

ADAPTABLE AMBASSADOR—Margaret Meagher, Canada's first woman ambassador, says one of the most important qualities needed by women in the diplomatic service is adaptability. An ambassador to Austria, Miss Meagher also is the only woman on the board of governors of the International Atomic Energy Agency. Since she entered the diplomatic service in 1942, the ambassador has served in posts from Mexico to Israel. (CP Photo)

Rice-Banana Bread Is Gluten-Free

by Mary Moore

Readers of this column who are not acquainted with the problems of folks allergic to wheat gluten may be out of patience with today's recipe. But they will have to bear with me, for those who do need this help need it very much.

It gave us a great deal of inner satisfaction to test this Rice-Banana Bread for we know we will receive fervent thanks from mothers of allergic children.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Shepherd's Pie (see Monday); Generous Tossed Salad; Pineapple and Cherry Upside Down Cake; Tea.

RICE-BANANA BREAD:

1 cup unsifted rice flour (not ground rice), 4 teaspoons single-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening,* ½ cup sugar, 2 large eggs, ½ cup milk, 1 cup mashed ripe bananas (4½-oz.) strained baby food bananas.

Cream shortening with sugar until light. Beat in unbeaten eggs; sift together rice flour, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beating after each addition. Fold in baby food bananas. Beat egg whites until very stiff and fold in until incorporated. Turn batter into buttered wax-paper-lined 7 x 5 x 2¾" loaf pan. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes, or until when tested at centre with fingertips, loaf springs back. Cool on rack before slicing.

This loaf could be an all-purpose bread for allergic children. It is good toasted with jam or jelly or peanut butter. Sliced thinly it makes a good toasted cheese sandwich. So it will add a lot of variety to the diets of allergic children.

In addition mothers could also frost it with a simple icing to make it more like cake for them. I frosted one of ours with lemon icing made of ½ cup icing sugar, 2 teaspoons each butter and lemon juice. It was good and sweetened the loaf up a little.

* NOTE:

On April 10/64 we gave in this column two other gluten-free recipes: Gluten Free Plain Cookies and Gluten-Free Raisin Cookies. If any of our readers have need gluten-free recipes missed these and would like copies, write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Grade 2 Pupils Can Converse In French

VANCOUVER (CP) — Irene Roland was going over the arithmetic lesson with Grade 2 students.

It was a routine sort of thing — with one exception. The entire review and all the students' responses were in French.

Mrs. Roland was following an experiment by York House private school for girls here of making French a living language rather than just another school subject.

The experiment was launched last September and at the school year ended the six- and seven - year - olds in Grade 2 could read French elementary texts as well as they could read English texts and could converse freely in French with their teacher.

French was being used to review arithmetic and geometry, although the subjects were also taught in English.

Mrs. Roland, a teacher in Paris 13 years before coming here last year, teaches all York House elementary and kindergarten students French. But she says Grade 2 was selected for more intensive work because the children by then were adjusted to a full day of school and had begun to learn to read, write and compute.

"Their curriculum content is simple enough to lend itself to duplication in French.

"We hoped to build on each group's experience with French from year to year so that by the time they enter high school they will be ready for fluent reading and discussion of French literature and culture."

PROPORTIONS IN FASHION

One hundred years ago, women carried small bags called "reticules", in which to hold a calling card case, a handkerchief and a few coins. It was not necessary in those days for her to carry her house key because when she left home she was accompanied by her father, her brother or her husband. As the lady of 1964 did not smoke or engage in business, she did not need a large handbag.

The handbag of 1964 has been greatly affected by the social changes of the past 100 years. Today, the efficient handbag must carry not only money but calling cards, smoking equipment, make-up, reading glasses, pen, notebook and an address book.

Therefore, the handbag of today must be large enough to accommodate this load. Paris says that the small handbag is about to return to the fashion scene. Unless Paris' version is well-designed with this load in mind, many women will reject fashion's latest dictate as being impractical.

COSTUME ACCESSORIES

A certain relationship must be observed between the type of handbag, glove and hat worn as accessories with any costume. When a large hat is worn by a small or average-sized woman, she must avoid the too large bag, otherwise she will appear as a walking hat and bag wearing a woman. Accessories must balance each other. If the bag is big, it should be balanced by a smaller hat. On the other hand, if the hat is brimmed and big, the size of the handbag should be medium to small. The type of hat should also correspond to the type of bag with which it is worn. Naturally no one would wear a flowered hat with a sporty Italian-type handbag nor a suede hat with a dressy, suede handbag.

Gloves and handbags are the two accessories which have not suffered from the public indifference affecting millinery. Gloves are still worn, although quite often hats are discarded. A handbag is as necessary as a pair of shoes. Sometimes, the selection of the correct type of gloves is rather casual, but again the color, type and kind of gloves depend on the costume. Just as it is not suitable to wear fine decorated kid gloves with a tweed suit, neither is it good taste to wear heavy stitched pigskin gloves with anything but casual suits, coats or sportswear.

The old mystique that handbags, gloves and shoes must match has finally been shattered. Such co-ordination leads only to boredom and boredom is fatal to good fashion sense.

New Outfits For Nurses of V.O.N.

OTTAWA (CP)—New summer uniforms designed to be both comfortable and "in touch with fashion" are to be worn by the 600 members of the Victorian Order of Nurses during the summer months of the year.

The new outfit is a blue-grey pin stripe and represents the first color change from the former solid blue uniforms in more than 15 years. It is a one-piece, belted dress with tucked bodice, shawl collar, pleated back and short sleeves.

The material, drip-dry dacron and cotton, is expected to prove more comfortable than the old uniform — a navy blye rayon blend.

"The new uniform has a matching collar, the first VON uniform with matching collar in several years. The collar in previous uniforms was white.

GLOVES REMAIN

Color contrast is provided by two white tabs which are snapped on under the collar. White gloves remain standard VON equipment.

The hat represents another departure from tradition as the old navy blue felt tricorne makes way for a blue-grey beret matching the uniform.

The new look was recommended by a representative committee of the VON's Council of Nurses, which meets every two years to review policies and procedures.

When the cooler weather sets in, the nurses will revert to regular winter attire—the familiar navy blue dress with the new matching beret in navy felt.

Meteor owners use their garages for storing tools, ladders, baby buggies, bicycles, toboggans, etc.

(Well, you wouldn't hide a beautiful car like this in a garage, would you?)

Beautiful—yet every inch is practical. For instance, push that button on the dash. Look in the rear view mirror. Meteor's Breezeway rear window is gliding down. Lower it just a little to counteract misting. Lower it the whole way for lots of fresh air—without that wind-tunnel effect. And because the rear window slants inward, weather don't get at it . . . can't obscure your rear vision, stutmiter or winter.

Meteor's size is beautifully right, too. It's a full 215.5 inches long (take six giant steps.) It's wide (two giant steps.) You enjoy a smoother, more stable ride, and far easier handling. And the interior is as big as the feeling you get when you drive a Meteor.

Think of this long, beautiful car in your driveway. (And think of all the stuff you'll be able to store in your garage!) Now go and see your Mercury dealer.

Reeve of Hallowell Throws 'Bombshell' Into Meeting

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County Council today inaugurated their new policy that of meeting one day each month instead of three days about three or four times a year. They waded through a lot of work in the one-day session.

Del Huff, Reeve of Hallowell, waited until just before the motion to adjourn to "drop his bombshell" into the meeting.

Reeve Huff told council that the residents of Hallowell were not in favor of making over the present county buildings as a county Centennial program.

"We here at council have estimated the total cost as $60,000," he said. "I tell you now; that if the cost is over that, Hallowell will not go along."

If Hallowell does not go along with the county, other municipalities will withdraw, which would mean that there would be no Centennial project as a county.

Before any action was taken, it was decided to wait for the architect's estimate of the total cost of the project, and if it is out of line, then it is possible the entire project may be shelved.

It is not known if any of the municipalities can ask for a project, if the entire county as a whole does not enter one, neither is it known at this time, if the project of the county is rejected, will the government allow time to present one that will be accepted.

Picton's Deputy-Reeve, Don Thomson, told council that in his opinion, the new setup of having one meeting each month was a good one. "It is stupid to call a committee meeting costing the county $75 just to pass a couple of motions," he added.

WILL PURCHASE CHESTS

The council purchased 24 chests for officials of the county to wear. These are a beautifully made crest. It is thought that the councillors will each provide a blazer on which to wear these crests. The crest cost is $6.50 each and will be purchased by those wishing to wear them.

At the request of Robert Boyce, Wellington's Reeve, County Council endorsed the new road from Wellington to the Sandbanks, as proposed by the Dept. of Lands and Forests.

Deputy - Reeve George Cunningham of Ameliasburg asked council to pay two bills for ambulance service to indigent patients, one for $20 and one for $30.

Tom Walker, Clerk - Treasurer told council that running an ambulance was the same as running any other type of business. "They must collect their own bills, or list them as non-collectable". He also pointed out that each municipality pays its own indigent patients ambulance calls.

Gordon Boyd, Reeve of Hillier asked council to write the D.O.H. and ask that they reconsider their decision in regard to the intersection of County road one and Highway 33. "This is a dangerous intersection, there have been several bad accidents there and we would like something done, before there is a fatal accident", the Reeve added.

MUST PAY COUNTY

Tom Walker told council that some of the Township clerks are accepting money for arrears in taxes and this must be stopped.

"After February 20th in any year, all money paid into taxes are considered as taxes paid on the year previous, and are credited to that year. In no circumstances is a clerk to accept money for taxes say back two years, that money must be paid to the County treasurer," Mr. Walker said.

Mr. Walker also warned council that they are holding too many committee meetings and that if they are not curtailed they will soon be away over their indemnity budget. "In fact you will exceed it by at least one and a half times," he told them.

The Public Health Nurses in the county are asking a raise in pay to bring them into line with other areas. They are seeking a minimum of $4,000 with $200 annually increases to a maximum of $6,000. "They are half threatening to walk off their jobs if this increase is not forthcoming," Dodon Demore, Reeve of Athol, told council. Council passed a motion to give them a $200 increase effective the first of 1965.

Council gave the Agricultural Society $2,000 for supplying of service to the convention of the Home for the Aged Convention slated for Picton in September. It is thought that this money will be used to pay for installing a cement floor in the curling rink, which will be used for a banquet for the convention.

START HOFFA FUND

DETROIT (AP) — A Teamsters official started a drive Sunday to raise $70,000 for President James R. Hoffa's legal fees, charging Hoffa was a victim of a government attempt to "destroy the American labor movement." A "Hoffa defence fund" drive was announced at a meeting of 1,800 Teamster stewards at the union's headquarters.

Indian Model Still Claiming Princess Title

TORONTO—(CP) — Mohawk Indian model Kahn-Tineta Horn, 22, of Caughnawaga, Que., Saturday declared herself still Indian princess of Canada although the National Indian Council earlier withdrew her title earlier this month.

"The dismissal was completely unfair because only four of the 17 directors of the NIC voted to depose me," she said in an interview after appearing unrelated at the annual meeting of the North American Indian Club of Toronto.

Miss Horn was shorn of her title, fired from her position as chairman of the NIC's world fair subcommittee and did not assisted as an NIC director during an executive meeting at Montreal June 5.

William Wuttunee, 36, a Calgary lawyer and chief of the NIC, said a majority of the 17-member executive voted to withdraw Miss Horn's Princess of Canada title. He attended the Toronto banquet but never spoke face to face with Miss Horn.

SAYS HAS PROOF

"We have minutes of the meeting to prove it," he told reporters.

Mr. Wuttunee's statement was in accord with another made Saturday by Wilfred Pelletier, executive director of the NIC and chairman of the centennial committee, who said in an interview the decision was made by a full quorum.

Believe Boy Died in Car Of Influenza

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Kenneth Barrie, six - year - old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barrie of Toronto, was found dead in the rear seat of his grandparents' car here Monday.

He had just driven from Toronto with the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly of Peterborough, for a week's visit. He had never been away from home before and was to start school in September.

Pathologist Dr. E. A. Dutkewitch said after a preliminary autopsy she believed the boy died from complications of an influenza-like disease. The boy had suffered an attack of influenza several weeks ago.

"He was asleep when we arrived and we did not want to disturb him, so we just left him," Mr. Kelly said.

A short, time later, his 19-year-old aunt, Lorraine Kelly, came out to see him and saw that he was not breathing. He was taken to hospital but did not respond to treatment.

Candidates for Leadership Of Liberal Party in Ontario Give Views to Associations

PICTON (Staff) — The Prince Edward-Lennox Liberal Association and the Hastings East and West Liberal Associations held a meeting at the Queen Elizabeth School here Monday night to hear speeches from six candidates for the leadership of the Ontario Liberal party at the convention slated for this fall.

Joseph Gould, MPP, Toronto; Bracondale; Joseph J. Greene, MPP, Renfrew South; Robert Nixon, MPP, Brant; Eddie Sargent, mayor of Owen Sound and MPP Grey North; Charles Templeton, Advt. Executive, Toronto, and Andrew Thompson, MPP, Toronto Downscrount, addressed the meeting. There were about 150 people present.

The speakers were, in all fairness, "whistling past the graveyard", as since the riding was formed as Prince Edward-Lennox back in 1910 they have never elected a Liberal to the Federal house, and only once, that back in the early forties did they send a member to the provincial Legislature, that was Don Baxter, who, sat for one term. Since then it has been a solid Conservative strong-hold.

Joseph Gould, the first to speak, told the gathering that he suspected there was much waste in the Department of Highways, and also in the Department of Education.

"A man's religion, his position in life should not be a factor as to his being a good leader," he said. "He can be a farmer, or an executive of a large or small concern, we can put the Liberal party back in power if he will first choose the right man, and then go and work for him."

MUST HAVE EXPERIENCE

"Above all, he must have experience in political life, and with 25 years in this business, I feel I am well qualified for the leadership."

Charles Templeton an executive editor of the Toronto Star, told them why he chose to run for the leadership. "It is because I think that Confederation is being threatened. It started with the Quebec revolution back in 1956 and blossomed into full bloom in March 1963 when the F.L.Q. woke every Canadian to the fact that perhaps all was not well with Confederation, which could well change the face of Canada," he said.

"People in Quebec and the rest of Canada do not understand each other," he added. "I suggested in the house just the other day that the Premier of Ontario should get together with the Premier of Quebec, not in a formal meeting, but rather in a very unofficial, informal meeting and sit down and see if they could not thrash this thing out.

"We are in a mess as far as our 100th birthday celebrations are concerned. The government promised help in the form of grants to any municipality who had a project. The deadline for these applications is July 30.

CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD — OPP detachment stationed in Campbellford and Chief Baird of Campbellford police force report a very quiet weekend.

One accident occurred at Trent River. David Allen Stebbens, 24, of R. R. 5, travelling on No. 30 Highway, failed to negotiate a bend in the highway, went into the ditch, turned over, struck a culvert and dug up a tree, rolled over again, struck another tree and came to rest on the highway facing south. The car, with Mr. Stephens still in it, was badly damaged, but Mr. Stephens was not injured. The accident was investigated by OPP Constable C. Creasy.

FIGHT POLLUTION

TORONTO (CP) — The Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations Wednesday urged the Ontario health department to create an accelerated program to curb water pollution in cottage areas. In a letter to Health Minister Dymond, President A. C. Hood advocated an increase in the number of health inspectors and a $5-to-$10 raise in their salaries.

Nurses Doing Relief Duty Want Daily Rate of $15

PICTON (Staff) — Many registered nurses, who have been assisting in the local hospital, doing relief duty, met on Tuesday June 9th regarding the refusal of the Hospital Board to grant them a daily rate of $15 ($1.85 per hour).

Prior to the meeting the nurses endeavored to negotiate with the Board through the Hospital Administrator of Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital. In the meantime the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario and Ontario Hospital Services Commission have given many factual and pertinent information.

Their request, endorsed by the R.N.A.O. since 1963, has been in effect in many Ontario hospitals. All Metro Toronto Boards and surrounding areas, as well as other boards pay $17. The local board, through their administrator, should have been aware of the R.N.A.O. personnel policies, sent out yearly, to all hospital boards and employers of nurses for their guidance in setting fair and equitable salaries.

Belleville and Trenton Hospital Boards pay relief duty registered nurses $15 fee. Before June 1 the relief duty nurses at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital received $13 ($1.62½ per hour). The Board will now pay the nurses $14, but with no assurance or guarantee that the $15 rate will be realistically in line with the full time general duty Registered Nurse.

This was the decision handed the nurses by the Board administrating public funds with a substantial carry over ($30,000) at the end of the last fiscal year and with over $300,000 in bequests helping to finance the P.C.M. Hospital.

WILL NOT SERVE AT RATE

The nurses are a profession-al group and they have to remain in this category, therefore, they do not wish to go through this "near begging" procedure again because this Board refuses to comply with the RNAO's minimum salary recommendations. The economic welfare of its members is recognized as one of the legitimate concerns of a profession, especially as they cannot exercise this privilege.

The future of nursing lies in the hands of nurses. There is no one to be concerned about nurses but themselves, so they feel that fair treatment, reasonable remuneration in line with those prevailing in other comparable groups, e.g., teachers, are not incompatible to dedication, devotion and the desire to serve.

After much discussion and thought it was the unanimous decision of the nurses to retire from part time duty nursing until the fee of $15 (per 8 hour day) is recognized by the board.

It is felt that the service in the past helped make possible to maintain a reasonably well staffed hospital, therefore, it is with their sincere hope that this action will not cause any undue hardships on the patients or on their nursing colleagues.

Harry Brusseau, 79, Started In Printing Trade in City, Still Active in Michigan

By HARRY MULHALL

There is something about age in shle day and age that seems to do seniority proud.

Take Harry Brusseau, now 79, once a Belleville newspaperman, now a resident of Learborn, Mich.

He started in the printing trade at the Belleville Ontario making "$1.50 a week for a 58-hour week" in 1900.

Yesterday, at the height of his career in the same craft he was asked about automation in the newspaper printing profession. He was lucid. He was direct. He was also born in 1885.

Automation, in his words, is here to stay.

It is the whole make his views so important.

For instance to say Mr. Brusseau is 79 years of age makes him only a cipher in Canadian local history. But today he was, by virtue of age, born in 1885 conjures up a different background of the individual in history.

The date makes Mr. Brusseau by birth a Victorian, by world-ly experience an Edwardian.

Yet imagine the span of his story represented between his natal year of 1885 and 1964.

In 1885 for instance there was a big event that happened that changed history — the death of Gordon at Khartoum.

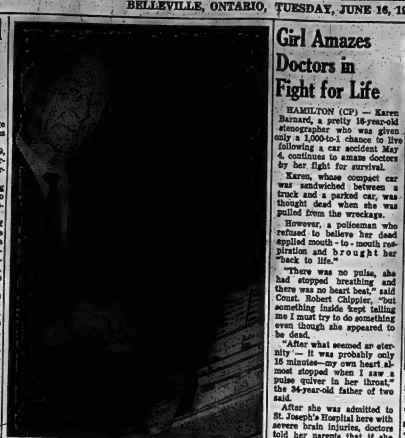
Imagine, Mr. Brusseau, born in that year, could look on modern times and be asked a question about automation.

What did he think about it? He replied:

"I wouldn't want to go back to cranking a car to start it—would you? You might as well accept it, it's here to stay."

WORKS IN DETROIT

So, while the printer men get their hackles up about automation, an oldtimer like Mr. Brusseau takes it in his benefit of it.



And now let's get down to the reason for writing about him. He is a printer from way back who was employed by the Michigan Typesetting Company in Detroit.

However, yesterday he dropped into The Ontario Intelligencer to emphasize his background, a little broader than that.

Mr. Brusseau began his connection with the printing trade in his hometown of Belleville. In July of 1900 he joined the staff of the Ontario.

Those were the days in which journalism was making its name — particularly in Canadian small towns where politics dictated newspaper policy. Then each party had its newspaper. Since there were only two parties in existence (Conservatives) and Grits (Liberals) this simplified matters for the electorate.

However, Mr. Brusseau realls, he also made for some hearty jousting between local journals.

SIXTY YEARS' experience in setting type is demonstrated by Harry Brusseau as he sets headline in The Ontario Intelligencer office.

At such times invective was lavish and during days of great issue, all manner of calumny was visited on the head of the opposition paper via its editorial writers.

One such writer, recalls the veteran, was Harry Davis from Palmerston, who "put an editorial in one time so strong that the Port Hope paper suggested someone should put cracked ice on the head of the Ontario's editor to cool him down."

GOT FIRED

The editorials of the opposition were no better, as any student may glean from the files.

The opposition in Mr. Brusseau's time was The Daily Intelligencer, then run by the venerable figure of MacKenzie Bowell, former Prime Minister of Canada.

He had a chance to work under that shadowy figure of Canadian history, when, Mr. Brousseau admits, he was fired from The Ontario.

Newspaper work in those days, he recalls, was "great fun" and neither side "took each other really seriously in the battle of the editorial columns."

However, one day, The Ontario installed an automatic folder—and lights down. As a kid he began to make wisecracks around the shop when a workman arrived to repair it. Everybody started to laugh.

The Ontario publisher, T. S. Carman, came storming out of his office into the midst of the uproar and told him:

"You got the hell outa here. You're not wanted with this newone we have at the plant."

So says Mr. Brusseau, he went over to Cherry Printing, another shop in town, where he stayed more than six years. Then he went with The Intelligencer — MacKenzie Bowell's paper.

He left there in 1910 and stayed for two years.

He recalls the former unsuccessful prime minister whom history has ignored in this personal fashion: "He was a fine old gentleman—one of the grandest men. He was very personal in the plant and he'd come out and talk to the men in the plant."

After the Intelligencer, he moved west, set up business successfully in Regina and later in Winnipeg.

MARRIED OLD SWEETHEART

His stretch there varied from working for newspapers to establishing his own independent business. There was one break.

At The Intelligencer he'd met Mary Napban of Tyendinaga Township — before moving west. The impression was a lasting one.

"We corresponded for .six-and-a-half years then I came back and married her," says Mr. Brusseau.

After the wedding they returned to Winnipeg but soon again headed east. This time they stopped in Detroit where today at 79, Mr. Brusseau still is an active member of the Michigan Typesetting Corporation.

"I want to work for another year and a half until I'm 81," says the spry, healthy-appearing near-octogenarian.

After that there's a good possibility he'll continue to visit the Belleville hometown area. He's been through 17 cars in 50 years, and is still driving the latest model. Yesterday, he drove to Belleville on one of the frequent unbroadcast visits he makes to his birthplace "to see what's going on".

He and his wife have two sons — one a dental technician in Detroit, the second a chiropractor in Detroit.

TIMES CHANGE

He decided to drop into The Ontario Intelligencer yesterday after reading about the paper's plans for expansion.

Since his time both rivals have absorbed each other. Yet, there was still familiar ground around the old-newspaper to be recognizable. Once upon a time the present offices used to be solely, the premises of the Ontario.

But change must be adapted into the scheme of things within the newspaper much as any other craft, he indicated.

He recalled the time when, early in the century, the Ontario suddenly replaced its typesetting equipment with the typesetting machines still in operation today.

"We were sure we were going out of business — yet the company was able to take on more business," he said.

However, as he confesses himself, Mr. Brusseau today is "all for automation".

Girl Amazes Doctors in Fight for Life

HAMILTON (CP) — Karen Barnard, a pretty 16-year-old stenographer who was given only a 1,000-to-1 chance to live following a car accident May 4, continues to amaze doctors by her fight for survival.

Karen, whose compact car was sandwiched between a truck and a parked car, was thought dead when she was pulled from the wreckage.

However, a policeman who refused to believe her dead applied mouth - to - mouth resuscitation and brought her "back to life."

"There was no pulse, she had stopped breathing and there was no heart beat," said Const. Robert Chippler, "but something inside kept telling me I must try to do something even though she appeared to be dead.

"After what seemed an eternity — it was probably only 15 minutes—my own heart almost stopped when I saw a pulse quiver in her throat," the 34-year-old father of two said.

After she was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital here with severe brain injuries, doctors told her parents that if she did survive she might live her normal life span in a coma.

Today, doctors and surgeons attending Karen in the hospital's intensive-care unit are looking forward to her snapping out of what they term a "technical knockout blow" within a month.

However, they say she is still in critical condition and there is no possibility she may not regain consciousness. She cannot see or hear and has had a tube inserted through tubes in the nose.

Doctors explained she was struck a severe blow on the side of the head, similar to a hard knockout blow some boxers take.

"X - rays don't show any brain 'blockage,'" Karen's surgeon said. "We'll just have to wait and see if the swelling subsides."

Mrs. Robert Barnard, her mother, who keeps a daily 15-hour vigil beside her daughter, believes and prays she will pull out of the coma. She said physical therapy three times a day is beginning to show results.

Mr. Barnard, Karen's father, said he feels his daughter can hear and see.

He explained: "I've asked her to move her feet, and she has. I asked her last night to hold my hand, and she grasped my wrist strongly.

"I sometimes get the feeling she is looking at me, and when I kid her, I'm sure I see the glimmer of a twinkle in her eyes."

"He added: "She's getting back her strength. She's on a daily diet of 2,000 calories and is gaining weight."

Const. Chippler has received a recommendation of merit and is up for a Carnegie Award for his part in "the miracle that is Karen Barnard."

Chief of Naval Staff to Retire In July

OTTAWA (CP) — Vice-Admiral Herbert S. Rayner, DSC and bar, 53, will retire from the navy in July on completion of a four-year term as chief of naval staff, the defence department announced Monday.

He will not be replaced because the defence headquarters command structure is being unified and the position of chief of naval staff will disappear.

"We wish to express our personal appreciation and that of the government and people of Canada for Admiral Rayner's outstanding service to his country," Defence Minister Hellyer and Associate Defence Minister Cardin said in a statement.

Admiral Rayner, a native of Clinton, Ont., has served nearly 36 years in the RCN.

During the Second World War he commanded destroyers in the Battle of the Atlantic, on the convoy route to north Russia and in the English Channel and the Bay of Biscay.

One of his ships was the destroyer Huron which, in a period of less than three months, fought in a series of actions in which five enemy warships were destroyed and two damaged.

Protestant Child More Likely To Finish School With Better Marks Than Catholic Child

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The Protestant child seems better oriented toward science and rationality and is more likely to finish school with better marks than the Roman Catholic child says a University of Alberta professor.

Dr. Henry Zentner of the university's sociology department said low social class also is a direct link with poor grades and school drop-outs. Low social environment gave a more restricted outlook and perception that showed up in school work.

The lower-class Roman Catholic student starts school with "two strikes" against him—religion and social class, Dr. Zentner said in an interview after presenting a paper to the Canadian Political Science Association's annual meeting here.

Dr. Zentner, 44-year-old associate sociology professor, said in the interview that regards religion as the "most decisive factor in Canadian life." It was more acute here than in the United States.

RELIES ON SKILLS

The Protestant child has been taught to rely more extensively upon [illegible] skills and abilities of the problems, Dr. Zentner said. Protestantism assumed an orderly universe created according to a lawful and predetermined plan, and valued observation and the use of "secular rationality."

The Catholic child would be much more prone to sacrifice long - run material gains for short-term rewards and gratifications. He tends to eschew competition, achievement and worldly success."

Marks and dropout rates in schools vary directly with the social and economic status of th student's parents, Dr. Zentner said.

Socially and intellectually the low-social class child receives less personal attention and exposure to adult behavior. The male exhibits a tendency to "resent and possibly hate" his father because of a lack of communication.

The lower - class Catholic child identifying with both his real and "heavenly" family, has these "rebellious tendencies psychologically reinforced."

CNR Runs Last Train Over Pinnacle St. Tracks

Today is the day that hundreds of motorists and city officials have been long waiting for.

At noon today the familiar scene of a railway yard engine and a string of cars rumbling down Pinnacle Street became a thing of the past.

Today is the last day that the Pinnacle Street railway connecting link is to be used.

Tomorrow railway cars will be mounted between the CN north station and the dock with the CPR, will go over the new interchange east of the city.

For longer than the city's oldest residents can remember freight cars have been tumbling up and down Pinnacle Street as coal and oil cars along with general freight have been switched to the dock area from the north station.

In fact on several occasions when derailments have occurred either east or west of the city long passenger trains have been switched up and down Pinnacle Street between the CN and CPR tracks.

But throughout the years the trains and increasing number of autos have combined to create almost impossible traffic jams.

Old timers say the Pinnacle Street bridge has been tracked back almost a century and apparently had its beginning with the decision that Belleville should have a railway connection to the north and to Peterborough.

But that is now all part of history and with the last train now passed Pinnacle Street a Railway Week celebration is to be held next week to officially mark removal of the tracks.

Says Attitude Of Residents Has Changed

WHITE RIVER, Ont. (CP)— Waldo Brecé, chairman of the board of trustees of the White River Improvement District, said in an interview Monday he was happy with the results of a judicial inquiry that cleared him of allegations of corruption.

But, he said, he was disappointed that the 122 ratepayers who signed a petition alleging misconduct would not testify against him at the inquiry.

Judge James F. W. Rose of Fort Arthur, in a report released Saturday, said he had uncovered no evidence of malfeasance, misconduct or breach of trust by Mr. Bracci or other trustees.

During a one-day hearing May 15, Judge Rose asked persons in the audience to come forward and testify if they had any evidence of the allegations being considered. No one came forward.

The inquiry was prompted by a ratepayers' petition alleging that Mr. Bracci had gained materially as the result of a position as district chairman and that the district's business had been improperly handled.

Mr. Bracci said Monday that since the hearing was held the attitude of about 85 per cent of the people of White River has changed. He said they would not talk to him before the hearing.

Four Feared Drowned in Sudbury Area

SUDBURY (CP)—Four men are feared drowned, three in Lake Wahnapitae, 15 miles northeast of here and one in Lake Penage 20 miles west in what provincial police describe as the worst night of drownings in the history of the Sudbury detachment.

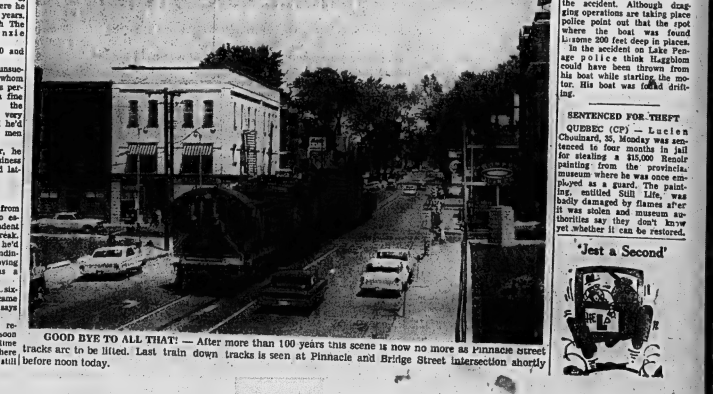
Missing, presumed drowned in Lake Wahnapitae are Charles Morin, 44, of Conison; Alcide Dupuis, 37, of Garson and Adrian Dupuis, 40, of Hanmer, all communities within 15 miles of here.

Missing and presumed drowned in Lake Penage is Hans Haggblom, a Sudbury prospector.

The Lake Wahnapitae mishap was reported Monday night when Victor Baldicrew of Conison who was camping in the area reported to the department of lands and forests that an upturned boat was floating around an island, about four miles from the village of Bolkow Bay.

WINDS ARE HIGH

Ranger Reginald Labatt took the department's 18-passenger canoe and went to the scene. With him was Conservation Officer Lyle McKinnon. Winds at this time were gusting up to 30 miles an hour.



The two found the upturned craft, a 14-foot aluminum boat powered with a 28-horsepower motor. There was no sign of the missing men.

The boat was overturned and in it were the men's sleeping bags and camping equipment.

Police said overloading of the craft may have contributed to the accident. Although dragging operations are taking place police said they have thrown from his boat while starting the motor. His boat was found drifting.

SENTENCED FOR THEFT

QUEBEC (CP) — Lucien Chouinard, 35, Monday was sentenced to four months in jail for stealing a $15,000 Renoir painting from the provincial museum where he was once employed as a guard. The painting, entitled Still Life, was badly damaged by flames after it was stolen and museum authorities say they don't know yet whether it can be restored.

GOOD BYE TO ALL THAT! — After more than 100 years this scene is now no more as Pinnacle Street tracks are to be lifted. Last train down tracks is seen at Pinnacle and Bridge Street intersection shortly before noon today.

Growing Season on Prairies Off to First-Class Start With Bulk of Wheat Sown

By KEN CLARK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Timely spring rains in the Prairie grain belt have largely offset poor fall and winter precipitation, boosting prospects for a high-yield 1964 crop.

The growing season is off to a first-class start, with the bulk of the wheat in the ground by May 21 and farmers now completing the seeding of other grains.

It has been an ideal spring for seeding. Heavy rains in early May provided ample moisture to produce a good seedbed. And subsequent dry weather allowed farmers to plant almost unhindered in most areas. "One spring in a hundred" was the way one Winnipeg grain researcher described it.

Moisture reserves below the surface are generally sufficient to carry crops through short dry spells, although the farmer would prefer moderate rains to bring the sprouting crop along.

The moisture picture is considerably brighter now than in April when officials were concerned about reserves depleted by below-average fall and winter precipitation. Heavy spring rains went a long way to replenishing the supply.

ALL BELOW NORMAL

Statistics prepared for The Canadian Press by the meteorological bureau of the transport department show that for the nine months ending April 30 precipitation was below normal in all three Prairie provinces.

Alberta was off an average of 17 per cent, Saskatchewan eight per cent and Manitoba 21 per cent. By regions, northwest Saskatchewan had the smallest deficiency—two per cent—and eastern Manitoba the greatest at 31 per cent.

The first 11 days of May, however, brought copious rainfall to all grain-growing districts. For the first three weeks of the month totals were 80 per cent above normal in Manitoba's grain areas and two to three times normal in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Moisture reserves from the previous autumn and winter are important, particularly in times of spring drought. Studies by the research department of the Searle Grain Company indicate, however, "the key factor in crop production in most years has been the growing - season rainfall (April 1 to Aug. 15) and particularly the distribution of this moisture."

1952 WAS TOPS

The company's records show long-term average growing-season rainfall at eight inches in Alberta, 7.5 in Saskatchewan and 8.5 in Manitoba. With some exceptions, prospects are against an average or above-average crop when rainfall is below that level.

The all-time Prairie record yield per acre (2.67 bushels) came in 1952 with a growing-season precipitation averaging 7.5 inches. Good moisture reserves from the previous fall enabled the crop to hang on through spring drought that lasted until mid - June, after which nine weeks of uniform rainfall sent yields soaring.

In Western Manitoba, precipitation from Aug. 1, 1963, to April 30, 1964, was 10 per cent below normal compared with 31 per cent below normal in the eastern part of the province. But H. A. Craig, publications director for the provincial agriculture department, says conditions now are universally excellent.

"Barring anything going haywire we should have a satisfactory crop."

In Saskatchewan fall and winter precipitation was anywhere from two to 18 per cent below normal. The southwest, a traditional dry spot, was hardest hit. But good rains last summer helped lessen the impact of the dry period that followed. And even at that, the average precipitation in the dry months was only eight per cent below normal for the province as a whole.

With no indication of a serious pest or plant disease menace in Saskatchewan, which grew the bulk of last year's record 703,000,000-bushel Prairie wheat crop, an even break on rain should produce another bumper.

Fall and winter precipitation in Alberta was 17 per cent below normal on the average, the north-central area hardest hit at 24 per cent, the southern half down 18 per cent and the central and Peace River district off 14.

Dr. R. E. English, provincial crops statistician, says the moisture conditions are much improved from this time last year when the south was extremely dry and other areas only a little better off.

Mr. English says surface moisture at the moment is generally good, in southwestern Alberta, sub-surface moisture conditions are excellent and they're fairly good throughout the remainder of the province except for the Peace and a few areas north of Edmonton. Overall crop prospects are much improved over 1963.

Judge Is Willing To Pull Switch

NEW YORK (AP) — Winston Moseley was sentenced to death Monday for the March 13 stabslaying of barmaid Katherine Genovese.

Justice J. Irwin Shapiro gavelled down a burst of applause that rang out in the courtroom when the jury announced the verdict, but commented later: "I would be willing to pull the switch myself."

Moseley, 29-year-old former computer operator and admitted killer of three women, sat calmly through the sentencing as he had through the entire trial.

The 12 - man jury convicted him last Thursday.

The Genovese killing attracted wide attention when it was disclosed that 38 of her neighbors in Kew Gardens, Queens, heard but ignored Miss Genovese's screams for help.

The killer attacked the 28-year - old woman three times with a knife during a half-hour period after 3 a.m.

Moseley pleaded insanity. He admitted on the witness stand that he killed Miss Genovese.

Now the Russians Think 'It Pays to Advertise'

By ANTHONY WHITE

LONDON (AP)—The man in the grey flannel suit is moving among the crowds of Moscow.

The day may not be too far off when commercials plugging American girdles or British electric toothbrushes are seen on Moscow television.

For the Russians now are coming around to the idea that advertising, a basic ingredient of Western capitalist society, has its rightful place in Communist society too.

Russia, which always went by the motto that it didn't pay to advertise, is changing its tune — sign of another subtle change in the Soviet way of life. Recently the official government newspaper Izvestia complained that because there was not enough advertising many Russians did not know what goods were available.

Some Soviet products, it said, were like cats in a bag—no one knew of their qualities.

Ironically for the Russians, many Western business firms have been beating them at their own game, and on the Russians' home ground.

PLUG WEST'S GOODS

For months now—at the invitation of the Soviet government—they have been advertising a vast variety of goods, from brassieres to bulldozers, in Soviet trade magazines.

There has always been a catch—the mass of the Soviet people have never seen the ads. Even if they had they could not just go down to the store on the corner and buy.

The magazines in which the ads have appeared so far are mostly technical and trade journals read by experts and factory managers, leaders of industry whose opinions and tastes can influence those who draw up the state lists of purchases from abroad.

"What we are trying to do is to create a market," says Stan Rokoss, head of a London publicity organization under contract to the Soviet government to channel all British advertising for the Soviet press.

"The theory is this: The magazines are read by tens of thousands of experts in all kinds of technical fields. If they are influenced by the ads the grey flannel suit is moving among the crowds of Moscow. not should be imported, they go to the chiefs of the state buying organizations. If the buying chiefs are convinced, then the ad has done its job."

EXPAND ADS LATER

Once the goods start flowing into the country, then is the best time to start advertising on a wider scale, in popular magazines and newspapers and on television, says Rokoss.

Because the chief decides what goods shall, or shall not, be imported, some Western manufacturers think advertising in the Soviet Union is pointless.

"Publicity in Russia by the West has a big future," says Rokoss, a Pole who served with the RAF in the Second World War and later became a British subject.

So far most Western ads have concentrated on heavy industry: Textile machinery from Britain, electric motors from West Germany, electric locomotives from France, electronic equipment from Japan. More down to earth items have also found their way in—like nylons, girdles, curtain materials, brassieres, teapots and espresso coffee makers.

The 'Pukka-wallah' Syndrome

White Social Exclusiveness Infuriates the Citizens of India

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

SOMBAY (CP)—Though the white man ceased to rule India 17 years ago, white social exclusiveness continues to be a live public issue in this country.

After India became independent, hundreds of Britons remained in India as businessmen, engineers and teachers. There also now are more Canadians, Americans, Germans and Australians in India than there were during the days of British rule.

All of these people move in a world of their own and restrict their contacts with Indians to the minimum needs of their jobs.

This attitude led a few days ago to a public demonstration here against the Breach Candy swimming pool, an exclusive white club which has banned non-whites since it was formed more than 80 years ago.

The white trustees of the club later yielded and plan to amend the club's bylaws to permit "token" admission of Indians.

Some of the club's 2,000 members indicated sympathy with the Indians. One American girl joined the placard - bearing Indian demonstrators and The Times of India published a number of sympathetic letters from foreigners.

CALCUTTA ACTION

Anti - color - bar campaigners now are turning their attention to Calcutta, India's biggest metropolis, where there are three exclusive white clubs, including a boating association. Calcutta's Democratic Socialist party has threatened to organize a passive resistance movement against the European clubs. The ruling Congress party has promised its full support of the campaign.

Chester Bowles, U.S. ambassador in New Delhi, has asked American residents in Calcutta not to patronize any club which has a color bar, and the envoys of many other foreign countries are reported to have tendered similar advice to their nations.

The Indian government is under heavy political pressure to outlaw the Calcutta clubs. But it has taken the line that such anachronisms will vanish under the impact of enlightened white and non-white public opinion.

Meanwhile, some Indians feel that if the whites in India want to be left alone nothing should be done to pressure them. They feel it is beneath Indian self-respect to be asked to be admitted into white society.

As one writer in The Times of India put it: "The campaign against the white baths shows our inferiority complex. I for one will never step into Beach Candy's water."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

"There are times when being a professional athlete can be very trying and so upsetting that you wonder whether the benefits are worth it," wrote a metropolitan sports columnist the other day.

He was referring to the situation Don Simmons, Maple Leaf journeyman goalkeeper, finds himself in after the recent deal that brought Terry Sawchuk to the fold to play either first or second banana, or more likely, a banana split, with aging Johnny Bower.

Simmons, it seems, during his hop-skip-and-jump career, has possessed himself of a couple of houses in widely-separated cities, and the columnist marvels the story with "don't hurt me if you're a pro."

I cannot imagine the Gordie Howes, Bobby Hulls, or other National Leaguers who have become set in their playing ways, worrying about the house that hockey jack built.

Pity poor Arnold Palmer flitting across the country and the continent swinging golden golf clubs that already have made him a millionaire. I cannot imagine him worrying about where his next house comes from or what he is going to do with what he has acquired.

One professional athlete who found the monied ranks "upsetting" in more ways than one is Floyd Patterson—and he has accumulated some eight million. The benefits win this one over worries by a knockout.

It seems to me that professional athletes, especially those of football, baseball and hockey, do not buy houses willy-nilly, depending on their transfers.

With the paycheck loot these fellows collect, the situation should not be too "trying and upsetting."

I would be willing to settle for Gordie Howe's $39,000 annual stipend, plus bonuses, and that $1,000 monthly pension if he lasts twenty years. In fact with that sort of gravy over the period, I'd be able to buy a house in every National Hockey League centre, and let my rent collectors worry.

However, you cannot help but feel a twinge of sympathy for Simmons. While with the Boston Bruins, the situation looked good so he bought a home in Massachusetts. Things did not work out and after some wanderings he found himself in Toronto where he was a Stanley Cup hero two years ago. So he bought a home there.

Then came the "big deal" that brought Sawchuk to the Leafs after it was made public they were seeking the services of one "Gump" Worsley. Now they've told Simmons he must fight it out with Sawchuk for the second-banana spot. As the columnist remarked, "Who are they kidding?"

Finally she leaned over to a companion and said, "Wouldn't it be simpler if they got a knife and cut it?" . . . Candid social note, "Are they well-mated?" Yes he's deaf—and she snores." . . . "You know," wrote the lady subscriber, "we've read your paper for 40 years. "I thought you might want to print story about my husband. He's wonderful. Doesn't drink, smoke, never uses profane language, never been to a movie or bothered with other women. He has no vice or bad habits and tomorrow he's going to celebrate his 80th birthday." The editor answered: "How!"

Windsor, Chatham Quit IHL?

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Owners of five International Hockey League clubs met informally Monday to set the agenda for the annual IHL meeting which begins today.

Only five of the seven clubs in the league last year were represented and there was talk that both Windsor and Chatham would withdraw to join other leagues.

Windsor already has indicated it has made arrangements to play elsewhere next season and a formal announcement is expected today.

The league members are expected to consider an application by Dayton, Ohio, for league membership this season.

Present IHL members are Des Moines, Iowa; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Toledo, Ohio, and Muskegon and Port Huron, Mich.

800 Watch 'Cuties' Fun Fest

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Belleville sports fans, so elusive most of the year, proved once again last night that they will turn out for special attractions.

Close to 800, including children, braved the cool, damp weather to watch the touring California Cuties, a comedy softball attraction, in a laugh-filled battle against Belleville and District League players at the Fairgrounds.

The Cuties, a male team in female attire, play only three innings of "serious ball," and last that by a 3-1 count. The final four frames were played strictly for laughs, although the Cuties claimed to have grabbed a victory when one of its members bare-handed a slow pitch and threw a nine-run" homer to deep centre field.

Belleville plated a pair of runs in the first on an error, a walk and Bobby Moon's two-run single. The Cuties scored their legal run in the third on an infield hit by "Princess Romona," a passed ball and a ground out.

Bobby Green stopped the Cuties cold in a starting pitching performance by striking out five in two innings. He walked three. Pat Marzolo and Bob Ebbler saw later mound action and Marzolo drew cheers when he leaned into a big ripe grapefruit and belted it for a "splashy" out.

A pantomime infield, runners racing the wrong way, musical numbers, umpire baiting, with Al Kelleher, Ted Hurst and Jim Tebworth joining in the fun, tackling runners and the general antics of the Cuties' two chief stars, "Liza Jane" and "Little Beulah", appeared to suit the fans' fancy.

Local players taking part were: Rick Locke, Gary Duggan, Ralph Dawe, Bob Moon, Pete Weston, Don Gardiner, Stu Muirhead, Stu Malloy, Bob Green, Pat Marzolo, Bob Ebbler, Frank Murray, Bob Boyle, John McKibbon, Larry Lewis and Carl McFarlane.

The Cuties' ten-man line featured: "Liza Jane", "Princess Romona", "Lotta Fanny", "Mamasun", "Little Beulah", "Main Street Sally", "Hefty Helen", "Diana Sore", "Leaping Lena" and "Dottie Dimple." Cutie boseman Mike Carr handled the public address system, a key part of the show.

Ball Games Washed Out

Wet grounds forced postponement of most of the district's ball games last night.

A Belleville and District Softball League tilt, Trudeau Motors at Tweed, was washed out and is being re-scheduled for Sunday, likely in the afternoon. The same two teams hook up in a 6:45 game at the CNRA Park here tonight and it is expected a time for Sunday's game will be set then.

Elsewhere, the Barrage Landscapers' Ter-Haar Daubers' Commercial Softball League game was also postponed. It has been set for Sunday night at the Alemite Field at 6:30 p.m. City Hotel and Black Diamond Cheese were also washed out in the same loop but no new date has been announced.

Twins Tab Tribes' Grant; Cards Deal

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Minnesota Twins, acting just before the clock struck midnight, have tabbed veteran right hander Jim (Mudcat) Grant to play a Cinderella role in the American League pennant chase.

Balked in earlier attempts to bolster their pitching staff, the Twins completed an 11th hour deal with Cleveland Monday just before the midnight trading deadline, acquiring Grant in exchange for pitcher Lee Stange, a player to be named later and an undisclosed amount of cash.

In a major six-player deal between National League clubs, St. Louis sent former 20-game winner Ernie Broglio, reliever Bobby Shantz and outfielder Doug Clemens to Chicago Cubs for outfielder Lou Brock and pitchers Jack Spring and Paul Toth.

Two minor moves were made in Baltimore selling outfielder Joe Gaines to Houston and Pittsburgh taking pitcher Don Cardwell off the disabled list after sending pitcher Fred Green to the minors.

TRIED TO GET BALANCE

The Twins have been considered legitimate AL pennant contenders, but it was generally felt they needed more pitching strength. They had pursued Dean Chance of Los Angeles but were unwilling to break up their power trust by sending Bob Allison to the Angels.

Apparently rebuffed elsewhere also, the Twins moved in their minor league chain, farming out last year's reliever Bill Dailey, and bringing up Bill Whitby, 6-4 in Charlotte.

"I am still ready to talk," Twins' president Cal Griffith, said. "But I doubt if we can make a deal."

Then he got together with Indians' general manager Gabe Paul and swung the Grant-Stange deal without giving up any of the Twins' big sluggers. Paul intimated that he sought a bigger name in exchange for Grant, the dean of the Indians staff.

Grant, 29, has been hit hard this season, starting nine games and completing only one. He has a 3-4 record and a 5.95 earned run average, but is an established major league starter of known quality with a 64-59 lifetime record entering this season. He was 13-14 last year.

IMPRESSIVE LAST YEAR

Stange, a promising right-hander in his fourth season in the majors, impressed last year with a 12-6 record and a 2.62 ERA. This season, however, he had a 3-6 mark with a 4.73 ERA.

Grant figures to take his place with Camilo Pascual, Jim Kaat, Jim Roland and Dick Stigman in the Twins' starting rotation.

The key man in the St. Louis-Chicago trade were Broglio and Brock, who fills the Cardinals' need for additional outfielding help.

"We needed a young outfielder," said Cardinal manager Johnny Keane, "and Brock was the man we were after. Chicago needed a starting pitcher, of which we had six."

Broglio, a 28-year-old right-hander, apparently became surplus when the Cardinals acquired pitcher Glen Hobbie from the Cubs in an earlier trade. Broglio was 21-9 in 1960 and had an 18-8 record last year, but was 3-6 this season with a 3.53 ERA.

Brock, a speedy 24-year-old fielder who bats left-handed, is in his fourth season in the majors. He hit .258 last season with nine homers and 37 runs batted in. He was hitting at a .327 clip for the Cubs with two homers and 14 runs driven in.

The Cubs said one of the reasons they let the promising Brock go was the quick improvement shown by Billy Ott, called up from Salt Lake City. The Cardinals, meanwhile, sent Toth to the minors and called up Mike Cuellar, 5-1 at Jacksonville.

Talk Along Golf Row
Can Tony Win Three In Row?

WASHINGTON (AP)— Can a man win three golf tournaments in a row, especially if the third one is the U.S. Open?

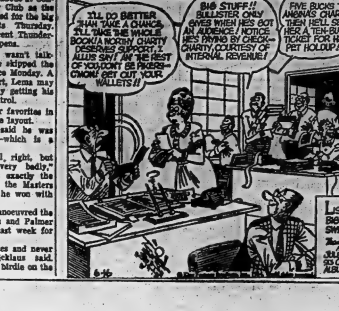
Champagne Tony Lema's chances for a third straight were much talked about at Congressional Country Club as the elite of golf gathered for the big one, which starts Thursday. Lema won the recent Thunderbird and Buick opens.

One fellow who wasn't talking was Lema. He skipped the first day of practice Monday. A notorious worrywart, Lema may have spent the day getting his nerves under control.

But all the other favorites in the field tested the layout.

Arnold Palmer said he was about his putting—which is a good sign.

"I'm playing all right, but I'm putting very badly," Palmer said. "It's exactly the way I was before the Masters this year"—which he won with ease.



Jack Nicklaus manoeuvred the ball well. Nicklaus and Palmer both came down last week for a practice round.

"I played 50 holes and never got a birdie," Nicklaus said. This time I got a birdie on the third hole. I'm improving."

Palmer, asked about Lema's chances to win three straight, said "It can be done. I did it, back in 1960. I almost won five straight.

"Cards Lose Again"

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jack Spring and Lou Brock caught the St. Louis sag only a few innings after they joined the Cardinals Monday night.

The sag also struck Glen Hobbie, another recent acquisition, as the Cardinals dropped a 3-3 decision to Houston Colts for their fifth straight defeat and 17th in the last 22 games.

Spring and Brock, obtained in a six-player deal with Chicago Cubs earlier in the day, arrived in the third inning of the Houston contest with the Cardinals ahead 1-0.

Spring, 31, was called upon to pitch in the seventh inning after the Colts scored four runs off Hobbie in the sixth for a 4-3 lead. The lefthander proceeded to give up four more runs, three of them unearned, one on a wild pitch.

Brock, an outfielder, batted for Spring in the eighth and struck out.

In his first two starts for the Cardinals, Hobbie allowed two earned runs and eight hits in 16 innings. The Colts, however, belted him mildly.

WENT INTO SPIN

St. Louis, considered a prime contender for the National League pennant before the season started, began its tailspin May 23. At that time, the Cardinals were in third place, one game out of first.

They now are in eighth place, seven games from the top and only one-half length ahead of the Colts.

Only three other games were played Monday. San Francisco Giants nipped Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in the other NL game while Chicago White Sox blasted Baltimore Orioles 8-1 and Washington Senators edged Los Angeles Angels 3-2 in the American. Rain washed out Minnesota at Cleveland.

Wall Bond drove in four runs with two singles, getting one each against Hobbie and Spring. Hobbie also was the victim of Bob Aspromonte's two run homer; his fourth home run in a week.

Bob Skinner, acquired from Cincinnati during the weekend, singled home one of the Cardinals' runs.

ENDS CLOSE BATTLE

Jim Hart's single scored Willie McCovey in the ninth inning and ended the Giants' see-saw battle with the Reds. The Giants trailed 3-3 until the eighth when they scored three runs, two on Cap Peterson's pinch triple.

The Reds tied the game 5-5 in the ninth with the help of Hart's error. A double by John Edwards scored one run while Bobby Klaus' sacrifice fly knocked in the other.

The White Sox stormed back into first place in the AL, erupting from the slump that held them to 10 runs in five losing games with New York Yankees. They scored seven runs in the first inning as Pete Ward of Montreal, Al Weis and Gerry McNertney each drove in two.

The White Sox, who broke a six-game losing streak, stand eight percentage points ahead of the Orioles with the Yankees another three points behind in third.

Don Rudolph, a 10-game loser last season, won his first game since being recalled from the minors recently. He needed help from Ron Kline in the ninth after the Angels' Joe Adcock slammed his fourth homer in as many games.

The Senators broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh with Dick Phillips doubled home Jim King and scored on Ed Brinkman's single.

National League Attendance

Shows Overall Increase

CINCINNATI (AP) — Attendance at National League baseball games this season is almost 500,000 ahead of the pace set last year when the league had an all-time record of 11,382,227 paid admissions, the league said Monday.

Official figures recorded through Sunday, show the attendance was 536,216 ahead of the total for a comparable period in 1953, an increase of 16.1 per cent.

The total through Sunday stood at 4,282,287 compared with 3,746,051 for the same number of games last year.

Six clubs show an increase over 1953 and the other four are running slightly below last season, the league said.

The largest gain is by New York Mets, who have drawn 637,405 to their new Shea Stadium in 23 dates, an increase of 233,202 over their first 23 dates at the Polo Grounds last year. Los Angeles Dodgers, the league leading Philadelphia Phillies, Chicago Cubs, Milwaukee Braves and St. Louis Cardinals also are ahead.

Clubs showing a decrease are Cincinnati Reds, Houston Colts, Pittsburgh Pirates and San Francisco Giants.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD

SHOULDERS HELP DETERMINE DIRECTION

The way a golfer hunts his shoulders on the backswing does much to determine whether or not his shot will fly fairly straight.

If the shoulders have rolled and turned properly on the backswing so that the left shoulder is lowered and moved under the player's chin, the club should be pointing along the target line at the top of the swing.

ck arms is in Pi. From this position, the player has an excellent chance of returning the clubface squarely to the ball along a path that will insure a reasonably straight shot.

In #2 and #3, I show you the results of an incomplete and an excessive shoulder turn respectively. It is possible to hook, slice, push or pull the shot from either of these positions, depending on the return path of the clubhead.

I suggest that if you hook or slice, have a friend or professional check the alignment of your clubshaft at the top of your swing. If it works a good deal from pointing along the target line, you should see about correcting your shoulder turn.

Foxboro P.S. Girls Win Tournament

Foxboro Public School senior girls swept undefeated through the South Thurlow Athletic Association Girls' Softball Tournament on Saturday.

Four teams, Foxboro, Cannifton, Douglas B. Atkins and Point Anne took part in the tournament played at the Cannifton Public School diamond.

In the opening games of the double elimination series, Cannifton defeated Douglas B. Atkins 17-6 with Foxboro winning over Point Anne 23-15.

Foxboro made it two in a row by turning back Cannifton 12-6 with Atkins eliminating Point Anne 31-19.

Atkins in turn were put out of the running, bowing to Cannifton 19-18 in a closely fought game.

Foxboro won the tournament championship by defeating the Cannifton girls 17-13 in another close game.

The new champions will be presented with the tournament trophy at the second Annual Field Day of the association slated for June 23.

Association officials expressed their appreciation of the fine sportsmanship shown by all teams and the excellent way the tournament was handled.

Down Oklahoma Way Sports Help Politicians

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—In Oklahoma it helps to have a sports background to carve out a career in politics. At least three Oklahomans of athletic fame have found this to be true.

Bud Wilkinson, Allie Reynolds and Tom Sturdivant have proved the drawing of their reputations at the Oklahoma polls. All three face a final test in the Nov. 3 U.S. general election.

Wilkinson, who led University of Oklahoma football teams on the glory trail for 17 seasons, retired after the 1963 competition to run as a Republican for the U.S. Senate. He won the Republican nomination in state primaries May 5.

Reynolds, one - time mainstay of New York Yankees' pitching staff, has made a name for himself in state business circles. Now he's running for state senator on the Democratic ticket.

Sturdivant, the only one of the trio still active in sports, is tending to his duties as a pitcher for New York Mets while running for the Oklahoma Senate as a Republican.

Reynolds and Sturdivant are from Oklahoma City but are in different districts and won't face each other in November.

Oklahoma has produced many great athletes—the late Indian football immortal Jim Thorpe among the foremost.

Others have included pitcher Carl Hubbell of New York Giants and Pepper Martin of St. Louis Cardinals, the late football coach Steve Owen and such present-day baseball stars as Mickey Mantle.

But only this year have any athletes shown much inclination to turn politician in a state where athletics is a strong part of the environment.

Parsons Lose To Kingston

Parsons' Cleaners dropped a 3-0 decision to Kingston Dunbriks in A Kingston District Soccer League fixture in Kingston last night.

The game was part of a twin bill, Kingston Italia and Hungaria tieing 1-1 in the other game.

Kingston led 2-0 at the end of the half, adding another in the second half. The game was cleanly played with Parsons failing to dent the Kingston defence.

Leafs Cut Suns Lead, Wings Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs turned tigers and Jacksonville Suns became pussy-cats Monday and the results was reduction of the Suns' 2½ - game International League lead over the Leafs to 1½ games.

where he limited the Virginians

Toronto blasted Richmond Virginians 5-1 in Richmond while the Suns, who took four of five weekend games from the Leafs to oust them from first place, were beaten 8-5 by Syracuse Chiefs.

Jim Bronstad paced the snarling Leafs both on the mound where he limited the Virginians to but seven hits and at the plate, where he belted two home runs.

Rochester Red Wings took a 3-2 decision over Atlanta Crackers, while the game between Buffalo Bisons and Columbus Jets was rained out.

Syracuse nipped the Suns when pitcher Dick LeMay, tossed the ball away trying to catch Ray Oyler off first base, and then gave up a single to Legrant Scott that scored Oyler.

Should Be No Arguments At Olympics

NEW YORK (AP)—There should be no controversies over photo finishes in the Olympic Games at Tokyo.

Anticipating hair's - breadth finishes both on the cinder tracks and on the water, the Tokyo Olympic organizing committee has adopted an intricate device to settle all such issues.

It is a camera which not only photographs the participants flashing across the finish line — whether they be speedy runners or sight-star shells — but also records the time to the hundredth of a second.

The photo finish equipment is set up just before and just across the finish line. The movie camera is installed on a line with the tape.

The camera has two taking lenses—one for filming the contestants, the other mounted at a right angle to record the time.

The design makes it possible to photograph both the figures of the competitors and time on the same picture.

The exposed film is developed in seconds and examined through a viewer Then the negative is enlarged and printed within 30 seconds for distribution to the judges and reporters.

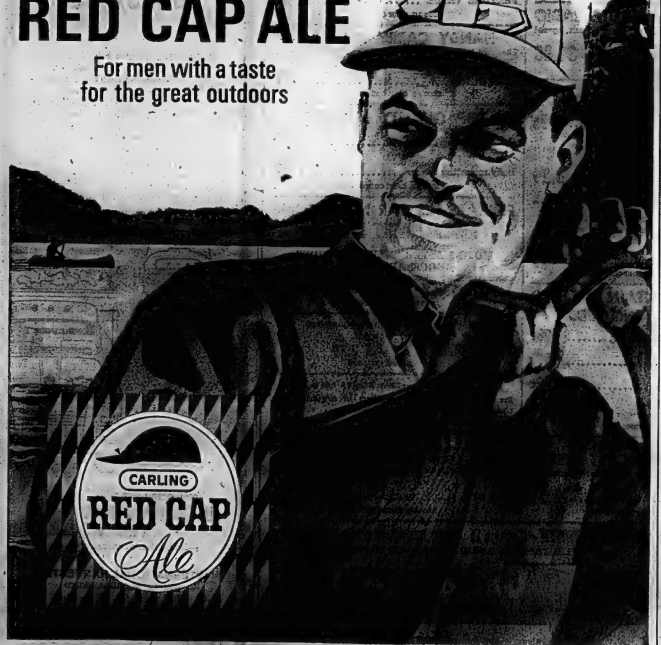
Midget Race Attracts 35 Entries

TORONTO (CP) — An entry list of nearly 35 cars, including six drivers who were in this year's Indianapolis 500, will begin qualifying Thursday night for the 24 positions in Friday's 50-mile championship auto race for Offenhauser 110 midgets at the Canadian National Exhibition Speedway.

The time trials will continue Friday afternoon for the 300-lap race with a total purse of $9000.

Jimmie Davies, veteran Indianapolis 500 driver from Monticello, Ind., predicted Monday that a half-second or less will separate the 24 cars that qualify.

Fastest qualifying time gives the driver a $100 bonus and the pole position at the start.



Minor Baseball Results

Rain cost the Bad Boys a defeat in the Belleville Minor Baseball Association's Peewee division last night.

The Bad Boys, apparently, thinking that the game had been washed out, failed to show up at Park Dale. Their opponents, the Jaycees, turned out in full force and when the field was playable, officials awarded the game to the Jaycees by default.

23 Million Wild Ducks Flew North

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 23,000,000 breeding ducks went north this spring seeking nesting places, top wildlife officials from Canada, Mexico, and the United States were told Monday.

The meeting was arranged to discuss migratory bird populations, management and research and to co-ordinate programs affecting the ducks and geese of the continent.

Though the officials were given the estimate that about 23,000,000 breeding ducks went north this year, an increase over last year's migration, it was noted that the breeding population was still some 20 per cent below the peak of the mid-1950s.

With water conditions about the same as last year, it was the belief of the group that not more than token improvement in the probable fall outlook could be noted at the present time, Frank P. Briggs, U.S. assistant secretary of the interior, said after the meeting.

WINS AWARD

HALIFAX (CP) — Clifford Veron Faulkner of Calgary has been awarded the 1964 Little, Brown Canadian children's book award for his story The White Calf which will be published in Canada and the United States next spring. Announcement of the $1,000 award was made here Wednesday during a meeting of the Canadian Association of Children's Librarians.

Sport Snapshots

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP) — Every seat in the high school auditorium held an excited youngster.

There was a hush of awe when Jim Trimble, coach of Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference, walked down the aisle to the stage with his beefy assistants, Leo Cahill and Ed Emos.

On stage, Vice-Principal C. P. Betts, grinned and made the introductions.

"I guess you all know coach Jim Trimble."

The hush broke in an explosion of applause. The Alouette football clinic was on for east-end Rosemount High School, one of a series of secondary schools to receive an afternoon of free professional coaching from the Alouettes on successive days for two weeks this spring.

The coaches spent most of the time streaking leaping in the game and dropping tips while the boys went through their paces in practice.

Jim Trimble also offered some sage homilies during introductory remarks that were designed to make a youngster pause before dropping everything in a headlong rush to become Saturday's hero.

"The important thing to remember is don't put the main tent — education — behind the sideshow of athletics," said Trimble.

He stressed the fact that football is a team activity . . . with 12 people, but only the backs getting the credit. Kids devote a great deal of their leisure hours to becoming guards, centres, tackles, ends, doing the menial chores and letting others get the credit."

"This has to be democracy in action."

But outside on the football field minutes later, the philosophy lesson was over and it was all business.

"Feet together. Chops hard to the ground. Get those heads up. Let me see three wrinkles in the neck," barked Emos in a drill on stance.

"Keep those elbows in tight," bellowed Cahill as linesmen practiced charging down field. "Accentuate. Accentuate. Shorten those strides."

In a backfield drill, two miniature halfbacks began bickering about positions.

"You two little squirts stop arguing about who is number one and who's number two," shouted Jungle Jim. "Don't you know?"

The big man softened the reprimand somewhat in a final huddle.

"On the football field, with the coach nipping at you, look facts squarely in the eye. Hey, trying to improve you. You ought to start worrying when he stops nipping at you."

Trimble and his aides appeared to be enjoying the show almost as much as the youngsters.

Besides generating "tremendous enthusiasm" among the young players, Alouettes reaped a more tangible, immediate result.

"We saw half a dozen real good boys whom we've invited to our training camp," Trimble said.

Leonard Slye Real Name of Roy Rogers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Bachelors, according to psychologists, are happy in their single blessedness than an old maid. . . . They really don't get much fun out of their so-called freedom.

If you are a 20-year-old male and employed, the chances are that you'll change jobs six times before your working days are done.

Did you know that the real name of Roy Rogers is Leonard Slye, but Trigger's name is really Trigger?

Know your language: The phrase "to spin a yarn" comes from the habit sailors had of telling tall tales to pass the time while they were making ropes from strands of hemp.

Hot Air: When you take a long drag on a cigarette, the burning tip can reach a temperature of 2,000 degrees . . . Seeking a substitute for tobacco, experimenters are testing the smoking possibilities of banana and papaya leaves.

Famous last words: U.S. President John Quincy Adams said: "It is the last of earth. I am content." . . . Augustus, the Roman emperor, inquired of friends, "Do you think I have played my part pretty well through the farce of life?" . . . And Danton, the French revolutionary leader, told the executioner, "Be sure you show the mob my head. It will be a long time ere they see its like."

KEEP IT DARK

Household hints: Light will spoil dandelion wine . . . so, if you're making any in your basement, keep it in the dark.

Quickies: Flying squirrels don't really fly, but they glide up to 150 feet . . . Scientists say the earth has been getting colder since 1946 . . . Sun-dried bricks have been used by man for at least 5,000 years . . . Most animals face downwind in a storm — but the beard - protected Buffalo heads into it.

It was Stendhal, the French novelist, who observed: "Life is too short, and the time we waste in yawning never can be regained."

Sid Caesar's TV Dislikes: High Costs, Lonely Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Caesar was dressed in his underwear at his home and he was reading Caesar's commentaries.

The author was Julius, said the reader, Sid, and it was no gag. The comedian was resting in his hotel suite before the evening performance of Little Me. It happens that he likes to relax by reading history.

Sid had some commentaries of his own about such matters as television's present state and the lonely life. The latter he does not like.

"I've been away from home six months and it's awful," he confessed. "My wife and kids will be coming out from our home at Kingspoint, Long Island, next week, and thank heaven! I really missed them."

More than most bigtime comedians, Caesar has been able to enjoy being a homebody. For 15 of the last 17 years, he has had the same writers. Being a pioneer thereof, he is understandably concerned over the condition of the industry.

COSTS GETTING HIGHER

"Costs are getting out of this world," he lamented. "They keep going up and up until it gets dangerous to attempt anything that isn't tried and true.

"Just as an example: When we did the Admiral Hour back in the 1940s, the entire cost of the show was $19,000! That included time, actors, musicians, sets, production — everything. And we had Imogene (Coca), Gower Champion, Mary McCarty, and lots of others.

"Today it costs $60,000 for a sponsor to buy a one-minute commercial on a prime-time show.

"What's happening now is that a lot of sponsors can't afford a minute, so the commercials are split into 30 seconds apiece. That gives you 12 commercials in one hour! Now there's no identity of one sponsor with a show. That's not good. People like to know a sense of identity. It makes them more comfortable."

Cyprus Green Line Doesn't Mean 'Go'

By PETER BUCKLEY

NICOSIA (CP)—The obstruction in the middle of the highway or street is part of the scenery on strife-torn Cyprus.

Roadblocks are primarily intended to separate Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots and reduce the possibilities of bloody clashes between the two communities, but an incidental result has been a dislocation in the free movement of goods about the island.

Where a sharp dividing line exists between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot communities there is virtually no exchange of goods. At a few points along the "green line" between the two communities in Nicosia, trucks are backed up daily on either side and bartering takes place for food and other provisions. But these are exceptions.

If roadblocks are fashionable in Cyprus, however, there is no particular fashion in road blocks. They assume every shape and form.

A good cross-section can be obtained driving the 16 miles north to Kyrenia from Nicosia. All but a few miles of the trip is through Turkish-Cypriot territory and the Turks have shown the most ingenuity in their construction.

SAND-FILLED BUSES

At one point, two battered buses have been loaded with sandbags and parked across the street. Drivers must make a detour through a service station lot around the obstruction.

A short distance farther, oil barrels have been stacked one atop the other in long lines at a traffic circle, or "roundabout" as it is known here, with passages for traffic between. In a crisis other barrels can be rolled into place to block the road.

Barbed wire is another favorite on the Kyrenia road. It has the added advantage of mobility. It can be tucked to the side of the road in quiet times and rolled out quickly when the need arises.

Sandbags are used in other roadblocks. They are piled so that cars can make sort of S passage, one at a time, between two rows of bags, and the opening can be quickly filled.

At almost every obstruction on the Turkish side of the line, Turkish - Cypriot police stand guard. It's a job that leaves room for individual temperament. Some police go through the formality of checking passports no matter how often the same person passes their post. Others just wave the cars through, barely interrupting their conversation with local idlers clustered under a tree for protection from the sun.

SOME CARS SEARCHED

Two teen-aged Turkish-Cypriots in the pale tan uniform of the local police take turns at several of the checkpoints on the Kyrenia road, and have a regular audience of children watching critically as they fumble in frightening fashion with their automatic rifles and question the occupants of passing cars.

The Greek-Cypriot police and security forces tend to be more informal. Apart from Greek fortifications around the "green line" and substantial roadblocks on the outskirts of Greek communities, there are few permanent roadblocks in the Greek sectors of Cyprus.

Instead, police set up temporary barriers and check the identification papers of passing drivers. The thoroughness of the check seems to depend on day-to-day circumstances.

British drivers have been subjected to lengthy searches of their vehicles and at times of their persons by Greek-Cypriot police since RAF airman Keith Marley and his wife were accused of gun-running for the Turks.

And apparently because a "Press" sign was found in Marley's car—a sign similar to those handed out by the dozen in the government's own information office—foreign newspaper men also come in for occasional stiff examinations.

English Over Russian For Chinese

HONG KONG (AP)—English has replaced Russian as the No. 1 foreign language in Communist China, according to refugees' reports. It has become a requirement in schools and colleges and a fashion among the rest of people.

The refugees give these details:

Private English language schools and English correspondence schools are mushrooming in major cities.

In addition to the English courses in regular high schools and college and the Foreign Language College, the education authorities have set up junior English colleges in Shanghai and Canton providing a six - year course for grade school graduates.

"Self-teaching" groups have been organized in government departments and industrial plants where colleagues proficient in English serve as teachers.

The "study English" craze has created a shortage of English textbooks and dictionaries.

Essential English, a textbook printed in London, has proved popular with mainland students. To meet the demand, the Communists are resorting to pirating.

Hong Kong residents have received letters from relatives and friends in Communist China asking them to send English textbooks and dictionaries.

The English language supposedly is being revived because the Communists want to industrialize the country and play a more important role in international affairs.

Devil's Island For Tourists?

By HUBERT WILLIAMS

DEVIL'S ISLAND (Reuters) Rats and iguanas have taken over Guiana's Devil's Island, France's former penal colony in the Atlantic off French Guiana.

The rats approach boldly, unaccustomed to the ways of human beings. This reporter was with a party that made one of the few visits of human beings to the forbidding island since it was closed down as a prison in 1946.

Yet this rock, and the adjoining islands of Royal and St. Joseph, which were also used to house prisoners, would make beautiful tourist resorts, in fact, some American hotel magnates have already considered such a possibility.

France, however, appears unwilling to bring the three islands to life again. French authorities bar visitors and maintain a thick veil of secrecy about any plans for their future.

A large amount of money would be needed to clear the islands of thick undergrowth, crumbling prison cells and wild animals, including the rats and iguanas.

HAVE BEAUTY

But there is much natural beauty to commend them, similar to the Tobago and other Caribbean islands.

By ship, the islands lie only a few hours' voyage from the coast of French Guiana. The surrounding waters are cool, light green and no longer shark-infested.

There are good stretches of shell beach and what once was bare, wind-swept land has become romantic, palm - shaded groves. Thousands of cocoanut palm trees have grown up since the prisons were closed.

Nature now has covered up most of the sordid signs of the prison colony. In addition, former prisoners, who now live in French Guiana, say that the authorities have removed some of the torture devices.

Devil's Island actually is the smallest of the three islands and had fewer prison buildings than the other two.

6th Sidney

SIDNEY — Rev. Roy Veasey, Belleville, conducted Communion Service in Sidney United Church Sunday afternoon assisted by Mr. J. Cooper. Two babies were baptized: Robert Lloyd Defoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Defoe and Anthony Roy Sine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Sine. There were members present from Albans, Stone and Wallbridge Churches.

Mrs. George Pollard has returned home after spending a short holiday with nieces and nephews in and around Ottawa.

There was a good crowd in attendance at Scott's U.C.W. June pot-luck dinner in the church hall on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison Sine, Monica and Elaine and Mrs. M. Sine spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. George Clare, Thurlow on the occasion of Kendall's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sine and children of Windsor were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sine. Gerry and Alan remained for the summer holidays.

Mrs. Edison Sine was guest speaker at a tea and bake sale by the Ryistone U.C.W. in their church Wednesday afternoon. She was accompanied to the meeting by Mrs. Morley Sine and Mrs. Leslie Biddle.

CONVICTION SET ASIDE

MONTREAL (CP) — Conviction of Pascal Hayes for simple assault, resulting from an incident at a rally in the last federal election, has been set aside. Hayes was an unsuccessful Progressive Conservative candidate in Montreal Notre - Dame - de-Grace constituency. The conviction was registered May 22, 1963 and Hayes was fined $25.

Fisherman's Worst Sin: Minnow-Dumping in Lakes

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—What's the worst sin a sports fisherman can commit?

The man who looks after the fishing in Canada's national parks rates minnow-dumping right at the top.

Jean-Paul Cuerrier, chief of limnology for the Canadian Wildlife Service, says it's the fastest and surest way of ruining your favorite trout lake.

(A limnologist is someone who studies the characteristics of lakes and ponds.)

With angling pressure mounting steadily across the country, Mr. Cuerrier's job of seeing that game fish are available in the national parks is a tougher one every year.

"If fishermen would quit throwing their left-over bait into the water we might be able to catch up," he says.

Almost every fish and wildlife agency in the country tries to curb this practice but control is almost impossible.

"A lot of fishermen just don't seem to realize what they're doing," Mr. Cuerrier says. "If they're prosecuted for it they complain about silly laws."

CAN OVERRUN LAKE

The problem, as he explains it, is twofold.

First off, the minnows sold to fishermen are usually shiners, suckers or perch. All three are capable of rapid reproduction. Suckers and perch, with quickly overrun a lake and rob game fish of food and living space, often to the point of driving the game fish to extinction.

Shiners cause an added problem. They scoot form the main diet for trout and once they do, that "hot spot" for your spring fishing trip quickly cools off.

"A trout feeding on fat shiners will get his fill in three quick snaps. The same fish feeding on larvae and insects may need 500 bites to make a meal."

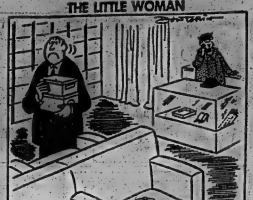
Result: The minnow-fed trout will spend 80 per cent of his time loafing, ignoring your hook. Your chances of catching him are practically zero.

But that overworked lunker-hunter will spend perhaps 20 per cent of his time looking for another sucker to probably finding .it on your hook.

LOADED WITH SHINERS

Mr. Cuerrier cites the case of a trout lake in one of the western mountain parks. It was barren of fish until eastern brook trout and rainbow trout were introduced about 30 years ago. They quickly took hold and the place became an angler's paradise.

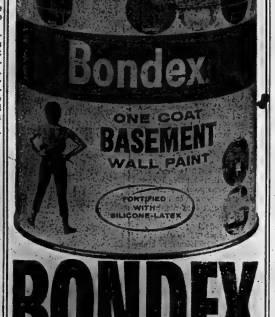
Suddenly, the fishing dropped off sharply. Anglers began avoiding the lake, calling it "fished out."



Biologists of the wildlife service found it loaded with shiner minnows and decided to clean them out with chemical poison. When the poison had been dumped in, rainbows up to 10 pounds floated to the surface dead.

"Some people said we shouldn't have poisoned that lake. But heck, it was useless the way it was." The wildlife service has poisoned 30 lakes since 1950.

Two months later the lake was restocked with rainbows. In three years it was again the best fishing spot in the area.



Don't bother to get the location. Some soft-hearted angler dumped a bucketload of perch there two years ago.

DELAY IN FLAG DEBATE IS SUGGESTED

Biculturalism Commissioners Called Puppets

Slashing Attack Made By Quebec Separatists

By RONALD LEBEL

QUEBEC (CP) — The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism was attacked bitterly by militant separatists as it ended a three-month round of informal public meetings here Tuesday.

The separatists almost monopolized the discussion at a stormy evening session attended by 300 and at afternoon group discussions attended by 100. They appeared to form roughly half the attendance on both occasions.

They described the 10 commissioners as puppets of the "Anglo - Saxon majority" criticized the Royal visit scheduled for October and called Premier Jean Lesage's Quebec republic with a seat at the United Nations.

All but the separatists made fiery speeches condemning alleged discrimination and exploitation of French-Canadians by English - speaking majority of Canada. They read from long prepared texts interrupted by frequent applause and cheers from separatists.

Commissioner Davidson Dunton, chairman of the 225,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions, objected to one separatists' statements impugning the commission's good faith.

He said the commission was willing to hear out all shades of opinion, but rejected allegations that its members were puppets trying to impose ideas contrary to their own.

WANTS NO LESSONS

Noting that most of the separatists' spokesmen were university students and professional men, he said he had no lessons to learn from "petty bourgeois" who had always opposed the French - Canadian labor movement in the past.

"I have been fighting 22 years for the rights of French-Canadian workers and I am continuing to do so," he said.

Commission co-chairman André Laurendeau had difficulty being heard above the interjections.

Could Push Govt. Into Election

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — The history of the previous minority Parliament may be repeating itself now in at least two significant ways. The final result could be a general election this fall—the third in as many years.

The two circumstances that mark this Parliament as similar to the last one are these: 1. A major national issue has developed; 2. The government needs temporary spending authority to pay for the July 1 bills.

In the last Parliament, the major issue was acquisition of nuclear arms. It came to a head in January and February of 1963, and ultimately led to defeat in the Commons for the minority Progressive Conservative government.

But, if nuclear arms hadn't been a precipitating factor in bringing about an election, the minority government's need for interim spending authority would have likely. Liberal opposition during that period made no secret of their intention to block supply rather than paralyzing government and dotting an election.

Only the issue and the path to outstanding parties are different in this Parliament. The Liberals are the minority government this time. They have brought before Parliament a proposed Canadian flag. It has become a major parliamentary issue and, if present, is opposed by many Canadians generally.

WILL NEED APPROVAL

By about July 12, the government is going to need parliamentary authority to pay its bills for the month of July. These circumstances are

Why Do It Now? Question Asked By Three Parties

Flag on Caouette's Desk Ordered Removed

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Why do it now? Wait until later?

Spokesmen for three parliamentary parties Tuesday echoed that slogan privately of the federal winter-works program in urging the government to pinch the great flag debate from the House of Commons hopper and proceed with other business.

"This is a momentous and historic debate," said New Democratic Leader Douglas, but "there would have been plenty of time to have dealt with the flag resolution next fall or next winter."

Bert Leboe, Social-Credit MP from the British Columbia Cariboo, agree with Mr. Douglas in claiming Canadians want priority attached to legislation other than the flag.

Why is this "emotional debate before us when many if not most of this government's election promises are not fulfilled?" asked Robert Coates, Conservative MP for Cumberland, N.S., who has spearheaded a campaign for parliamentary endorsation of the Red Ensign as Canada's continuing national symbol.

Real Caouette, Creditiste leader who complied with Speaker Alan Macnaughton's order to remove a flag from his desk, urged MPs to handle the matter quickly and adopt a distinctive Canadian flag.

FLAG BURGEONING

The field of flag group would plump with misgivings about a tri-maple-leaf design to save time, and abandon plans to push a single-leaf version—green leaf centred on a field diagonally split into red and white sections. That was the one he sought to display in the House.

But Mr. Douglas said his 17-man group will move later in the debate for a single-leaf version of the existing design.

The debate — launched Monday by Prime Minister Pearson and followed by Conservative Leader Diefenbaker with an announcement that a plebiscite be held on a national flag—ends tomorrow.

But Commons leaders turns Thursday to an urgent item—approval of a constitutional change to permit parliament to collect unemployment insurance benefits under the government Canada Pension Plan. This se-

Air Defence Command May Close

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The meeting of the Canada-United States cabinet defence committee in Washington June 25 may mark another step in the possible demise of NCAF.

NCAF — Air Defence Command, informed sources say.

The main military purpose of the meeting, in Canadian eyes at least, will be an assessment of the Russian bomber threat against North America.

Informants said it is expected the U.S. delegation, which has flitted many times in recent days to Ottawa for intelligence information than the Canadians, will find the bomber threat reduced by comparison with the long-range missile menace.

Such an assessment, sources said, would eventually result in a further reduction in RCAF Air Defence Command, possibly to the point where only a few fighters are kept for reconnaissance purposes.

RCAF Air Defence Command now is down to 43 operational fighter squadrons in three squadrons compared with 102 planes in nine squadrons in 1961. The number of radar stations in the Pinetree and Distant Early Warning chains has been reduced from 33 to seven, and of the Mid-Canada Warning Line has been dismantled.

ALSO HAS BOMARCS

Besides the interceptors, the RCAF has 56 nuclear-tipped Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles. The interceptors are scheduled to be armed with nuclear Genie rockets late this year.

A defence department spokesman said Tuesday that though the number of interceptors has declined by 70 per cent the firepower of the jets will be increased immensely when they get their nuclear rockets.

Prime Minister Pearson when questioned suggested that Canada retire from the Jet In-

Hellyer Tours Cyprus

By PETER BUCKLEY

NICOSIA (CP) — The Canadian defence minister was shown through mile after devastated mile of Nicosia Tuesday in a grim Cook's tour of "front line" positions in this divided Cypriot city.

Picton Guards May Go to Cyprus

OTTAWA — Army authorities here today said the 1st Battalion, Canada Guards, would succeed the Van Doos in Cyprus if the UN force is maintained there beyond six months. The battalion is stationed at Picton.

The announcement followed Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's statement to Canadian soldiers with the United Nations Cyprus force that they will be rotated on a six-month basis, ending speculation among the Canadian contingent about the length of their stay on the island.

A cavalcade of cars carrying Paul Hellyer and representatives of the Canadian, Danish and Finnish contingents patrolling sectors of the Cypriot capital wound its way back and forth across the green line separating the Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot communities.

It was a bizarrely realistic look at the havoc created in the city since the first clashes last Christmas and consequent dislocation of the two communities.

Miles of crowded streets in the ancient walled section of the city contained homes, shops and

Fire, Flood and Deadly Gas Menace Quake-Torn City

NIIGATA — Massive air and ground relief operations continued today in the earthquake-shattered city of Niigata and other areas of northern Japan with the death toll placed at 24.

Battered and broken by one of the strongest Japanese earthquakes of modern times, Niigata was menaced by fire and flood—and the threat of deadly gas that attacks the nervous system.

Police removed 7,260 peoples, including 2,000 hospital patients, from the vicinity of petroleum tanks blazing along the waterfront of this big port on the northwest coast, the centre of Japan's petroleum industry.

Workers tore down 200 flimsy houses in the path of the fire, but the flames inched toward a hydrogen tank 90 feet away, raising fears of a gigantic explosion.

Also threatened was a tank of the lead—an additive for gasoline. It would loose poisonous fumes over the crippled city if caught in the blaze.

Officials warned that if the gas escaped it would attack the nervous system of anyone inhaling it.

Ninety oil storage tanks on the devastated waterfront had caught fire. Japanese and U.S. air force planes and helicopters flew in tons of chemical foam to fight the flames.

Jobless Decline 25 P. C.

OTTAWA (CP) — With seasonal job activity on the upswing, unemployment in Canada at mid-May was 380,000, a decline of 110,000 from April and 13,000 under the year-earlier level, the bureau of statistics and the federal labor department said today.

The May unemployment figure represented 4.2 per cent of the labor forces, compared with 5.2 per cent in May, 1963, and 4.1 per cent in May, 1962. Seasonally adjusted, the May unemployment rate was 4.7 per cent.

Employment increased seasonally by an estimated 368,000 to 6,606,000 between April and May. Compared with a year earlier, employment was up 286,000, or 4.7 per cent.

The job picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

FIGURES ARE ESTIMATES

	May	April	May
	1964	1964	1963
Labor force	6,991	6,795	6,658
Employed	6,606	6,368	6,312
Unemployed	385	401	346

The monthly report is based on a survey of 36,000 households across Canada for the week ended May 23. Since figures re on a sample cross-section of the population, they are estimates and not precise totals.

The report said employment levels in all regions reflected the general upswing in seasonal activity. Both farm and non-farm employment was up in line with the improving weather and the spring pickup in manufacturing and construction.

The 4.7-per-cent gain in employment over the year was compared with the average year-to-year increase of about

New Step to Identify Persons Susceptible to Rheumatic Fever

MONTREAL (CP) — The discovery of a possible new step toward the identification of persons susceptible to rheumatic fever and some reflections on how women react to their husbands' heart attacks were among the many topics discussed at the Intersemerican Congress of Cardiology Tuesday.

The discussions, which wind up Friday, involve 1,200 heart specialists from all parts of North and South America.

Dr. M. S. Sadaw of Miami, Fla., told the delegates at a crowded Tuesday session that persons susceptible to rheumatic fever show a metabolism different from the metabolism of other individuals.

Doctors have said the disease, which primarily strikes children and affects the heart, could be prevented if those susceptible could be detected and treated.

Metabolism is a process by which the body builds up living tissue and converts material into energy.

Dr. L. D. Wilcox of London, Ont., dealt with the reaction of wives to their husbands' coronary troubles.

He said women show more shock than do their sick husbands when the news comes that the illness involves the heart.

He said the publicity given the heart problems of prominent public personalities is a factor in the alarm that almost such trouble when it affects a celebrity or friend.

Dr. Hans Selye of the University of Montreal came before delegates as champion of physical fitness in the prevention of heart trouble.

But the doctor, himself a long-lasting 57-year-old, said physical exercise is not for every-

Such exercise could have bad effects on the heart of an unfit person, he said.

He suggested that a personal physical fitness program should be started at the age of 30—"when people in our civilization begin using their bodies enough."

If such a program is not adopted, the body becomes "rusty" and any sudden exertion or other forms of stress in the years that follow could be dangerous if the individual's heart is weak.

Gordon Fears Indifference If CNR Deficits Inevitable

OTTAWA (CP)—CNR President Donald Gordon warned Tuesday that his publicly-owned CNR could cross day because of indifference to its deficits — and hurt its competitors in the process.

Mr. Gordon confessed his fears to the Commons railway committee in calling for prompt action on a proposal to revise the CNR's debt structure on the basis of "unequalled depreciation."

He said out a firm hope—almost a guarantee—of a yearly cut for the public railway, if it gets its capital revision.

If the CNR still loses money after recapitalization, he said, there had better be a "damned good reason" or else a public inquiry into the matter.

The CNR's recapitalization proposal has been before both the Conservative and Liberal governments and both promised action on it. The Liberal government has legislation in the mill for the current session of Parliament.

Mr. Gordon said he is "afraid" of the effect of chronic deficits on CNR management morale. With seven deficits in the last seven years—climaxed by a $43,054,000 loss in 1963—the railway could begin to feel that losses were inevitable.

If a "what's the use" attitude developed, the CNR could undermine its privately-owned competitor, the CPR, by offering low freight rates and costly services—with the government picking up the tab as a deficit on operations.

It was this danger, he explained, that could lead to a detrimental effect on the private sector of the transportation industry.

Ignores Two Death Threats

Scranton Woos Goldwater's Supporters

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Governor William A. Scranton of Pennsylvania ignored two death threats to broaden his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination in the leading contender Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona piled up enough delegate strength on paper to win the nomination next month at San Francisco.

The 57 - year - old Scranton added Utah and Kentucky to a 1,905-mile itinerary in his late bid to pick up as many nonaligned delegates at the July 13 Republican nominating convention to prevent the big prize from going to Goldwater on the first ballot.

Goldwater's delegate strength has soared to 674 with the addition of the 56-member Texas delegation Tuesday, according to an Associated Press survey. If he hangs on to that total, he will win the nomination with 19 votes to spare. Nomination takes 655.

Of Goldwater's first - ballot votes, some 401 are bound to him by personal pledge, primary election legal requirements or official action of state and district conventions.

The remaining 273 say they personally favor the senator but are not bound to him. It is from them that Scranton must try to draw enough support to preclude a first-ballot win for Goldwater.

Goldwater hopes to capture more backing Friday when Montana chooses 14 delegates in the last of the state conventions to decide the Republican delegate selection.

"Goldwater, these sources said, has not ruled out Scranton as a vice-presidential running mate should he win the presidential nomination.

He set the tone for his campaign in Dallas Tuesday when he received the pledge of support from the Texas delegation.

The death threats to Scranton were made in a letter sent to his office at the state capitol in Harrisburg, Pa., and the other in a telephone threat transmitted to a Minneapolis radio station.

Scranton scoffed at the threats as the work of an "utter fanatic." He added: "I'm not interested in fanatics."

Despite that, Minneapolis authorities clamped a tight security cordon around the Pennsylvania governor.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's deficit in merchandise trade, tourist spending, payments of interest and dividends and other non - merchandise transactions shot up to $241,000,000 in the first quarter of this year.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today this deficit was 40-per-cent higher than the $238,000,000 imbalance a year earlier. It was almost more than triple the $106,000,000 deficit in the final quarter of 1963. The 1963 deficit was set directly with the United States. Canada's current-account deficit with U.K. Japan and Europe sharply to $548,000,000 in the first quarter — 58 - per - cent higher than the year - earlier deficit of $347,000,000.

Canada's surpluses partly offset this. These surpluses almost doubled to $302,000,000 from $156,000,000 a year earlier, reflecting mainly higher wheat sales.

There was $241,000,000 current-account deficit was largely covered by a net capital inflow of $239,000,000. The result was a $42,000,000 decline in Canada's first-quarter holdings of gold and foreign exchange together with the Canadian position in the International Monetary Fund.

Canada's International Payments Deficit Grows in First Quarter

Long-term capital again began flowing into the country. The net inflow in the first quarter was $24,000,000 compared with a $33,000,000 outflow in the last quarter of 1963.

In short-term funds, Canada had a net inflow of $241,000,000 —the largest quarterly amount since the third quarter of 1962 when capital began returning to the country following the exchange crisis a few months earlier.

Foreign capital coming into Canada for direct investment in foreign-controlled companies totalled $75,000,000 in the first quarter, compared with $48,000,000 a year earlier, but up sharply from the $45,000,000 in 1963's final quarter.

All except $10,000,000 of this money was from the United States. The bureau said much of the increase was due to "a sizeable interest in the Labrador iron ore project" — probably a reference to the purchase by American interests of a controlling interest in the Labrador bowring firm.

Part of the reason for the relatively high deficit of $241,000,000 in current transactions in goods and service was "DBS adjustments to trade and other figures for balances of payments purposes.

Feasibility of Combining Public and High School Boards Will be Studied

The feasibility of a Board of Education in the city of Belleville to look after the affairs of both public and high schools, is to be considered by the Belleville Public School Board.

The matter was discussed by the board at their June meeting Monday evening and was referred to a special committee for further study and report.

Also to be considered is the possibility of a reduction in the members on the public school board.

School trustees James Rigsle, Mrs. Hazel Pugh, and Gordon Hutchinson were named to the special committee.

Public school administrator Today said that the matter of a Board of Education had been suggested to the public school board on several occasions and it had been decided to discuss the matter.

IN DREAM STAGE

"It is more or less in the dream stage at the moment and I would think that such a move, if approved, would be several years away," he said.

The idea would be to combine the public school board and the Bay of Quinte District High School Board and to have them operate under one board from one administration office.

High School Board secretary Roy Dolphus said today, that idea had not been mentioned to the high school board.

Prior to 1950 when the Bay of Quinte High School District was organized, public and high schools in the city came under one Board of Education.

But with the formation of the high school district the Board of education was abandoned and separate boards were set up.

At that time separate boards were recommended for the public and high school secretary by the Department of Education.

BOARD COMMENDED

And since the formation of the local high school district which takes in the city and townships of Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Ameliasburg and the village of Frankford, the local board has been commended by the Department of Education on the success of its operations.

The high school board now controls the operation of three high schools in the city with a fourth school in the planning stage.

When the Bay of Quinte High School District was organized it was one of the few centralized high school set-ups in the province.

One local high school board official felt that operation of the Board of Education taking in the district high school board and the city public schools board might present considerable difficulties.

MENTIONED SEVERAL TIMES

The idea was mentioned several years ago when the public school board and the high school board were plus the new administration offices.

However, at that time the high school board felt a combined board would be unworkable.

Since then new administration offices have been erected by both the public and high school boards and if a combined board of education were to be established it would probably be the matter of an extra administration office.

But in a growing city it is felt in some quarters this need could be put to good use without financial loss.

Boy Found In Doghouse At Madoc

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP) Robby Fox, 12, of Campbellford was discovered in the family doghouse early Tuesday after spending most of the night there while 150 searchers combed the area looking for him.

The boy had last been seen when he left for school at 9 a.m. Monday. He hid in the woods during the day and took over occupancy of the dog house during the night.

His father, Robert Fox, decided to look in the doghouse after he saw the dog sleeping in the yard.

Police had put out an alarm for the boy covering southern Ontario.

Board Authorizes New Lighting For Quinte Secondary School

School lighting that was satisfactory ten years ago is not good enough today.

At least the Bay of Quinte District High School Board Monday night authorized a $2,100 contract for relighting at Quinte Secondary School.

It seems that lighting in certain rooms at the school had been checked by a local lighting specialist and was found not measuring up to present day standards.

Last night's June meeting of the board was a lengthy session with a long list of items on the agenda. Adjournment did not come until well after midnight.

Walter MacCormack was given the contract for redecorating at Belleville Collegiate and at Quinte Secondary school during the Christmas holiday. The contract was awarded on a straight labor basis with the board supplying the paint.

Bible College Students Will Sing Here

The Kingsmen Quartet from the Canadian Bible College in Regina will present a program of sacred music next day, June 21st, at 11 a.m. in the Bible Church on West Moira and Coleman Streets.

Emphasizing the challenge of quality, truth, and full devotion living, the students will sing a variety of interesting numbers.

The program will be built around the theme song "Ride on, King of Kings" and will consist of favorite hymns, gospel songs, and selected Negro spirituals.

All have had wide experience in quartet work. They have sung in over 50 college and church services since last September.

In addition to pleasing music, The Christian and Missionary Alliance sends its Bible college graduates to the 10 million peoples of the world as the aborigines of New Guinea, the Pygmies of the Belgian Congo, Brazil, isolated Hebrew tribes and cliff dwellers in Africa.

The Kingsmen Quartet's service is prepared for young people as well as adults, and the public is welcome.

Found Guilty Of Assault, Fined $30

TRENTON — A five-foot-seven, 180-pound man, Clifford Herrington, was fined a total of $160 and ordered to pay court costs of $30.50 in Trenton court yesterday, when he was found guilty of assaulting William Francis Newell, of the same address.

Newell, a 22-year-old, one-and-three-quarter inches tall, of Batawa.

Evidence was produced that Herrington had struck Newell full to the ground and administered a beating, which resulted in Newell's head injuries, requiring treatment from a Trenton doctor, Dr. De Groot.

Herrington, a 27-year-old poacher had been approached by Newell on King Street in Trenton on May 16, and that Newell had told his doubted up. Herrington then struck Newell because he was "small-er" and was afraid that Newell meant to fight him.

Herrington told how he had pursued Newell along the Dug Hill Road, when they came across Newell's car, parked on the shoulder of the road on the side of the road. The magistrate asked Mr. Newell, "You shouldn't park your car on the road."

Newell then started up his car, according to Herrington, and drove into town, sometimes in front of Herrington's car, sometimes behind. At every opportunity, at railway tracks and corners, Herrington said, he and other backed into or rammed from behind, the Herrington car, but that when the Herrington vehicle was said to be $42. On King Street, Newell stopped his car and knocked Herrington to get out. The fracas resumed.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills, while saying that Herrington had evidently been provoked at the treatment of his car, imposed a fine, as he said that Herrington had "taken the law into his own hands."

"This is something to be discouraged, it must be emphasized," he said.

Peter Bonter In Charge of Tourist Booth

TRENTON — Peter Bonter, a former Trenton high school student, will work as the Chamber of Commerce tourist booth attendant this year. The booth opens on June 30.

Peter, who has been attending school at Lively, Ont., this year, plans to enter university in the fall.

Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Scott Jr. Sprague said in a telephone interview yesterday that Peter had been chosen because of his knowledge of the district.

CADETS INSPECTED

The annual inspection of Air Cadets from Squadron 618 was held Monday night in the recreation hall at RCAF Station Trenton by Wing Commander J. Arnott reviewing the RCAC cadets.

On hand for the review were Thomas Hetherington, Air Cadet committee chairman; Jack Radcliffe, secretary; Douglas Whitley, provincial vice-chairman of the Air Cadet League of Canada; Louis Knack, president of the Trenton Wing, 413, of the RCAF Association. Also present were around 30 parents and friends of boys. Refreshments were served following the inspection.

The 36-man squadron, formed two years ago, is led by Fit. Lt. Keith Rockston. Out of the squadron this year have come three outstanding cadets: Cpl. Donald DeDuke, topping cadets in Ontario for a flying scholarship; Cpl. Barry Haskett, chosen for a senior leaders' course and Flt. Sgt. N. Holland, picked for an exchange visit to the U.S.A.

A simulated search and rescue mission was carried out in the Bay of Quinte off RCAF Station this afternoon with the RCAF's newest helicopter, the CH 113 and two Canadian Coast Guard Cutters, taking part.

The CH 113 is capable of landing and taking off on water.

Newsmen were flown in from Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa to see the practise mission.

With the coming of summer the RCAF steps up its search and rescue practises, with emphasis on potential water accident rescue.

Accused Pleads Guilty, Fine Is $160, Costs

TRENTON — Kenneth Wayne Rollier of No. 6 Repair Depot, Trenton, was fined a total of $160 and ordered to pay court costs of $30.50 in court at Trenton yesterday on three charges: (1) leaving the scene of an accident, $100 plus $3.50 costs; (2) careless driving, $50 plus $3.50 costs; (3) driving without a driver's license.

The charge arose out of an accident on Dundas St. W. and on Quinte St., on May 30. Rollier was said to have struck a Gould's taxi, driven by Ronald Gelinas, on Dundas St. W. in front of the Centre Theatre. Rollier then proceeded around the corner onto Quinte St., where his vehicle struck two poles and a parked car, owned by Garry Stevens of R.R. 1, Quinte West. The car skidded 96 feet and finally came to rest against a train block at the side of the street.

Two young girls were said to have jumped up onto the ramp to avoid being struck by the Rollier car. The car which Rollier was driving, belonging to a friend, was damaged to the extent of $1,000.

Rollier ran from the car to the other side of the street. He pleaded guilty to all three charges in court, explaining his actions by saying that he had become panicky when he realized the implications of driving without his licence.

New Business Manager of Legion Named

TRENTON — The members of Trenton Legion Branch 14 met Monday night to elect a new business manager for the branch, Hall Committee.

An attempt to increase branch membership from the present 1,200 to a round 1,500 is planned and his committee, and Mr. Donaldson will attempt to add 300 new members to the branch.

Mr. Donaldson will attempt to add 300 new members to the branch.

Recently, an old-time member, Oriel "Buzzie" Alves, donated a $100 bond to the mortgage retirement fund. A new donation was received from a former member, Wing Commander "Pill" Rose.

Monday night, the members agreed that every building be built on a Canada Centennial Year project, but were waiting direction in Ned Hall Committee.

It was felt by all at the meeting that the building would look much less "out of place" close to the hall, rather than in a spot where it would "obstruct" the view from the hall of the bay.

IN MEMORIAM

THOMSON — In loving remembrance of my husband, John Thomson, who passed away June 17, 1953.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind.
For they are always cherished
Always remembered, always dear.

There always a lonely heartache,
And silent tear.
But memories always kept for his memory.
For the days of long ago.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife, Alice.

KENNEY — In loving memory of a dear wife and Mother, Mrs. R. Kenney, who passed away June 17, 1953.

It was just one year ago, dear mother,
That God called you home to rest;
To live with Him
In mansions bright and blest.
And yet we do begrudge you
Those mansions bright and blest,
But oh, we do so miss you
From your place at the fireside dear,
Your children will not forget.
—Ever remembered by Ivy, husband and children.

STEPHENSON — In memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Stephenson, who passed away six years ago today.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
And with a deep love we remember
That we do not think of you.
Those whom we love and lost you
Your memory will not fade.
—Ever remembered by Ivy, husband and children.

He said the matter had been investigated exhaustively by Blind River and provincial police. He said there was not sufficient evidence to substantiate a criminal charge.

A 33-year-old widow and a highway department worker said that several provincial policemen and two Toronto police officers were involved in the incident in the home of a Blind River lawyer. They made a complaint to Chief Walter Etmanski of Blind River.

Attorney-General Wishart said in Toronto Tuesday he is awaiting the report of Chief Inspector Ralph Taylor, who was sent to the area last week by OPP Commissioner Eric Silk to investigate the couple's claim.

Inter-Club Meet Held By Telephone

Tuesday was a big day for the Kiwanis Club when they held an inter-club at their regular dinner meeting with the Kiwanis Club of Bradenton, Florida — by telephone.

Members of the Belleville club met at the Kiwanis Centre at the regular time for lunch. In the meantime the Bell Telephone Company had installed the required equipment. Two large speakers were connected to the telephone line which enabled all members to hear the Florida Club's conversation.

The first voice to be heard was that of A. Stirling Hall, Mayor of Bradenton and formerly Governor of Florida District Kiwanis International.

Mr. Hall voiced the greetings of his club following which they sang God Save The Queen to the local club.

In the absence of president R. Fruechtenicht, greetings were extended to Bradenton members by vice-president B. Bradley. Following Mr. Bradley's remarks, Belleville Kiwanians sang America.

The program then went back to Florida at which time Mr. Hall gave a seven - minute address on the history of his club.

Following the same pattern, past - president Taylor Franklin was on hand and gave a short outline of the Belleville Kiwanis Club and its activities.

The program took half an hour. An invitation was extended to local Kiwanians by Mr. Hall, to join them personally for an inter-club meeting some time in the future in Bradenton.

Vice - president Bradley thanked Mr. Hall for the invitation and in turn extended an invitation to the Bradenton club to board its bus and meet with the Belleville members.

CNR Switcher Will Reach Industries by New Route

With rail traffic over the Pinnacle Street bridge now nothing of the past, industries in the south part of the city will be of today, CN rail says.

Vice over a spur line east of the city.

George Van de Water, the CN's Bridge Area Engineer, said that the switcher will reach industries in Belleville South by going over three miles of the Company's line east of the city and then back to the Canada Cement owned Thurlow Railway. On this line it goes some 2,000 feet south to a connection with the Canadian Pacific main line; CP's trackage is used for 2.6 miles to the west to tie in again with CN rails at Belleville south, forming as it were, a huge inverted "U."

While accepting some financial and operating liabilities for the use of foreign trackage Mr. Van de Water said CN is pleased to have been able to cooperate with city officials in removing rail traffic from Pinnacle Street and freeing one of the main arteries for vehicular use.

"Canadian National," he said, "would like to publicly acknowledge the spirit of co-operation and helpfulness provided by both the Canada Cement Company and the city of Belleville in bringing about the removal project to a successful conclusion."

While actual switching operations over the Pinnacle Street tracks ended as of yesterday, two more movements of a special nature are still scheduled on Pinnacle Street.

The first will be on June 22nd when local crippled children ride a train from the new CN station to the Quinte Hotel for a Rotary sponsored luncheon.

The other will be June 26th, when the old wood-burner locomotive, No. 40 built in 1875, is spotted opposite the parking lot during the monster dance. Both events are part of the celebration marking Railway Week, June 22-28.

Mr. Van de Water said that on Thursday, June 25, at 8.00 p.m. a track lifting ceremony will take place at Pinnacle and Victoria Streets, which will mark the physical breaking of the track connection. Complete track removal, he said, will be carried out later this year as part of an overall rehabilitation of the entire width of Pinnacle Street by the City of Belleville.

Swedes Set a Precedent

The Swedes have set another precedent.

They have decided it is permissible for doctors to shorten the lives of patients who are incurably ill. This, however, can only be done by acts of omission. The doctor has the right to withhold treatment which might prolong life. He has no right to prescribe treatment which would hasten death.

Some will regard this ruling as inconsistent. To judge, however, we ought to consider the nature of the problem. Modern achievements in the realm of medicine have made it possible for doctors to prolong life under circumstances which in the past would soon have resulted in death, but in many instances this constitutes no more than a reprieve. There is no hope of providing the sufferer with a "cure," even temporarily. Very often the patient who is kept alive is little more than a vegetable, unable to perform any of the functions which have made him a man.

Recently, there has been considerable debate as to whether such prolongation of life is justifiable. Some authorities, notably some Catholic theologians, have spoken out against the practice, urging that death is a natural process decreed by God and that man has no right to thwart nature in a manner which is essentially degrading to the patient.

Catholics who have always opposed euthanasia, or mercy killing, will argue that, far from there being any inconsistency in their stands, the two opinions, against the prolongation of life by extreme measures and against mercy killing, form a uniform whole. They both derive from reluctance to interfere with the process of nature.

Whether the Swedish ruling involves any inconsistency is thus evidently a matter of opinion, in which the verdict will depend upon the viewpoint.

It is interesting, though, to note the particular case which prompted the Swedish Royal Medical Board to hand down its ruling. The doctor of an elderly woman, with the consent of her relatives, stopped medication, which led to her immediate death. The doctor desired to spare the woman from prolonged suffering. The Board ruled he acted correctly.

The disturbing thing about this case, to some, will be that the doctor's decision was taken "with the consent of relatives." Nothing is said about the consent of the patient herself. Perhaps, she was too ill to be consulted. But many people will find repugnant the idea that relatives should have the final decision as to the way in which they should die. Already in this country a person is denied the right to dispose of his or her own body—that right belongs to the next-of-kin. This is bad enough. Insult become grievous injury if the right is added the right to decide whether death should be quick or slow. Most people would prefer, if they themselves were unable to make the decision, to have it made by their doctor alone, rather than by their doctor with the leave of relatives. Our relatives we have wished on us. Our doctors we select ourselves.

Quiet Confidence My Eye

"Mankind," declares Jane Scott, religious columnist in the Toronto Telegram, "has not recovered the quiet confidence, sense of stability and security which was evident before the last war."

Oh, brother! Where was she in the dirty thirties? The Nazi rape of Czechoslovakia, Anschluss, Il Duce's son writing of the beauties of spraying mustard gas on Ethiopians, Franco's Fifth Column at Madrid, Manchoukuo and the rape of Nanking—does she remember none of this?

But perhaps she means earlier, in the twenties—with their bathtub gin, Chicago's Al Capone, Britain's general strike, Russia's New Economic Policy.

But perhaps she means earlier, in the previous decade with—oops, there is that First Great War.

But perhaps she means earlier, in the first decade of the century, with the Boer War just completed and the Germans merely trying to achieve naval equality with Britannia, and nothing but universal suffrage and reciprocity disturbing our world.

But perhaps she means earlier—wait a moment, how far back can our Jane remember anyway?

The greatest destroyer of democracy in the world is war itself.—Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Opposes Unified Germany

Toronto Telegram

Sometimes Canadians are accused of having unrealistic and naive objections to the reunification of Germany.

Mr. Lubor J. Zink, our distinguished correspondent in Ottawa, is one of these accusers.

He is half right, perhaps. The Germans enter, but they are not unrealistic. He is quite wrong in suggesting that those who contend that a united Germany is a menace to peace and civilization are naive.

Mr. Zink has expressed the opinion that there never can be lasting peace until the reunification of Germany takes place.

Germany became a united country under Chancellor Bismarck. In that year Germany, with its Prussian leaders, invaded France and laid siege to Paris. In 1914, the same nation trampled over Belgium and invaded France. And in 1939, the same unified nation through Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, The Netherlands, Belgium and France.

We don't want to keep old wounds festering. We want to live with nations as we would allow individuals, an opportunity for reform and a new life.

But surely it is not unrealistic and naive for the people of the Western world to have some reservations concerning German reunification and the consequences of such a move.

Mr. Zink expresses concern that there were many people in Canada who held this view, included among them some Communist members of public opinion, who harbor deep suspicion of our former enemy in two world wars."

He is absolutely right about this. There were those who harbored such doubts after 1870, 1914 and 1939.

Today, The Telegram includes itself in this group of "suspicious" ones. A newspaper though not named in Mr. Zink's analysis, freely admits its membership in the group. The Telegram does not agree with Communist's thesis that so long as Germany remains divided, real peace is unattainable. It holds the view that a Germany reunited might be a greater threat to world peace than a Germany fragmented.

Mr. Zink believes that the criticism of German reunification today is based on emotionalism. This is nonsense; it is based on history.

Mr. Zink's view is that a divided Germany cannot be separated from the problem of a divided world. Such a view does not have validity because this briefest examination of history of the past three decades shows that the position of Germany is quite different from the position of the United States, Britain, Russia, Poland or any of the other Soviet occupied countries.

Indeed, the Stalin-Hitler pact of 1939 coldly and cynically divided Europe between Russia and Germany.

In spite of this pact, Hitler invaded his ally, inflicting colossal losses of life and property in the Soviet Union.

The aspirations of those of several millions in the Balkans; the Baltic States, Hungary, Poland, and Czechoslovakia for freedom and political self determination should be an objective of free men and free governments everywhere.

Should this be achieved, who, however, would deny the wisdom and the justice of maintaining a divided Germany in eastern Germany to act as a buffer for Poland, and the Soviet Union, whose territories having been brutalized by Germany, Poland in 1939, and Russia in 1941.

Mr. Zink — in his commendable zeal to remind his readers continually that the "past" was not forever exist with millions of his own former countrymen as well as the Communists and people of half a dozen other countries under Soviet domination — should not overlook the situation in Germany with the problems besetting these occupied countries. Neither should he expect Canadians, many of whom are still living who also fought in two world wars, to forget that it was the unbounded lust for power of Germany that brought about these holocausts.

Mr. Sarazen Out of Bounds

Ottawa Journal

Mr. Gene Sarazen has played good golf for so many decades he has forgotten what golf is all about. And ordinary golf, we insist, is golf. The amiable Gene has suggested that the hole be enlarged "to take the citizens out of golf". The game should be golf, as we have said, the having played it for the ball to go into the hole. Failing to get the larger ball into that four and one-half inch hole is golf, not anything else.

We have news for Mr. Sarazen. Theordinary golfer doesn't get nicked on the head by the side of the hole. Ulcers come from worry and doubt and confusion of the mind, not from the golfer who misses his putt knows why he misses it: he didn't hit it straight. He knows he didn't hit it straight — that's a matter for curses and even hurling the weapon angrily after the ball that refused to go straight.

Ulcers, Gene, come from more exquisite catastrophies whose causes are obscure. One does a man hook all the time, except when he wants to hook to negotiate a two and his ball shoots straight as a die? Whence comes a whiff, a complete swipe? Why can a man has had two pars in a row?

In the old days it was human weakness that made the caddy to smote just when a man was taking a drive — but what makes a caddy so suddenly creak at that moment? And why is it that his opponent, a decent enough man around the verandah and probably an accountant and a whiz for figures, cries out "five" though he bashed around in the rough back there like a man killing snakes?

Don't be a square, Gene; there's nothing wrong with the cup in golf, in fact the cup's the best part of golf.

Plebiscite Is Rejected

Toronto Globe and Mail

The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in convention at Regina is reported a wise decision when it rejected a suggestion that the electors of a national flag be submitted to a plebiscite.

The most convincing argument why there should not be a plebiscite emerged from the character of the federation's debate. What started out as a calm and orderly discussion on the part of civic leaders in Canada's 10 provinces, quickly degenerated into a wild shouting match! It was an ugly display of inflamed emotionalism.

What happened at Regina was not planned, of course; it was a case of spontaneous combustion created by an inflammatory issue. It is clear from the Regina experience that there was the same kind of unreasoning, emotional fervor behind the separated areas Canada by a flag plebiscite. No matter what the outcome, such an issue would split the country and set back Canadians unity for at least a generation.

It is a tribute to the overwhelming majority of delegates that when the turmoil died and a measure of calm returned, they saw the danger and acted decisively to avoid it.

The delegates indicated their disapproval of a plebiscite by general election on the flag issue by supporting a suggestion that the government should receive members from political ties and allow a free vote on the resolution to adopt a new national flag. This course would not oblige the government to resign in the event of defeat, a rule in Canada which commends itself to most Canadians.

Robarts' Role Constructive

Montreal Gazette

Premier John Robarts is playing a constructive role in Canadian affairs at the time, by his understanding attitude towards Quebec. Nobody in Quebec and Ontario might have fallen into the temptation to map narrow political capital out of playing one province against the other. But this Mr. Roberts has never done.

In a speech before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London, England, Premier Roberts had this to say.

"We are in a transitional period. There is a great deal of soul-searching and self-examination being done. The constitutional things are going to make headlines.

"But I know what's going on in Quebec, and I have great appreciation and sympathy for what they are trying to do. French Canadians have no desire to separate from the rest of Canada. It would be a tragedy if they ever did."

"Quebec has some special problems to work out. It is impatient, and not touchy — if we can be a little thick-skinned these things will work themselves out".

It is the right attitude — a patient faith. And coming from the Premier of Ontario it is a particularly valuable contribution at a time when patience and faith were never more needed.

The former Ontario School for the Deaf, now used by the R.C.A.F. as No. 2 S.F.T.S. (Flying Training School, will be restored to the Department of Education of Ontario by the Federal Government during the latter part of June, it was announced yesterday by Premier George Drew. Although it had been known that No. 2 F.T.S. was scheduled to close at some date during the summer, no definite date had been set by the R.C.A.F. headquarters for the disbanding of the school as according to information from Ottawa it was expected a flight engineers school would take over until December. Mr. Morrison was particularly pleased with the announcement that his former school would be turned back to the department at the end of June.

After being on leave of absence for three years, Mr. Carver civilian employment as reporter with the Ontario Intelligencer, George H. Carver resumed his reportorial duties with this newspaper. During his absence from the editorial room for the past 13 months, Mr. Carver was captain and adjutant of the 46th Field Regiment, R.C.A., with headquarters at Gananoque. Mr. Carver first joined the editorial staff of the Ontario Intelligencer in the summer of 1936 coming from the Picton Gazette. Prior to his association with the Prince Edward county press he was employed in a similar capacity with the Halifax Herald.

Strictly Personal
Middle Age Is a Trick And a Trap

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I wrenched my shoulder playing tennis the other day, and lying under the heat lamp, I reflected on what it means to be being middle-aged. What is middle age? Are you never feel middle-aged.

At least, I don't. Half the time I feel 18, and the other half 108. In the medium zone of life, experience no happy medium — only an oscillation between the extremes of exuberance and senility.

Still young enough to want to exhibit all the muscles that appear in their summer dresses — and old enough to remember that they were much younger than my own daughter.

Still young enough to play my heart out (and I used to play doubles, naturally) in the broiling sun — and old enough to call myself a fool when I succumbed — and old enough to crawl into bed the next night at 8 p.m. exactly in every bone in my body.

Middle age is a trick and a trap. It promises what it cannot perform. It lures you into activities younger than in abandon, and now its elders in wisdom — and upbraids foolishly between the two.

Schopenhauer said that "The first forty years of life give the text; the next thirty supply the commentary." But middle-age is the time when most of us are frantically engaged in rewriting the text, in trying to delete, add and re-edit the first edition of ourselves — and the commentary is provided by our surviving as well as by the abandonedwife point out the mistakes to one another.

Youth feels young, and old age feels old, almost all the time. The former recognizes no limitations, and the latter accept them decidedly. Nobody has to teach himself to be young, and nobody needs to be told how to be old. But middle-age is primarily a process of re-education: of learning where the limits are, of pacing oneself as a dual runner has to do when he is suddenly forced to become a miler.

I exaggerate, of course, it is not wholly unpleasant, by any means, and middle age has its special compensations, its born bouquet, its gentleness — and pleasures. In general, however, what is called "the prime of life" is both raw and overcooked at the same time; and the spiritual digestion, like the physical one, cannot absorb and assimilate it.

To Your Good Health
Children Require Daily Nap at the Age of Three

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Should a three-year-old children have a nap every day? My grandchild is very tired when he gets up to bed, day or night. It's always, "I don't want to go to bed." — Mrs. L. S.

At the age of three, yes, children require a daily nap. Whether they actually sleep may not be so important, but they need the rest and relaxation.

In the case of these grandchildren, the clue to the situation is in the fact that they don't want to go to bed at any time. So, you see, it isn't a matter of nags, it's a protest against going to bed.

There are several possible explanations, and the "I don't want to go to bed" business may result from a combination of motives.

First — children can get themselves so keyed up that, literally, they can't go to sleep. This doesn't mean that they don't need to rest. They need it desperately, but there is no answer except to tuck them in bed in a quiet place until their tensions unwind and — presto — suddenly they are asleep.

A second factor is habit. A child who gets into the habit of making a fuss about going to bed will make a fuss even if, physically, he is exhausted. Indeed, it often the chronically tired child who creates the most turmoil at bedtime.

How to handle is the problem, and really the only way I know of, is to meet it with complete, calm firmness. No arguments, no bribes, no threats, just an unemotional but implacable putting to bed.

Sometimes, remember, this protest at going to bed is nothing but a means to an end. Suggestions to realize that he doesn't get attention, doesn't manage to hold the center of the stage, by putting on a tantrum, be gives it up.

Dear Dr. Molner: In the past few months, three red spots have formed on my legs between calf and ankle. I do not have bulgy, knotty varicose veins, but I suppose they are varicose. I am 50, six feet two, and weigh 185 pounds. Do you think I am overweight?

Enclosed are the required self addressed stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin for a copy of your booklet, "How to Deal With Varicose Veins." — F. H. T.

Have your physician look at that red, itchy spots. They could be from varicose veins, or could be a skin ailment. Varicose veins don't necessarily have to be knotty, and if veins are close to the surface, yet may still be varicose.

For your height, you aren't much overweight if you have a good bone structure. Otherwise, you can be as much as 20 pounds overweight, if you are naturally of slim build.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a sore on the bottom of my heel and it is getting more painful. What can be done about it? — Mrs. R. S.

Part of the natural healing process in many instances is the deposition of calcium in the irritated or inflamed area. It makes a strong repair of the suits we used to glory in giving.

The need for the glory is still there, and that's the rub. Waking up, the middle-aged man feels he can still lick the world; by soon, he feels lucky if he can get through the day without an aspirin. The only excuse he can safely practice is the excuse of moderation.

wound. If some deeper area (such as the bone of your heel) is damaged, calcium helps repair it. Often the healing is healed by (among other things) calcification.

This gets a bit lumpy, like a soldier or glue or whatever you might use to repair a leaky kettle or a broken chair.

If the lumpy healed place is on an arm, leg or rib, it doesn't bother you. But on your heel this lump (or spur) can hurt because you have to walk on it.

A padded inner sole of your shoe may take the pressure off this lumpy spot. If not, then it is not a bad idea to have surgery, so the painful lump of calcium can be removed.

Letter to the Editor

Red Cross Workers Have Fine Record

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

I am extremely proud of our Red Cross work room record for the past year and through your paper would like to thank all the people who have helped to make it so good.

Last year I appealed for helpers to come to our work room to help to get the work to take out and I offered to deliver and call for work that anyone was willing to do but couldn't call for.

The response to this was most surprising and I think perhaps was a help to those people who couldn't get out but were unable to help and were glad of some occupation for their spare time.

Next year we hope to have additional work rooms and more helpers.

The goods shipped this week: 97 pairs of men's socks, 91 sweaters with matching socks, 18 sweaters, 10 pairs of mitt tens, 12 quilts, 21 girls' dresses, few months, 10 boys' shirts, 16 pair of boys' pants, 10 tropical layettes and 16 pair of baby bootees. These have been sent to the flood disaster areas in the west.

When I was in India last winter I saw a class of forty pre-school children all dressed in sweaters (which they need in winter) dresses and boys' garments, all with our Canadian Red Cross labels. The little ones were so proud (and it was I). Many of the garments looked as though they might have been made in our work rooms.

I am clearing rooms for July and August but will be busy getting in September to start again.

Thank you all who have helped.

Mrs. George Graham.

The Second Narrows Bridge completed into Burrard Inlet at Vancouver, is being its 15 workmen six years ago today—in 1928. Two sections of the unfinished bridge—375 feet of its proposed 550—were dangling crashed into the tide-swept water shortly before the men were to quit for the day. The $16,000,000 six-lane bridge was due for completion late in 1928. Previously, the highest death toll in an accident in British Columbia was 44 men who died in a mine explosion at Bleketburn in 1890.

SCHOOL CO-OPERATION PROVIDES SHELTER. FENS — O.S.D. welding students Terry England and Kenneth Warren are seen working on new pens for Bellville animal shelter.

OSD Welding Class Pupils Make Cages for Dog Pound

Welding class students at the Ontario School for the Deaf are getting their training and doing community service all at the same time.

Several weeks ago the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce offered to do improvements at the local fairgrounds animal shelter and to provide new animal cages.

That is where the welding students at OSD come in.

With the Jaycees providing the materials, the school welding students are doing the fabrication of six double metal units to house dogs and cats at the city dog pound. Welding instructor Irwin W. Knight designed the animal pens which are light enough for easy moving.

OSD vocational school director John Hodgson said the animal pen project provided excellent cutting and fabrication training for the students.

Since commencing their animal shelter project, the Jaycees have paved and roofed the exercise area and now, with the new metal pens, lost pooches can "holiday" in comparative canine luxury.

Hope to Settle Strike Today

MONTREAL (CP) — Union leaders have indicated they will try to persuade 1,500 longshoremen to return to work at a mass meeting set for today in another attempt to end the wildcat walkout which has paralyzed the Montreal waterfront for two days.

Leo Taylor, one of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) officers, said Tuesday night he was hopeful the walkout can be settled today.

The strike over the union's pension plan has tied up at least 30 ships in Montreal harbor and could stall grain shipments to fulfil Russian wheat deal commitments if it continues more than a few days.

Eight More Rooms Planned For Park Dale Public School

The general contracting firm of Miron-Wiggers of Trenton is now doing site preparation work for the new Sir Mackenzie Bowell public school in West Belleville, but still more school accommodation is required in the northwest part of the city.

At the June meeting of the Public School Board held Monday evening, Schools' Superintendent J. E. Kells said that plans should be started immediately to prepare for the construction of an eight-room addition to the Park Dale school.

He said the school addition at Park Dale should be ready for occupation by September, 1965.

Mr. Kells said that school statistics show an expected enrolment of approximately 1,300 children for the Hillcrest, King George, Park Dale and Prince of Wales schools at school opening in September of this year.

These enrolments are expected to increase to about 1,575 within the next four years, while present accommodation in the 35 classrooms is designed for about 1,225 children.

Mr. Kells was directed by the board to approach the Ontario Department of Education for tentative approval of the construction of an eight-room and multi-purpose room addition to the Park Dale Public School.

A start on actual foundation construction for the new Sir Mackenzie Bowell school on Leland Drive is expected soon to be underway. The body of school board officials is that the West Belleville school may be ready for at least partial occupancy for the opening of the September school term.

The personnel committee for the Administration Office reported progress in screening of applications for an administrative position. Agreement was reached that the successful applicant would be expected to take the responsibilities of business administrator and treasurer as he showed competence in his work. More than fifty applications have been received.

At the same time, the committee reported that Miss Linda Lockhart, 190 Hastings Drive, will be employed for secretarial work.

As the meeting was the final one for the board's assistant secretary, Mrs. Irene Raney, chairman F. P. Clarke spoke briefly in commendation of her extended service, following which Trustee W. A. VanTassel on behalf of the board, presented Mrs. Raney with a wardrobe case.

Magnificent Reception Is Given Farce by Moliere at Stratford

STRATFORD (CP)—A near-capacity audience at the Stratford Festival gave a magnificent reception Tuesday night to Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, Moliere's farce directed in English by Montreal's Jean Gascon.

The play, with Douglas Rain in the title role, was the second of this season's three central plays to open. The 12th season of the festival opened Monday with an already controversial version of Shakespeare's Richard II.

The third opening will be tonight, when King Lear goes on stage in a production directed by festival director Michael Langham, with John Colicos remain a believable character.

and Martha Henry starring.

Tuesday night's production of Gentilhomme had already been staged at England's Chichester F stival, where it was enthusiastically received by the British press.

The critics here equalled the British in praising the production, though there were some reservations.

The play is a farce concerning a prosperous bourgeois, Monsieur Jourdain, whose chief ambition is to associate himself with "persons of quality."

Rain, as Jourdain, manages to squeeze guffaws out of his audience and at the same time

WEDDING

HOUDE — HUBBLE

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, June 6, in St. Peter-in-Chains Church, Trenton, when Doris Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hubble, Stockdale, was united in marriage to Paul Alexander Houde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Houde of Trenton.

Rev. G. J. Clancy officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Entering the church to the bridal chorus played by Mrs. Maria Rose, the bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length bridal gown of nylon taffeta, highlighted with an Emperor waist line featuring floral-pattern Chantilly lace, square neckline and lily point sleeves. The skirt formed a sweeping chapel train trimmed with sequins and pearls. Her veil flowed from a floral head piece and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart rosebuds and snapdragon mums.

The maid of honor, Miss Patricia Houde, sister of the bride groom and the bridesmaids, Miss Janice Morgan and Miss Gail Morgan of Port Credit, nieces of the bride; Miss Patricia Morrow of Hilton, and Miss Barbara Bradley of Frankford, were similarly attired with two in aqua and three in buttercup yellow. Their floor length gowns were of silk organza over nylon taffeta. They wore matching wedding hand hats with silk Malines veiling. Each carried cryanthemums tinted to blend with their dresses.

Two flower girls, Elizabeth Jackson and Deborah Jackson, were identical yellow organza trimmed with smocking. Their headpieces were matching floral bands. They carried white baskets of Shasta daisies.

Kenny and Harry Rupert of Trenton were the ring bearers.

Mr. Ross Caughlins was the groomsman, assisted by Mr. Eddie Ayers, Mr. Jim Clement, Mr. Robert Houde, brother of the groom, and Mr. Neil Hubble, brother of the bride.

Traditional wedding music was played, with Mr. Bill Long as soloist.

The reception was held at the Trenton Legion hall where the Ladies' Auxiliary catered to 90 guests. The bride's table was prettily appointed and centred with the traditional wedding cake, pink candles and the bridal bouquet completed the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a turquoise and grey brocaded taffeta dress with bolero, matching accessories, and an orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother chose a flowered pink taffeta with overdress of pink organza, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The toastmaster was Mr. H. D. Morgan, brother-in-law of the bride.

For the wedding trip to Sault Ste. Marie and Michigan, the bride wore a pink wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink baby mums.

Guests were present from Woodstock, Toronto, New York State, Port Credit, Napanee Campbellford, Stirling, Belleville, Tweed and Batawa.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was honored at showers given by Patricia Morrow and Hilton, Patricia Houde, and Barbara Bradley of Trenton, Jean Elliot and Mrs. Andrew of Stockdale, and the office staff where Miss Hubble is employed in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Houde will reside at 101 Coe Hill Drive, Toronto.

Working With Families of Alcoholics

This week The Ontario Intelligencer is publishing a series of articles that take a positive look at what can be done to further the health and well-being of the alcoholic's family. The articles are reprinted from the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation, Toronto's first publication, Addictions. Addictions is available on a free subscription basis to professional people and interested laymen. The Foundation is an agency of the Province of Ontario.

THE CHILDREN — CONFLICTED AND CONFUSED

By MARGARET COWE, (Psychiatric Social Worker)

(PART THREE OF A SERIES)

The children in the family of an alcoholic are of such primary concern to most social workers and have all too long been left unstudied, that I would like to consider briefly in some of the particular implications for them of the kind of family living described in yesterday's article. An article on some observations of the children's reactions states that the normal pre-adolescent gains within the family such things as a well-developed time perspective; a sense of control in their environment; a sense of self-esteem.

Turn, then, to the child who has lived over a good portion of his life within a family experiencing alcoholism in one of its many and varied manifestations. The chances he may have to attain or maintain such a sense of development. In the alcoholic family member by the amount of anxiety, distress and "I don't care" inconsistent attitude toward one another and to other family members, by the amount of hate the parents express and demonstrate and the amount of reality each exerts. The child is conflicted by the mother taking over the father's role as well as her own (or to the detriment of her own). He cannot help but feel for him and contained by the different feelings the alcoholic has for him when drunk or when sober, influenced by the particular hostility directed towards him by one parent if he resembles the other parent. The child frequently has too much responsibility without understanding, or is caught in conflict by both parents in different ways. He is torn by his loyalty to family ties and by the community feels about his father.

LIMITED OPPORTUNITY FOR NORMAL DEVELOPMENT

The child experiencing some of these conflicts in feelings cannot help but react and interact with his parents and siblings in a far from growth-producing way. He obviously suffers in a relative degree from lack of a strong parental figure on which to pattern himself, from conflict around these and from over-identification with one or the other parent. As already mentioned, he may have difficulty in finding his own identity depending on what age he is when the alcoholism occurs and certainly he may have a many than usual problem in obtaining and maintaining his own appropriate role in the family. More specifically, he may be unsure of what is expected of him and what he can expect of others. One that I do not needs are often met on the basis of what is happening at the moment, rather than on the basis of his own personality make-up. Many such children have difficulty accepting appropriate responsibilities or in disciplining themselves. Some become fearful of expressing themselves or their feelings, or in their anxiety act these out with considerable lack of control.

The general implication in all this is that the child has limited opportunity to grow and develop normally and-or may be severely damaged in important ways. The miracle is that so many survive as well as they do. To what degree there is hidden damage which will become in light later in life an urgent matter for further research.

FAMILY-CENTERED THERAPY NEEDED

This then, brings us to the matter of treatment. Treatment must be geared not only to the alcoholic, but to the wife, and directly or indirectly to the children. Such treatment is directed toward getting a better understanding of the emotional factors underlying the alcoholism and the family disorganization, of the interpersonal relationships and interactions of family members. Such therapy for the family is indicated not only affecting countless families but also the individuals who comprise them.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

By LEONA LEWIS

...TO BORROW

Is your garden tools on permanent loan? Or your stuff is on display at the neighbors? If it looks like we'll have to start a landwagon and do some borrowing ourselves.

The hoe and hand-rake are splendid service next year, well get them back clean up my little flower patch, the marigolds are being weed-bed in the meantime.

The lawn edger was snagged early by a gardener who has been borrowing it ever since we saw. In the meantime, our lawn has lapped over on the driveway and path. It's only homestead that can boast of a genuine crossword puzzle properly accented through the lawn.

After a brief, urgently needed and needful laughter of home to get his vegetable garden started, he obligingly loaned out the major portion of it. Ah, oh, who can refuse a neighbor's need to eat—and all the hardware we've closed for the day? Well, we can't, that's who.

In the meantime, we've several tomato plants in the house that by all rights should have wept their way, we've organize a bucket brigade from Lake Ontario. Most people we know are in the spot, so it's impossible to borrow that method—but it's come home to roost.

In search of phone calls, garden-variety and flashlight batteries continued to be struggled for another day while he cleaned up his sketch. He'll soon returned to worry about and chisel with weeds we'll soon be able to get rid of as his own home project.

I've had a few phone calls trying to borrow implements were coming anon, so there's hope of saving the axe-man yet in the meantime, though, are my gardening plans are in a standstill, I might as well use this time to plant a convenience of the donor. For instance, if you must borrow a mower, make sure the grass box has grass cut before returning it.

When you borrow a piece of equipment, ask how long you may keep it. Be sure to bring it on time. When you do give it back, be courteous enough to clean it thoroughly so he won't have to do your dirty work. Naturally, if anything should be broken or damaged while in your hands, either have it repaired or offer to replace it.

Borrowing and lending are very much a part of being good neighbors, but the borrowing part is less likely to be resented if the basic courtesies are observed.

Like my good businessman, person doesn't mind lending encourage good will. But he should get a prompt return on his investment.

Art Class Has Exhibit At Library

Children of public school age who have been attending the art classes at the Recreation Centre since January have a display of their work on view this week at Corby public library.

Although they are at the learning stage and doing all their work in rough at the edges, there is no doubt about their enthusiasm and some of the paintings show considerable promise.

Mrs. Dolly Cain has been instructing the class of about 15 children every Saturday morning. The class works with water colors, crayons, charcoal and in oil pastels. The class was started in 1962 at King George School, but now meets at the Recreation Centre.

When the weather is suitable the boys and girls go to Presqu'ile Island, Victoria Park or the bay shore. One day was spent at the Madoc Art Centre.

Mrs. Cain says she encourages them to try out their own ideas, and the results were apparent in the different ideas each had about similar objects. They are taught basic drawing, and proper proportion.

Different textured paper was used to make designs with some quite imaginative results. Local buildings were sketched, churches in the city, religious pictures of the nativity and fiction were done at Easter.

A pot of violets showed skill and a good sense of color. There were several still life studies, a water color reflected eye, and a sketch of a building was done with detailed care.

The summer classes commence on July 2nd each Thursday morning from 9.30 to 11.30.

Mrs. Dolly Cain had a painting accepted at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. Over a hundred professional artists submitted entries, and 70 of these were shown.

ST. JOSEPH'S C.W.L.

The regular monthly meeting for June, and last meeting before the fall, of St. Joseph's C.W.L. opened with a warm welcome by President Mrs. Trenna Murphy.

First Vice-president, Mrs. M. Daniels, thanked the hospital auxiliary for the gift sent and asked with the membership party, and reported some membership dues received, reminding the councillors to complete their canvass for same by the end of June; also asked the ladies to continue working on their projects for the fall bazaar.

A spiritual bouquet was made up for Rev. Father McGee.

Mrs. V. Murphy reported on the chief annual diocesan convention held in Smiths Falls attended by herself and 22nd vice Mrs. M. Bland. Following the delegates' registration there was a pre-convention meeting by presidents and council presidents, the other delegates going on a tour of the Ontario Hospital.

After the actual conference reports there was a discussion on leadership courses and it was felt more advantage should be taken of them. After the business of the day was completed, a banquet was held for all the delegates.

The second day of the convention with roll call and report of the previous day's meeting and the highlights of each convener. A resolution was passed to suggest to provincial council that a request be submitted for government sponsored sheltered workshops for the mentally retarded teenage person to enable such to take their place in society and realize a sense of independence.

The slate of officers for the coming year was presented and installed by the Diocesan director, Rev. Dr. Pickett. The meeting adjourned with the delegates assembling in the tea room.

Mrs. Eliard who accompanied Mrs. Murphy thanked the ladies for the honor of being able to attend the convention, and in meeting and associating with other delegates. Speaking on the tour of the Ontario Hospital it is with a greater realization of the need of these patients of sympathy, understanding and acceptance.

Completing the tour, tea was served, where the conveners were on hand to explain the various phases of their work for the benefit and welfare of the children.

The June meeting ended with refreshments being served and the ladies bidding farewell until September.

Doughnuts Popular With Teenagers

by Mary Moore

My sister Doris was entertaining her Sunday School class of teenagers on Sunday evening. They were to toast wieners at the barbecue. I quietly decided to send over an offering of food, so I made a big batch of doughnuts. When I saw her just after they had left she said the doughnuts were a hit and that there were only two "holes" left.

Doughnut makers need no fancies, so allow yourself plenty of time to make these.

DOUGHNUTS FOR DUNKERS: 2¾c sifted all-purpose flour, measured before sifting, 2 teaspoons single-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg (preferably freshly grated), 2 large eggs, 1 cup sugar, ⅓ tablespoons margarine or lard (room temperature), ¾3 cup sour or buttermilk (using sweet milk is not suitable).

Sift together flour, baking powder, shaking soda, salt and nutmeg. In mixing bowl, beat together eggs and sugar until light, add soft margarine or butter and beat again. Add sifted dry ingredients, mixing well at a time, alternately with sour or buttermilk, mixing just until blended. Chill dough at least 1 hour.

Remove half of dough to floured board and roll out to 1/3" thickness. Cut out with floured 2½" fluted-rim cutter (3½"). Lift cutout doughnuts and holes to floured board to rest while shortening (or oil) heats to 375° deg. Fahr. Fat should be at least 1" deep.

(Chill remainder.)

Fry 4 doughnuts and "holes" at a time (so more or they will lower temperature of fat), turning them over with slotted spoon when underside is golden. They require about 2½ minutes in all.

Remove from fat with slotted spoon to paper towelling to drain. Repeat until all cutout doughnuts and holes are fried. Remaining half of dough and trimmings are fat out and cooked in same way. This amount makes about 20 doughnuts, plus "holes".

While warm, sprinkle doughnuts with sifted icing sugar.

Serve these fresh to devoted dunkers with a steaming mug of coffee.

Most toddlers go through a stage of saying "no" to everything whether they mean it or not.

Ways to cut down a determined one's "no's":

- Have your sense thought your toddler may be learning to be negative through too many "no's" from you? Then your "no" will be more effective, for it will be limited, if used only when necessary.
- "No's" are best ignored when the reasons behind them are not serious.
- When you must restrict, display decision and direction with a few more wonders than arguments.

Exploratory Friendship Needed to Prove Love

DEAR DORIS — I am writing to ask you to settle an argument between my friends and me. Is it possible to fall in love with a fellow you have never dated? I mean the kind of love that only happens once in a lifetime. — BROWN EYES.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR BROWN EYES — Sometimes Cupid makes a direct hit which leaves love people staggering. They still have to follow up with an exploratory friendship to be sure about the symptoms.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — My arms are covered with hair which makes them like a boy's (I think). Is there any way I can remove this hair?

I have been told that it grows because I wear nothing on my arms. I started wearing sweaters and long sleeved blouses but it doesn't help. If I shave my arms will it grow out worse? FULL OF PROBLEMS.

DEAR FULL OF PROBLEMS — What you wear or don't wear won't change anything. If the hairs are dark, bleaching might be the answer; or there are ways of removing them. A heavy growth on arms or legs is more common than you might think. If you'll give your right name on a stamped envelope and ten cents I'll send you my leaflet "Unwanted Hair".

• • •

DEAR DORIS — My girl friend and I (both 14) are saving our money to go on a trip when we are about 17. Would you give us some ideas to earn some money?

We will be at the lake all summer so would like the ideas to use at the lake. — TWO TRAVELLERS.

DEAR TRAVELLERS — Canvass the cottagers for children to play with, take on walks, sunbathing, bay-sitting. Visit the guest houses and country clubs to help with the errands or dishwashing; or to caddy for the golfers. And if you find a gold mine I haven't listed, write and tell us about it. Happy harvest!

• • •

DEAR DORIS — While cleaning up some of my drawers I came across a lot of old birthday cards. Also some old toys. I was wondering if you could suggest where I could sell them. MISS M.P.

DEAR MISS M.P. — Children's wards of hospitals and occupational therapy departments are often glad of colorful cards and toys. Do any of our readers have other ideas?

CONFIDENTIAL TO A.Mcl., Pt. H. — A girdle does help to smooth out the figure and every girl should have at least one, even if it is worn only on special occasions. But here's a tip:

With proper exercise you can reproportion yourself and build a girdle of smooth muscle. Write again, enclosing ten cents and a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet entitled "Be Figure Perfect."

• • •

TO WRITER OF LEGAL QUESTIONS — You ask about illegally parking a car, trespassing on other people's property, dogs running loose. You have not signed your letter, even with a pen name. Your last paragraph asks about manners. I wonder about your own good manners when you fail to identify yourself, and I cannot deal with your questions until you do.

(Don't just muddle along with your dilema. Write to Doris, enclosing a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Richard II Difficult Play Of Shakespeare's Young Days

By ROBERT TANNER

The sun, which has been such a regular attender at the opening nights of the Stratford Festival, failed to put in an appearance on Monday evening to grace the start of the twelfth season. But the grey skies could not daunt the capacity audience, resplendent in furs and dinner jackets, which came to watch the 1964 Festival's first offering, Richard II. A difficult play this, in many places as cloudy as the weather outside, but shot through with flashes of light which nature failed to match. It is long, too, three and a half hours, and if it escaped all of this to the audience, the blame should perhaps be laid at the playwright's door rather than on the cast, who laboured mightily to offset the restrictions on pace imposed by the poetry of the young Shakespeare.

The direction by English director Stuart Burge, who is making his debut at the Stratford, was considerably more static than we have become accustomed to, and perhaps this also contributed to the lack of pace. However, it displayed great intelligence and a mastery of the play and its characterization — no doubt mastery of Stratford's stage will follow. Mr. Burge was very ably supported both by his designer, Desmond Heeley, who produced a stunning array of costumes, and by the cast. The Stratford company, led by William Hutt in the title role and Leo Ciceri as Henry Bolingbroke, was in excellent form in a performance which ranged from the competent to the superb. Mr. Hutt's Richard, a man with a dictator's qualities of pride and arrogance, but lacking in decisiveness and confidence was entirely believable and at times admirably recognizable. It was a performance which completely justified Stratford's recent policy of having no guest "stars" and entrusting the principals of the company for all major roles.

Henry Bolingbroke, later King Henry IV, is probably a simpler role, although it has its own complexities. Leo Ciceri gave a very stirring performance, giving point to the sterling qualities of the future king, contrasting strongly with those of the time servers who surround him, not to mention those of the man whom he deposes. It is a humorless role, and in some ways not too appealing, so it is greatly to Mr. Ciceri's credit that it stands out so firmly.

ERIC HOUSE BACK

In a big cast, Richard and Henry carry by far the biggest load, but there are many excellent supporting performances, among which that of Eric House (happily returned to the Festival Theatre after several years in Gilbert and Sullivan at the nearby Avon) stands out. In the role of the Duke of York, unable to both like or give a definite verdict on all of a rather) inactive life the man suddenly thrown (by his appointment as Regent) in to a situation almost [illegible] by beyond him, [illegible] the best of light and humour, in all-too-short a scene. It would be invidious to single out any other names in the very competent and largely masculine cast, suffice it to say that they worked well together as a team. In the manner which has almost become a Stratford's trademark, and which made such an impression on the English critics during their visit to Chichester.

In short, this may be described as the least successful of one of Shakespeare's early plays, which lacks the dramatic fulness of his later works. It will be most interesting to contrast it with the production of what many declare to be the playwright's masterpiece, King Lear, as directed by Michael Langham on Wednesday evening.

In between, and probably affording welcome light relief will be an English version of Molliere's Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, to be directed by Jean Gascon of Le Theatre du Nouveau Monde. Later in the season the Mostel Festival presents The Yeoman of the Guard and The Marriage of Figaro, while the Restoration Comedy, The Country Wife, is added to the repertory at the Festival Theatre. Together with the weekend concerts, Stratford once again promises an interesting and exciting summer.

Fiser told about the work of the Messengers, a mid-week missionary group, and Diane Moran and Blair Jewell outlined their activities and purpose. Mrs. H. Blair with Margita Hoar and Kathy Moran, spoke for the Explorers.

The season's missionary giving was were presented by Dan Chase to the treasurer, Mrs. J. Gilmour, who expressed appreciation of the work being done. Miss Eleanor Beach was guest organist for the occasion.

The sanctuary was beautifully decorated with flowers.

ORDERS EXECUTION

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet court has ordered the execution of a man who stole food and sold it for private profit. A newspaper report identified the man as Temur Shamil-Zade of Tadzhikistan. It said he was the leader of a ring that stole meat and other products from within the state food distribution network.

Speaking Personally

By Gladys Ward

TO MARILYN, WITH LOVE

About three years ago I was recovering from surgery in Belleville hospital. It was a traumatic experience and I was struggling to put together the shattered pieces of my spirit with the cement of hope, but the structure was pretty wobbly, about as firm as boiled spaghetti.

A student nurse was assigned to me, or vice versa. Her name was Marilyn and when she came into the room it was like an April morning after a shower; so fresh, so sweet, so vibrant with young life.

She said to me, "You are my very first patient, Mrs. Ward, I want to know all about it in my diary last night." And she said, "I practised back rubs on my mother when I was home for the week-end."

You gave me the best back rubs I ever had, Marilyn. You had wanted to be a nurse since you were a child, and you were so eager to do everything correctly, and so anxious. You made up my bed with the mathematical precision of a tape measure. You folded the sheet in the exact number of inches at the head and foot of the bed, and you mitred the corners like a carpenter.

Then last month you were on the platform at the Collegiate auditorium, one of the graduating class. I felt so pleased and happy to see you there, and to know you had fulfilled your dreams.

Afterwards in the corridor I congratulated you, and you broke off one of the roses from your bouquet and handed it to me. Thank you for that rose, Marilyn. When I looked at the glowing heart of it I remembered — your compassion, your kindness and your gentle hands.

You have walked among people at their worst — suffering, apprehensive of the unknown, and worried; and of their best — triumphant with giving birth to a new life, or perhaps calmly, even nobly, facing death.

I know I speak for many patients when I say to you and your colleagues, may you always walk in beauty and our blessing goes with you.

MAKE MINE STRAWBERRY

The National Dairy Council of Canada is featuring a fresh strawberry ice cream festival during June. With the strawberry season approaching this makes a fine dessert to finish a meal on a warm day, or as an in-between treat.

It is suggested that ice cream be allowed to stand for a few minutes at room temperature to get the best flavor for what is called a delicious "fun food."

Mary Moore had some interesting recipes in her column recently for festival strawberry ice cream desserts. They sounded delicious, and I hope some of you tried them.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

SIDNEY SOUTH

Mrs. Anhony Pearce was hostess for the June meeting of Sidney South Women's Institute on Wednesday evening. There was an excellent attendance. Mrs. M. Nobes was in charge of the meeting. Congratulations were extended to the 4-H Home-making girls on their completion of their clothes and having received County honors. The girls are: Linda Hickson, Cheriss Wyvart, Coby Wyvart, Donna Wilson, Marilyn Nobes and Nancy Thompson.

A donation was voted, to be given to the Centenary-Alfred young men's softball team. Mrs. Fred Aikens gave a most interesting report of the Guelph conference where the theme was "to whom much is given, much is required" and suggested the project "make Canada more beautiful" as a Centennial project.

Mrs. Findlay Scrimshaw gave a full report of the bus trip to Ottawa. Thirty-seven persons enjoyed the trip around the Central Experimental Farm, the museum, attendance at a session of parliament through the courtesy of Robert Temple, M.P. Later the group toured Ottawa and visited the Mint.

Mrs. Stanley Bedford introduced Mrs. Ralph Sills the district convener of Tweedsmuir History. Mrs. Sills gave an interesting story of the work of the Curators; a bit of Sidney's history, in particular the first white child born in Sidney was named Timothy Sopher. History is man's climb from slavery to civilization, more historical knowledge is needed and it is to be found in the branches of the Institute and the communities they serve. Considerable discussion was given to the care and maintenance of cemeteries and graves.

Mrs. Ken Kerr voiced thanks to Mrs. Sills for her most interesting and informative address.

Mrs. Pearce and her assistant hostesses, Mrs. D. McComb, Mrs. D. Meddings, Mrs. C. Moon, Mrs. M. Wyvart and Mrs. M. Nobes served tasty refreshments and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

Ann Landers

Hire Someone for Chores Husband Shirks May Be Cure

DEAR ANN LANDERS — It's been two years since my husband started to paint our living room. The living room is a disgrace. The old paint is peeling off and he has one wall partially scraped, but he still hasn't put a brush to it.

After hours of nagging (which didn't help) I said, "Rick, it's plain to see you don't care much about painting so why don't you repair the broken window on the back porch?" He replied, "You are nothing but a nag. I'll do it when I'm in the mood. Leave me alone"

ANN LANDERS

Tell me, Ann Landers, how can I get my husband to accept his responsibilities in the house? We haven't entertained for two years because I'm ashamed of the way our place looks. Help, please. — D. FEATED

• • •

DEAR D. — In the same way that some children become "mother-deaf" some husbands become "wife-deaf." So get smart and save your pipes, Lady.

Quit nagging and hire the work done. Some husbands decide, after paying some outrageous bills for work they could have done themselves, that they can't afford the luxury of procrastinating.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Our 16-year-old daughter has been nagging us for two months and my head is beginning to ache from listening to her.

Will you please print this letter and your answer? It will close the subject as far as I am concerned.

Jeanette wants permission to take a three-week trailer trip with her 17-year-old boy friend and his parents. They plan to go to the Black Hills and then out to Yellowstone Park. Jeanette has never been to these places and insists if we deprive her of the trip she will have lost a great opportunity for education.

She keeps telling us that she is insulted because we don't trust her. She further points out that Bill's parents will be chaperoning them every minute and therefore it would be perfectly proper.

My husband is dead set against it I am undecided. Jeanette's arguments sound logical, and I'd hate for her to miss this fine opportunity to see the country, at no cost. Your opinion is wanted — MOTHER MACREE.

DEAR MACREE — A 16-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy should not be taking a trip together — in a trailer yet — even if they are chaperoned by the boy's parents.

Continuous exposure to one another's presence is much too stimulating for teenagers. What you consider a "no cost" trip could turn out to be mighty expensive.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The world will not rise or fall on your answer but I would like to know what you think of the following:

A friend of mine has a habit of introducing her domestic help to any guest who walks into her home. I happen to know Emma, the housekeeper, because I've been seeing her for about 15 years. I don't mind when Emma speaks to me.

Last week I took my new daughter-in-law over there and this friend introduced her to Emma, as if she were a social equal.

My daughter-in-law was pleasant, but I was annoyed by the poor manners of the hostess. Comment, please — BINGHAMTON.

DEAR BING — Your nose is caught on a sky-hook, Sister.

The hostess committed no social error whatever when she introduced Emma to your daughter-in-law She was simply acknowledging Emma's presence, which demonstrates good manners, plus a degree of self-assurance which you obviously lack.

• • •

Liquor can ruin your mind, your body and your life. To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' Booklet, "Teen-Age Drinking," enclosing with your request 30 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Two Cheques Presented To Hospital Auxiliary

The regular meeting of the Women's Hospital auxiliary took the form of a dessert luncheon, which was held in Education Hall on Tuesday. The daintily appointed table was loaded with enticing desserts and the large turnout of members had a thoroughly enjoyable get-together before the business meeting was called to order by President Mrs. F. Beeby.

Conveners of all committees thanked the many volunteers whose faithful work has made the auxiliary projects a success for the first half of the year. Highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of two cheques to the president, Mrs. Herbert Brown, on behalf of her convener Mrs. E. D. Tomsett and committee Mrs. W. W. Shand, Mrs. J. C. Young, Mrs. R. Van Evedingen, Mrs. E. J. Long, Mrs. J. Hilard, Mrs. F. Gelsthorpe and 75 hard working volunteers turned over five months, profits from the Opportunity Shop amounting to $2000.00 Mrs. Nell Davidson on behalf of her committee, Mrs. Leslie Lemon, Mrs. A. C. Reynolds, Mrs. Frank Hrachovec, and 30 volunteers presented $200.00, profits of the coffee cart.

Mrs. Brown reported that the Opportunity Shop will be closing for the summer months on June 27th, prior to which date the remaining stock is being cleared out at give-away prices. Mrs. Owen Clarke told the meeting that the Gift Corner will not operate during the summer but her knitters will be busy preparing a fine supply of baby wear for the opening in the Fall.

Mrs. R. E. Wood said that the Samaritan Cupboard is well stocked to carry on through the summer months. Mrs. J. E. Buchan announced that all in-hospital volunteer services, with the exception of library and hairdressing appointments will be discontinued for the months of July and August.

Mrs. Beeby wished the members a happy summer holiday and hoped that they will return to work full of enthusiasm in September. Mrs. M. F. L. Jones expressed the sentiments of all present when she thanked Mrs. Beeby for her untiring efforts on behalf of the Auxiliary.

Women Public Relations Officers of Two Airlines

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian public relations departments of two major European airlines have something in common—they're both headed by women.

Patricia Marini is director of public relations in Canada for Alitalia Airlines and Greta Weber is PR officer for Lufthansa German Airlines.

The women themselves have a lot in common, too, having held their jobs for two years and having become close friends even though they're competitors of sorts.

They describe themselves as "girl Fridays" because when the firm has an unclassified problem and doesn't know what to do with it, "someone usually sends it to public relations."

Greta, born in Monaco of French and Austrian descent, came to her job "via the secretarial route." She was secretary to the public relations officer in the airline's New York office. When her boss left the company she was told she would either get a new boss or her own secretary.

"I got neither. I became public relations officer for Canada and Alaska and I haven't a secretary yet."

THREE LANGUAGES

Greta is trilingual, speaking German, French and English. She is married to a Montreal businessman.

Pat Marini was a radio and TV writer before entering the PR field. She was born in Kamloops, B.C., and has a radio show about air travel on several British Columbia stations.

She says she wishes she could speak Italian better since she works for an Italian airline.

"I studied it, even before I joined Alitalia, but now I'm studying French because I find I need it more."

That two women say their sex doesn't hinder them in doing their job.

"Mostly, VIPs are pleased when they find that the PR is a woman, and of course he finds it easy to remember you the next time."

They don't mind the fact that they have to be available 24 hours a day and weekends. But they do admit to one handicap — "we just can't understand the technical side of an airplane."

MAY AMEND ACT

CANBERRA (CP) — Political observers believe Australia's citizen military forces — men who serve in the army on a part-time basis—may soon be able to volunteer for overseas service in peacetime. The federal cabinet is believed to have decided to amend the defence act for this purpose. The act at present says the CMF—37,500 strong—may be sent overseas only in wartime and in the event of an attack or threatened attack on Australia or its territories.

W... Meeting
JUNE PLEASANT-RAWDON

RAWDON — The June meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church Women was held on the evening of June 10th at the church hall with 29 members and seven visitors in attendance.

The program conveners were Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mrs. Robert Merrick and the hall was decorated with maple boughs, baskets of peonies and a special worship centre. The lunch conveners were Mrs. Gordon Lim and Mrs. John Morgan. Mrs. Donald Knight presided over the meeting and Mrs. Gerth Joslin officiated at the piano.

Mrs. Robert H. Hoard and Mrs. William McAdam gave their reports. Mrs. Raymond McConnell read the correspondence which included several thank-you notes for paying festival fees; providing funds for the Y.P.U. group to attend the course at Queen's University, Kingston, and an invitation to a tea at Carmel. A request for a donation to Quin-Mo-Lac Camp was made and $5 was donated this work. Mrs. Gordon Lim reported sending a bale of clothing for overseas, weighing over 300 pounds and the necessary cash of ten cents per pound.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver outlined the new study packets on Brazil and Trinidad and other literature available. A flag has been donated to the church hall and a committee was appointed to decide where it is to be placed.

Mrs. Joyce Parr, teacher at the Williams' Public School, conducted the devotional on the theme "What the Lord God Hath Made." The hymns, meditation and Bible verse and prayer were all centred on this theme.

FINE PROGRAM

Mrs. Will Jeffs and Mrs. Will McAdam sang a duet with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver as accompanist.

Mrs. Grace Morton, teacher at the Allan Public School, outlined the study on the theme, "When Church Comes to India." She stressed that the Brownies let's try to give the meaning of the New Testament by coming close to the living conditions of rural India. Special maps and curriculum were used and added to the study and "Jewels of Asia" books.

Eight ladies read articles of interest pertaining to India and were Mrs. Ira Devid, Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, Mrs. John Tilson, Mrs. Percy McMullen, Mrs. Mildred Wrightman, Mrs. Margarette McMullen, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver and Mrs. Robert H. Hoard.

Many items of interest re India, outlining the new mission field of Nepal, the agricultural assistance, the christianizing of the head hunters and various items of church work in that country were explained. Mrs. Morton displayed a head-dress scarf, purse and hand-bag which were treasures from India. A contest on the country of India brought out many items of interest.

BAKE SALE

After refreshments were served a bake sale was held under the auspices of the May and June group of the U.C.W. The tables were Mrs. Ernest Hoard, Mrs. Norman McConnell, Mrs. Ira Devid and Mrs. Percy MacMullen and almost $18 was realized. The U.C.W. members had contributed a good selection of home-made pies, tarts, cookies, cake, candy; also fresh eggs, mayonnaise and vegetables.

SECOND CHILD DIES

COLOGNE (Reuters) — A second child severely burned when a madman invaded a West German school last week with a flamethrower and spear died Tuesday, a hospital spokesman said. The fourth victim of the attack died just as two teachers who were stabbed to death by the maniac were being buried in a cemetery outside this West German city.

tion, follows the necessary Queber legislature action demanded constitutionally and it being hastened to get it before the British Parliament before the dissolution for the anticipated election, there.

Public and Commons interest waned on the second day of a debate that may be long and heated. Public galleries were unfilled but not packed. At one stage during the evening sitting, only 35 MPs — 27 Liberals and 8 opposition Conservatives — were in the 265-seat chamber. Cross-fire, points of order and questions of privilege consumed more than half an hour of the two-hour night sitting.

DOUGLAS LEADS OFF

Mr. Douglas led off with a call for open-mindedness and responsibility in the debate and a tribute to Mr. Pearson for undoubted sincerity and conviction in grasping a nettle on the flag choice that cautious predecessors had avoided.

Mr. Diefenbaker, former prime minister, was absent all day on a western speaking engagement. Mr. Pearson was absent from the night sitting.

Mr. Douglas said the failure of Canadians to agree—and no fault of Britain is responsible for the country's lack of a distinctive Canadian flag, an anthem or a constitution that can be overhauled in this country.

But it was strange to face the flag resolution at a time when the Liberal government had not met many other election commitments geared to welfare, jobs, student loans, medical care insurance, threats of automation or increasing American ownership in the economy.

"I wonder why the government is obstructing the action of Parliament in dealing with the government's own program? That is a question that needs answering."

WON'T HAVE MEANING

He added later: "A symbol of national independence will have little meaning if in the meantime Canada has become an economic satellite of the U.S. in that case, for a flag we shall be able to choose an American eagle with a beaver clutched in its claws."

Mr. Douglas said the Conservative proposal of a plebiscite is far too late. That would just inflame passions. Parliament anyway still would have the responsibility of dealing with the flag issue.

Personally, he had sympathy, from a Scottish background, for a modified Red Ensign showing Union Jack and fleur-de-lis. But "we are trying to select a flag for the people of Canada as a whole. . . . I think we have to recognize that the maple leaf design is the flag that celebrated to speak to future generations."

At the same time, the NDP felt the single-leaf flag would be vastly superior as an emblem of Canadian unity and as an identifiable flag.

Ar Lebon, a staunch Red Ensign and pro-plebiscite MP, said each of the nine Social Credit members will speak for himself. But "any design chosen now could be changed by the next prime min ter."

ZAD HIS CHANCE

Mr. Caouette said Mr. Diefenbaker had had the opportunity while in power—by record margins—to introduce a flag plebiscite. He had not done so and now he was playing petty politics and attempting to create distrust between French and English.

The Creditiste leader said the three-leaf design is neither distinctive nor Canadian but a relic of Britain's Royal proclamation and of Royal origin. The proposal to adopt the Union Jack as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth was unacceptable to his 13-man group.

John Addison, York North, the only Liberal speaker, said his constituency emerged from Empire Loyalist stock and many were proud of the Union Jack.

But calling a flag plebiscite would mean abdication of responsibility by members of Parliament. He would vote for the Union Jack and for a distinctive Canadian flag.

WIDE RANGE SEEN

Mr. Coates had trouble getting untracked because Justice Minister Favreau said Commons rules prevented him from talking about the flag design. Mr. Favreau, initially as it turned out, after a 30-minute procedural ruckus, felt Mr. Coates should stick to the flag plebiscite proposal in the Conservative amendment.

Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureux kept previous speakers had taken a lot of latitude — a point that indicates the whole debate will be wide-ranging.

Mr. Coates said the Liberals are leading Canada down the road to republicanism by throwing the Red Ensign overboard. He maintained that the maple leaf flag of, whatever version is representative of nothing in our past—or our past tradition, of our past history, of our associations with either British or France."

But there was a distinctive Canadian flag in the Red Ensign — distinctive because it represents our past, our history and traditions, the sacrifices our people have made in war and peace, the founding cultures of our nation, a flag that is representative of everything that is great in this country."

Mr. Coates said the Liberals are also to blame for "not only destroying our flag but to removing this country from the British Commonwealth of Nations. . . . These are the men who now are marching us down the road to republicanism. The republic is next."

Biculturalism

tions are to adjourned the evening meeting after 24 hours of outspoken discussion.

"His Negro," (African tribe) chief's shouted a man at the back of the packed hall as Mr. Laurendeau thanked the people present for attending the meeting.

This was a phrase that Mr. Laurendeau, editor-in-chief of the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir, himself coined about 10 years ago to describe the late premier of Quebec, Maurice Duplessis. It meant that English-speaking industrialists propped up an autocratic provincial government in return or immunity from government controls.)

At the afternoon group discussions, one separatist said all 10 commandments are "Rois Negres" or puppets. Federal cabinet ministers from Quebec were accused of "betraying" their compatriots in return for plush jobs in Ottawa.

Some speakers favored cross - Canada bilingualism at the evening rally. Their remarks were met by cheers by ovations, boos and jeers from separatists, who said this concept is "utopian" because the English - speaking majority would never accept it.

Jean Marchon, a student, said French - Canadians are "pushed" living under a "colonial system."

The dialogue with English Canadians is over," he said. "Freedom is not something you ask for, it is something you take."

Instead of sending a Royal Red Engineer unit to Cyprus to form part of the United Nations peace force, Canada should have dispatched the royal commission, he said amid laughter.

Lawyer Guy Pinsonneault, a leading spokesman of the main separatist organization, Le Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale, said separatists are not extremists.

"The independence of a nation is the most rational and reasonable of causes," he said to loud applause.

He said the 1,000,000 French Canadians living outside Quebec should integrate with the English-speaking majority. Likewise the 20-per-cent English-speaking minority in Quebec should integrate with the majority.

The separatists chanted slogans, burst into song at the start of the meeting, insisted that a Quebec four-de-lis flag be placed immediately on the stage. The meeting chairman said he had no objection, a flag was produced and the discussion began.

Commission Co-chairman Davidson Dunton said the question of flying of flags does not enter the inquiry's terms of reference.

interceptor missions and maintain planes for Arctic reconnaissance only. Officially, he has never changed this view.

Defence prohibition — sharing Cyprus, United Nations peacekeeping responsibilities, general and Canadian plans for integration of the armed forces' command structure are also expected to be discussed at the meeting.

Could

made to order for any party with even four a score of members of Parliament, to force an election. Many MPs from all parties feel that Opposition Leader Diefenbaker may try to use them to that end.

Recognition of the possibility of forcing an election has been a key factor in efforts of New Democrats to gain support for a flag design different from that proposed by the government.

Their hope is that those Conservatives who may not want to bring about an election this fall will accept the design with the one maple leaf as an alternative to the design with three maple leaves proposed by the government.

They also hope that Liberals who see the election possibility but don't want an election this fall will be won by Mr. Pearson to back the one leaf design.

They expect it to get most of the votes from the other two parties in the Commons—Social Credit and Creditistes.

Thus the NDP is holding out the one-leaf design as a way to help take off the flag issue.

Whether they succeed in diverting Parliament from a course which could lead to another election may depend on the ministers' work among the other parties.

If it calms the tenrions of the flag issue and helps create a wholesome atmosphere for the government in the next four weeks probably will be achieved.

The flag debate is scheduled to run continuously, except for an interrupting later this week to get parliamentary approval for a constitutional amendment involved in the proposed Canada Pension Plan.

Eighteen debating days—barring a government move for extra Commons sittings — remain until July 31, roughly the deadline, give or take a day, for approval of interim supply to pay the bills.

Thus a determined group, by debating at length either the flag resolution or supply, could push the government over the cliff into an election.

Hellyer

apartment buildings scarred and pocked by bullets, fire and pillage. Sandbags piled at several intersections and buildings on either side of the green line were left vacant or ruined in the creation of a no-man's land between Greeks and Turks.

Several times the minister's convoy stopped to give Hellyer a chance to look from the rooftops of United Nations-occupied buildings into the heavily fortified areas on either side of the green line. The only identifications of which side Hellyer's party was in were flags fluttering from poles or rooftops—the blue and white-striped Greek flag or the red star and crescent banner of Turkey.

Hellyer's jeeps through deserted streets cleared of occupants where the green line followed a street. But it also passed crowded homes where ousted families were doubling up.

Away from the green line proper it was business as usual and small groups of passers-by and jiggling children gathered to stare curiously at the cavalcade. Hellyer cautiously at the United Nations' secret switches.

The top leaded air trip through sectors of the suburb of Trakhonas where members of Canada's Royal 22nd Regiment are stationed. Hellyer climbed to the roof of an abandoned police mill—now occupied by Canadians—in the Turkish sector for a sweeping view of Trakhonas and the city beyond while Canadian officers pointed out fortifications built by Greeks and Turks.

He was also taken to the dais-site rise of land christened "Cole Kale" (dirty hill) or "Pork Chop Hill" by the Canadians. There a platoon of Canadians surveys acres of farm land which Greeks and Turks covet for defensive positions but which Canadian presence keeps relatively neutral.

The afternoon began with the briefing of Hellyer on the position of the Canadian and other United Nations groups in Cyprus and problems which arise during the strange peace-keeping role.

Then he dropped in on a base camp of the Royal Canadian Dragoons and chatted with men about armored scout cars used by the Canadians for reconnaissance work.

He met privately later with Gale Pizzo, UN Secretary-General U Thant's special envoy in Cyprus.

Earlier Hellyer had conferred with leaders of both sides in the island's civil strife.

Former OPP Officer Guilty Of Interference

TORONTO (CP) — Robert J. Wright, 33, a former provincial policeman, was convicted Tuesday of giving $1,000 to a fellow policeman in an attempt to wrongly intent to interfere with the administration of justice.

Mr. Justice Eric G. Moorhouse of the Ontario Supreme Court reserved judgment until today on whether Wright, is sentenced today since last June on another charge in connection with the payment, also sentenced to seven years on the latest conviction.

Defence Counsel Patrick Hartt submitted the trial Judge who may be released from custody in two months; should not be sentenced more than once on the same matter.

Constable George Scott of the provincial police testified that Wright gave him $1,000 over a two-day period in 1960 for flip offs when two gambling clubs were to be raided.

Constable Scott said Wright made the payments after Wright had been transferred from the gambling squad to uniform duty in Hellyer.

It was the fourth trial for Wright, since dismissed from the force, in connection with the payments.

The rolling earthquake spread through nearly over 11 provinces (provinces) with a population of nearly 17,000,000 spread over 11 miles of Japan's northwest coast.

The confirmed casualty toll may substantially low, however.

REPORT 34 DEAD

The national police reported 34 dead, 10 missing and 263 injured, many seriously.

The quake damage could not be assessed yet, but officials said it would run to hundreds of millions of dollars.

Houses, apartment blocks and other buildings lay in rubble or leaned at crazy angles in Niigata. Streets were torn up and bridges destroyed by the force of the quake.

Police estimated today the earthquake wrecked more than 10,000 to 15,000 buildings throughout northern Japan.

Six Awaiting Sentence on Hunger Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Albert Tangday, governor of Montreal's Bordeau Jail, said today six members of the Front de Liberation du Quebec, awaiting sentence June 26, have been on a hunger strike since Monday.

The six pleaded guilty June 8 to a string of some 50 charges, including thefts of arms from two armories.

They are Robert Hudon, 30, Andre Wattier, 23, Jean Gagnon, 20, Jean Paul Rivet, 19, Pierre Nadon, 19, and Claude Parrou, 20.

He said they had taken nothing but milk and coffee.

Mr. Tanguay said the ALQ members of the group broke their hunger strike when they learned that the four members of the Front de Liberation du Quebec, who also stopped eating Monday, were at the supper table at nearby St. Vincent-de-Paul Penitentiary Tuesday.

Quebec's Angry Intellectual

'Separatists Despair of Ever Convincing Us of Their Cause'

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

MONTREAL (CP)—Is separatism really popular in Quebec? Do the separatists expect to win power in a free election?

The answer to both questions is no, says Pierre-Elliott Trudeau, a University of Montreal law professor and one of the province's most prominent—and angriest—intellectuals.

"I get fed up when I hear our nationalist brood calling itself revolutionary," Prof. Trudeau, 42, wrote in Cite Libre, a periodical devoted to opinion on social, political and economic issues.

"Is separatism a revolution? 'My eye,' thunders Mr. Trudeau. "It's a counter-revolution, the national socialist counter-revolution."

He says separatists are trying to reverse Quebec's journey toward true democracy.

'ABOLISH FREEDOM'

"The fact is that, at bottom, the separatists despair of ever being able to convince the public of the rightness of their ideas.

"That long work of education and persuasion among the masses undertaken by the unions for many decades, done by the Social Crediters themselves for 30 years—for this the separatists have neither the courage nor the means nor, especially, that respect for the other man's freedom that is essential in undertaking it and leading it to success.

"So they want to abolish freedom and impose a dictatorship of their minority. They are in sole possession of the truth, so they need only get into line. When things don't go fast enough, they take to illegality and violence."

Mr Trudeau, at the University of Montreal since 1960, came into prominence in the 1950s with his articles in Cite Libre attacking the government of the late premier Maurice Duplessis.

Educated at the University of Montreal, the London School of Economics and Harvard University, he has spent a decade advocating social reform in Quebec, suggesting at the same time that there is no way to achieve it except by hard work and intelligent planning.

In common with several other university professors of his generation and labor leaders, he has expressed the fear that the first in history to receive fairly complete freedom as its lot.

"The dogmatism of church and state, of tradition, of the nation, had been defeated. Authority had returned to its proper place in a free system."

But, says Mr. Trudeau, doctrine, not freedom, turned out to be what the new generation wanted.

It found its doctrine in the idea of the nation, pure and holy embodied in a state where all people are alike as much as possible. In Mr. Trudeau's view, this doctrine appeals to a lingering streak of authoritarianism in Quebec society.

"Scarcely a week passes without a handful of separatist students coming to tell me they are against democracy and for a single-party system; for a certain totalitarianism and against the freedom of the individual. In this they are in the pure tradition of all that our society has always produced that was most traditionalist, most clerical, most monolithic, most reactionary. They want to return our people to the mentality of a state of siege."

DENOUNCES SEPARATISTS — Pierre-Elliott Trudeau says Quebec separatists are trying to reverse Quebec's journey toward true democracy. Mr. Trudeau, a University of Montreal law professor, claims separatists want to abolish freedom and impose a dictatorship of their minority. For decades Quebec and been ruling elite of Quebec. Instead of rolling up its sleeves, may go looking for a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

CALL FOR UNITY

He was a co-author of the Canadian Manifesto published in Cite Libre, calling on Canadians to rise above regional or language loyalties and take a larger view of the country's opportunities and problems. Rejecting the idea of a separate Quebec, the manifesto's authors said "we refuse to let ourselves be locked into a constitutional frame smaller than Canada."

With Mr. Duplessis dead and his Union Nationale administration replaced by a Liberal regime under Jean Lesage, Mr. Trudeau has been aiming his fire at the separatists. He sees them as another bunch of doctrinaires claiming they can put everything right.

In a tone of exasperation and concern, he puts forward the view in Cite Libre that the separatists have come along just when Quebec is beginning to honor such ideas as personal liberty, open discussion, tolerance and fair competition.

Speaker McNaughton Wins Plaudits From Authorities In Splitting Flag Resolution

OTTAWA (CP) — Speaker Alan Macnaughton has won plaudits from parliamentary rules authorities for his decision Monday to split a two-pronged government resolution on the flag.

"I think he did well," said Stanley Knowles, New Democratic whip and widely-acknowledged leading authority among MPs on procedural matters.

A Conservative party source said their rules experts recognized the Speaker's power to split a resolution under British practice since it is not provided for in the Canadian parliamentary rule book.

Speaker Macnaughton established a Canadian parliamentary precedent.

It is that the Speaker, acting alone, can divide a complicated government motion into its component parts so that the Commons can vote on each of them individually.

The commission which faced the House of Commons was a resolution introduced by Prime Minister Pearson, "to establish" the proposed maple leaf flag as the flag of Canada, and "to provide" that the Union Jack may continue to be flown as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth and elsewhere in the Crown.

"To establish" has the connotation of creating something new, while "to provide" means, in the scope of the resolution, to make certain something already existing.

MATH PROBLEM DIFFICULT

As things stood, the members had to vote on the whole or against both the new flag and the Union Jack in a single vote. Many MPs wanted to vote in support only the new flag. Some others wanted to vote against it but for the retention of Canada's constitutional loyalty.

However, a member could not vote one way on one part of the resolution, and the opposite way on the other part.

Monsenor Speaker Macnaughton ruled that the two ideas should be divided into separate resolutions. He pointed out later said the government had no intention of splitting the single resolution.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker argued that the two ideas should be wrapped in one government policy and should not be split. He was critical of the government case for adopting a "two flag policy."

However, neither they nor any other party leader appealed from Speaker Macnaughton's ruling.

Some conservatives suspected collusion between the Speaker and the government.

In the House Tuesday, replying to a question by Real Caouette, leader of Le Ralliement des Creditistes, Speaker Macnaughton denied any consultation with the government and said he was "surprised" at the leak from his office to the government of what he intended to do. He expressed surprise that the question should be raised.

USED BRITISH PRECEDENT

There is a Canadian rule that when House of Commons precedents here do not cover a procedural point, British practice is followed. It was on this that Mr. Macnaughton based his ruling. For 75 years, British Speakers have exercised power to split complicated motions.

Motions have been split on other occasions far back in Canadian parliamentary history. But this always was done by the government of the day bowing to Opposition demands, or by the House itself going through a complicated series of votes.

Never before this week had it been done by the single-handed decision of a Canadian Speaker.

Sources close to Speaker Macnaughton indicated he recognized he was breaking new parliamentary ground Monday, and that he felt afterwards his decision was confirmed by the fact party leaders did not appeal, even though he invited them in effect to do so.

The question raised by the decision is whether he and future Speakers can modify or upset government policy by exercising this newly-created power.

AIMS FOR CLARITY

Speaker Macnaughton is understood to feel that in his role as presiding officer of the Commons, his primary duty is to ensure motions are framed in such a way that clear-cut decisions can be made by the House. He does not feel he is concerned with the policy the government embodies in any resolution.

Mr. Knowles argued in the procedural debate Monday that the House should follow an old tangled course of dividing the resolution by several of its own design.

Instead, speaker Macnaughton split the resolution by a simple ruling from the chair.

Looking back on it, Mr. Knowles said in an interview:

"I think he did well. In my view, the decision was a procedural one and not concerned with government policy. He didn't make the ruling autocratically—it was up to the government either to decline during the debate that it was governing policy that was involved or to appeal against the ruling after it was made.

IN THE FINEST TRADITION

"His decision that its policy is put in a form that can be submitted to the Commons for decision.

"To establish" has the connotation of creating something new, while "to provide" means, in the scope of the resolution, to make certain something already existing.

One of the hubs around which Canadian Pacific's new Toronto Freight Yard operates is the main tower. Here the train yard co-ordinator designates a track in the receiving yard for an incoming train.

Computer-Controlled Freight Yard Opened by CPR Northeast of Toronto

TORONTO — Canada's most modern railway yard—a $15,000,000 electronic computer-controlled complex for sorting freight cars—was officially opened here yesterday by Senator J. J. Connolly, of Ottawa, Government Senate Leader.

The yard has been built by Canadian Pacific to handle some 3,000 railway cars which the company hands daily to, from and through the Toronto area. It has been under construction for four years.

A warning horn triggered by Senator Connolly was the signal for the release of an inaugural freight car which broke through a barricade of 200 balloon-filled balloons, sending them skyward to mark the occasion. The first car was a 80-foot long, three level automobile carrier.

With Senator Connolly were N. R. Crump, chairman and president of the railway, a number of senior rail officers and 500 invited guests, including government officials and shareholders.

The new yard is located some 18 miles northeast of Toronto. Guests were brought to the site in a special train which took them on a tour of the area immediately following the official ceremonies.

Railway officials say the new yard is the most advanced automated freight classification complex in Canada and perhaps the world. It makes use of radar, television, an electronic computer, radio, integrated data processing, gravity, automatic switching devices and several push-button tool systems to sort freight cars and group them into trains bound for common destinations.

CUT HANDLING TIME

Canadian Pacific officials expect the new yard will cut in half the handling time for freight cars passing through the Toronto area.

Toronto yard is the fifth push - button type of classification yard put into operation in recent years by Canada's railways, but surpasses the others in the degree and efficiency of its automatic features. The other yards are located at Montreal, Winnipeg and Moncton, N.B.

Toronto Yard contains 80 miles of track and 311 switches. More than 8,000 freight cars can be stored within its 430-acre space. It employs 220 men around the clock, sorting and moving trains.

In the yard, freight cars are sorted on a production line basis. Incoming trains are pushed one at a time — over a man - made hill or "hump" — where each car is uncoupled and rolls down the hump into one of 63 tracks which fan out at the bottom of the slope.

Each track represents a different destination and cars are pulled from the tracks, in sequence, to make up trains.

The whole "humping" operation is controlled by an electronic computer, aided by radar, sensitive treadmill devices and a giant electro - pneumatic retarders, or brakes, which close against the wheels of rolling cars to govern their speed.

As each car comes over the "hump", its weight; the axle with which it rolls on straight and curved track; the condition of the track ahead; and the number of cars already on the classification track to which it is routed, are fed into the computer. From this data and with radar keeping a constant check on the speed of each car, the computer automatically adjusts the braking effect of the huge car retarders so that cars are held to a predetermined speed.

In addition to classifying freight cars, Toronto Yard also has facilities for repairing both cars and diesel locomotives.

The car shop, the first completely automated freight car repair facility in Canada, features a unique design which centralizes controls, tools and equipment at one spot on each of the four repair tracks which pass through the building. The movement of cars into and out of the building is controlled by push - button devices.

Seven types of communications systems, including portable radio, pneumatic tubes and 125 special paging speakers are used in the yard.

Trains approaching and leaving the new yard are governed by the most modern centralized traffic control system in Canada. By remote control from a central location, push-buttons direct the speed and track routing to be used by trains.

Diefenbaker Greeted With New Flags

SASKATOON (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Tuesday the Liberal government raised the flag issue in its election campaign in an effort to conceal the fact that they were not dealing with the real problems facing the country.

He said all the government had provided to date was "five motions, two flags and two anthems."

Mr. Diefenbaker was speaking in support of Miss Jones, the Progressive Conservative candidate in the June 22 Saskatoon federal byelection.

Mr. Diefenbaker was greeted at the airport here Tuesday by a delegation of young people waving the proposed maple leaf flag.

About 10 of the flags were predominantly displayed in the airport lobby and others were mounted on the front of nearby cars. Mr. Diefenbaker ignored the demonstrators.

Earlier in Winnipeg, Mr. Diefenbaker said an election on the flag issue is a big danger at the moment.

He told a press conference the danger had been increased by the action of Prime Minister Pearson in placing the maple leaf flag before Parliament.

"The flag debate has made a (Liberal) party emblem," he said.

She ran away from the house and was found in a field by playmates. She was in hospital for five days for observation for abdominal internal injuries and did not appear in court.

Still Wearing Collar Says R. C. Priest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rev. William DuBay, a suburban priest who has asked Pope Paul to remove James Francis Cardinal McIntyre as Los Angeles' archbishop, spent 35 minutes in a conference at Roman Catholic headquarters here Tuesday.

Asked afterward "Are you still a priest?" he replied:

"My collar is still on."

This brought a loud, prolonged cheer from more than a score of Negro pickets who had been marching before the chancery office.

Father DuBay, 39, was relieved of administrative, but not priestly, duties at St. Albert the Great Church of suburban Compton after he made public last week his letter to the Pope.

It asked removal of Cardinal McIntyre for what the priest called inaction by the cardinal on civil rights.

The priest's parishioners are predominantly Negro.

Methods Used by Some Radio Stations in Conducting Live Interviews Are Challenged

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of the Board of Broadcast Governors expressed concern Tuesday that methods used by some radio stations in conducting live interviews over the telephone may be an invasion of privacy.

BBG chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart drew attention at a board public hearing to BBG policy on political and controversial programs calling for balanced treatment, the right to reply and equal access to the air.

BBG vice - chairman Carlyle Allison commented on phone calls from radio stations soliciting opinions from people without giving them prior notice, and of taping conversations without the person being interviewed aware that the conversation is to be broadcast.

The matter arose in connection with a proposed share transfer, switching control of Vancouver radio station CJOR to Mrs. George C. Chandler from her husband, who died two years ago.

William Pearson, BBG counsel, said the board has received complaints about an interview program on CJOR conducted by freelance broadcaster Pat Burns.

HEARS ABUSE

Mr. Allison said the board has heard some complaints sometimes when a person refuses to talk on a subject Mr. Burns wishes to talk about. This seemed some invasion of privacy.

Mrs. Chandler said the station is always identified and the person at the other end of the line is told the conversation is on the air.

The vice-chairman said that at 7:36 a.m. EDT today he was called by an Ottawa radio station which had a would not disclose, asking about today's headlines. At the time he wasn't really awake and had not shaved.

Mr. Allison said he then heard a "beeping" type sound — a method signal which is required to be attached to phone sets to indicate to people that a conversation is being recorded. He said he hadn't been warned, asked whether the conversation was being taped and suggested the radio station call back later.

Five minutes later, the station called again for the interview.

SUGGESTS METHOD

The BBG chairman suggested it is a better method if advance warning can be given to a person that he will be telephoned for a recorded interview.

He said the BBG also had a complaint by a member of the British Columbia cabinet ministry, who said that she had been called by the station on whose work union printers can refuse to handle. It has also reopened discussion on the method of recording punched tape to be used for rapid setting of stock exchange quotations.

The ITU position on computers is that the union must have jurisdiction over the computer when it is applied to composing room functions.

DETECTED BY PAPERS

The papers rejected this. They proposed that an ITU member from each of the seven staff of a data-processing centre — of which the computer would be the heart—set each paper. The duties of this ITU member were not defined.

Negotiations on the three issues have been adjourned until June 24.

The more serious of the two issues revived by the union was the governing work refusal. The original agreement gave the union the right to refuse work from a non-union or strike-bound printing shop.

The ITU is asking that this right be extended to newspaper mats received from advertisers, even though the type from which the mats are made is set in union printing shops.

The union restrictions aimed at composition of the advertisement by the staff of an advertiser.

A joint statement issued by the union and the newspapers May 26 said that all issues had been resolved except the one relating to the computer-operated data processing centre.

Economic matters had been agreed on in negotiations last fall.

Negotiations With Papers Hit New Snag

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiations between Local 91 of the International Typographical Union (CLC) and Toronto's three daily newspapers hit a new snag Tuesday.

The union's international headquarters revised an earlier agreement by the local ITU committee on two items and rejected a new proposal governing computer operations.

The computer dispute was the only issue holding up settlement between the papers—The Star, The Telegram and The Globe and Mail—and the ITU when negotiations were adjourned May 28.

The international union now has revived the issue of definitions of what kind of whose work union printers can refuse to handle. It has also reopened discussion on the method of receiving punched tape to be used for rapid setting of stock exchange quotations.

The ITU position on computers is that the union must have jurisdiction over the computer when it is applied to composing room functions.

May Require Peace-Keeping Force on Cyprus for Years

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Johnson is reported trying to devise Premier Khrushchev of Soviet Union of Turkey and Premier George Papandreou of Greece into direct negotiations on the explosive Cyprus issue in the hope of keeping the Mediterranean crisis that could rupture the North Atlantic Alliance.

There is little optimism in American quarters any quick or easy solution can be found. One U.S. authority anticipates that as bitter is the quarrel between the Greek-Cypriote and Turkish - Cypriots a United Nations peace-keeping force, to which Canada now contributes about 20 per cent, may have to be retained on the island for years.

Originally, the U.S. felt the Cyprus problem really was a matter for the Commonwealth particularly Britain, but gradually the White House became aware that too much is at stake; that the matter is too critical for one ally to carry. Johnson will use all his persuasive power to attempt to cool the emotional passions of Greece and Turkey.

In initial and separate talks with Ikonu and Papandreou next week, Johnson likely will emphasize the possibility continued bloodshed on the island and the threat of direct Turkish military intervention may turn Cyprus into another Cuba.

There is no evidence Archbishop Makarios, the Greek-Cypriot president, is receiving any major military support from the Soviet Union but Johnson is reported highly suspicious of Makarios and his future intentions.

Johnson is unlikely to demand Turkey and Greece accept any preconceived solutions but he may explore with these leaders some suggestions that have been aired in the hope the two premiers can open direct negotiations as some of the ideas that may lend themselves to eventual acceptance.

These would include union of Cyprus with Greece, combined with communal guarantees for the minority Turkish-Cypriots in effect, the communal guarantees would be a response to the Turkish demand for island partition which the Greek-Cypriot majority has rejected.

In addition, there might be encouragement of voluntary migration from the island. This would apply particularly to the Turkish element which might be resettled in Turkey through some form of international financial aid. Johnson is likely to indicate in the interest of North Atlantic solidarity and the avoidance of a Turkish-Greek clash, the U.S. might be prepared to contribute substantially to such an aid program.

But the White House is reported under no illusion Ikonu and Papandreou will snap at the suggestions. For centuries Turkish - Cypriots called Cyprus their home. It would be no easy job to encourage them to leave voluntarily. It might even be a harder job to discourage them from returning.

Thus the task of bringing Ikonu and Papandreou into direct negotiation is only an initial step in the grand struggle to protect Cyprus from internal convulsions and destruction.

"Nature In A Stingy Phase" Blamed For Lakes Crisis

By JOHN LEBLANC

TORONTO (CP)—Untold millions of dollars are evaporating and some aspects of life and leisure around the Great Lakes have changed because of the shortage of water in North America's inland sea.

Shipping has suffered. Hydro-electricity losses are heavy. Some shorelines has receded, in startling fashion, hitting pleasure-boaters, commercial fishermen, cottagers and possibly the seeming tourist business. Water supply has been affected in a few communities. Shoreside industry is worried. Fish runs are changing, for better or worse, no one can yet say.

To many, the idea of the 95,000 square miles of the world's greatest lake system running shy of water has come as a bewildering puzzle. But the crisis has been creeping up on the area for years. This year it was dramatized when some lake levels plunged to new lows for the 104 years of record-keeping.

FLOODS IN 1952

The shock results partly from recollection of a dozen years ago. The trouble then was too much water. In 1952, high water washed away huge chunks of shore and flooded bordering areas. Hundreds were driven from their homes and many homes were cut off.

A special committee of the Ontario legislature spent that year looking into the high-water problem. A key conclusion in its 150-page report:

"In general, years of high level follow years of high precipitation and years of low precipitation are followed by low levels."

For the last 10 years, rainfall over the lakes and their 295,000-square-mile drainage basin —an area of 35,000,000 people sometimes called the Heartland of America — has been below normal. For the last three, it has nosedived.

In the period there has been some man-made tinkering with the ancient pattern of the lakes' flow, through navigation and power works of the St. Lawrence Seaway. But experts are agreed that the over - riding factor has been a capricious nature in a stingy phase.

CALL CONFERENCES

There is agreement, too, that the abundance will return. But there is no knowing when.

Meanwhile, there is a flurry of action, talk and finger-pointing among the experts and other public figures. The Canadian government has survived one non-confidence motion in Parliament. The Ontario government has summoned a June 29 conference with Quebec and the lake-bordering American states. Michigan's attorney - general, not hearing of this one, has called another international meeting for July 28.

There is talk of a Tennessee Valley Authority-type of regulation for the lakes. Another plan would divert southward a big flow now going to Hudson Bay. There is talk, too, in Washington of a far-out plan to bring water east from the Rockies.

Federal Resources Minister Arthur Laing has advised sufferers to pray for rain. And, in fact, the rain and snow fall over the basin for the last few years has ranged between seven and 11 inches below normal. Last year, the precipitation was between 15 and 25 per cent down, depending on the area. Evaporation, it follows, was up.

For the first five months of this year, Lake Huron dipped near the monthly low record of 1934. It and Lake Michigan, in the United States, are sport-of, pegged up one inch for a large vessel.

Ships, under control at its outlet, has been kept about normal.

The others have fluctuated but not as widely as Huron, where the effects of the weather were abetted several years ago when the natural outlet into Lake Erie through the St. Clair River was excavated by the United States government — under agreement with Canada — to deepen navigation channels for the seaway.

Some critics have blamed Huron's woes on this ditching, though the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, in charge at this point, contends that the combined effects of all human interferences with Lakes Huron-Michigan has been to give them an extra half-inch. In line with the original plan, the corps is to have underwater sills laid down by 1968 to slow the down-flow but maintain channel depth.

LOSS HYDRO POWER

While this awaits, the situation brings on such diversities as summer cottagers driving direct to their islands in Lake Huron, montreal 600 miles downriver worrying about depth of water for ocean ships, and enough electricity being lost to power Toronto.

In the first five months of this year, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has lost—by comparison with a normal water year — 1,600,000,000 kilowatt hours at its generating plant at Niagara Falls and in its share of the output of the international plant on the seaway section of the St. Lawrence River between Cornwall, Ont., and Massena, N.Y.

The loss for the same period of last year was 1,300,000,000 kwh. This year's five-month deficiency has been equal to the power produced by 640,000 tons of coal, and so far it has cost Hydro more than $5,000,000, either by stoking up its thermal plants or buying power from connecting systems.

VESSELS LOAD LIGHT

While Hydro has been the largest single loser, money has been going down the drain of the biggest of inland waterways in infinite variations, major and minuscule.

Cargo ship owners are being hit heavily in the pocketbook. Because of shallow depth in channels and harbors, larger vessels have to load light, and the loss in revenue can run to $3,000 or more on, say, a cargo of grain from the Lakehead to Montreal.

Capt. H. B. Baseley of Upper Lakes Shipping Company in Toronto says this could mean an increase in shipping rates unless the water comes back.

The busy grain elevators on Lake Huron's Georgian Bay trans-shipping ports are losing about a single cent on each of 2,000,000 bushels so far. At Port McNicoll most elevator employees have been laid off.

At another Georgian Bay port, Owen Sound, pontoons had to be used to float out a new fireboat for Toronto, though she drew only eight feet.

SHIPYARD MAY CLOSE

Nearby Collingwood, where the water has been as much as 2½ feet below normal, fears for the livelihood of its 1,000 shipyard workers. The yard will try to launch a 730-foot bulk cargo ship in 19 feet of water in July and may close down if she is badly damaged. It has already found themselves in the same boat. A freighted car was Frederick Woods at Collins Bay, west of Kingston on Lake Ontario. During the winter while Jim covered the bay, he hired dredging crews and cut out five-foot channels to his docks that accommodate 100 boats. Others in the same general area found mudbanks between them and the customers.

What the boating situation will do to the tourist trade through the hot months is problematical. Some resort operators expressed fear visitors might take a look at the shore lines and head inland. Some professed to rejoice at getting an enlarged swimming beach.

Inland operators generally had no water problems. Aside from the Great Lakes, there appeared to be plenty of water in such resort districts as the Kawarthas, Haliburton Highlands and the Rideau Canal system.

"The level is just where it should be," said Alex Cross, who runs a luxury resort on Lake Opinicon on the Rideau route.

MANAGES TO STAY AFLOAT — Jack Shepherd surveys the low water level at his boat livery on Lake Huron, near Sarnia. The water shortage has practically ruined his business for the season, but he has managed to keep boat channels open by using a dredge. The monthly mean levels of Lake Huron and Lake Michigan for the past four months have been the lowest ever recorded. (CP Photo)

Spahn Arm Showing Signs Of Wear?

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Warren Spahn, the ace Milwaukee Braves left-hander and oldest player in the majors at 40, failed for the sixth straight time Tuesday night in finals that he started and dropped a 5-1 decision to Los Angeles Dodgers.

It just may be that after a National League career spanning 20 seasons, 601 games and 4,976 innings, the lad can that has worked so effortlessly may finally be feeling the strain.

Spahn showed no signs of slowing down last year as he posted a 22-7 record and hit the 20 - victory circle for the 12th time. But the Feratist left-hander in baseball history has been running into trouble this season.

Along with his 5-5 record this year goes an even less impressive 4.52 earned-run average.

Meanwhile, the National League - leading Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 6-5 and moved one game in front of San Francisco Giants, who lost to Cincinnati Reds 5-4, likewise. St. Louis Cardinals snapped a five - game losing streak by walloping Houston Colts 7-1 and Pittsburgh Pirates edged New York Mets 3-2.

CLOSED THE GAP

John Roseboro doubled home Tommy Davis for a 2-0 Dodger lead in the fourth, but the Braves closed the gap in the sixth on doubles by Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron.

Willie Davis then connected with a two-run triple in the seventh and wrapped up the three-run outburst. Spahn is scoring on a single by Maury Wills, Don Drysdale bringing his record to 5-5, chatted the Braves on their bids.

John Herrnstein homered for the Phillies, who scored the decisive run in the fourth on a double by Tony Gonzalez, an infield out and Bobby Wine's squeeze bunt.

Vada Pinson and Leo Cardenas hit two-run homers as the Reds built an 8-0 lead before the Giants finally opened against John Tsitouris in the seventh on Orlando Cepeda's three - run homer.

Ken Boyer slammed a homer, triple, double and single for the Cardinals, becoming the first National Leaguer to hit for the cycle this season. Boyer's four hits and three runs batted in off a 15-hit St. Louis attack in support of Curt Simmons.

Bob Veale started the piece of the ailing Bob Friend for the Pirates, pocketed nine hits, struck out 13 and drove in the winning run with a single in the second inning after Bill Mazeroski doubled.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

What's wrong with softball and baseball attendance?

Nothing, it seems, that injections of comedy and offbeat virus won't cure.

King Feigner and his Coast paraded their wares here a year ago and 2,000 fans clattered the grand stand and bleachers.

The other night the California Cuties, a group of softball players, medium in diamond ability but high in comedy antics, and some 900 of the faithful to the Fair Grounds' terrace.

In comparison the "crowds" that attend games of organized baseball and softball on scheduled nights look like the traditional corporal's guard.

Grey-thatched fans of yesteryear will tell you that the calibre of the sports has deteriorated with the passing of the years.

What is needed, they say, is a "Feezy and the Indian" in baseball—and the Johnny Rawlens, "Clocker" Hennz, etc., in softball.

That may be true—but I doubt it. It seems to me in view of the tremendous attraction of clowns, comedy and off-the-beat clubs, that this could be the answer.

To paraphrase the statement of a famous French queen, Marie Antoinette, crudely, if they don't like common bread —let them eat comedy cake.

To bolster the sagging attendances, softball and baseball leagues could insert one or two innings of specialized comedy as added attractions.

And, working on the supposition that the average Joe likes to see somebody he knows make a darn fool of himself, the lighter-vein acts could be strictly local.

For instance they could hold Taxpayers' Twist Night. Surely some nine brain contributors to the city exchequer could be found to meet a team of the city fathers with orders to pull all punches—and leave their guns at the box office.

Another idea is "Meet-the-Umpe" Night. Enlist a team of the choicest umpire baiters to face a squad of Kelleher's Kutups with two or three dozen assists doing the officiating.

There could be "Kentucky Derby Night" with a half dozen gals weighing some 200 pounds and carrying the colors of "Northern Dancer", "Hill Rise", "Quadrangle," et al, competing in an around-the-bases dash.

Or a "Ben Casey" evening with the guy playing the title role in the catcher position and calling such signals to a nerve-jarred pitcher as "relapse", "bandage", "forceps." The latter would have to be a "wild pitch" call in case the batter was hit by the pitcher and the forceps turned up missing.

Imagine a Parliament Hill Night. This could be done with choral effects with a group of supporters of Pearson's Pennant warbling "The Maple Leaf Forever" against an opposition Red Ensign ensemble carolling "We'll Never Let The Old Flag Fall."

Well-advertised, these and many other comedy stunts could very well be the better diamond moustraps that would beat a financial path to softball and baseball box offices.

Give Joe and Jane Fan what they want—and they won't let you down. And judging from the gate receipts of Shirley Feigner, the California Cuties, and other barnstorming squads that feature comedy, novelty, in fact anything off-beat, this is what they desire—and will support.

'Slammin' Sam Threat In US Open

Course Is Ideal

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever since Sam Snead burned his 100th tomato can full of money people have been saying that this is his last chance to win the U.S. Open, the one golf title that has always got away.

That was many tomato cans ago.

Snead is in his 36th consecutive open at the Congressional Country Club starting Thursday, and there is one fellow in the field who says that this is the time that the 52-year-old slammer could break through at last.

Snead's booster is Jack Nicklaus, the 24-year-old Ohio Golden Bear, who rates high on the list of favorites, himself.

"This course gives Snead his best chance to win in many, many years," Nicklaus said.

Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, along with Tony Lema, are the main objects of attention among the field of 150 who tee off Thursday over the 7,053-yard Congressional.

The course is the longest ever used for the Open, but it is par 70

After another 36 holes Friday, the field is trimmed to the low 50 and ties. There are 36 holes Saturday.

Nicklaus, the PGA champion who won the Open in 1962, soared 71 in practice Tuesday and had two straight birdies on the back nine.

Palmer, who won the Masters and wants the Open as the second leg on the pro grand slam, shot a 75 Tuesday and said he was putting poorly — as he was before the Masters started.

Lema, who took Monday off to swing two straight tournaments, shot his first practice round Tuesday. He didn't get a birdie but chipped in on the 15th for an eagle.

Score Winner In Tenth

Lombanks Nip Trudeaus

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

Shoving across a single run in the tenth inning, Tweed Lombanks outlasted Trudeau Motors, 6-5 in the B. and D. Softball League's first extra-inning struggle of the season at the CVRA last night.

Lombanks' win, their second in a row, boosted them to within two points of the league leaders. Ellis Juniors visit Trenton for an 8.15 MR tonight.

A bone-chilling wind and errors ruined what could have been an exciting game as first one club and then the other held the lead. Tweed led by scores of 1-0 and 4-3 before coming back with one in the ninth and another in the tenth to grab the decision. Trudeaus had leads of 2-1 and 5-4.

In the tenth, Trudeaus' Bob Green suffered his first defeat when he speared the frame by walking Carleton. He was replaced immediately by Doug Ellis. Sherry got the decision, run after forcing Carleton. He advanced on a wild pitch and headed for the plate when Gray singled to left. Falkner fired a beautiful throw to the plate but it hit the runner breaking up the close play.

Singles by D. LeSage and Morton, plus an error set up the 9th frame marker. Pinch hitter Tom White bolted to centre and LeSage scored after the catch.

Tweed used four errors, three of them by Plane, for the 1-0 lead in the third. Trudeaus got a trio in the fifth. Zakos doubled, Duggan walked and scored when Locke's sacrifice bunt was bobbled.

Mercer's infield hit started the Tweed three-run rally in the sixth. Gray, D. LeSage and Graham followed with run-scoring hits. A walk, error and Locke's long foul fly made it 4-4 in the seventh. Plane singled and scored on Zakos' two-out hit for a 5-4 Trudeau lead in the eighth.

Blaine Healey hurled seven hit ball for the victory, striking out nine and walking three. Green gave up seven of Tweed's eight hits in defeat but gained third strikes past ten and walked a pair. Ellis fanned one.

Loombank safeties at singles went to Paul Merwe, Eldon Gray and Don LeSage, with two each. Dick Graham and Rich Morton.

Paul Zakos had a double and single and Billy McGuire a double for the losers. Rick Locke, Ralph Plane, Bert Faulkner and Frank "Buzzer" Murray added the other hits.

TWEED — Carleton cf, Merwe c, Sherry 3b, Gray ss, D. LeSage ss, Graham rf, R. LeSage lf, Ib, Cotton 1b, Healey p, Morton rf, White ph

TRUDEAUS — Locke cf, Wright 3b, Plane ss, Faulkner lf, Murray c, Zakos rf, Duggan p, McGuire 2b, Green p, Ellis p.

Umpires — Mike Whalen (P) and Lea Barton. Time: 1.47.

Brockville Beavers Here Tonight

The Brockville Beavers, who gave last year's Kenmor squad a tough run for the money, will make their debut in the Eastern Ontario Senior Baseball circuit here tonight against Belleville Joyce Realty.

The game is called for 8:30 p.m. at the Fairgrounds.

Brockville will be playing a partial schedule, along with Little Britain and Carnilton, in the grouping with Lisle, Oshawa and Belleville. The latter three teams play 16 games while the first trio play eight games, counting four points for each victory.

Joyces need a victory here tonight to stay near the top of the pack. Ajax has been going strong but Joyces feel with a little more pitching and improved fielding they can give any team in the loop a real battle. Bill Latchford is expected to start on the Belleville rubber tonight and he well remembers the Brockville hitters from last year. The Beavers' lineup is much the same as in 1963.

Belleville, who is playing its first game in Brockville on Saturday afternoon, while the league's other clubs are at Carnilton, battles Oshawa Merchants on the latter's home grounds Friday night.

A Joyce spokesman said this morning that "We are going to get better as the schedule progresses and in the meantime we are hoping for a break or two from the weatherman—and the fans."

Defeat Cheesemen, Lightfoots

Barriages, Belvedere Win

Barriage Landscapers plated three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to defeat Lightfoot Construction 7-6 and create a traffic jam near the Comercial Softball League's top spot.

In another game last night, Belvedere Hotel clipped Black Diamond Cheese by a 9-3 count.

Lightfoots lost their tilt when pitcher George Young ran into control trouble, giving up four of his six walks to force in the tying and winning runs. Two singles had added to the losers' woes but an umpires' decision had wiped out Turner's two-run double minutes before Young issued the deciding walks.

Joe Harvey pitched eight-hit ball for the winners, striking out two and walking two. Young allowed nine hits and wielded five.

Arguments, ejections and threatened protests marred the game, played at Prince Charles School.

Joe Harvey paced his own mates for Barriages with a double and single. Tim Cook and Gerry Genereaux each got two hits, Gerd Dadi, Don Wood and Jim Sopha one apiece. Jim Sopha one apiece. Jim Sherida-rides got two Lightfoot safeties with Rusty Garvin, Jack Whiting, Don Smith, Bill Dickson, Wayne Young and Dick Hurst adding the others.

Belvedere got a four-hit pitching performance from Ted Casson in his first start to give them the nod over the Cheesemen. Casson fanned half a dozen. J. Douglas was combed for 11 hits in a game that saw the winners charged with 11 errors and the losers with 10 for some kind of a league record.

McLeod, Clapp and Ryan had two hits apiece for Belvedere while J. Hughes belted a home run. Clapper, Lucas, Benn and Casson also hit safely.

Black Diamond hits went to R. Jones, J. Gilby, T. Keller and J. Douglas.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD

ASSURANCE WITH THE IRONS

Even low handicap players unconsciously run into periods when they lose the ability to consistently hit iron shots on target. When this happens to me, the first thing I do is to check my follow-through. It may sound as if I'm putting the cart before the horse to do this, but often, if I am correct my follow-through position, the origi-final cause of the inaccurate shots will automatically disappear.

On the follow-through, your hands should move out toward the target, then up and around, pulling your body up (2).

If I have been pushing my iron shots to the right of target, it may be that I'm quitting on my follow-through as in #2. If my iron shots are pulling to the left, it may be because I have insufficient weight on my left leg at the finish of the swing (3).

Altering your follow-through will not, in itself, improve your shot results. However, it may force you to correct earlier errors that have caused the trouble.

A's Sprint Under New 'Jockey' McGaha

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that Mel McGaha has got a rise out of Kansas City Athletics, will he get a raise from Charles Finley?

McGaha, who succeeded Eddie Lopat as manager, has been on the job only five days, but in that time the Athletics have compiled a five-game winning streak after losing the first under their new field boss.

The surging Athletics started within one game of ninth place in the American League Tuesday night, whipping Detroit Tigers 7-4 and 6-4.

The double victory came hours after Finley announced he had ripped up contracts of three players and, given them raises. The Kansas City owner cited shortstop Wayne Causey and pitchers Orlando Pena and John Wyatt for "the outstanding job they have been doing."

If their jobs have been outstanding, McGaha's—based on Kansas City standards — has been amazing. When he assumed control of the Athletics last week, McGaha said he planned nothing drastic.

A five-game winning streak isn't drastic; it's downright shocking. The flurry marks the first time since last July that Kansas City has won more than three in a row. At that time, the string also ran to five.

HOLD ONTO FIRST

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, Chicago White Sox maintained their slim hold on first place by splitting with Baltimore Orioles, winning the first 5-0 and losing the second 3-1.

New York Yankees outlasted Boston Red Sox 7-5 after dropping a 6-0 decision, Cleveland Indians outslugged Minnesota Twins 8-8 and Los Angeles Angels got by Washington Senators 7-6 in 10 innings.

Bill Bryan propelled the Athletics to their second-game triumph, driving in five runs with two homers. He connected with one on in the fourth and with two on in the ninth. Ted Bowsfield, the Penticton, B.C. southpaw, scattered eight hits and became the first pitcher to shut out the Tigers this season.

Kansas City scored six runs after two were out in the fourth inning of the opener. Pitcher Diego Segui sent three of the runs across with a home-loaded double.

Tom Pizarro limited the Orioles to three singles, in the first game. He received home run support from Pete Ward of Montreal in the sixth and Floyd Robinson in the seventh. The victory was Pizarro's eighth against three defeats.

ALLOWS FOUR HITS

Steve Barber checked the White Sox on four hits in the nightcap, pitching his first complete game this season. He also drove in Baltimore's third run.

Joe Pepitone knocked in six runs in the Yankees' doubleheader, four in the second-game victory. Included was a two-run homer in the fifth. Tom Tresh batted in the other three runs, two on a homer in the seventh. Their hitting brought Whitey Ford his ninth straight triumph since losing on opening day.

Frank Malzone's two - run homer in the eighth inning won the opener for the Red Sox.

Leon Wagner slammed an eighth-inning home run that broke up a see-saw battle between the Indians and the Twins.

The Angels also won with a home run. Ed Kirkpatrick connected with one on in the 10th after relief pitcher Ron Kline committed an error with two out.

MIXED TEAM NAMED

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South Africa's National Olympic Committee Tuesday included names of seven non-whites for the first time in nominations for South Africa's team for this year's Olympic Games. South Africa now awaits an official invitation from the International Olympic Games Committee to go to Tokyo this fall. The invitation has been withheld until the South African committee showed an example of good will in an attempt to break down racial barriers.

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

PROTESTS STATUE

HERTFORD, England (AP) — John Mayes, an engineer, has resigned from the Hertford borough council over the erection of a bronze statue of American revolutionary Thomas Paine (1737-1809), who was born here. The $25,000, eight-foot statue, a gift of the Thomas Paine Foundation of America, represents, says Mayes, "an anarchist and traitor."

While Queen Looks On

Frisky Colt Delays Meet

ASCOT, England (AP) — A colt named Royal Desire stole the limelight from Queen Elizabeth Tuesday by holding up the Royal Ascot Week racing for 18 minutes.

Royal Desire dumped Britain's leading jockey, Lester Piggott, on the turf before the start of the opening race, the one-mile Queen Anne Stakes.

The frisky three-year-old then took off for the far reaches of the track and it was more than a quarter of an hour before they could catch him. The stewards finally ordered his withdrawal and the race was won by the 100-to-8 outsider Princecone in a photo finish with New Yorker Charles Engelhard's Piccadilly.

Until Royal Desire spoiled up the proceedings, the Queen, her relatives and some visiting royalty were as usual the centre of attraction.

The Queen led the traditional royal procession of five open horse-drawn landaus down the home stretch to the Royal Box.

The day's two big races—the two-mile Queen's Vase and the 3½-mile Ascot Stakes — were won respectively by I Titan and Delmere, both British-owned.

The Queen drew a bleak.

Her three - year - old filly Asturia finished nowhere in the Queen Anne Stakes and her five-year-old Golden Orioles ran out of steam in the last half-mile after sticking with the leaders from the start of the Ascot Stakes.

Two Canadian-owned horses went to the post in opening-day races, but neither finished in the first four.

Tamaship, owned by Ryland H. New of Toronto, was unplaced in the Britannia Stakes, a one-mile race for two-year-olds, won by Lady Hyndley's Double Fall.

Showdown, owned by Mrs. David Press, formerly of Brampton, finished out of the money in the St. James's Palace Stakes won by the hot favorite Roan Rocket. Showdown, a 5-to-1 chance, was Britain's leading two-year-old in 1963 but has flopped in all four starts this season.

Jax Suns Up Lead, Leafs Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Columbus Jets must have been wishing rain had postponed their scheduled International League games for a second night in a row Tuesday as they made up a Monday rainout and dropped both games to Buffalo Bisons, 8-2 and 3-1.

In the meantime, Jacksonville Suns took advantage of four unearned runs to improve their league-leading edge with an 8-5 victory over Syracuse Chiefs as second - place Toronto Maple Leafs lost 2-1 to Richmond Virginians in Richmond.

At Atlanta, the hometown Crackers absorbed their seventh and eighth straight defeat and plunged deeper into the league cellar as Rochester Red Wings picked up a pair by 5-3 and 2-1 scores.

The Bisons used home runs to assure themselves of both victories over Columbus. Duke Carmel hit one in each game to bring his season's total to 12. Other first-game homers went to Pumpsie Green, Larry Elliot and Choo-Choo Coleman while Elio Chacon opened the game with a homer.

Mel Stottlemyre for Richmond and Ken Nixon for Toronto treated a crowd of 12,534 to a fine pitching duel with Stottlemyre carefully scattering eight hits and striking out the last man in the ninth inning with two aboard to preserve his victory.

Seven, Eight To Start In Plate

Pierlou, Garcon, Dancer Threats

TORONTO (CP) — It's no secret that it is P. Taylor's Northern Dancer were to vanish into thin air by Saturday, Jean-Louis Levesque's Pierlou would be the most likely choice to win the 100th running of the Queen's Plate.

However, horses just don't vanish into thin air these days and Pierlou will have to be satisfied with his second choice resting behind the winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, and most likely candidate for Horse-of-the-Year honors.

Pierlou heads a small field of seven or possibly eight challengers who will attempt to turn a trick termed impossible by most experts — upsetting the Dancer. Pierlou's performance, however, indicates the frisky colt is prepared to give it a good try.

Unhampered by his only threat, Conny Smythe's Northern Flight, who pulled up lame during the race, Pierlou romped to a 13½-length triumph in the second division of the Plate Trial Monday. Jockey Avelino Gomez, who will probably handle Pierlou's reins Saturday, kept the horse under a tight hold from the start.

GRAND GARCON WINS

Pierlou will have more to keep an eye on than just the Dancer. There were two divisions of the plate trial Monday, and Grand Garcon, owned by Frank Sherman of Hamilton, suggested he won't be standing still Saturday.

Grand Garcon, also piloted by Gomez, was an easy 3¼-length winner over Larkin Maloney's Brockton Boy. Gomez kept Grand Garcon under wraps until Brockton Boy staged a brief comeback, only to drop back.

Both Pierlou and Grand Garcon were purchased at Taylor's pre-priced yearling sales for $12,500 and $10,000 respectively.

The rest of the field in the plate will probably be: Brockton Boy; Jack Carmichael's Top Ruler, second to Pierlou in the trials; Later Mel; Will Farr's Canadian Oaks winner; and Re-ture. Trip, winner of a recent maiden race.

Smythe deferred a decision on entering Jammed Lively, ruled as second choice prior to suffering an injury in the Manor Stakes. Named Lively would be Smythe's lone hope since Northern Flight pulled up lame.

Year's Leave Of Absence

IHL Loses Chatham, Windsor

ST. CLAIR, Mich. (CP) — Chatham Maroons and Windsor Bulldogs were granted a one-year leave of absence from the International Hockey League at the league's annual meeting here Tuesday.

The two Ontario teams can protect their franchise by each posting a $250 guarantee with the league by midnight today. If they post the bond, they will be able to reactivate their franchises for the 1965-66 season.

Chatham and Windsor players will be eligible for the league's player-draft today. But it is presumed that only players willing to leave Canada will be picked up.

Port Huron Flags, Muskegon Zephyrs, Fort Wayne Komets, Des Moines Oak Leafs and Toledo Blades, last year's league champions, remained with the league.

The league is to consider three offers to locate a new franchise at Dayton, Ohio. One of the three groups is represented by Len Gaydon of Galt, former manager of the Galt Terriers of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series.

Jim Kimberley of Windsor and Stan Durance of Chatham said the reasons behind their clubs' withdrawals were purely financial. Both teams entered the league for the first time last season. Windsor ended the season in fourth place and was ejected from the semi-finals for using an ineligible player. Chatham wound up sixth in the seven-team circuit.

The Bulldogs may seek re-entry in the OHA senior series next season, Kimberley said. The Maroons hope to play exhibition games until the Allan Cup series begins.

SUIT DISMISSED

NEW YORK (AP) — State supreme court Justice George Postel dismissed Tuesday a $1,300,000 breach of contract suit brought against ex - heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston by his former manager, George Katz.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Two good sizzle payoffs highlighted the Western Fair Raceway sulky session Tuesday.

Gale's Jet won the fourth race to pay $30.80, posting a $20.20 exacta in combination with second - place Cinda C. Grattan. The one-two was loaned from the two longest shots on the board. Gale's Jet went off at 17-1 and Cinda C. Grattan at 14-1.

The seventh race exacta paid $80.40 when Belmont Doug came home first at $12.70. Second finisher was 6-1 Evelyn Harmony. Barbara Johnston made a show of her field in winning the featured ninth race for a $500 purse. She led from the start and finished five lengths ahead of Flash Fire C. She was clocked at 2:03 2-5 for the first mile of the night.

"Get inside it, Sir. That sign is for the loafers."

ARREST FIRE CHIEF

SURREY, B.C. (CP)—RCMP said Monday that Fire Chief Ramsay Lewis Mytimer, 58, of the north Surrey district has been charged with arson in the burning of an unoccupied house. A spokesman for the provincial fire marshall's office said Surrey's hall has been one of the busiest in recent years. He estimated that Surrey has had more than 100 unsolved fires since 1960.

Garry Moore Close to Tears As Last Show Is Given

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "I don't know who those geniuses are going to put on Tuesday night next year," said comedian Alan King angrily. "But it's going to be a very lonely Tuesday."

He referred to the demise, after six years, of CBS' Garry Moore Show, whose swan song Tuesday night was bright, amusing, sentimental and said in turn.

Moore himself spoke of the sudden "cancellation," showing a bit of resentment. The studio audience expressed itself with loud and long cheering for Moore and the cast—Durward Kirby, Marion Lorne, Carol Burnett, King and Allen Funt whose Candid Camera was a top-off of the show.

Moore was close to tears at the end.

The abrupt dropping of the show is a real mystery. It has consistently been a lively, joyous variety hour, invariably in good taste.

Tuesday night will indeed be lonely for a lot of people.

CBS will replace the show next season with The Nurses, moved over from another night in the network schedule.

TOM JONES' IS TOPS IN CAST DIRECTION, WRITING, PRODUCING

All the captivating good humor and robust, lusty fun which have made Henry Fielding's celebrated novel of life, liberty and the pursuit of ladies in Somerset, England, in the mellow 18th Century an enduring favorite, are on the screen in "Tom Jones" tonight and Thursday, ladies daily.

Hailed by critic after critic as one of the finest pictures ever produced anywhere, and a worthy award winner. The comedy stars England's famous Albert Finney as Tom, and supports him with such impressive players as Susannah York, High Griffith, Edith Evans, Joan Greenwood, Diane Cilento, George Devine and David Tomlinson.

"Tom Jones" was produced and directed by Tony Richardson with special music by John Addison, who conducted the symphony orchestra which supplies the background, himself.

At the Park

OPENS THURSDAY "CARRY ON CABBY"

This Comedy Exceeds The Laughter Limit

In the unbridled riotously funny tradition of the "Carry On" films comes "Carry On Cabby," the gay, rollicking and hilarious misadventures of a taxi driver.

Granite-faced Sidney James stars as the cabbie — a man wholly devoted to "Speedy Taxis," a flourishing fleet which he runs on military lines. That is, until his wife (played by Hattie Jacques) becomes more than a little bored with her husband's devotion to his cabs and starts up in opposition with a fleet of pink mini-cabs driven by the ultimate in buxom beauties. There's dangerous curves ahead when "Gizmoke" hit the road and all the cabs and cabbies collide in one merry mess.

Also involved in this "battle-of-the-sexes-on wheels are such film favorites as Kenneth Connor, Charles Hawtrey, Liz Fraser and Esma Cannon, plus the greatest line-up of feminine pulchritude ever seen behind a steering wheel.

"Carry On Cabbie" is a Peter Rogers production, directed by Gerald Thomas — the winning combination behind all the "Carry On" films. The screen play is written by Talbot Rothwell from an original story by S. C. Green and R. M. Hills.

So if it's laughter you're after, take a taxi to the Park Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday where Anglo Amalgamated's "Carry On Cabby" is showing.

On the same program a thrilling mystery drama "Pit of Darkness," complete shows at 7.00 and 8.50 p.m.

Many Child Performers Are Straight A Students

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Judy Garland met Mickey Rooney in his classroom. Bette Grable was a student, and so was Donald O'Connor. And Natalie Wood, Anita Louise, Connie Stevens and a flock of others.

Hundreds have called Hollywood Professional School their alma mater during its 40 years at 5400 Hollywood Blvd. A new class of 70 seniors will graduate tonight, but not all will attend the ceremonies.

The student body president, former Mouseketeer Cubby O'Brien, won't deliver his valedictory. He's opening with his band in Las Vegas tonight. An understudy is standing by to read his speech. Understudies are provided for all school functions—in case students can't show up.

Hollywood Professional School has long served children who can't undergo fulltime schooling. They include not only actors, singers and models but olympic skaters, swimmers and gymnasts who devote six hours or more of training daily.

"We run an education workshop," says Mrs. Bertha Mann, executive director. "We have no Mickey Mouse courses. Our students are drilled in fundamentals from 8:45 to 12:45 each morning. Those who have to work at studios in the morning can come for tutoring in the afternoon.

STRICTLY ACADEMIC

"We have no athletics, no cafeteria, no hotel or boarding department. We are strictly an academic day school."

The measure of its success: It was the only private school among 15 high schools in the Los Angeles area to be cited by the University of California for the high scholarship of former students.

Principal Mary Andersson decided the notion that child performers are not Phi Beta Kappa types.

"The professional child is extremely bright," said she. "Many of them are straight A students. And they present no discipline problems. They are very quiet and well-behaved in classrooms. They want to project a good image of themselves."

Professionals complete 20 per cent of the 420 students, would be professionals another 40 per cent. As you walk through the narrow halls, you encounter no kooks.

"We are very strict," said Miss Mann. "The boys can't wear bike jeans or long haircuts and on Fridays they wear coats and ties. The girls aren't allowed excessive makeup or sleeveless dresses, and skirts must cover the knee. Tight sweaters? Absolutely not.

"But the students go along with the rules. They're smart enough to know that directors are seeking that well-scrubbed look."

Boxer Dies Following Knockout

MANILA (AP) — Boxer Rey Romero, 21, died Tuesday of brain injuries three days after he was knocked out in the fourth round of a fight.

Romero never regained consciousness. He was taken to a hospital immediately after the fight and underwent surgery.

Romero's death was the fourth ring fatality in The Philippines in recent years. Like Romero, the other victims all were preliminary fighters.

Romero, a welterweight, and his opponent, Roger Aganan, had had only one fight each before the fatal encounter Saturday night.

There were no knockdowns in the bout before Romero was knocked out.

Inquiry Clears Hospital of Any Blame

KINGSTON (CP) — A Kingston General Hospital board of inquiry found Tuesday the hospital did everything possible to save the life of a seven-year-old Pakistani girl.

Nasikh Ahmed, daughter of Major and Mrs. Amin Ahmed, died in the hospital 3½ hours after being struck by a car in front of the home of family friends here.

The hospital inquired into the case after Mrs. Ahmed said in a letter to a Kingston newspaper that her daughter had not been given prompt hospital treatment.

She said certain procedures shocked her and left her guessing whether everything possible or even reasonable was done to save her child's life.

Stand-by Medical Coverage Of County to Start July 1

PICTON (Staff) — At a special meeting of the Prince Edward County Medical-Surgical Society the county doctors decided to arrange a more definite system of emergency medical coverage for the county effective July 1, 1964.

On Wednesdays, Saturdays, Sundays and statutory holidays one doctor will be available for emergencies. This doctor will be "on call" to see emergencies at the County Hospital and the hospital switchboard will know where the doctor will be at all times.

In order to avail themselves of the service, county residents need only call the hospital switchboard and arrange, through the operator, to meet the doctor "on call" at the Emergency Department of the hospital. It is here that the best available facilities for examinations and treatment of urgent cases are centrally located to the advantage of doctors and patients.

The "on call" hours for such emergency cases will be as follows: Wednesdays — 12 noon to 12 midnight. Saturdays and Sundays — 12 noon Saturday to midnight on Sunday. Statutory Holidays — 8 a.m. to 12 midnight.

Individual doctors will cover their own practices at all other times or should they not be available they will leave a colleague in charge.

The doctor "on call" on holidays will, of course, always be available to attend patients at the scene of serious accidents and/or will summon the aid of a colleague when necessary.

The doctors will give the system a serious trial from July 1st to mid-September before making a final decision on its effectiveness. It should be pointed out that co-operation of county residents as well as the doctors will be required if the "on call" system is to work.

RULES LAID DOWN

In order to ensure that the best possible service is available to urgent cases on holidays, county residents are encouraged to co-operate in the following manner.

1. Notify your family doctor when at all possible, before the holiday period begins, of minor illness which might become more serious. Please do not bug the doctor "on call" away from urgent cases by asking for calls for minor, non-emergency conditions which might well be seen before or after the holiday period.

2. Phone the hospital switchboard when in need of emergency treatment during the above mentioned hours on Wednesdays, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays as this is the quickest route to medical aid.

3. In reporting an emergency keep calm, identify yourself, give details of the emergency and give your telephone number.

4. And above all — Drive Safely.

Oily Mixture Washing up On Beaches

PICTON (Staff) — Globs containing an oily mixture have been washing up on Outlet and other beaches. Bathers find it difficult to get the mixture from skin and clothing. It is believed lake freighters are responsible. Lake shores are inspected for such oil slicks and it is illegal for freighters to dump oil.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mr. and Mrs. Don Garrison of Prescott were Sunday guests of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison.

Mrs. Latta of Kingston spent a couple of days with her daughter and husband Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cole.

Wallbridge U.C.W. held their pot-luck dinner on Wednesday with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Found.

The senior room of Wallbridge children with their teacher Mrs. McDonald and a few adults went by bus to Niagara Falls on Wednesday. All had a enjoyable day. Arrived home at 10.30 tired but happy seeing the many points of interest at the Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gaudour and children spent the weekend with his brother and wife in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Langabeer and cousins who have just arrived from England called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cole and children were weekend guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Langabeer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Acker of Oshawa called on Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer on Sunday afternoon.

Industrial Revolution for Scotland

TRADITIONAL INDUSTRIES BEING OVERTAKEN — Traditional Scottish industries, such as shipbuilding and marine engineering, continue to thrive, as shown in this scene on the busy River Clyde. However, new industries are making big strides. Shipbuilding a $100,000,000-a-year industry, will be overtaken by the motor vehicle industry in 18 months. Since 1945, 300 manufacturing operations have been attracted to Scotland. (CP Photo)

'Jest a Second'

"Did you have a nice time at Joan's birthday party, dear? . . ."

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

EDINBURGH (CP)—Answers abound as to why new industries are coming to Scottish towns, but an American industrialist has the shortest.

"I tasted it on the Provost's (Mayor's) whisky," he confessed.

The story is good for a knowing smile anywhere from the Tweed to John o' Groat's and will be understood everywhere by survivors of Scottish hospitality.

But there's something about it that seems—ever so slightly—to nettle Scots who are engineering nothing less than a new industrial revolution. Said one of these:

"We need to get rid of the so-called image of the Scotsman with heather in his hair, haggis on his face, a caber on his shoulder and a whisky bottle in his hand."

For the days are gone when Scotland could offer only ships, whisky and tweed—and an immensely colorful citizenry—to the world. Now it's producing a multitude of items from watches to aircraft engines.

And Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas - Home's government, under its new-power-for-the-regions policy, has come out with a £100,000,000 program for Central Scotland, which contains Edinburgh, Glasgow and 60 per cent of Scottish industry.

BIGGER THAN WHISKY

Although the program has come in for some Gaelic cursing as a stitched-together patchwork of projects, most people believe it will do good, saving big industries in such things as housing and roads and movement of population to areas that have shown a "natural" capacity for growth.

The Scots have long been tackling their regional economic problems in an imaginative way and John Donachy, general manager of the Scottish Council (Development and Industry) gives these striking examples of change:

—The output of the comparatively new petro-chemical industry now is bigger than Scotch whisky, itself a thriving industry of £300,000,000 a year.

—Office machinery now outranks the traditional knitwear although the latter has increased annual output to £37,000,000.

—Within 18 months the motor vehicle industry will overtake shipbuilding and marine engineering, although they are good for £100,000,000 a year.

"We've attracted 300 manufacturing operations, including 70 from the United States, since 1945," Donachy told a group of visiting Commonwealth reporters.

REJECT SYMPATHY

Scotland, simply by reason of its distinctive nationality and strong racial attachments, enjoys an intangible advantage over other parts of Britain in the way, notably in American eyes. This is gloomily attested to, for example, in the depressed Northeast England region.

"But we firmly reject any sympathy approach," said Donachy. "This is a matter of pounds and pence."

Scotland boasts lower manufacturing costs than any other country. The National Industrial Conference Board of New York estimates British costs at 18 per cent less than the U.S., 25 per cent less than Canada and 13 per cent less than the six-nation European Common Market. Scotland figures it has the edge on England in smaller overhead and labor costs.

Yet all this is not enough. Scotland's unemployment is chronically twice the national average and the country still suffers from an age-old population hemorrhage. Often the young, active and talented are the ones to leave.

Emigration has been high since the Second World War and the net loss in the 1950s was 200,000 or 25 per cent of the natural increase in the country of 8,000,000. This was one of the problems grappled by the Central Scotland program, announced in a government white paper.

NO NATIONAL PLAN

But while trying to stop the population drift from Scotland to more prosperous regions, the government also published a plan for Southeast England, looking toward vast growth in the already-congested London area.

"Only the English could go around producing regional so-called plans without a national plan," exploded Donachy, whose council is made up of local authorities, chambers of commerce, trade unions and Scottish banks.

Another official said Canadians would find it awkward to understand the Scottish problem since they are accustomed to provincial governments that fight for the regions while "we're inclined to be fed the wrong medicine for the wrong illness depending on what is happening in the Southeast."

"Inflationary pressures in the Southeast result in national policies that are relevant only in the Southeast.

"That's like saying, if you have high blood pressure, I get the treatment. If you overeat, I get a diet, even if I'm suffering from malnutrition."

Anyway, one practical result of agitation in the region has been the decision to transfer a government bank headquarters to Glasgow, providing several thousand new jobs.

SIX CANADIA NFEMS

Such a gain is minute, however, in comparison with lost jobs in the traditional industries that were based on coal and iron ore.

Much more important are the U.S. firms—and six from Canada—that have come since the war, providing 47,000 new jobs at wages better than the British average. New science-based industries employ 12,500, with electronics growing fast.

Complete new towns are rising in fresh surroundings as ancient slums are eradicated in Glasgow and elsewhere. Planners make much of the breath-taking scenery of the countryside in Scotland where it is impossible to get more than 60 miles away from the sea.

Donachy put the situation this way:

"On average 30,000 new jobs have been created during each of the last few years in the growing manufacturing industries, while 25,000 jobs have disappeared in the contracting industries.

"The average balance of increase—5,000 jobs a year—is not enough. To afford opportunities to school leavers, to reduce unemployment and emigration and to provide for a growing population, a net growth in jobs of at least 15,000 a year is needed.

"In other words, the average number of jobs created each year in manufacturing must be stepped up by one-third, to 40,000 from 30,000.

"This is the growth target for 1970."

Tomorrow: Glasgow grows smaller and cleaner.

HOUSE FLAG DEBATE GOES ON SHELF

Russia Revises Plan To Stage Bomber Bonfire

January Proposal Rejected by U. S.

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union forecast a move today to meet the American position on a proposed "bonfire" of nuclear bomber planes.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, told the 17-country disarmament conference in the morning new Kremlin plan will modify the Jan. 28 Soviet proposal calling for total destruction of all bombing planes.

The January proposal was rejected by the United States as impractical and unacceptable to the West. An American counter-plan March 19 called for destruction of 400 Soviet TU-16s (Badgers) over a two-year period. The Russians rejected the counterproposal.

Zorin hinted his new proposal will take into account the American objections to strapping all bombers.

The Soviet delegation will . . . present its views on how it thinks to what order we think it would be possible to take into account opinions advanced by other delegations, to carry out the elimination of bomber aircraft," he said. "At present we would like only to state that the Soviet Union is going to occupy a flexible position in this matter."

TALK PRIVATELY

American officials were intrigued by Zorin's use of the word "possible." Immediately after the morning conference private talk lasting nearly an hour.

Presumably, Foster sought to find out from Zorin what the Soviet Union has in mind on how and in what order bomber aircraft should be destroyed.

Significantly, the bomber bonfire was not directly mentioned in an agreement on the conference agenda reached between Foster and Zorin and announced earlier today. This included the United States and the Soviet Union may be on the agenda for bilateral negotiations on the bonfire and therefore did not wish the matter to be raised in the unwieldy 17-nation group at this time.

Foster, in a speech to the conference, promised the United States would maintain a flexible position on the production of fissionable material for weapons use suggested by

Union Jack May Get Rough Ride

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—The split in the flag resolution, while adding voting strength to the distinctive Canadian flag, may mean a rough reception for the proposal to give some recognition to the Union Jack.

"I'll never vote for the Union Jack," says a Conservative backbencher who stoutly advocates the retention of the Red Ensign.

"There'll be a lot of Red Ensign supporters up against the Union Jack," said another member of the party. "We want the ensign because it's a Canadian flag; we don't want the British flag."

The Commons now is debating the first part of the resolution dealing with the proposed adoption of a distinctive Canadian national flag— three red maple leaves on a white background with a vertical blue bar at each side.

If and when this is voted on, the second part of the resolution will be brought before the members. This would provide that the Union Jack "may continue to be flown as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth of nations and our allegiance to the Crown."

RESOLUTION SPLIT

Originally, members were to have voted on the two questions at once. But when the resolution came before the House Monday, Speaker Alan Macnaughton ruled that the two issues would be voted on separately.

The division seemed to assure a big majority for the new flag because many Quebec members, who opposed inclusion of the Union Jack, were now free to vote on the new flag by itself.

The 13 - member Creditiste party, which had previously said it couldn't support the "two-flag resolution", said it would throw all its weight behind the single flag. Quebec members in the Conservative party made the same decision.

Initial reaction had suggested the Union Jack portion of the Jewish Rabbis From Many States Join Negroes in March in Florida

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Jewish rabbis from several states joined Negroes for a march through a white residential section of St. Augustine. It was another step in the year of racial demonstrations in the oldest city in the United States.

"If they can come through our neighborhood we can go through theirs," Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy of Atlanta, Ga., told a church meeting Wednesday night.

This was a reference to two night marches through a Negro section last week by white segregationists. Negroes have staged their protest marches in the downtown area.

The new night-time demonstration was led by Abernathy. Earlier, a dozen Negroes were taken into custody during sit-in attempts, including the total to more than 200.

Abernathy said two developments appeared to be the first major breaks in segregation barriers since demonstrations started two weeks ago.

About 35 Negroes waded fully clothed into the waters at St. Augustine beach in an area usually frequented by white persons. There was no trouble.

A group of businessmen pledged to abide by the civil rights bill if it becomes law.

In Washington, there was every indication the senate would pass the historic measure by the end of the week.

Summit Parley Closer

TOKYO (AP) — The foreign ministers of Malaysia, Indonesia and The Philippines made an encouraging start today toward a summit meeting, then paused for word that withdrawal of Indonesian guerrillas from Malaysia has begun.

In a 3½ - hour discussion which began with soft words and avowals of peaceful intent, the three ministers hammered out an agreement to set up three additional checkpoints to verify withdrawal of several hundred guerrillas who have been plaguing British and Malaysian forces in Malaysian Borneo.

Malaysia has made a start on withdrawal of the guerillas, a condition for taking part in the summit conference which will bring together Indonesian President Sukarno, Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal and Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia.

The foreign ministers also made a start on the agenda for their chiefs to discuss. It is expected to include a review of causes for the deterioration in Malaysian - Indonesian relations that the summit conference last July, two months before Malaysia was formed.

At the conference table today were Indonesian foreign minister Dr. Subandrio, Philippine minister and Foreign Minister Tun Abdul Razaak of Malaysia, Foreign Secretary Mauro Mendez of The Philippines and special envoy Salvador P. Lopez of the Philippines.

Razak said "the present situation is not our own doing" and told Subandrio:

"If Indonesia will withdraw her troops and volunteers from our territory and stop making further incursions, I feel it is possible for us to have peace again and live as friends and neighbors."

Subandrio said the Malaysian situation was "fraught with tension" but that he did not believe "the situation is beyond hope of no return. He accused the colonial powers of leaving a powder keg behind in Malaysia, Indonesia and The Philippines which had made it possible for them to threaten us.

Philippine sources predicted that the ministers' conference would wind up Friday and be followed by a summit session. Diplomats said that Macapagal, who has been seeing Rahman and Sukarno separately in an effort to soften their positions, had made some progress.

Razak, later, in speech to the conference, promised the United States would maintain a flexible position on the production of fissionable material for weapons use suggested by Trade Minister Sharp announced initial payments for western grain in the 1964-65 crop year will be unchanged from the current year.

Prime Minister Pearson said the government will stake its life on both parts of the resolution on a national flag.

Robert C. Coates (PC—Cumberland) said he favored a referendum is the only fair way to decide the flag issue.

Réjean Mackasey (L—Montreal Verdun) countered that MPs must not shirk their responsibility to decide the issue in Parliament.

John R. Matheson (L—Leeds) said it is irresponsible to say the maple leaf flag is a concession to Quebec provincialism.

Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre), amid applause from all sides, praised the impartial attitude of Speaker Macnaughton.

Runaway Truck in Hamilton Leaves Four Hurt in Wake

HAMILTON (CP) — A runaway truck reared through rush hour traffic down a 2.1 mile Mountain today, leaving a 925-car trail of 11 damaged vehicles and four injured drivers before halting with its 30 - ton load spilled over the road.

Maurice Trembley, 32, of Tilbury, the truck driver, was still unconscious in St. Joseph's Hospital three hours after the accident. He was in serious condition with internal injuries.

Car drivers injured were Mrs. Esther Craik, 45; Derk Bosch, 37 and George Hutchison, 51, all of Hamilton. All are in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Police said the truck's brakes failed.

Its blaring horn warned drivers and pedestrians as it moved into thick traffic at the foot of the mountain — but it's cars were hit.

The truck finally stopped downtown — half a mile from the first collision.

It had loaded 1,300 boxes of ketchup and tomato juice — spilled over the street, halting traffic for blocks.

Scranton Says Goldwater Insulated Self From Public

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With the Republican nominating convention less than a month away, the chances of television debates between Senator Barry Goldwater and Governor William Scranton are now more than ever.

The networks have offered both candidates for the Republican presidential nomination three times for such a debate, but Goldwater has turned it down.

Scranton, 46-year-old governor of Pennsylvania, delivered the sharpest attack ever on a political opponent Wednesday night when he accused Goldwater of lacking the courage to face him in a TV debate—between-calls of the famed Kennedy-Nixon debates in the 1960 campaign—but Scranton retracted the statement several hours later.

Scranton, a late starter against the heavily - favored Goldwater in the presidential nomination race, said Goldwater was trying to keep away from the voters in order not to lose support in the South.

But the Pennsylvania governor said he would support Goldwater for the presidency if the senator is nominated at the Republican convention in San Francisco starting July 13. He said any Republican would be better than President Johnson.

The Associated Press delegate poll now puts Goldwater's delegate support at 677—more than enough for nomination if all remain in favor of Goldwater as they say they now are.

But slippage is not unusual in presidential campaigns. In the 1952 election the late Senator Robert Taft of Ohio seemed headed for the Republican nomination with more than 600 delegates under his wing, but Dwight D. Eisenhower won the nomination and the presidency.

Scranton, with 132 delegates in his fold, hopes to raid Goldwater's least solid group—the 231 who are listed as "not for" favor the senator but give no indication of how deeply they are committed.

These are the ones most susceptible to wooing by Scranton in his bid to head off Goldwater and win the nomination himself.

Scranton was speaking in St. Louis Wednesday when he said Goldwater "lacks the courage to face the people" in a TV debate.

Scranton contended that Goldwater had insulated himself from the public by refusing to hold news conferences and by releasing only prepared material in his addresses.

"I don't consider that to be the right type of candidate to have in America," Scranton told reporters.

But a few hours later the governor told reporters at a press conference in Denver "my use

Interest Great In Proposal

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—International interest in Canada's proposed peacekeeping force is so great that the government is giving consideration to calling a larger conference than the one originally planned for next month.

Informed sources say a meeting here in the fall may embrace all countries which have contributed in one way or another to United Nations peacekeeping operations.

The original plan was to hold exploratory talks here in July among the countries—Canada, the Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland—which have standby contingents earmarked for UN peacekeeping.

The talks would concern what type of units and equipment each of these six countries might be prepared to contribute to a single force which would be established outside the framework of the UN but held in readiness for UN duty when called upon.

Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin have proposed such a course as a means of getting around objections by some UN members to establishment of a UN standby police force.

In view of the keen interest being shown by many other countries beyond the original six, informants say, the government is thinking of postponing the meeting planned for next month until the fall and invite more countries to attend.

This would roll two meetings into one because the government originally planned to call a larger conference following the initial exploratory talks in July.

The wider conference now being considered would provide representation from all continents instead of only Europe and North America.

This would be a step toward Mr. Pearson's announced aim of setting up international force which would represent all continents and not only white countries.

As an example, Nigeria, Ghana, Malaysia, India, Australia and Brazil have served in UN peacekeeping roles. Acceptance by them of invitations to an Ottawa conference would assure representation of all continents.

Communist countries might be represented because Yugoslavia has served in the UN force in Egypt and on the UN observer mission in Yemen.

Representation from Asia would presumably be increased because Iran announced June 9 that it is prepared to earmark

Will Discuss Allowances For Widows, Orphans

Two PC's Support Retention of Red Ensign

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons flag debate goes on its shelf today in favor of action on a constitutional amendment enabling widows and orphans to receive benefits under the proposed Canada Pension Plan.

Only four MPs—two Liberals and two Progressive Conservatives—were able to get into the flag debate during Wednesday's half-day Commons sitting.

It won't be revived until Parliament sends on its way to the British Parliament a request that the British North America Act be amended to permit the Canadian Parliament to legislate survivor benefits in the proposed contributory pension plan.

The constitutional amendment has been approved by the 10 provinces and the federal government wants to get it through before the Parliament at Westminster is dissolved for the British general election.

In Wednesday's flag debate, Conservatives Robert Coates (Cumberland) and O. W. Walchel (Waterloo North) coupled their support for retention of the Red Ensign with new calls for a plebiscite "to settle the ques-

LIBERALS BACK LEAVES

On the other side, Liberals Bryce Mackasey (Montreal Verdun) and John Matheson (Leeds) backed the government's proposed design—three red maple leaves on a white ground with a blue bar at each side—as acceptable to all Canadians.

Mr. Mackasey, noting that his riding is about evenly divided between French- and English-Canadians, said the maple leaf flag will not emphasize the differences of background but be a symbol acceptable to all national origins in Canada.

He urged MPs not to fall into the trap of hatred" or to judge Quebec by the acts of Canada by the acts of separatists.

A plebiscite would "deteriorate into a token copy of a general election" with countless Canadians caught in the swell of emotion. It would weaken the cultural differences and widen still further bridgeable differences of opinion.

Mr. Matheson, sometimes called the father of the government's design, rejected the Red Ensign as not being distinctively Canadian because it is flown by countless countries, merchant vessels, clubs and organizations in one form or another.

He traced the three-leaf sym-

Colicos as Lear Earns Greatest Acclaim in Stratford's History

STRATFORD, (CP) — John Colicos, playing the title role in Shakespeare's King Lear here Wednesday night, earned the greatest acclaim of any performance at Stratford's Festival Theatre.

And his portrayal of Shakespeare's tragic king was matched by many cast and technical leaders in the production.

"I saw this greatness through a tear in my eye," said veteran actor Herbert Whittaker, theatre critic of the Toronto Globe and Mail and Canadian Press.

And Don Great, writing for United Press International, said: "Colicos' performance is a crescendo and state of the production, in a portrayal that will go into the record books as among the most memorable performances ever seen in Canada."

It was the third and final opening of the central plays of this year's festival. Shakespeare's King Richard II and critics battling over its merits Monday; while the consensus was that Tuesday's opening of Moliere's Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme was the play that was great fun, but poor Moliere.

The three daughters of King Lear — the pestes of the critics, Martha Henry played Cordelia, the daughter who remains true both to her father and her principles, and who finally restores Lear's kingdom after his other daughters turn on him.

Frances Hyland and Dian Medford, as Goneril and Regan, whose hideous machinations make Lear mad, drew equal praise.

The acclaim, in fact, was shared by the entire cast.

Mr. Colicos and Lee Cicero played the husbands of Goneril and Regan; Tony Van Bridge took the part of the loyal Earl of Kent; Mervyn Blake acted the blinded Earl of Gloucester and Douglas Rain and Bruno Gerussi played his sons.

Supplies Pour Into Niigata

NIIGATA, Japan (AP) — Flames from blazing oil storage tanks were being brought under control in Niigata today. Thousands were returning to the homes they fled after the devastating earthquake Tuesday.

Firefighters said they hoped by tonight or Friday to be in control of the inferno the quake set off along the waterfront of the northern Japanese port, a centre of the dome-tic petroleum industry.

Ninety of Niigata's 300 big storage tanks were set afire, but by noon today the columns of black smoke were lightening as firefighters used foam into the flames. Most of the foam was supplied by U.S. forces and was flown from Tokyo.

The people of Niigata, hardened to disaster like most Japanese, began picking up the shreds of their lives.

Thousands of uniformed men from the armed services joined local workers in clearing away debris and mending roads.

AMPLIFIER POWERED

Tons of relief goods continued to pour in. Donations were coming from abroad. The King and Queen of Denmark, on a state visit to Japan, contributed $3,333.

The first groups of some 20,000 evacuees began returning to their homes, or to what was left of them. Low-lying areas were still flooded from the tidal wave that poured in from the Sea of Japan after the quake.

The national police reported 108 houses destroyed and 18,500 damaged by the quake, and another 11,000 flooded. Most of this was in Niigata.

Although the quake was the strongest in Japan since the 1923 quake that took 143,000 lives in the Tokyo-Yokohama area, experts attributed the remarkably low loss of life Tuesday to the fact that the quake hit after lunch, when cooking stoves were off and there were no residential fires.

The casualty toll was 25 dead and 11 missing although the quake shook 10 prefectures (states) in northern Japan and its damage was estimated at hundreds of millions of dollars.

Tale of Social Climber Tickles Stratford Audience

By ROBERT TANNER

If Monday's story titles matched a cloudy Richard II, Tuesday's delight resembles the driftwood into the Festival theatre to illuminate a dazzling presentation of Moliere's delightful comedy Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme. A simple tale of a rich social climber, bilked by his aristocratic friends, his teachers of the elegant arts, and even by his own family, he might well have—bitter overtones, but these are drowned out by his naive faith in the ultimate success of his endeavors, and pathos dissolves in laughter.

It is of course most fitting that the production should be in the hands of the French-Canadian team whose last year's Comedy of Errors was such a delight. Director Jean Gascon, Designer Robert Prevost and Composer Gabriel Charpentier have combined to produce another winning entertainment, even though there were signs on the first night that their touch was not quite so light and sure as with the Shakespeare play. It is probable that a few more performances will tighten the pace in one or two lagging scenes. Music in particular plays an important part in the play, and after a rather uneven start, quickly wove itself into the pattern of the action, as did the imaginative and at times hilarious dance sequences staged by Alan Lund.

ROLES WELL TAKEN

With a much smaller cast than Richard II, all the roles are in fluid and capable hands. Naturally the play depends to a very great extent on the playing of M. Jourdain, the Bourgeois, but with Douglas Rain in the part all is well. He maintains a high level of inspired fooling from beginning to end, and his reactions to trickeries and indignities with the best will in the world. His folly is a kind around which others may gambol to the audience's delight.

During the first act M. Jourdain engages the help of four teachers, in music, dancing, fencing and philosophy, played respectively by William Needles, Eric House, Leo Ciceri and Mervyn Blake, all of them practiced clowns at the height of their best. When somewhat naturally they fall to arguing regarding the merits of their various professional bedfast gaiters. With their demonstration of Moliere's penchant to such an extent that space forbids its recounting. Suffice it to say that we need Mme. Jourdain and her daughter Lucille, played delightfully, but perhaps with a little too much refinement, by Diana Maddox and Frances Hyland, making a welcome return to the Stratford Company.

MAID HIS FOE

Helen Burns, as Nicole, the Jourdain's maid, adopted many little respect for her master or sympathy with his ambitions and wasted no time in demonstrating that she can laugh at him to his face. Since she is in love with Cleonte (Bruno Germusi), valet to Cleonte (Leo Carlon), whose marriage to Lucille is strongly opposed by Jourdain, it is obvious that the poor maid is in for some first class boxing. This takes the form of a wild "Turkish" initiation ceremony (with various musical overtones of "Alouette") in which the dancing of Hugh Webster is another highlight. Even now, two important characters have not been mentioned, William Hutt as Dorante, an unscrupulous Count who is trading on Jourdain's naivete to fleece him thoroughly, and Dorimene, played by Martha Henry in a rather stylized fashion. Only a watchfulness with whom both Jourdain and Dorante are in love, as this is a comedy, all ends happily, except perhaps for Mme. Jourdain who is left with her foolish husband, but unfortunately she appears to be of a philosophical turn of mind, and with Nicole's help will no doubt manage him!

All in all, a delightful evening's entertainment, and one quite suited for the whole family. Oddly enough, the cast was not full for the first performance — perhaps Canadians are a little scared of Moliere. But there would seem every likelihood that this situation will change rapidly as soon as word gets around that for fun and games on Stratford's highest level, see Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme.

AVONDALE CUBS
SCRAP DRIVE

The Avondale group committee of the Cubs and Scouts wish to express their appreciation to the residents of the Avondale area for the support given to the recent scrap drive held on May 23rd.

A special note of thanks is extended to Mr. Hank Wilson for the donation of his truck which played a vital role in the movement of the tons of paper donated.

It is such interest by the Avondale citizens in supporting this drive that makes the activities of the Cubs and Scouts in their area possible. The Cubs particularly enjoyed carrying out this collection and it also gave the fathers something to do that Saturday.

MADOC — Wallace Havelock Robb, Canada's foremost poet on Indian Folklore was the moderator of the Discussion Group Seminar held at the Madoc Art Centre last weekend. The topic was "Poets, Prophets and Indians."

No previous formal qualifications or special standards are required although those with B.A. or B.Ed. qualifications attended. The purpose of these weekends is to provide an opportunity for persons of all ages and all walks of life to come together with the objective of studying some aspect of current community life in Canada.

The seminar was attended by were Garth Hopkins, associate editor of the Financial Times, Montreal and Mrs. Hopkins, Mr. Clyde Bell, editor of the Tweed News, Mrs. Jim Watson and Mrs. Jean Dudlin, Madoc. Charles Andrew Tupper, Forensic Mrs. Wallace Robb and Joseph Robb of Kingston; Rand Freeland of Fantasy Farm, Toronto; Marla Kostner and Joseph Holmy, Budapest, Hungary and Helen Atari, Riga, Latvia.

The most significant fact of the weekend, as indicated by those who attended, was that persons of many different backgrounds of various races, creeds and political beliefs could come together to discuss objectively things that are too often taken for granted in Canada.

Napanee Will Hold Centennial Parade

NAPANEE — "Brothers the Beard," once smoothshaven gentlemen now nurturing a variety of shaggy facial decorations, from goatees and sideburns to untrimmed soupcatchers, have strengthened their forces. Organized into chapters division chairman Don Walters, reports that twenty-one chapters have already been formed.

Denbigh, Cloyne, Northbrook, Kaladar, Tamworth, Newburgh, Strathcona, Napanee, Selby and some other areas have formed chapters, as a result of a recent meeting at Napanee, to which all men of the county were invited.

Areas not organized yet are Odessa, Bath, Yarker, Enterprise, Camborne and Moscow. The committee in charge is hoping to have a chapter formed in each community with all parts of the county joining in the fun.

New members may now join up at Centennial headquarters, 4 Dundas Street West, Napanee, or, obtain charters and form their own group.

Chapters already formed are planning participation in the centennial parade on Monday, August 3, and are working on floats.

During July the Brothers of the Beard will be involved in various high jinks, which include caravans on Friday evenings, driving to different towns and villages, returning to Napanee to the Kangaroo Court.

The judiciary of the Kangaroo Court will snatch "offenders" off the street, given them a "jury" trial, and sentence them on the spot. Details of the "offences" as well as the "sentences" are still a well-kept secret.

"Donations are still coming in and there are a few canvassers, who have not completed all their calls," said Mr. Foxwell, "Anyone in a few minutes make a donation to "The Smiling Campaign" can still do so by mailing their contribution to campaign headquarters. The Salvation Army at 256 Pinnacle St.

Or a call to Woodland 8-6834 will bring a worker to pick up the donation.

This year the Belleville Salvation Army Corps is celebrating its 80th year of service to the Belleville community.

All Egg, Fowl Producers Eligible to Vote

As sponsors of the Egg and Fowl Marketing Plan — the Ontario Poultry Producers' Association is concerned over the possibility of a misunderstanding as to the eligibility of voters in the forthcoming plebiscite.

There will be no voters' lists for this plebiscite. However, any producer of eggs or fowl, or, anyone who was a producer of eggs or fowl during the past year, is eligible to vote. To qualify he is given a ballot, each voter will be required to register and state, on his registration form, the location of his farm, his mailing address, and, the number of hens in his laying flock. In addition, he will be required to sign a declaration that he has not voted previously in the plebiscite.

The purpose of the Egg and Fowl Marketing Plan is to finance, on an equitable basis, a program to promote the consumption of eggs and fowl, and, to conduct research into, ways and means of increasing the consumer acceptance of these products.

The Association is deeply concerned over the decline in the per capita consumption of eggs. Price in 1960 the per capita consumption was twenty-five dozen per year. This has now fallen to twenty-one and one - half dozen per year.

CN Station Renovation Completed

It possibly wasn't planned exactly that way but completion of station renovation at the CN station and improvement in parking facilities is being timed nicely to co-incide with Railway Week starting on Monday.

Railway customers at the north station cannot but note the change. Parking facilities for customers has been greatly improved while the station ticket office and waiting room has taken on a modernistic look.

First off, railway employees' parking has been completely separated from that of the railway customers, with space for workers' cars provided east of the station area.

At the station proper the entire parking area is now being paved, with special islands separating the customer parking area from that of taxis or other vehicles discharging or picking up passengers.

Also the main station platform adjacent to the parking area has been widened and lengthened.

Inside the station the ceiling has been lowered, a new open-type ticket counter provided and waiting room chairs have been refurbished.

"It's remarkable what the expenditure of a few dollars can accomplish," says Kenneth Fleming, passenger sales manager here for the Rideau area.

IN MEMORIAM

GALBRAITH—In loving memory of our dear husband, father, Galbraith, who passed away June 18, 1964.

Though tears in our eyes do not glisten,
Our faces are not always sad;
There's never a night or a morning
But we think of the father we had.
Not a day do we forget you,
In our hearts you are always here,
We've loved you and miss you
As it ends the third year.

—Dearly remembered by the family.

THOMSON—In loving remembrance of my husband, Arthur Galbraith, who passed away June 17, 1963.

Those whom we love go out of sight
But never out of mind.
For they are always cherished
By the ones who are left behind.
There's always a lonely heartache.
Some time a silent tear,
But there are always precious memories
Of the days when he was here.
Just dearly remembered by his wife, Alice.

KELLAR—Herbert Lonnie, cherished husband of Dorothy Kellar (Taylor), who passed away June 18, 1964.

I need to see his face once more,
A face I loved the best.
And think of him when the ache's sore
Deep down in the far-off west.
I miss you no less, as the time passes by,
Than I did on the day of your going.
For always can never close the door
And lock out memory.
The love I had of my love is still glowing
To you who left a father,
Cherish him with care.
For you'll never find another
Who could fill your dear heart's void.
Until you see his empty chair.
—Always remembered by daughter Earlene.

Biculturalism Group Plans Extensive Research Program To Run Into Fall of 1965

QUEBEC (CP) — Andre Laurendeau, co - chairman of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism said Wednesday that one political party cannot claim to speak for the province of Quebec.

He said the commission's stormy public meeting here Tuesday night was not revealing because a political party took control.

This was a reference to Le Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale, an organization which says it will contest the next provincial election on a separatist platform.

The noisy meeting was the last in a series of 23 held across the country in the last three months. Formal hearings — at which some 500 briefs will be presented—are to start in the fall.

Speaking at a press conference, Mr. Laurendeau said meetings are planned for Toronto and Montreal, but that the technique will be changed a bit because of the dense population in the two areas.

WILL MEET GROUPS

Instead of general meetings, the commission will meet with various educational and business groups, he said. The meetings would be open to the public, however.

He said that as a result of the country-wide preliminary meetings, the commission is convinced of the usefulness of this work.

Mr. Laurendeau and Davidson Dunton, the other co-chairman, also announced an extensive research program to run into the fall of 1965.

Some of the areas it will cover are:

—The extent of bilingualism in the federal civil service, Crown corporation and the armed forces;

—Policies of private companies and labor unions regarding bilingualism and biculturalism in the workplace and methods of mass media in radio, television, communications, between Canadians. The study will cover television, radio, newspapers and the Canadian Press news agency.

The commission has hired 45 full-time and part-time research workers and will hire more later this summer.

Three Charges Of Bribery Bring Six Years

TORONTO (CP)—Robert J. Wright, 39, a former provincial policeman, Wednesday was sentenced to six years for paying a fellow officer $1,000 for tip-offs on gambling raids. He was convicted Friday on three charges of bribery.

Wright remained expressionless when the sentence was pronounced by Mr. Justice G. C. Moorehouse, but his wife and mother burst into tears.

The sentence will run concurrently with the term of 18 months definite and six months indefinite he is already serving for conspiring to obtain information unlawfully from a police officer.

Rev. S. G. West of the Anglican Correction Institute, asked for leniency because, he said, Wright's family had "suffered beyond the average."

Accused Fined $100 for Leaving Scene of Crash

A Calgary truck driver today was fined $100 for leaving the scene of a Highway 401 accident that fatally injured a Belleville man.

Magistrate T.Y. Wills announced the penalty today after convicting 33-year-old Leonard Greal, who had twice traveled from Calgary for earlier court hearings that was given permission to absent himself.

He was charged after Donald Trumpour, 38, was found critically hurt near his parked gravel truck on the two - lane stretch on Highway 401 north of Marysville on April 10. Trumpour died two days later.

Greal had told the court he saw no one at the scene and continued to a service centre near Trenton where he was later taken in custody by police.

Costs Were Nearly Double Fine Assessed

Costs were nearly double the fine for a Stirling man convicted today of leaving the scene of an accident.

Magistrate T.Y. Wills fined Harvey Frank Haggerty $100 Court officials later said costs — including those of 14 witnesses called — amounted to $180.

Haggerty was charged after Clinton Gray, 53-year-old Marmora man, was killed beside Highway 14 in the Oak Hills March 22. Both legs were broken.

The magistrate noted Haggerty initially admitted his attack a hoax in the road. The magistrate added he was unable to accept that driver's contention "that he didn't know that he had struck something."

Pregnant Woman Ordered to Have Transfusion

TRENTON, N.J., (AP)—The New Jersey Supreme Court Wednesday ordered a pregnant woman to submit to blood transfusions even if it violates her religious beliefs as a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

The court issued the decision in a four hour after hearing argument over the touchy question of whether religious and personal beliefs permit a pregnant woman to choose death by hemorrhage rather than violate those beliefs.

The woman, Mrs. Willimina Anderson of Asbury Park, is almost four months pregnant. She went to hospital in Neptune, N.J. June 3.

Doctors said she was bleeding internally and that in 60 to 90 per cent of such cases, birth is accompanied by hemorrhage. Transfusions are the only way to prevent death for mother and child in such and eventuality, the doctors said.

W. Glenn How of Toronto, lawyer for Mrs. Anderson and himself a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses, told the court his religion would not hold it a mortal sin for the woman to receive blood transfusions if ordered by the court, but it would be considered as objectionable as a sexual attack.

Stripteasers May Be Put Out of Work

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Topless swimsuit for women made a small-scale debut in San Francisco this week. The reaction was immediate.

Clergymen labelled the latest low in high fashion as "nakedness" and "almost perversion."

The San Francisco police department wondered aloud what it would do when the first adventuresome lass shows up topless on a public beach.

The shop owner who introduced the half-a-bikini to San Francisco, Nasimo Sargis, said the first dozen suits were snapped up immediately, and another 14 were ordered for immediate delivery.

"Mostly to men," she said.

For their wives. Or at least that's what they said."

Held up by two narrow straps that cross in front and back, the suits were denounced by the clergy as an invitation to lust, a return to paganism, a corrupter of morals, and "not very nice."

"Just two straps closer to the moral decay in America," said Rev. Jacob Belling of Oakland's neighborhood church.

"It's probably designed to be provocative," added Rev. James Armstrong, minister of Lincoln Park Baptist Church, "and in their sense might pose a threat to the public morals. . . . But nudity apart from lustful purpose is not sinful."

What do the police say?

"A touchy, legal subject."

Said Assistant Chief Alfred Arnaud. "Nudity isn't illegal unless it's lewd. This'll be left to be settled when they show up on the beaches and I guess they will."

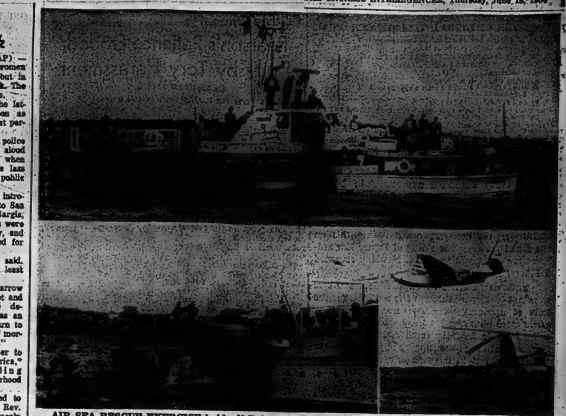
Captain Donald V. Kelly of the station responsible for policing the city beaches observed that "anything new on the line of the riot probably depends on how well she's endowed."

They'll be tabu at public pools, however, city officials said.

Gale Platt, Miss San Francisco of 1962 and now a dancer at a nightclub, came to the defence of the suits:

"I think it's a great idea—but I wouldn't have the nerve to do it."

From Hollywood came a dissent.



"These suits are terrible," said stripteaser Lili St. Cyr, president of the Exotic Dancers League of America. "They'll be the end. Saucers out of business. Who'd pay money to go to a theatre!"

Skirmishes Continuing In Cyprus

NICOSIA (AP) — Skirmishing flared today on the rocky northwest coast of Cyprus, though the United Nations reinforced patrols trying to stop it.

Greek- and Turkish - Cypriot villagers were reported battling each other with grenade throwers, automatic weapons and rifles. This was the fourth straight day of combat.

No casualties have been reported in the police, however, since a Greek constable was killed there Tuesday.

AIR SEA RESCUE EXERCISE held off Baker Island near Trenton yesterday involved two aircraft, the Canadian Coast Guard cutter "Spray" and the cruiser supposed to be in trouble. An Albatross amphibian aircraft located the cruiser, then the "Spray" moved in to remove passengers, (top photo). A supposedly injured passenger was removed from the cruiser by rubber raft to a CH 113 amphibious helicopter for transfer to hospital, (lower left). Helicopter and Albatross are shown lower right.

RCAF's New Helicopter Star Performer in Mission

TRENTON — A simulated Search and Rescue mission was held off Baker's Island in the Bay of Quinte yesterday with the RCAF's new CH 113 helicopter as star performer and a Canadian Coast Guard cutter, the Spray, taking part.

Newsmen from Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa were flown in to watch the practice mission from whatever vantage points they chose . . . a search Albatross aircraft, the Spray itself, a 40-rescue launch for "stills" photographers and a small craft for movie men.

The legend was that a cabin cruiser had got into trouble in the bay and one passenger was in need of medical attention or hospitalization.

The cruiser radioed in a distress signal and the Albatross was despatched to look for it. Once pin-pointed, the Spray converged on the scene and passengers were removed. When the CH 113 crew moved in, the big "bird" settling on the water, a motorized rubber life raft was sent to the cruiser to remove the injured man, and he was taken to the helicopter and so on to the hospital. All this was accomplished in record time.

Following the first demonstration, the other rescue capabilities of the CH 113 were demonstrated. A (empty) stretcher was taken aloft to the helicopter by means of a line lowered from the belly of the CH 113. The stretcher was empty because the CH 113 is still in the experimental stage.

The two-(jet)-engined helicopter, which has a 600 nautical mile range, cruises at 180 mph and "takes to water like a duck," and has special rotor blade de-icing and anti-icing features.

Resignation Is Accepted With Regret

TRENTON — The official resignation of Miss Anne Stewart, nurse-in-charge of the Trenton branch Victorian Order of Nurses was read at the Board meeting on Tuesday night, and accepted with regret.

Miss Stewart, who came to Trenton two years ago was offered a promotion to the Cornwall branch at a change-time two weeks ago. Her duties there will commence September 7. In the meantime Miss Stewart will take her vacation from July 13 to August 30. In the interval Mrs. Ouryet and Mrs. Larry will cover the services required.

The July report showed 182 visits, 75 nursing care, 21 visits in Frankford, one in Batawa and three in Sidney township; 22 babies cared for; two immunization and two chest clinics; daily trips to industry; 6 to Separate School.

Mr. Roy Morse and Harry Wickson of Frankford Council attended the meeting for the first time since Frankford has been serviced by the Trenton branch.

Members noted the new drapes on the office windows, the plastic covering on the tables and particularly the new summer uniform being worn by Miss Stewart.

The new design, authorized by the Victorian Order, is the first change in 15 years. The one-piece belted dress with tucked bodice, shawl collar, pleated back and short sleeves is in blue-grey pin-stripe dry dacron material.

The new uniform has a matching collar, the first departure in several years from the all-white collar. Two white tabs, snapped on under the collar, provide the contrast.

Another departure from tradition is the new perky beret which replaces the navy blue felt tricorne. The little hat is made of material matching the uniform.

With the return of cold weather the nurses will revert to the familiar winter outfit of navy blue, but will continue to wear the beret style hat, according to an Ottawa report.

A Question of Strategy

Six aspirants to the leadership of the Ontario Liberal Party addressed a meeting in Picton Monday evening.

The Picton correspondent of The Ontario Intelligencer observed that the speakers "were whistling past the graveyard," basing this on the fact that since the riding of Prince Edward-Lennox was formed in 1910 it has only returned a Liberal for one term.

This viewpoint is in error. The speakers were not just going through the motions, for the sake of appearances. The impressions they made were important. They were not endeavoring to get a Liberal elected in Prince Edward-Lennox, but to get the support of the Liberals in that riding, and in the ridings of Hastings East and Hastings West, in their campaigns for the leadership. The vote of a delegate from Prince Edward-Lennox is just as important as the vote of a delegate from a Liberal stronghold, such as Brant-or South Grey.

Perhaps this is the trouble. Perhaps what the Liberal Party in Ontario needs to do is to forget about the preferences of Liberals in ridings where the party has little or no chance and to select a leader who will appeal to the electorate in ridings where the election of a Liberal candidate is possible.

There is more to this suggestion than may appear at first sight. The truth seems to be that the Liberals' following has altered over the years.

It used to be largely rural—the last time the Conservatives were ousted from office in Ontario it was done by a coalition of the Liberals and the remnants of the UFO, campaigning under the label of Progressives.

Is this true any longer? Three of the six leadership candidates who spoke at Picton were from Toronto and two of these were members of the Legislature. The big cities, with their large vote, now appear to offer a more promising field than most of the rural ridings, as far as the Liberals are concerned. Then, too, the Liberals do well in Northern Ontario, which is not primarily an agricultural region.

The difficulty the Liberals face in planning their hopes for victory on the electorate in urban centres and in the mining country is that the New Democrats, under an experienced and able leader, drain away enough of the anti-government votes to make these ridings an uncertain fortress for Liberalism.

Why Not a Monopoly?

A conference at Kenora has urged the establishment of a federal economic development agency, to sponsor Indian business enterprises.

One of the agency's responsibilities would be to make "business feasibility studies," in other words to make certain that Indians did not waste their efforts in fields in which there was little prospect for success.

The needs, and the capabilities, of Indians vary widely. There is, however, one field in which they enjoy a natural advantage, their knowledge of hunting and fishing.

The granting of some special privileges to Indians, and Eskimos, in this field would not be amiss. It would provide a small slight recompense for the poor deal the original inhabitants of Canada have received in the past from the white man.

In all remaining wilderness areas, the right to cater to white hunters and fishermen could be reserved for Indians and Eskimos. In the years ahead this could become a profitable business and, properly supervised, would improve the economic lot of a considerable number.

Counts Himself Out

The New York Times says Henry Cabot Lodge is asking to be relieved as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam because of his health.

Lodge became the early front-runner in the race for the Republican presidential nomination, when he won the New Hampshire primary on write-in votes. Since then, his star had faded and he is now given no chance to be the choice at the Republican convention. While one may question whether it is not politics, more than health, which dictates his decision to return home at this time, it is evident that he has given up all hope of carrying the Republican banner. Good health is imperative for such a man, faced with an arduous campaign, with the hardest job in the world waiting as the reward for success.

Lodge appears to be joining a stop-Goldwater movement, gathering around Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton.

Ottawa Offbeat

Pearson's Patience Eroded Daily by Tory Harassment

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — If the Official Opposition can exacerbate Prime Minister Pearson into such an excess of temperament as to lose confidence in the public, that almost everybody now feels certain he must surely be planning, it will be, by no means, a one-man job.

The Opposition strategy is to harry him, to push the prime minister into the campaign ahead of schedule.

They believe firmly, and so even do a great many Liberals, that he has it time-tabled for late fall, or, just possibly, early spring.

If they can harry and harass him into going before he is ready, their prospects at the polls would be that much better.

The Conservatives long since have been reconciled to the political facts of life that the "Splinter" groups are not going to combine with them to defeat the Government in a voting of strength in the Commons.

So the only alternative — in forcing him to prematurely play his hand — is to make things so maddeningly difficult for him in Parliament as to make even an election look like a cool-out.

NOW IS THE TIME

The Opposition is solidly satisfied that the country is sour on the Administration, more so than dig, Quebec, Budget bungling, higher taxes, swollen Government costs and the rest of it despite deep defence cuts, waste, extravagance and free-handed fiscal spending.

The trick, then, is to drive the Administration to the country sooner than it wants to go.

Daily, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker is up, cutting and slashing at the Government and the Cabinet.

There is a quality of stubborn severity about him, a certain rock-hard one-mindedness, a deadly determination.

He will not be stopped — mainly because there is no one on the Government front bench who can be sure of doing it. They may hammer him back down into his seat, but he'll be back is up and fighting tomorrow, and they get hammered.

It is a very formidable warrior that he is, he couldn't do it alone.

He is getting help.

Mainly from five equally determined Opposition MPs.

Odd, isn't it, that out of a Commons membership of 96, there would be only five fevered, fighting partisans? Perhaps it is that most of the other 90 are serving and struggling in less spectacular ways.

The five: French - Canadian MPs, Jean-Noel Tremblay of Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm and former Mines Minister Paul Martineau of Pontiac-Temiscamingue, together with Erik Nielsen of the Yukon, Eugene Rheume of Restigouche-Madawaska and former Labor Minister Mike Starr.

Nielsen and Tejeone are the flaming partisans.

Never a day goes by that Pigeon isn't in the Commons to put the prime minister with outrageously out of order questions — so scurrilous as to be insulting to the prime minister's personality because of their obvious intent to irritate and upset.

"GOD NO GRIT"

Pigeon won't be stopped, either. By anyone. Not the prime minister, not even the Speaker.

He carries on regardless of rulings, chanting his political war-cry "Same old bunch — same old policies" and so forth, ing, with some success, to make a satiogal by-word for the Liberals.

Nielsen is just as tough a cookie.

As they do to Pigeon, the Liberal Backbenchers try, and fail, to his him into silence. His stands there, sharp - featured face impassive, head sort of bowing into the storm of boos and howls, waits for it to subside, then bores in.

If the sheer rate is up among the Liberals — and it must be if fury and frustration are any measure of it — Nielsen even more perhaps than Pigeon, is the man responsible.

Mike Starr, of late, for the agreeable, easy-going type of person he has always been, blows up in magnificent bursts of anger, excoriating the Liberals like an avenging angel.

His attacks on the Party can be such that the Government benches often sit stunned.

Paul Martineau is the Opposition torpedo man. He specialises in the explosive question. They are fairly, politically prickly, difficult, sometimes even dangerous to answer.

A French - Canadian, like Pigeon, he gnaws at the English-speaking members of the Cabinet in "the other language," which doesn't make it any easier for them.

But Rheaume is the specialist with the rapier. He, of them all, is the most likely to come up with the catch-word or put phrase that will do the Government real damage.

His theme is the "arrogance" of the Administration and he peppers Hansard with the word.

He put it at his neatest the other day when, scornfully, he addressed himself to the Government:

"Come off it," he said acidly, "quit pretending that God is some kind of a Grit."

Strictly Personal

Man Is the Greatest Imitator

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Hardly anything that man has created or invented in the world is greater than the concept of law; yet hardly anything else is so thwarted and corrupted in practice than this beautiful abstraction. We encounter the chief danger being that when the practice is so abused, the principle becomes rejected and despised in the eyes of most men.

Everything difficult can be made simple and comprehensible, if we are willing to reduce it to the lowest level — which means sacrificing those very elements which constitute its existence and meaning.

Those amateur philosophers who are fond of making statements like, "Well, altruism is just a form of egotism," or "Love it makes us feel good to do things for others," might consider the obvious fact that both coal and diamonds are composed principally of carbon. And who would call diamonds "just a form of coal"?

Some people may not be "apathetic," as they are so often accused of being; they may merely agree with Lord Halifax, when he said: "Even the best party is but a kind of conspiracy against the rest of the nation."

Innocence answers shortly; guilt explains; and when one 40 percent person explains lengthily, we may be sure he feels guilty about something else.

Some men turn to the classics to escape their contemporaries; others turn to contemporaries to escape the prime minister's quasi-majesty because of their obvious inability to control and upset.

"GOD NO GRIT"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 18th, 1944

After a period of over 70 years, Madoc's oldest grocery and butcher business closed its doors on Saturday. In the year 1871 James Whytock started a butcher and grocery business which has been carried on continuously ever since. After the death of Mr. James Whytock, Sr., the business was carried on by his three sons, James Charles and Walter, and lately by Walter Whytock and his son Norman. The business will open under a new management by Messrs. Kelvin and Jack Kincaid. Mr. Norman Whytock will carry on the flour and feed business and his father Walter Whytock.

Four large white birds reported to have landed on the St. Lawrence River near Kingston breakwater, put local naturalists on the qui vive today. The birds were identified as rare snow geese en route from the south to the Arctic. The birds distinguished by D. Herity, Frank Cushing, H. B. Fetterley, and A. A. Sells, secretary - administrator.

30 YEARS AGO

June 18th, 1934

The Belleville Centennial and United Empire Loyalist Celebration was officially opened this morning shortly after ten o'clock by His Worship Mayor Thomas Stewart of Toronto. Mayor Geo. O. Tice, accompanied by members of the city council, Dr. Carlaw Jordan, Warden of the County of Hastings, members of the Hastings County Council, Mr. H. Irving, and city and county officials, representatives of social organizations, fraternal societies, the schools and churches were present.

Magistrate W. C. Mikel who is president of the Celebration Association in charge of the Centennial made a brief address and welcomed all who had turned out to participate in the event. Mr. Mikel explained that the celebration is for the express purpose of honoring the completion of a century of progress in this city which commenced as a village in 1834 and now in this year 1934 is a fine city. The event is also to do honor to the hardy pioneers from today as United Empire Loyalists, who 150 years ago this month came to the Bay of Quinte district, settled on the easterly end and gradually spread along the shores until about the year 1789 a number of families reached the mouth of the Moira River.

Mayor Stewart gave an interesting and informative address and was given a great ovation. Following the "addresses Mayor Tice called Mayor Stewart and Commissioner Laver to the centre of the steps and in a brief ceremony presented them with Centennial medals. The principal address of the morning was made by Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., the president of the Celebration Association. It was a fine day, dress and gave much interesting information about this district and the city. In the next few days to whom we owe so much for the development of the district.

40 YEARS AGO

June 18th, 1924

Two hundred people left Belleville this morning on the steamer Brockville to visit Adolphustown and see the places of interest relating to the Loyalists. More than three hundred other people arrived at the village by motor car. The old Methodist Church, the U.E.L. burying grounds and the landing place of the Loyalists were visited. At the latter place there used to be a creek which has now disappeared, being entirely dried up. Speeches were made by Mayor W. C. Mikel of Belleville, ex-mayor Newman of Picton, Mayor McGregor of Napanee; Charles Hambly, M.P.P Napanee W. C. Black, M.P.P. J. Sexsmith, MP, Bath; W. S. Herrington, K.C., Napanee; Rev. E. H. Patton, Napanee; and Warden Milling of Lennox and Addington County. The 140th anniversary of the U.E. Loyalists is proving to be a successful and enjoyable one.

Mr. J. Percival Harte of this city, has passed the first year examinations in law at Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO

June 18th, 1914

At a meeting of the Liberal Association of West Hastings, which was held here yesterday afternoon, the following officers were elected: Hon. president, Sir James Whitney, Belleville; president, F. E. O'Flynn, Belleville; vice presidents, Dr. M. J. Ferguson, Trenton. Dr. J. W Simmons ,Sidney township, and Dr. E. O. Platt, Belleville; secretary, John Carr, Belleville; treasurer, E J. Butler, Belleville; executive committee, O. D. Herity W. S. Smith and Dr. J. M Wilson, Belleville, E. T. Marsh, A. Ireland and O. P. Fortune, Trenton, W. E. Vanderwaker, W. Windover and M. Bird, Sidney township; auditors Joseph Templeton and G. A. Ketchesson, Belleville. It was decided that the temperance electors of both parties in the west riding have nominated D. V. Sinclair of Belleville as their candidate in the election on June 29th, not to put a third candidate in the field and the meeting endorsed Mr. Sinclair and the temperance movement to banish the bar.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

June 18, 1864 . . .

The War of 1812 began 152 years ago today when the U.S declared war on Britain. One of the major causes of the war was the system of blockades imposed by Britain in an attempt to cut off essential French supplies by sea. During the first of the three distinct phases of the war, when Britain was heavily engaged in Europe, the Americans were free to undertake invasions of Canada. The handful of British regulars, supported by Canadian militia and Indian allies, defeated the invaders.

1815—The Battle of Waterloo was fought.

1923—Amelia Earhart became the first woman to fly the Atlantic.

1964 Girls Are Glorious

New York Times

The new 1964 girls are on display now and they are glorious. They seem to move with more supple guile than last spring's models. Necklines are lower, and that distracting wobble caused by last year's thinly padded bra has been largely eliminated.

There are other improvements. The enhumed look — white lipstick, sabre hair, flour-tomed face powder — has been dropped. The centre of gravity is lower to the ground, as it should be, thanks to the decline of the haystack hair pile.

The haystack was always a mistake for most girls, especially when mounted on spike heels. It made them look top-heavy, as though they might topple back haystack first.

The metallic glazes used to support the haystack made the poor girls look like something out of Dr. F. F. Frankenstein's lab.and what's more, it also smelled bad.

Statisticians insist that the new 1964 girl is largely illusion. They claim that most of the 1964 girls are similar to the 42 or 1963 models that have been redesigned over the winter. What are you gullible!

Everyone who understands anything at all about Mary Quant knows that the girls of last summer have been wintering in Chrysalis of girdling and overcoat and silently changing. With the first May sunshine they emerge in new shapes, with new eyes and smiles that they have practised secretly all winter.

One striking aspect of this perennial change is the steady improvement in the average appearance since the nadir of the "new look" in the late 1940s. To see a really ridiculous-looking woman nowadays, you have to go to a supermarket.

There the truth — that the average woman is slacks or pedal - pushers looks like a stack of watermelons — dies but slowly. When she goes to work or out to party, however, she is no laughing matter.

The American male, by contrast has become a strikingly attractive looking for the past 15 years, and why the American woman doesn't start copying so is one of the lesser mysteries For years she has put up with men's joking about hats, hairdo's and hemlines and accepting the tired myth, that men's fashions never change.

In fact, the most casual glance around town shows that men are dabbling in fashion with reckless abandon.

The subtlest haustrau in slacks at the supermarket is no more than a variation of the typical suburban male pushing her grocery cart, his pot barley contained in shorts.

His hair will be clipped down to the pate, Sing Sing style, or it will billow majestically over the ears and down the cervical vertebrae. If Tony Curtis wears it that way, so does his leading ladies, be asks himself, why shouldn't the housebound?

Did Not Ask Mrs. Pearson

Vancouver Province

It is perfectly obvious that Prime Minister Pearson didn't consult Mrs. Pearson, or any other woman, before appointing, about the new national flag he seeks to foist on the country.

This white and red three-skinny red maple leaves in the centre and blue bars on each side, is destined to go to French head-launderings.

What it would look like after the first fluttering in a white in the soot of Montreal, Quebec or Toronto can only be imagined. It is to be hoped that somewhere what happens to her white curtains in a city.

The flag would not long remain white. Our country would be symbolized by a tattle-tale grey banner that resembled a slightly ornamented tea towel more than anything else.

Political, historic and heraldic considerations aside, this flag would be welcomed by the laundry industry.

Montreal Doctor Heads Cardiology Group, Delegates Hear About Space Effects

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP) — A Canadian doctor shared the spotlight with space topics as some 1,500 heart specialists from all over the Western Hemisphere discussed new ideas and perennial heart problems Wednesday.

Dr. David Paul of Montreal was elected president of the Inter-American Society of Cardiology for the next four years. He is the first Canadian to fill the post.

The congress sponsored by the society and ending Friday received a space briefing from four doctors connected with the United States programs for piloting manned labs and orbits and beyond.

The doctors, including a Canadian - born specialist, traced some of the effects on heart functioning of high acceleration and inactivity in space flights.

They said recent research indicated the dizziness experienced by U.S. astronaut Gordon Cooper after his earth orbits last year could have resulted from acceleration, inactivity and dehydration as well as from weightlessness in space.

Up to now, weightlessness has been thought the major if not the sole cause of the dizziness.

COMPARES REACTION

Dr. D. Owens Coons, native of Hamilton, said the sensation resembled the feeling earth-bound people experience after getting up from a long period in bed.

Dr. Coons, now attached to the manned spacecraft centre in Houston, Tex., traced the bodily source of the dizziness to the "inability of the cardiovascular system to make provisions for retaining consciousness."

Somewhat less complex-sounding was the idea expressed by Dr. Lawrence Lamb for a possible means of providing spacemen with exercise in their capsules.

He said a stationary bicycle might come in handy for this purpose, although "we're not sure just what sort of exercise is required for the astronaut."

Dr. Lamb, who teaches internal medicine at the Brooks U.S. Air Force Base in Texas, said the study of inactivity among "spam - cocooned astronauts might be of use to people in general, whose resistance to heart diseases is sapped by lack of physical exercise.

Another of the U.S. space investigators, Dr. Kent Steward Wood, said flights made directly from the earth to the moon and beyond could have effects on the hearts and lungs of astronauts which have not been experienced in space journeys so far.

Greek Sailor Released From Don Jail

TORONTO (CP) — Dimitrios Bulgaris, 31, a Greek sailor who entered Canada illegally by deserting his ship, was released from Don Jail Wednesday on $300 cash bail after more than a month in confinement.

He was serving a two-month sentence for a conviction of illegal entry, which is being appealed.

Five other Greek sailors were freed from jail Saturday after serving one-month sentences for illegal entry.

The department of immigration and citizenship is allowing Bulgaris and the five sailors released Saturday to remain in Canada while the department examines their cases.

Bulgaris said in an interview he thought about four or five Greek ship deserters are still in the Don Jail.

Union

resolution would also breeze through the Commons when it arose. It was generally assumed that most of the Conservative members who are fighting on behalf of the Red Ensign would automatically stand for the Union Jack.

Not so, says one of the backbenchers. "The Union Jack is not a Canadian flag, and we don't want it as such. And what we're really opposed to is two flags. We've been clear on this."

HARD TO PLAN STRATEGY

But he said there would be difficulty in planning strategy because a vote against the Union Jack could be easily misunderstood in home constituencies.

"We haven't got that problem," said a Quebec member of the party. The Quebec members of the party will probably all vote for the new flag and against the Union Jack."

Quebec members of other Opposition parties are also expected to be against the second resolution although most Liberals will likely support the Union Jack.

There has been some speculation that the Conservatives will propose an amendment seeking recognition of the Red Ensign—instead of the Union Jack—as a symbol of Commonwealth membership. But this, said an MP, would run counter to the party's argument against two flags for Canada.

An Opposition member said any action on the Union Jack will depend to a large degree on how well members can make their positions known to their constituents. "You can's expect a member from the Prairies to stand up, and vote against the Union Jack unless the folks back home know exactly why he is doing it."

Some observers say the results of Monday's byelections in Saskatoon and Nipissing could also have a strong bearing on party strategy in the flag debate.

Dolan the Druggist Store Is Completely Refurnished, In Business for 45 Years

The half-century mark as a practising pharmacist is being observed this week by "Terry" R. Dolan, one of the city's oldest still active druggists, and to mark the occasion the premises of Dolan the Druggist at 266 Front Street has been completely refurbished.

Complete new shelving featuring departmentalized displays with valanced lighting, a new store front and the latest in drug store appointments have been installed.

The open type dispensary includes "drug-a-door" cabinets for ready accessibility of drug requirements. All biologicals are kept under refrigeration.

While "Terry" Dolan has been a druggist for half a century, the store itself has been in existence about 85 years.

BOUGHT IN 1918

Back in 1918 Mr. Dolan and his brother Charles purchased the drug business of the late Charles Clarke and ten years later — in 1930 — moved to the Bowbridge Jewellery Store site at the present location.

The store now has three pharmacists, Mr. Dolan, Cleo B. Colling and Archie E. Boyd, all graduates of the University of Toronto College of Pharmacy.

The store prescription business is the largest phase of operations with thousands of prescriptions on file.

Another important phase of operations is the store's cosmetics department staffed by two experienced cosmeticians, Agnes Healey and Eileen Devlin. Hilda Mathews has been the store office clerk for many years. Ernie Hunter is in charge of the motorized delivery with three deliveries daily to all parts of the city.

INCREASED SPACE

The modern cosmetics bar features lipstick trays, offering each well known brands as Du-Barry, Max Factor and Yardley.

The store has new greeting card racks with centre display shelves vastly increasing the store shelving space.

For many years Dolan's have been Belleville headquarters for Lenra Record candles, the local store being the first service outlet opened by the well known candy firm. Special open displays for candles are featured.

As result of the recent renovations, the store of Dolan the Druggist is brighter and modern in every respect.

But it also means a lot of work for the store personnel.

More than 25,000 different items had to be moved when the new shelving and display counters went in.

Canadian Beef Sales to Britain Will Not Benefit

OTTAWA (CP) — Doubt is being expressed here that Canadian beef sales to Britain are likely to benefit from the current beef shortage in that country. In fact, Canada is continuing to import from the United States.

This view was taken after Trade Minister Sharp said in the Commons Monday that Canadian authorities are keeping an eye on the British market possibilities.

Most experts, who blame the British shortage on various unrelated factors including Russian mishandling of its livestock industry, says that it costs too much to produce fat cattle in Canada's climate.

That's much more economically done in the United States and many believe Canada's role should be to supply the U.S. with feeding-class animals that can be fattened across the border.

Whatever the Ottawa meeting is held, it is unlikely any decisions will be taken on actual formation of a force or the command structure for it. The talks would be only a first step in this direction and the whole process, if successful, might take years.

50 YEARS in Pharmacy...

TERRY DOLAN 1914-64

Golden Anniversary 1914 - 1964

Many milestones from pestle and mortar to pushbutton pill production, mark a half century in the drug business.

Terry Dolan, dean of city pharmacists, recalled interesting memories of the days when he was a "boy druggist".

Mr. Dolan who graduated with honors from the Ontario College of Pharmacy, June 5th, 1914 marked his fifth decade in the business recently.

He comes from a well-known Bellevilla family long associated with the drug business in familiar Front Street locations.

A son of Mr. Frank Dolan, cement contractor, and Mrs. Dolan, "Terry" was born in Belleville in 1889 and graduated with his senior matriculation from St. Michael's College in 1904.

He became associated with J. S. McEcown, a Front Street druggist and never lost his love for the business.

He attended the Ontario College of Pharmacy and following graduation worked for a Toronto drug store owner.

He saw service in World War One with a company of the Canadian Army Dental Corps.

Now a familiar Front Street landmark, the Dolan Drug Store came into being in 1919 when Terry and brother Charlie associated themselves in a business now occupied by the Agnew-Surpass store. In 1929 they moved to their present location.

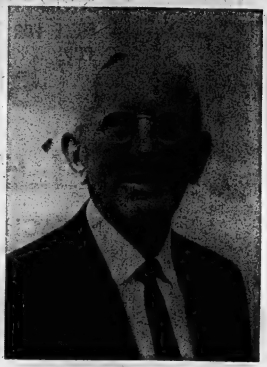
Mr. Charles Dolan passed away in 1945 and Mr. Cleo Colling another well-known city druggist, joined the Dolan staff. Five years later he entered into a partnership. Two years ago another staff member, Mr. Archie Boyd entered the partnership combining the three graduate-pharmacists as Dolan The Druggist.

Time has been kind to Terry Dolan. Interviewed by the writer in his John Street N. home, he gave ample evidence that a fine personality, friendly charm and gentlemanly manner have not been affected by the passing years.

He drew from a host of memories recalling events of a half-century with vivid clarity of mind.

"Belleville was strictly a 'farmers' town" he said, "and we sold lots of things necessary to them. We had paints and oils and similar items but we never served snacks or lunches.

"Charlie and I never liked the soda fountain or restaurant business. In those days we were too busy with mortar and pestle".



Saturday was farmers' day in the city and druggists of the early years were kept busy compounding prescriptions from formulas handed down by farmer forefathers, Mr. Dolan said.

"We provided a lot of veterinary supplies, condition powders, ointments and things like that" he said.

"But those things have disappeared. In these modern "days everything comes prepared. New drugs have made their appearance and a lot of old-fashioned diseases have disappeared with their coming.

"For instance, one seldom hears of a case of what we used to call diptheria."

Older druggists have noted a remarkable advance in medical science and research. Mr Dolan said. These have resulted in many things beneficial to mankind. In fact there is little in comparison between the old fashioned compounded by hand drugs and those of the modern mass production type.

TERRY DOLAN

"True" he admitted, "they are more expensive but their additional beneficial results offset the greater cost".

Mr. and Mrs. Dolan reside in their well-appointed 251 John Street N. home. They have travelled extensively and both are sports enthusiasts. Mrs. Dolan is the former Kay Diamond. There are no children.

Mr. Dolan has seen wars, events, men and kings come and go but still thinks the world is a pretty good place. Many friends, especially those in the medical profession and drug business join in wishing him congratulations on achieving "Fifty Years in Pharmacy".

Says Canadians Capable of Own Planning

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A Toronto firm specializing in co-ordinating and implementing centennial projects told Peterborough county council Wednesday that Canadians are capable of planning how to celebrate the nation's centennial.

"We have heard that certain communities along the border have hired United States firms to advise them on how to celebrate our centennial," said Mervin Kaye of Centennial Celebration Consultants Limited.

"We rather resented this because we believe Canadians are perfectly well-equipped with imagination, business acumen, and the sense of history to do the job themselves," he told the council.

Toronto radio man Jack Dennett, who is also a member of the firm which includes columnist Pierre Berton and former Ontario cabinet minister Robert Macaulay, said every municipality seems to be lagging and some are not even getting their projects off the ground.

Mr. Dennett said the provincial government's deadline of Aug. 1 will probably have to be extended because only 10 per cent of Ontario municipalities have applied for approval of their centennial projects.

Will

bed as representing Canada back to pre-Confederation days, arguing that if flags don't retain some traditional link such as this with the past Canada might as well take the republican course of breaking with tradition.

"I personally hope this doesn't happen," he said.

He said to those who say the design is a concession to the French: "The French . . . are part of Canada—part of our family. . . .

"In a family, every member is loved . . . and the interests and anxieties of each are important. The distress of one . . . is the distress of all.

"I do not think it is a concession to do what is just and what is kind. It is only by caring for one another and being joined together and firmly rooted in this rich Canadian soil that our maple leaf family can survive."

Mr. Coates, concluding a speech interrupted by Tuesday night's adjournment, saw "shame in the action that has been taken by this government in autocratically and dictatorially forcing a personal pennant, a flag that is meaningless, on the Canadian public."

The Red Ensign was Canadian by adoption, tradition and assimilation. It contained the Union Jack, the maple leaf and the fleur-de-lis.

No one wanted to remove the fleur-de-lis. No Canadian rejected a compromise or "is willing to put this Red Ensign to a test in a national plebiscite."

Mr. Weichel said it is far from certain that a parliamentary flag vote would accurately reflect the feelings of Canadians. But a plebiscite would permit every Canadian to state his personal view.

QUESTIONS CAMPAIGN

He asked whether the campaign to replace the Red Ensign stems "from citizens loyal to Canada and the Crown or from subversive forces who desire to dismember the British Commonwealth and break every link that binds together all the units of our great Commonwealth of free and equal nations."

When the Red Ensign is examined dispassionately, without prejudice or unreasoned emotion it can be seen that every desire of our multiple religious, racial and cultural background is answered."

Mr. Weichel said the Royal Canadian Legion was entirely criticized for backing the Red Ensign. It had the same right as any citizen or organization to express an opinion. It wasn't playing politics or trying to dictate to the government.

Working With Families of Alcoholics

(Last of four articles)

By E. MARGARET COKE

After much experimentation with differently composed groups, she (which I shall describe had been meeting weekly for a period of five months. It was a group of eight or nine women who were men with varying economic and social backgrounds but with a fairly consistent educational and intellectual level. No attempt was made to select those with a similar presenting problem or those who were at any particular stage in their own adjustment to their husband's illness. Effort was made, however, to select out those who were primarily absorbed in problem solving and those who showed symptoms of considerable pathology and whose hostility might be too great for the group to accept or handle.

In their initial contact the wives presented many similar but general characteristics. They all came to the clinic under pressure of trouble or impending crisis. While all were absorbed with their own psychic hurt and frustration with the boomerang quality of their own efforts to solve the problem, they had tended to seek help in terms of advice or practical solutions; they admitted having certain qualities to which their husbands reacted adversely, such as nagging, belittling, reasoning, threatening, but they projected the blame for these onto their husbands' drinking. Most were able to give intellectual acceptance to the concept of alcoholism as an illness but none showed awareness of, or concern for their spouses' suffering. All had reached a point where they felt tied to a situation which they could not leave because of the children, finances, investment in a house, or a great sense of personal failure and fear which there seemed only one solution, namely, that we should tell the alcoholic what he must do.

GAIN

SELF-UNDERSTANDING

Contrary to the expectations of the group members, the goal was not to give advice but rather to help these women to gain self-understanding and ability to function more adequately as wives and mothers. The case worker, as leader in the group, brought to it the same warmth, understanding, tolerance and acceptance that she would bring to an individual relationship. The degree to which she was able to help a member of the group with an individual problem was limited by the needs or by threat to the other group members, but this was augmented by the support, the protection, the interpretation and the freeing from inhibitions which the members gave to one another.

As in any relationship the case worker used herself within the group in a variety of ways. She stimulated and challenged the members to talk about their own experiences and feelings and to evaluate and criticize their own and one another's point of view. She tried to keep the group and individual members focused on their own feelings and reactions to alcoholism as well as on other family members rather than on any outward aspect of the problem. She usually refrained from participation until the members reacted to the material being presented, though she had to be constantly aware of the trend of the discussion, of the degree of tension or hostility being dissipated, the amount each member could take or give and be ready to put limits, to dilute or to divert.

The leader encouraged the group members to interpret and do so herself on occasions, but she had to have understanding of the appropriateness, the timing and the readiness of each member. The "transference" between group members and the leader was much less intense as it was displaced by transference relationships between various members. Thus, there was considerable evidence of sibling rivalry and other manifestations of the transference phenomena, but this was not interpreted by the leader, though frequently members recognized what was happening and this material was used for discussion. In general, any material presented was used primarily to help members gain insight into current relationships and reactions.

FUTILE EFFORTS

As indicated earlier, each member's initial request was for advice and information rather than for self-understanding or help in functioning more adequately. Only after the leader was unable to refrain from giving advice and as some of the other needs of the members were met were they able to give up their original goal and begin to accept a new one. The first few sessions began to meet these needs as they talked of their own suffering and their futile efforts to control their husbands' drinking. With little or no direction from, and with few limits imposed by the leader, these early sessions provided for a quick release of tensions, a lessening of the feeling of isolation and a beginning sense of identification with one another. Gradually with the leader's consistent interest and acceptance they began to lose some of their fears and defences and began to discuss themselves instead of their alcoholic partner.

With the leader's support and that of individual members, each began to absorb a more thoughtfully and to test out her feelings and attitudes; to listen in a different way and to talk with more confidence, her approval or disapproval of material presented; to feel that it was safe to express hostile feelings; to criticize the "transference" between group members" behaviour. Slowly a philosophy of "give and take" began to replace the usual one of "getting." While for some, this was only a matter of expediency, for others it went deeper but for all it began to bring results and satisfactions as they put it into practice at home. As the weeks went on, some began to gain insight into themselves and those patterns of behaviour which affected their relationships outside the group; others font between try out new and different ways of using themselves. The individual experiences and satisfactions provided incentive to grow and were, as well, a constant source of stimulation to other members. The relationship with the leader, the relationship of member with member and of individual with group, all provided an ever shifting yet constant source of challenge and support.

Just as in individual case work, each member of the group responded and reacted in a different way at a different pace. The material brought out was used by the leader in several ways — as a cue to the progress which might best enable a particular member to gain greater self-awareness and understanding, as a means of stimulating group inter-action and lastly, on rare occasions, to briefly elaborate on alcoholism or on such basic concepts as dependency, rejection, hostility, etc.

Serve Egg Plant European Style

by Mary Moore

In the grocery stores that I at and nobly inspect I often see and buy shiny purple eggplants of prices that compare well with the commoner vegetables.

Today's column is for eggplant enthusiasts. In the past four years I have given here four eggplant recipes: soufflé, puffs, Parmigiana and crumbed casserole. Now I am going to add Eggplant Sicilian to our repertory. This was served at the Glenayre Arts Council Christ Gourmet Pavilion in Brantford early in May, but until I made it myself I did not remember this dish.

Then add the tomatoes, capers, sugar, vinegar, salt and pepper. Reduce heat and simmer 15 or 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender and flavors are blended.

I would recommend that you serve this hot with lamb chops or roast lamb or chicken, but try to have some leftover. Chill it and serve it as an accompaniment to cold sliced lamb or beef or chicken.

Note:—This eggplant dish should be served in a pastel-colored or pure white bowl with gold edge.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY
(Neighberly Guests)

Glazed Cottage Roll; Mustard Sauce; Asparagus; Creamed Sliced Carrots; Fresh Strawberries and Cream; Home-made Doughnuts (see Wednesday); Tea.

SUNDAY
(Guests)

Chilled Pineapple Juice; Roast Leg of Lamb; Fresh Mint Sauce; Pan Roasted New Potatoes; Eggplant Sicilian (see Thursday); Open Face Fresh Strawberry Pie with Clear Red Glaze; Coffee.

It has two good uses: It may be made and served hot and any leftover may be served ice cold as a relish with meat (especially lamb) or fowl. Or it may be made to serve cold with a summer buffet. It is full of flavor and eggplant lovers will be glad to have this method.

EGGPLANT SICILIAN
(Courtesy Glenayre Arts Council—serves 5 or 6)

1 medium-large eggplant, ¾ cup finely shopped celery, 1 medium onion, chopped (or ¼ Spanish onion), ¼ cup salad oil, 1¼ cups canned tomatoes (thick pack); 2 tablespoons drained capers, 2 tablespoons shaved or chopped filbert or pine nuts (or almonds), 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Wash eggplant and cut it into 1" slices. Pare these then chop slices into 1" (approximate) cubes. In a large frying pan heat the oil and in it saute the eggplant, celery and onion until limp, stirring almost constantly until vegetables begin to brown a little.

Student Will Represent Canada Youth

FRAMEFORD — Miss Elinor Beach, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Beach, who has completed her second year at Queen's University, Kingston, has been chosen to represent Canada youth during the summer months in Uganda, East Africa.

Elanor left on June 15th by train to attend lectures at Rutiger's University, New Brunswick, New Jersey, just outside New York City. She will leave by air for Uganda, East Africa, with "Operation Crossroads Africa," where she will spend the summer months along with American and African university students to erect a youth centre in Uganda for goodwill purposes.

WEDDING

GOLDEN — WOLFE

A pretty wedding was solemnized in Holy Rosary Church, Belleville, recently, when Diane Levina Wolfe, eldest daughter of Mrs. Ray Maxwell, Belleville, was united in marriage to Vincent Joseph Golden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Golden, Canniton. Father Rufus Deboco officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, wore a full length bridal gown of white silk organza. Highlighted with a bodice featuring floral patterns Chantilly lace with the bateau neckline outlined with delicate embroidery dotted with tiny pearl beads. The bouffant skirt was enhanced with an insert of lace panel at front. Her bouffant veil flowed from a floral headpiece and she carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses with trailing ivy.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Bruce Whiteman of Belleville, who wore a street length gown of pink lace over taffeta with cap sleeves and matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of white 'mums centred with red roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Shirley Neal of Belleville, and Miss Theresa Levecque of Kingston, who were attired in street length dresses, one in blue taffeta with matching headdress and one in green taffeta with matching headdress. Each carried a bouquet of white 'mums centred with red roses.

Mr. John Lajois of Garson, best man for the groom, was best man, while David Wolfe, brother of the bride and James Golden, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The reception was held in Melrose hall where lunch was served to about 200 guests. The bride's table was prettily decorated and centred with traditional wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and bridegroom. White candles with crystal candelabra, and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a navy suit with white hat and accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore pink taffeta dress with matching accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a blue lace over taffeta dress with pink hat and accessories, and a corsage of white 'mums.

Guests were present from Toronto, Garson, Hamilton, Kingston, Oshawa and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Golden are residing at 308 Pacific Avenue, Oshawa.

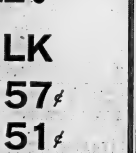
THE PLACE OF COLOR IN FASHION

Changes in fashion are always accompanied by changes in color. The acceptance of color by the public varies from year to year in home furnishings, architecture and ready-to-wear. Much has been written of the Mauve Decade and the era of the brown stone house, as these colors suited the mood of their times. More and more, we are becoming aware of the importance of color in every phase of our lives. We know that rain coats for children in bright yellow are part of public safety campaigns. Because this special color glows even under grey skies. We know of the effect of hospital rooms on the morale and recovery rate of mentally ill patients when the former are furnished in pleasant colors.

The colors sold during periods of economic depression are dull and sombre while prosperity brings with it a demand for those that are gay and bright. It is interesting to note that, immediately following the assassination of President Kennedy, retail stores reported a great demand for black dresses. This is completely contrary to the fashion calendar which shows that bright gay colors are asked for in late November and early December.



FIGHT FATIGUE

It has been found that color can be used as a weapon to fight fatigue in industry as production soars when factory walls are painted in pleasant tones. Gay, bright effects can be used to stimulate sales. Colored motion pictures have helped to launch many fashions. An excellent example of this pioneering is Pillow Talk starring Doris Day. She wore a red coat and a black fur hat in one short scene of this comedy, but that one short scene was enough to spearhead a run of coats in that shade of red, as well as a demand for black fur hats. The living room of her apartment in Pillow Talk was furnished in deep blue with touches of bright green. Before long, room samples featuring these two shades were seen in all places where home furnishings are sold.

It is doubtful if color would play such a dominant part in fashion were it not for the development of fabrics made from man-made fibres. As so many of these new chemical miracles are completely washable, the trend to pale light shades in fashions and in home furnishings can be promoted on this feature of washability only. Rugs and carpets made of fibres born in the chemical laboratories will also keep clean for outstanding if long periods. When they must be washed or dry cleaned, they do so with little effort.

This is no time to be afraid of using color, either in home decorating or in clothes.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers in care of this paper.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Humility, the sister of charity, begins at home.

It was said of St. Francis of Assisi that, whenever he felt that he was becoming too proud of himself, he arranged for a fellow monk to sit down next to him and tell him his faults. Perhaps, had St. Francis been married, he would have got that service at home.

JANGLED NERVES

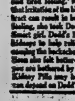
But what happens in many homes, today? Our more pious ancestors were wont to begin and end each day at home, with prayer and devotion. How do we start and conclude our day? With newscasts before breakfast and late-late T.V. shows before bed. With what net results? With nerves jangled, souls harassed and minds disquieted by stories of real or fictitious violence. All of which serve to deny us a sense of gratitude for the gift of each living day. And without gratitude, no humility — and no amount of public religion, or "teaching about religion," can fill the basic void in our spirit.

One often hears eloquent pleas for the public preservation of spiritual values, by the earnest defenders of religion. In their sincere efforts to enlarge the influence of religion in a society hell-bent for secularism, they may, however, be guilty of a fundamental oversight. They are so intent upon winning a war for God's sake, that they forget where the battle must be waged. In their supreme effort to overcome the indifferentism and the spiritual insensitivity of society at large, they neglect to build up "the home guard." But no victory in general can cover up their failure in particular. Public religion cannot strengthen private religion, if there's no private religion to begin with.

SCAPEGOATS

It is often a mark of unsuccessful parenthood when fathers and mothers blame a series of proxies for their own errors and omissions. Teachers and schools head a long list of scapegoats upon whom parents glibly vent their own frustrations and inadequacies. If Johnny can't read, his school is easily at fault, and if he's unsocial, anti-social or downright belligerent, his teachers are merely to blame. And so, too, if he's not particularly religious minded, this is often said to be so because the public school is "too secular."

But is this easy way out an intelligent answer to complicated problems? If parents palm off what is most crucially their own responsibility, their hasty criticism of others cannot stand up to the tests of reason.



WELL-INTENTIONED

Granted that society establishes certain institutions which are intended to help parents do their job — and granted, too, that schools are pre-eminently such institutions. But when well-intentioned religionists imagine that schools can supplant parents and that by their "teaching about religion" children will become stalwart spiritualists they have erred big! There are no proxies for parents-in-one-home in things inspirational. A parent who never prays, who is never seen in the private posture of devotion, cannot expect the parent of another to do his bidding. Religion, it has been pithily said, cannot be taught if it has not first been caught!

PASSING BUCK

What really ails us is that we are grasping at straws in attempting to pass the buck, frankly, those who are most opposed to socialized enterprise, and insist on private initiative, are often without private initiative in the realm of religion. But socalized religion will not atone for the absence of private spiritual endeavours.

Humility, hope, faith and charity begin at home — else you'll find them nowhere.

B. P. Women Discuss Plans

The last meeting of the season for the Business and Professional Women's club of Belleville took the form of a potluck supper held at the home of President Mrs. Marie Huffman on June 15. As the weather was cool some of the members ate in the house and some outside on the patio. A delicious variety of food was served.

At the business meeting afterwards it was announced that the regional conference, would be held in Kingston, Sept. 19th, and it was hoped that a bus load of members would attend.

An international conference in Windsor will be held in the fall between American and Canadian members of the Business and Professional Women's clubs.

Mrs. Jane McCabe, chairman of the Ways and Means committee for raising money for club commitments led a discussion on this subject. Plans for a 'gaorama' to be managed by club members at Meades service station in September were made.

Ann Landers

Beautician Wife Dying To Dye Hubby's Hair

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My wife has been tugging me for the last year to let her dye my hair black. Marie used to be a beautician. According to her I'd look at least 10 years younger which would help me in business because the younger men get the promotions.

I'm 46 and don't mind the gray in my hair at all. Frankly, though, I'd be awfully self-conscious about suddenly turning up with coal black hair because all the people I work with know my hair has been gray for years.

You are a pretty sensible dame, and I'd like to hear your opinion. A yes or no from you could have a lot of influence on me. — SILVER THREADS

ANN LANDERS

DEAR THREADS — Some men dye for dear old youth's sake and only their barbers know for sure. Speaking strictly for myself, I like gray in a man's hair.

It's obvious that you'd feel self-conscious turning up all of a sudden with coal black hair, so tell your wife to nay.

• • •

DEAR READERS — Do you recall the latter several days ago from the woman who complained vehemently because her husband's ex-wife sent him several pairs of shorts and undershirts for Christmas?

The gal blew her top and insisted that her husband return the shorts and undershirts because they were far too intimate a gift under the circumstances.

I told the wife to forget it — that it was not worth fighting over for six months, and that although the gift may not have been in the best taste, it was certainly practical.

I'd like you to know, folks, that nearly 4,000 readers from coast to coast, plus Alaska, Honolulu and Puerto Rico, wrote to say they did NOT agree with me. My position remains unchanged, but it may please you to know that I am a lonely minority.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 14 and I feel that life is just about over. If there was a Foreign Legion for girls I'd join up.

Three weeks ago the dentist took the braces off my teeth. I wore them for almost four years. You can't imagine how I dreamed of the day when those horrible things would come off. To me it was like the unveiling of the Statue of Liberty or the premiere of Cleopatra. I though everyone would notice — especially the boys I counted on this event to change my whole life. Well, nothing happened. Absolutely nothing. Not one single boy has asked me for a date.

I'm so disappointed I don't know what to do. Can you give me some help, please? — BOTTOM OF THE WORLD.

DEAR WORLD — You've just learned, first hand, a lesson I've been trying to hammer home for years. It is as follows: Good looks are not the key to popularity.

The girl who is interesting, fun to be with, and can make a boy feel comfortable is going to be sought out — yes — even if she does have a smile like a dirt gage. Look around, Tootsie, you you'll see plenty of evidence that I am right.

Go to work on the things that count and watch your life shape up.

• • •

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference Do you? Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love or Sex?" Enclose with your request 30 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CANCER SAID VICIOUS

TORONTO (CP) — A Montreal doctor, writing in Health Magazine, says cigarette smokers develop a far more vicious type of lung cancer than that afflicting non-smokers. R. M. N. Lougheed said smokers develop "oat cell" cancer which often disguises itself as other diseases. A man with this type of cancer can show the symptoms of a stroke, including sudden paralysis, Dr. Lougheed said.

Auxiliary Makes Plans for Future

The final meeting before the summer recess of the Royal Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary was held Tuesday in the clubroom with a good attendance. After the two minute silence the president introduced the newly elected Zone Commander, Comrade Hope Begley who is a member of the local branch.

The president thanked everyone who helped make Legion Week a success and also those who catered for the Tweed High School band which led the church parade to St. Thomas' Church on Sunday.

The Branch had a good representation of members at the annual zone rally held in Bancroft despite the rain. Euchres will be held Thursday afternoons during the summer months in response to public requests.

Two more applications for membership were accepted.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION

The Legion convention will be held in North Bay on September 26th for three days. The accredited comrades attending will be president Betty Hodge, Zone Commander elect, Comrade Hope Begley, with two fraternal members, Comrades Edna Blair and Daisy Jetts.

Reports from committees were read and president Hodge thanked all concerned for their time and endeavour. Catering for several banquets in May and June were the main events for the auxiliary.

It was decided the annual trip be made to Rochester on the 18th September and to spend one night there. Comrade Jetts volunteered to be chairman of this special event. Members unable to go, will be treated to a dinner and Comrade Shirley Benn will convene this night. The meeting closed with a social get together and refreshments.

Mixed-up Feelings Are Par for Teenage Romances

DEAR DORIS — I am 17, and have gone steady with a boy for two months.

My problem is that sometimes he gets "mixed up" as he calls it, and when this happens, he says we are crazy for going together, but after this is all over he says he is sorry.

Doris, please help me for I really have let myself fall for this boy and he says I have done wrong for he is no good, but I don't like him for what he has done or what he will do. I like him because of what he means to me. — MIXED UP.

DEAR MIXED UP — The very fact that you are both mixed up means that your feelings are still of the teen-age variety and not to be counted on. Hang on to your heart!

Many Attend Skating Club Coffee and Dessert Party

It was perfection night last evening for the Quinte Figure Skating Club.

Weather-wise it was June at its best. The club's annual Coffee and Dessert Party lacked little of all-out success.

The well - appointed lawns and home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Scott at 150 Dufferin street provided a perfect setting for the function.

A light breeze sighed through the tree - shaded grounds where the snowy napery of coffee tables offered a contrast to the lush green of the lawns.

It was difficult to ascertain the number of guests who attended the party since it was a "come-and-go" affair. However the tables were comfortably filled all evening.

Gentlemen members of the club assisted by others stepped out of character and turned in excellent performances.

They "poured" coffee and lemonade and were near-perfect in waiter roles.

Doug Ashley supervised his "corps of pourers" with Bill Mohawy "maitre" of the waiter corps.

Ladies of the club served the delicious and variable dessert, guests being helped as they passed through the serving room. This was in charge of Mrs. Gordon Davies and Mr. and and Mrs. Paul Tatton.

Receiving at the door were club president Gordon Davies and host Dr. Scott. Directing the guests were Angus MacKillican and Doug Dunnink.

Tickets for the $50 sawbuck bond were sold by past-president Dr. W. R. Reddick and Garth Bradshaw.

The youngsters had a gala time patronizing the fish pond supervised by Mrs. R. J. Long.

The arrangements committee under convener Mrs. Murray Lindsay were Mrs. Bruce Crook, Mrs. D. V. Dominis, Mrs. Angus McKillican, Mrs. Blake Weese and Mrs. M. Bourdeau. Invitations were supervised by Mrs. Bourdeau.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

QUESTION: When someone gets started on a long-winded monologue, is it horribly impolite to interrupt and put an end to everyone's boredom? I did just this the other night when a man started telling the same old tale for the hundredth time. My husband thought it was rude of me, but I just didn't think it was right of the man to rattle on while everyone else had to sit quietly and suffer through a worn-out story we all had heard many times before. — Mrs. V. A., Ithaca, N. Y.

ANSWER: It's never polite to interrupt another so abruptly and put him at such a disadvantage. Either you should hear him out or during a pause, it's sometimes possible to say "This instance..." and go on to comment on what he was saying and add a thought, thus steering the conversation into a more general channel. In this way, it's possible to terminate a seemingly interminable story without deliberately "the story-teller and others present.

BREATHING SPACE IN SLUM AREA — New high-rise apartments have all but replaced the grey stone tenements in Glasgow's notorious slum area, the Gorbals. The new buildings, with plenty of space for school and playgrounds, are part of a plan by which Glasgow is reducing its population from 1,100,000 people to 900,000. In the Gorbals alone, where 27,000 people were crammed into tiny flats, the population has already been trimmed to 12,000. (CP Photo)

One of World's Worst Slums

The 'Gorbals' Are Nearly No More

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

GLASGOW(CP)— It was only yesterday, as time is measured in Glasgow, that one of the nastiest slums in Christendom festered in the Gorbals, in the southern crook of the Clyde.

Today, that 111-acre patch has become a symbol of the new Glasgow and indeed of the new Scotland, breasting a modern-day industrial revolution involving wholesale movement of population.

Tall new apartment buildings have already displaced the hideous stone tenements where even now families are crammed into tiny flats with only cold-water "jaw boxes" — kitchen sinks—for all washing.

To the Canadian eye, these new buildings have an austere look but the space for schools and playgrounds is impressive, especially remembering it was here that infamous razor gangs roamed as late as 1939.

The change is part of a plan by which Glasgow—hemmed in by water and hills—is "decanting" surplus population and redeveloping five square miles of its total area of 62. The exodus is termed the "Glasgow overspill."

In the Gorbals, for instance, 10,000 people will live where 27,000 were crammed in squalor. Already the population has been trimmed to 12,000.

EXPERTS PEOPLE

"Glasgow as a whole is being reduced from 1,100,000 people to 900,000," George Gavin, a planning officer, told visiting Commonwealth reporters.

The target is 1980 and some 70,000 folk now have been affected. Gavin gave the measure of Glasgow's rebuilding job:

"A survey five years ago put Glasgow homes into four categories—unfit, nearly unfit, all right for 18 years, satisfactory.

"There were 100,000 homes in the first two categories and 29 areas stood out, covering five square miles."

This depressing picture, of course, was a legacy of the industrial revolution in which Glasgow rose to ascendancy as one of the prime engineering workshops of the world.

The home of James Watt, who perfected the steam engine, Glasgow became so important in Britain's industrial picture that in modern times it built the prettiest Queen liners and much of the Royal Navy.

The engineering tradition is so strong that—as a small example—on entering the reading room of a Glasgow hotel you may well find engineering periodicals rather than the glossy magazines usually found in such places. But heavy industries have suffered contraction and unemployment has been chronic in recent years.

CHOOSE NEW HOMES

Because Glasgow is ringed with water, hills and various developments, it was decided to export some of the population and even industries.

"The movement of employment and population must go hand in hand although it may sound parodoxical to export employment in the midst of unemployment," Gavin said.

Now 50 Scottish towns have contracted for the overspill, receiving housing and industrial incentives from Glasgow and the British government.

Five redevelopment projects in Glasgow—the Gorbals is the smallest — will cost an estimated £150,000,000.

How about the people who are being displaced—the proud race who will no longer be able to boast that Glasgow belongs to them? Gavin said:

They are polled on where they want to go, what they would like to do. The labor department now has a list of the labor available which it can offer to prospective employers.

"Not a great deal of encouragement is needed to get people to move out of Glasgow because they know new homes are just about impossible to get here now."

Tomorrow: Industrial plants merge with traditional sights.

Mrs. H. Ashley had the misfortune to cut her hand last week. Several stitches were required to close the wound.

Campbellford News

New Filtration Plant Is Officially Opened

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford's new filtration plant was formally opened on Wednesday afternoon. The number present was smaller than was expected, about 50 people, and unfortunately some of the dignitaries invited were unable to be present.

Seated on the dais were members of the Campbellford P.U.C., H. MacArthur, chairman of the Utilities, and also chairman for the program; Commissioners A. C. Newman, J. O. Benor; vice-chairman W. G. Vandewater; Mayor M. Tanner, also on the platform were Russell Rowe, MPP, Northumberland; K. Sharpe, representative of Ontario Water Resources, Director Division of Sanitary Engineering; Mr. Geo. Ambridger, manager of the Newmanville PUC; Mr. Roy Lawrence, manager Napanee PUC. Those invited but unable to be present were Dr. Pauline Jewett and Mrs. J. D. Lee, P. Eng., Consulting engineer.

COMMISSION CONGRATULATED

Speaking as parliamentary representative, Russell Rowe, MPP, congratulated the commission for having completed a long discussed project. He said health depends on water, therefore, the utmost precautions should be taken as to purity. Continuing, he said the Ontario government had become increasingly conscious of water problems, especially in Western Ontario. He mentioned the proposed pipe line from Lake Huron to London and said in the future water pipe lines may become comparable to now existing gas and oil lines. He also mentioned the good facilities offered to towns bordering the Trent.

Mr. H. H. Sharpe, representing the Ontario Water Resources, said that while Campbellford water had previously been made safe for drinking, now with the facilities of the new plant, having been chemically treated, filtered and disinfected was what he termed "polished" water and any former unpleasant taste has now been eliminated.

Mr. John McGregor, associated for many years with the PUC, gave an unexpected but most interesting resume of the history of the lots where the water pumping plant and now the new additional building stand. Mr. McGregor, now elderly, but having been an active participant in town affairs for a period of many years, is most qualified to review the history of Campbellford.

He stated that the lots had formerly been owned by a Mr. Culverwell. When survey was made for the Trent Canal the lots were expropriated. Mr. Culverwell took the matter to court but lost the case due to a condition clause, when the dam was built, that the government could expropriate the required lots if necessary for canal purpose. Later having refused to pay taxes owing the town due to the dispute over the lots an agreement was finally reached between the town and Mr. Culverwell's son and lots became property of the town. This situation was probably beyond the recollection of any one present, except Mr. McGregor.

The visitors were taken on a tour of the new building.

President Johnson Jan. 21.

The United States approaches negotiations in this area with a great deal of flexibility," he said. He indicated that an agreed cut-off might range from a plan for plant shutdown to the complete cut-off proposed by Johnson.

The agenda agreement reached by Foster and Zorin did not remove or reduce fundamental deadlocks on the items mentioned for discussion. But it was the first formal agreement on an agenda reached in the two-year conference and should brighten the atmosphere of the talks.

The agreement included a commitment by each side to at least talk about subjects which they have hitherto refused to discuss.

OTTAWA (CP)—Revived discussion of a "bomber bonfire" at the East-West disarmament talks at Geneva may cause Canada to review its position in this regard, informed sources said today.

Canada has 200 low - level CF-104 jet bombers in Europe and is also a member of the 17-nation disarmament conference at Geneva.

Up to now, authorities said, Canada has regarded a proposed bomber bonfire as strictly a matter between the United States and Russia with only obsolescent planes involved.

But there are current reports that the U.S. and Russia reach agreement on such a disarmament measure other countries such as Canada would be asked to toss their bombers on the scrap heap as well.

A defence department source here said Canada doesn't regard its CF-104 bombers as obsolescent—they haven't yet got their nuclear armament — but would be willing to contribute old Second World War Lancaster bombers to a bonfire.

Another source suggested, however, that the government might be willing to scrap the CF-104s through East - West agreement. These planes have been somewhat of an embarrassment to the Liberals, the source said, because they are offensive weapons besides being nuclear carriers.

of the word 'courage' is that earlier press conference I think was an ill-advised use of the word."

He said he believes Goldwater "has personal courage and nobody denies that. I don't."

But since the New Hampshire campaign (Goldwater finished a poor second to write-in Henry Cabot Lodge) he has been guarded and hemmed in by the politicians around him."

The reason, said Scranton, is because the American people would "become even more disenchanted by what are his real views."

Closing Exercises at OSD See Largest Graduating Class in History of School

By RETA LAWRENCE

Forty-one graduates received their diplomas at the Ontario School for the Deaf on Wednesday afternoon, the largest graduating class in the history of the school.

Prizes were also awarded to those in the junior and intermediate classes for outstanding improvement and ability in academic, vocational and athletic work.

Following the invocation by Rev. A. L. Sutherland, Mr. J. G. Dawson, superintendent of the school, welcomed the parents, relatives and friends of the graduates, from all parts of the province.

Mr. Dawson stated that most members of the graduating class have been students at the school since 1950, and the success has been due to the dedication of the teachers, house-parents, and all members of the staff, as well as the support of the parents and the hard work of the students themselves.

Tributes was paid by Mr. Dawson to two teachers, Mr. Alec Gordon, and Mrs. Jessie Spencer, dietitian Mrs. Quinn, and housemother Mrs. Combley, who are retiring.

The stage of the gymnasium was decorated in school colors of blue and gold, with many spring flowers. This provided a change for the boys and girls in their graduation gowns and caps in white dresses with red trimmings. These graduation gowns were skilfully sewn by the students, each in an individual design, which enhanced the ensemble in good grooming and hairstyling, which was completed by the students of the beauty culture class.

SET UP TO COMMERCE

Mr. Dawson stated that six of the graduating class have graduated with honors equivalent to Grade 10 standing of Washington, D.C. This is the world's only college for deaf students. It is also the location of Schools for the Deaf around the world an opportunity to advance to degrees in the liberal arts and sciences.

Others of the graduating class have already secured employment in their special fields.

The Superintendent's Award, recognition of outstanding achievement in all phases during the student's complete school life, was presented by Mr. Dawson to Miss Gail Williamson of Timmins, Ontario, and to Mr. Richard Cassil Swanbourg, Fort Erie, Ontario.

As the guests received their awards each replied with a brief speech which was received on a large screen to the side of the platform so everyone could read it.

Miss Gail Williamson presented the valedictory address and charmingly thanked the staff for everything and wished success at the school so pleasant.

The Superintendent spoke briefly to the graduating class and wished them every happiness and success in their future lives.

Answer Brings Laughter From Opposition

OTTAWA (CP) — A simple question in the Commons by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) — where are the offices of Immigration Minister Favreau and Health Minister LaMarsh? — flustered the government Wednesday.

Mr. Knowles asked how the government could have been so confused if the government didn't know the offices of the ministers are.

Justice Minister Favreau said he would look into the matter.

Mr. Pearson, replying to Michael Starr (P — Oshawa), said the fact that the Union Jack proposal has been separated from the Commons resolution on a distinctive Canadian flag doesn't change the government's position.

Mr. Pearson had said previously that the government regards the five resolutions as one item covering both flags — as a matter of confidence. The resolution was split Monday by Speaker Alan Macnaughton so the two proposals could be voted on separately.

Mr. Pearson also told Mr. Starr that it would be inappropriate to ask Queen Elizabeth's opinion from the Queen about use of the Union Jack until the Canadian Parliament deals with the government's proposal.

Dockers Return To Their Jobs At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal waterfront became effective with activity today as nearly 3,000 longshoremen returned to work after a three-day strike that tied up some 50 ships in the harbor.

The workers, about 1,500 longshoremen and 400 checkers, returned to work at 8 a.m.

A mass meeting of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) agreed Wednesday to recommendations of Judge Rene Lippe for solving the dispute.

Davis 'Floored' By Complaint About OSD

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Davis said Thursday he was "floored" by a demand by a St. Catharines couple for an investigation into the medical records of their son, a student at the Ontario School for the Deaf in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fisher charged their son, Bruce, 13, a student at the school for 12 years, was unable to attend classes for two months because of illness caused by inadequate medical care at the school. Bruce has been told he will not be able to graduate this year because of absenteeism.

Mr. David said that earlier this month his department received a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Fisher thanking it for the training and consideration Bruce had received at the school. He said he could understand the parents' change in attitude.

The minister said the department has urged that Bruce be allowed to attend the school for another year so that he can graduate.

Govt.'s Life Will Be at Stake in Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's life will be at stake in the vote on its proposal that the Union Jack be one of two submitted to denote Canada's Commonwealth connection, Prime Minister Pearson informed the Commons Wednesday.

Mr. Pearson, replying to Michael Starr (P — Oshawa), said the fact that the Union Jack proposal has been separated from the Commons resolution on a distinctive Canadian flag doesn't change the government's position.

Mr. Pearson had said previously that the government regards the five resolutions as one item covering both flags — as a matter of confidence. The resolution was split Monday by Speaker Alan Macnaughton so the two proposals could be voted on separately.

Mr. Pearson also told Mr. Starr that it would be inappropriate to ask Queen Elizabeth's opinion from the Queen about use of the Union Jack until the Canadian Parliament deals with the government's proposal.

MOODIE COTTAGE
Located on Sinclair Street at Bridge Street

Our Architectural Heritage

By LENNY WILLIAMSON

Belleville has one house with both local interest and national importance. For 37 years Moodie Cottage was the home of the early Canadian authoress, Susanna Moodie.

She is known to every Canadian school child who has read excerpts of her book "Roughing it in The Bush" for her many readers, and to his parents who made a recent best-seller of her "Life in the Clearings". She is not as well known for her contributions to early Canadian literary annals, but her book "Victoria Magazine" which she and her husband edited and published in Belleville, for her melodramatic novels, and for the romances she held in her parlour at 114 Bridge St. West.

John Wedderburne Dunbar Moodie and his wife settled on a bush farm near Peterborough in 1832. Like many other members of the English landed gentry who came to Canada in the 1830's, they found it impossible to adapt to the hardships of pioneer life.

It was with considerable relief that they escaped from the wilderness when Dunbar was appointed the first Sheriff of Hastings County in 1840.

Life in the village of Belleville turned the bitter and disillusioned pair into firm champions of Canada.

"Life in the Clearings" Susanna described Moodie Cottage as "my peaceful, happy home; the haven of rest to which Providence had conducted me after the storms and trials of many years."

Moodie Cottage was built in about 1833 by George and Hannah Cooper, who sold it in 1842 with its accompanying 16 acres of land to Sheriff Moodie for £300. Although Susanna describes it as a "small stone cottage" by today's standards it is a large house.

The Coopers chose what they considered the best features of their neighbours' houses as it is combined them in a building which suited them personally. The result is termed "eclectic" by architects, meaning an effort designed, contractor built cashes of uncertain origin".

There is nothing uncertain about the origin of most of Moodie Cottage.

The walls are of local limestone. This recent rubble stone was not admired by early builders, who stuccoed it over and in this case, the house is a two storey and a half high, with a very low - pitched gable roof. The architrave of the centred front door is "wilderness Georgian" with side-lights and a deep cornice supported by four gently tapered pilasters.

The door itself is a Regency type that appears often in official buildings of that period in Kingston. It is a heavy four-panelled one with a bead running down the central stile.

The interior woodwork is Regency, but simpler than that in the Penitentiary. The staircase is Neo-Classical, light and graceful, with a scrolled newel cage and a narrow handrail.

There were no fireplaces; by 1835, up-to-date housekeepers who could afford them, preferred stoves.

Moodie Cottage proves that the best way to save an old house is to have it fall into the hands of a succession of private owners who value and cherish it.

After Susanna left in 1860 to live with a daughter in Toronto, two generations of the Green family owned the house and sensibly confined any alterations to the minimum necessary for comfort.

Since 1901 the cottage has belonged to Mr. and Mrs. John Cody, who have devoted themselves to restoring it as closely as possible to its original state.

Susanna was so fond of Belleville she asked to be returned here to be buried beside her husband. Apparently she could not tear herself away from Moodie Cottage either. Her ghost is supposed to haunt the Cody children's playroom, once the parlour where Susanna held her seances.

Athens Soccer Fans Riot

ATHENS (AP) — Thousands of fans rioted at a soccer match in this Greek capital Wednesday, clashing with police on the field, ripping up railings and goal posts and setting fire to hats and dressing rooms.

About 25,000 fans surged on to the field shouting that the game between Panathinaikos and Olympiacos of Piraeus — dead been fixed. The game ended in a 1-1 tie.

Club - swinging police battled the fans and drove them from the downtown stadium. Outside the field the fans formed and marched through the heart of Athens shouting "Down with the (Soccer) Association."

Canadian ZOOE chapters in 1963 spent nearly $46,000 on 2,165 schools, including 32 in Labrador and 83 in the Arctic.

Sales, Placements of Babies On Black Market in New York, California Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Black market sales and placements of babies in New York and California were described for investigating senators Wednesday in testimony that told of some mothers receiving $1,200 for each newborn child.

Gael Greene, a New York City freelance writer, told the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency that several years ago she investigated the black market in babies in California for the New York Post, posing as an expectant, unwed mother.

She said she went to a lawyer named Ralph Benson — whom she called "the merchant prince of independent adoptions" in Los Angeles — and he said he usually budgeted $1,500 for the unwed mother in adoptions he handled.

Miss Greene quoted him as stating:

"You pay all your expenses out of that . . . What's left is yours to keep."

How much he received from the adopting parents was not disclosed. Testimony ended Tuesday about other areas of the U.S. brought out that some practices in the sales and placements of children have ranged up to $7,500.

The subcommittee is considering legislation to curb the practice. It would provide imprisonment up to five years or a $10,000 fine or both "for anyone who profited from the placement of a child for adoption if the child were transported in interstate or foreign commerce."

Another witness, Charlton G. Blair, a Belfast, N.Y., lawyer, testified Wednesday he has helped arrange adoptions for 30 years and handles 35 to 40 cases a year.

He said some of the natural mothers were as young as 12 but most were between 21 and 32. Some of them have asked him how much they were going to get for their babies, he said, adding:

"I said 'Nothing.' I told them they were not selling their babies."

Elisabeth Anglin, supervisor of the adoption service department, Children's Aid Society Erie County, N.Y., gave the subcommittee a letter from Harry L. and Gladys L. Heiser of Cheektowaga, N.Y., telling of their experience with Blair when they sought to adopt a child.

The letter said in part:

"He said that his fee was $700 but that he would have to pay the mother's care for the amount of time that she was in this area before giving birth to a baby, if she was from out of town."

The Heisers did not adopt a child through Blair.

Wednesday's testimony ended the two days of subcommittee hearings.

Butler's Mission to Moscow Likely to Aid Conservatives

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

R. A. Butler's mission to Moscow may help the British Conservative party's chances in the fall general election but, paradoxically, it is unlikely to accomplish much else simply because it comes so soon before the voting.

The Labor party took not-so-quiet delight from the foreign secretary's announcement Tuesday during the House of Commons foreign affairs debate.

Privately, it is unlikely to score any of other problems, particularly Laos, Southeast Asia in general and disarmament.

But although Butler may find the meetings personally profitable, there is little expectation that any new initiative will develop since Russia seems intent on simply preserving the status quo — at least until after the United States election in October and the United States presidential election in November.

Nothing else, however, the invitation to Butler should help the Conservatives squelch the impression fostered by Wilson that Moscow takes it as a foregone conclusion that he will be prime minister before the year is out.

Now They've Got the Kids Playing at the Market

NEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—The stock market bug has been born and is growing around here in the form of a "bell market" and "bear market" with the spirit of Wall Street veterans.

The girls sprinkle their conversations with the latest stock market quotations.

And when the school bell sounds the start of summer vacation, a successful teacher can usually count on a fifty profit.

It's part of a growing trend in American high schools where students learn the intricacies of the stock market by becoming stock owners.

Lenox Regional High School in this New Jersey Community has been operating a student stock program since Ronald Fisher joined the faculty five years ago.

Fisher, 28, who now heads the business department, encourages his sophomore, junior and senior students to buy a share of stock and learn by experience.

Financial Hots in hand, they begin by picking a stock that is selling in the neighborhood of $50. The average class has 30 students and each chips in a dollar. Fisher pays the difference.

WATCH FOR YEAR

They buy through a local broker and for the rest of the year keep close tabs on daily stock market reports.

Interest in trading is heavy, if somewhat complicated. Since each student, in effect, owns a share of stock he or she must be figured in fractions to determine how much a dollar has grown or shrunk to a day. And each class has "buy" and "sell" brokers and at any time the students can buy or sell their share of a share to one another. Some students have registered small profits by perceptive speculation of the class stock activity.

The decision on which stock to purchase rests solely with the students.

"We've been fortunate in that few of the investments have been losers," said Fisher.

The class receives annual reports from the companies in which they invest and in some cases get dividends which are distributed by polling a menu from a list instead of dividing the money.

At the end of the year, the class sells its shares, taking whatever profit or loss the market reflects at that time.

Judo Develops Character While Building Muscles

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) The teen-ager who has taken judo lessons is a good bet to stay out of trouble, says Pte Lt. C. B. Prescrift, chief instructor at the RCAF Summerside Judo Club.

Judo not only develops co-ordination and muscle power but helps build character in young people, he declares, explaining that a boy who learns judo also learns not to use it outside the gymnasium where he might injure somebody.

Judo is a method of self-defence. However, Pte Prescrift, who comes from St. George, N.B., has been teaching judo here for the last year. His 33 pupils include 18 youngsters 11 to 17, all children of RCAF personnel. Classes are divided into two groups — 13 and under and 14 and over. The pupils spend two nights a week, a total of four hours, in the gym.

FEW INJURIES

The teacher says there is little chance of injury, except perhaps a bruise or torn fingernail. The whole thing is based on more as a sport than as a method of self-defence. However, the boys can defend themselves if necessary. And since weight is no advantage, the can feel fairly secure in any company.

"They learn to be able to use what strength they have and to look for the weak spot in an opponent's posture.

"In an emergency, they could fall back on what they know about judo for self-defence.

"Mostly though they would walk away rather than get into fights. This is where character development comes in."

Some of the older boys have taken up judo as an offshoot of Boy Scout membership. But they often stay on in the judo classes even after getting their proficiency badge.

Water Crisis on the Great Lakes

'The Remedy Will Cost Plenty' Says Expert

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — A couple of thousand years from now, give or take a few centuries, the Great Lakes probably will be tilted southward like a big bowl and their contents spilling down the Hudson River valley.

It's an immovable long-range geological process going back to the Ice Age, and one that may cause headaches to the North Americans of 3004 A.D. But the chances are the complications won't be any more disruptive than those of 1964, the year the water went away.

The Great Lakes, beneficent but fickle, are having one of their perverse spells. The water is low—at the lowest in 104 years of records in Lake Huron—and in one way or another the scarcity will touch many of the 25,000,000 people in the communities rimming the lake system.

"Who needs it?" asks Mrs. F. M. Bradley, operator of a lakeside resort on Georgian Bay, where the water is down about six feet in a decade and a foot in the last year.

HURON HARD HIT

The cry is echoed by a multiplicity of the lakes' dependents—shipping big and small, shoreside industry, hydro-electric producers, many of the 200 ports that dot the waterway, recreation operators, and individuals who just like to play on the lakes. In money terms, the cost is heavy.

CONTROL EXPENSIVE

It has been heavy, too, in the years of high water that come between low spells, and there is a growing body of opinion that man is going to have to take a firmer hand in moulding the mighty but fluctuating forces of the Great Lakes to a more constant level.

The suggestions differ. One thing is evident: the remedy will cost plenty.

Dr. G. B. Langford, director of the University of Toronto's Great Lakes Institute and a foremost authority on the "fresh-water oceanography" of the area, says there is an urgent need for regulation and that in fact the St. Lawrence Seaway cannot be regarded as complete until this is done.

As he sees it, there should be controls so that water from years of high precipitation can be held for use in periods of relative scarcity such as the present.

"If nature runs true to form, there may be an excess of water in another decade, and then flooding will be our major worry. It brings out the point that the seaway is a fair weather project and operates best when water supplies are at an average.

"Before the seaway can be considered complete, it will require extensive works to regulate the levels of each lake."

MIGHT COST BILLION

The problems that Mr. Langford are more complex than those that were overcome in building the seaway itself, he added, and the solution could cost as much as $1,000,000,000.

To administer regulation, he said, there should be a strong over-riding authority all through the system.

At present, there is a complexity of Canadian and American national, state and provincial jurisdictions. The International Joint Commission administers the federal jurisdiction, but it has been given power to regulate only Lakes Superior and Ontario plus the St. Lawrence River. Recently, it has been told to look into the question of regulating Huron and Erie.

Huron is the problem lake of the moment. Its exit channel was dredged several years ago to deepen it for seaway-size ships, and more water flows out. There is talk now of building locks there to hold back Huron's water and pass ships through.

John J. Mahoney, manager of the Dominion Marine Association, says shippers probably would not object too strenuously to more locks in the system if they gave speedy service. But existing locks might have to be modernized to keep transit time to a minimum.

WATER FROM QUEBEC

Lake Huron's plight also has revived interest—in Parliament and the Ontario legislature—in a proposal to send water from Quebec's Harricanaw River, which flows into James Bay, to Lake Huron by a complicated series of diversions. It would cost around $3,000,000,000.

A breath-taking idea being talked up in Washington is for a system of canals connecting the Great Lakes with the Pacific Ocean. The canals and the lakes would be fed by surplus water from Rocky Mountain rivers, which also would go to irrigate 80,000,000 acres of land in Canada and the United States.

It would cost $100,000,000,000 and take around 30 years to build, but Senator Frank E. Moss of Utah says it is "almost inevitable."

Thomas Kierans, a Sudbury engineer, has been pushing the Harricanaw idea for years as the likeliest way of replenishing the lakes. It gets support from some Canadian politicians and from Senator Philip Hart, a Michigan Democrat, who says Canada is the only likely source of more water.

"Madness," comments General A. G. L. McNaughton, the outspoken former Canadian co-chairman of the International Joint Commission, who says the Harricanaw water may be needed where it is.

"The whole thing would be folly. There isn't one suggestion of taking U.S. water into Canada. All these schemes are to rob us of water.

"Chicago now diverts 3,100 cubic feet per second from Lake Michigan for sewage treatment, and this spills into the Mississippi system after use. The city has been clamoring for about 10,000, with Canada firmly opposed.

"The provinces will never permit it. These are purely provincial rivers—not international ones like the Columbia. We must depend on the provinces to safeguard national rights and interests in this case."

Gen. McNaughton said there is a "very happy solution" to all this levels problem. We need works of some sort at the foot of these lakes."

WOULD AID MONTREAL

While this would be expensive, he said, the benefits would include maintaining water levels at Montreal, which has been worried about depth of water for shipping this year.

Dr. Langford agrees that the Harricanaw proposal is unsound.

Without regulation of the individual lakes, he said, "what's the use of putting in more water only to let it run down?"

Dr. Langford said that if all the lake levels were controlled, there would be an estimated 300,000 cubic feet a second available on the average for power and shipping. He figured 10,000 could be spared for Chicago, provided it was willing to compensate power producers for any loss they might suffer.

Meanwhile, the Ontario government has called a conference with Quebec and the eight states on the American side of the lakes to discuss what can be done within their jurisdiction. But essentially, one provincial authority observes, it will likely develop into a federal matter on both sides of the boundary.

Dr. Langford says it will be five years at the earliest before his proposals for regulation can be made effective—a modest estimate in the light of the half century of talk that preceded construction of the seaway.

Until then, he says, "we'll balance" have to adjust our uses of these waters until nature restores the DESERTED DOCKS — The Buffalo Yacht Club Docks at Point Abino, Ontario, on Lake Erie are deserted as only a small slip of water remains. The sandy area was once covered with enough water for club members to dock their craft. Low water levels are causing similar situations on most of the Great Lakes. (CP Photo)

It's Fish All the Way

OTTAWA (CP)—Fish hams, fish sausages and even an odourless fish smoker—the Japanese have them all.

A Canadian mission that recently made a month-long inspection of the Japanese fishery has found they supply 65 to 70 per cent of Japan's total animal protein requirements.

More than 114,000 pounds annually of fish sausages and fish hams are produced by plants in Tokyo and surrounding areas. The demand is strong.

Both products are produced by grinding whale and tuna and blending the mixture with seasoning salt, starch, condiments, sodium glutamate, pigment and, to give it all a meat taste, lard. The product is pre-cooked, packaged in cellophane and sold in retail stores for about 42 cents a pound.

Tokyo also has the world's largest fish market, dealing every day in some 1,300 tons of fish in all forms—fresh, frozen, dried, salted, smoked, canned and alive. About 60,000 persons daily visit the market.

The mission said it was "greatly impressed by the cleanliness of the market, its organization, superior quality, and lack of odor."

The mission comprised officials of the Quebec, New Brunswick and federal governments.

MOUNTIES ARE OUT

HALIFAX (CP) — William Larmour of the northern affairs department's industrial division says tourists are no longer interested in the tin Mountie made in the U.S. He says they want to buy Canadian crafts. Eskimos in the Canadian Arctic are producing this type of craft and Mr. Larmour is trying to encourage more people to buy and take an interest in their work.

Mays, McCovey Back In Homer Stride ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

"Willies" Lift Giants To Top Split

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Things are back to normal in Candlestick Park these days.

Willie McCovey is delivering souvenirs to the kids who gather beyond the right field fence when the Giants are winning ball games. Willie Mays is demolishing homers again.

That delightful combination of McCovey and Mays, with a dash of Dark, lifted San Francisco Giants into a virtual tie for the National League lead Wednesday with a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

Things didn't look too good for S. F. in the early innings.

Cincinnati starter Joe Nuxhall had a six-hitter and a 2-1 lead going into the ninth. The veteran lefty had helped his own cause with a homer in the fifth to balance Mays' 19th homer which came in the first.

Nuxhall got Jim Davenport leading off the ninth but then Jose Pagan rapped a single. That's when Dark made his move.

He motioned McCovey, a left-handed hitter who's been batting a .400 clip during the hot spell, to the plate. Lightweight Tom Tresh called against the southpaw pitcher.

That's wrong you say? Maybe, but you've got to figure with success! Certainly not the Giant players who mobbed McCovey after Nuxhall's second pitch landed among the youngsters behind that right field fence.

Why did Dark ignore the usual baseball strategy?

"We didn't have any right-handed pinch hitters," he told reporters after the game.

The victory moved the Giants within seven percentage points of the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who ran afoul of Billy Williams and lost to Chicago Cubs 9-5. In other NL games, Pittsburgh Pirates' Bob Friend won his 11th straight against New York Mets 3-2, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Houston Colts 2-1 and Sandy Koufax fired his fourth shutout as Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Milwaukee Braves 5-0. Almost as welcome as McCovey's blast was the one Mays unloaded. He had been held homerless for 19 games.

Williams smashed two homers and knocked in five runs as the Cubs cut down the Phillies. He also had a triple.

Believer Jack Baldschun pitched Chicago's lead runs across in the seventh after the Phillies had blown an early lead.

Friend, who has never lost to the Mets, received shoddy fielding support from the Pirates but survived with a strong eight-hitter. The Pirates tagged loser Tracy Stallard for all their runs in the first inning with Willie Stargell's ninth homer accounting for two of them.

Ray Washburn gave up hits to the first two Houston batters he faced, then had the Colts hitless into the eighth inning before tiring. Before it was over manager Johnny Keane needed three pitchers to lock up the Cardinal victory.

Washburn's double in the eighth started the winning rally for St. Louis. Ken Boyer's 11th homer accounted for the other Cardinal run.

Koufax had a no-hitter for 4 1-3 innings before Mike de la Hoz dropped a single off Maury Wills' glove. The Braves added two more hits but never threatened and the Dodger lefty coasted to his ninth victory.

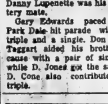
Ron McTaggart Has No-Hitter



Ron McTaggart pitched a five-inning no-hitter in the Tyke baseball league last night, giving Park Dale a 14-4 victory over the CNR Firemen.

The game was shortened to five innings because of darkness.

McTaggart struck out the side in four of the five innings played and got 14 via the whiff route in all. He walked three men and hit another pair. Gary Edwards was the catcher.

Pete Ackerman toiled for the CNR boys, allowing seven hits and striking out seven. Danny Lupenette was his battery mate.

Gary Edwards paced the Park Dale hit parade with a triple and a single. Don McTaggart and his brother's cause with a pair of singles while D. Jones got the same. D. Cone also contributed a triple.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Joy Bowerman, one of the nicest golfing matrons I know—and if Steve reads this, I'm not fooling—was all agog yesterday when she laid an "important document" on the sports desk.

"This," she said, and excitement fairly leaped out of her eyes, "is something for the record. In fact it IS a record and every married couple in the Country Club will vouch for it."

"Seventy-two couples—count 'em, 72—have signed the declaration to forego the usual Sunday morning sleep-in, and turn up bright-eyed and chipper at the club links."

There will be many a breakfast-table tete-a-tete over the wheaties and spinach before Sunday for that is the day the Country Club stages its annual "Mr. and Mrs. Tournament."

Seventy-two husbands and seventy-two wives will go to the tees questing the handsome Wilson Concrete Trophy, emblematic of the nursery championship, and a galaxy of prizes that would be the envy of a Royal Horse Show.

The 72 entries this year definitely constitutes an all-time record in the tournament history. Last year some forty-two couples teed off, an average number.

What should be a happy augury for Country Club officials and for tournament officials in particular, is the fact that 58 couples are Bay of Quinte members. The rennes, Joy told me, renewed interest of older members and marked interest on the part of new golfing couples.

Since the tournament is an area affair, only four district clubs will send representatives. Trenton RCAF is sending six couples; Napanee Golf Club four; Picton Golf Club three and Trenton Golf Club one. Post entries are acceptable.

Post-tournament features of this BYOL affair will be a delectable dinner followed by the presentation of the championship trophy and other prizes and awards.

The tournament has been excellently arranged by convener Steve and Joy Bowerman, assisted by Dan and Madge Cowley, and Fred and Ann Fisher. The gals will turn over the presentation honors to their committee spouses.

The draw, which will be published in Friday's edition, sees the first threesome of couples tee off at 11 a.m. and the last trio at 1.41 p.m., providing there are no post entries.

WRESTLING

It could be nip-and-tuck for Big and Chuck, the Kentucky Scufflin' Hillbillies here Friday night.

They were on the receiving end of a "going-over" something like their grandpappies gave the revenooers in the old still days last Friday when they met a couple of horsecrushing mat tanks in Fred Atkins and Hans Schmidt.

And they've got similar opposition here on the night of the card. "Hardrock" Atkins is back and teamed with the Japanese King of Karate, Professor Hiro. The "Pro" is billed as the "International Tag Team Championship."

But Big and Chuck have no ideas of taking the heavy end of the punishment this week. They have no love for La Atkins after last week's tough battle. They know all about the modus operandi.

Atkins and Hiro reportedly hold the international tag team title and with Kentuck's favorite rasslin' sons primed and ready for combat, the tag-team stars might well grace southern negties after Friday night's smoke has cleared away.

Don Jerdine of Moncton clashes with the Maltese "Falcon", Mike Valentine in the appetizer, with that little burnsy, Ray Villmer taking on—of all people—Big Bob Stanlee, the 6-4 blonde in the semifinal session.

66-1 Shot Wins Race

ASCOT, England (AP) — gave him his first Royal Ascot victory in the stakes. Now 56 Zalenga in a tremendous finish with Gelbert, a 66-1 shot Wednesday and won the Royal Hunt Cup at Royal Ascot.

It was a great day for Irish sportsman Maj. Dermot McCalmont.

It was in 1910 that Seaforth Emerald Cross was third. Zalenga's record was 100/7 in the field of 440 to Maj. McCalmont.

Emerald Cross was 22-1.

Dancer May Cost Jockey Club Money

1-9 Favorite

TORONTO (CP) — If the plunger who plunked down $10,000 on Victoria Park to show in the Queen's Plate in 1960 does the same thing for Northern Dancer Saturday it looks as though he'll get about the same profit—$500.

Opening odds to be printed in Saturday's program make the little galloper from E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm the 1-to-9 favorite to run away with the $50,000-added event, adding it to the Kentucky Derby and Preakness laurels he picked up earlier this year. He missed a bid for the triple crown when he finished third in the Belmont Stakes June 5 behind Quadrangle and Roman Brother.

Odds on the Dancer are so long the Ontario Jockey Club figures Canada's greatest race for three-year-olds will cost it money.

The club has announced there will be win, place and show betting on the race as long as more than three horses are entered. The club will make up any difference if there is not enough money in the mutuel pool.

SAME IN 1960

There was a similar situation in 1960 when Victoria Park was such a standout horse in the eyes of said Jockey Club managing director John Mooney Wednesday. "It cost us about $5,500 to make up for the mutuel pool. It could be more this year."

He said he expects six horses to be entered in the race and "it would look bad not to have complete betting on our major race. It's a sporting proposition on our part, as it is with the fans."

As required by law, the club guarantees a minimum profit of 10 cents on every $2 wager.

Victoria Park paid $2.10, $2.30 and $2.10 in 1960, netting $500 for the undersettled plunger who bet $10,000 on him to show. The shortest price ever paid in Plate history was $2.10, $2.05 and $2.05 by Horsmaster in 1956 before the 10-cent minimum was established.

A total of 56 three-year-olds are eligible for the 1¼ mile Plate, expected to start at 4:30 p.m. The race will be carried across the country by CBC television.

CUTS EXPECTED

However, the field is expected to be down to six or seven horses when owners make a final payment of $500 for each entry.

Two of Northern Dancer's former stablemates are expected to enter. Pierlou and Grand Garcon were sold to Taylor's 1952 yearling sale. The Dancer was the only horse unsold at the sale—overlooked because of his diminutive build.

J. Louis Levesque of Montreal owns Pierlou and Frank Sherman of Hamilton owns Grand Garcon.

Other possibles are: Later Mel, a filly owned by W. J. Farr of suburban Weston and winner of last Saturday's Canadian Oaks; Return Trip, owned by Max Bell of Calgary; S. J. Langrill's Langcrest; L. J. McGuinness' All Seasons; and Conn Smythe's Jammed Lively.

Lightfoots Shade Point Anne

Lightfoot Construction nipped the Point Anne Cementmen 1-0 in a nip and tuck Commercial Softball League game played at the Point last night.

The game's lone run came in the second inning when Don Smith doubled, advanced on an outfield bobble and scored on a long fly ball to deep centre field.

A tight pitching battle between Lightfoots' Harry Powers and the Cementmen's Jack Stewart stole the show. Powers allowed two hits, struck out three and walked one. Stewart gave up just three hits in defeat, fanning one and walking three.

A big key double by Don Smith and singles by Rusty Garvin and Bill Dickey accounted for the Lightfoot safeties.

Mike Cook slammed a triple and R. Rosebush added a single for Point Anne.

In another league game, played in Belleville, an uncon firmed report had Belvedere Hotel and City Hotel playing to a 6-6, eleven-inning tie at the Alemite.

Butterfield Bows Out Trenton Blanks Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

TRENTON—Big Bob Butterfield receives his RCAF posting to Winnipeg this coming Saturday — but it comes four days too late as far as Ellis Juniors are concerned.

Butterfield chalked up his third two-hit shutout of the Bay and D. Softball League season here last night, pitching the league-leading Trenton Commercial Printers to a 6-0 decision over the Juniors.

The same two clubs go back at it again at the CNRA Park in Belleville tonight at 6:45.

While Butterfield was taming the Juniors bitwise, the losers pleased out four gift runs to help aid their Trenton cause. The runs came in pairs in the third, sixth and eighth innings.

Butterfield picked up a scoring lift by the third and Taylor blooped a double to left with one out. The Juniors' Bob Baker dished out the first two runs when he threw Simmons ground ball wide of first.

Ethier walked the bases full in the sixth when Trenton added two more without a hit. Howie Cole's ground ball plated one and two more walks forced in the other.

Trenton got to reliefer Bob Boyle for the final pair on hits by Kennedy, H. Cole and Taylor, the latter two each driving in a run.

Butterfield almost lost his shutout in the fourth when Bob Moon's hoist to centre fell between two charging fielders for a triple with none out. He was erased in a double play when Boomhower grounded out and Moon missed home plate in a desperate bid to score. The only other Junior hit was a clean single by Bob Boyle in the seventh. Butterfield struck out six and walked only one.

Ethier gave up four runs and five of the nine Trenton hits before Boyle took over to start the seventh. Ethier fanned eight and walked six, five in one inning. Boyle got one strikeout.

Ron Taylor collected a double and single to pace the Printers' at the plate. Roger Drake had two hunt singles with the other hits shared by Gord Simmons, Larry Wannamaker, Will Kennedy, Howie Cole and Butterfield.

The Juniors had only nine men for the game, due to baseball and high school examinations, but expect a full team turnout for tonight's key tilt.

Vancouver Defers Donation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver city council talked for an hour and a half Tuesday about donating land for a proposed $6,000,000 coliseum but wound up putting the whole thing off for another week.

The proposal to build a 30,000-seat coliseum was made to the city by Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs—if the city will donate a suitable downtown site.

Council has already approved the donation in principle but hasn't agreed on a site or date of the necessary plebiscite.

PITCHER ELECTROCUTED

CHARLESTON, Miss. (AP)—Albert de Blanc, a 15-year-old pitcher, was electrocuted during a baseball game Tuesday when he touched a wire leading to the scoreboard. He leaned against a post, to which the wire was attached while his team was at bat.

Latchford Hurls 3-Hit Shutout

Joyces Turn Back Brockville

By PETER CARVER

Bill Latchford could well qualify as an animal tamer after the way the classy right-hander had the Brockville Beavers eating out of his hand in Eastern Ontario Senior Baseball League action here last night.

Latchford fired a brilliant three-hitter, with 19 strikeouts to boot, while pitching Belleville Joyce Realty to a 6-0 win over the Beavers before an improved crowd at the Fairgrounds.

The win gives Joyces a three and one record and two of the wins have been via outstanding pitching performances by Latchford.

Belleville pays a return visit to Brockville for a 2:30 game Saturday.

The Beavers battled Joyces on even terms for three innings last night. Single runs in the fourth and fifth frames opened the door and the winners wrapped it up with a four-run eighth.

Latchford gave up a single to Jack Coughlin in the first inning, following an error, but he struck out Dexter to leave two on base. Brockville's next chance came on Dick Glass' leadoff single and a walk in the sixth but again Latchford whitfed a pair. Keith Miller rabbed the final base hit, another single, in the eighth but apart from that Latchford was comfortable. He mixed three walks in with the 19 strikeouts.

Joyces' broke the scoring ice in the fourth when three consecutive errors in the Brockville infield filled the sacks. Brockville left-hander John Elliot walked Ralph Plane home before bearing down to retire the side. They scored what proved to be the clincher in the fifth when Larry Soule drew a walk, stole second and came home on a timely passed ball.

Some zany play featured Joyces' four-run outburst in the eighth. Soule and Plane got on board by error. Plane, leading well off first base drew a pick-off attempt from the Beaver pitcher. While the infield chased Plane, Soule scampered home from third and Plane ended up safe on second. Pete Weston phompby singled Plane home and then was caught in a rundown himself trying to advance on Mavety's single. Mavety got to third on the play and came home on a passed ball. Pat Asselaine drew a walk, stole second and scored on Muirhead's sharp single to end the scoring.

Latchford, of course, was the winning pitcher with John Elliot taking the loss. In six complete innings he allowed two runs on only one hit before leaving with shoulder trouble. Bob Wilson pitched the remaining two frames. He was touched for two hits for four runs. They struck out ten and issued five walks.

Pete Weston was the only player of the night to have two hits, both singles. Mavety, Muirhead and Moon rounded out the winners' attack with one-baggers.

Forgets Senior Franchise

Windsor Goes Junior 'B'

ST. CLAIR, Mich. (CP) — Windsor Arena Limited, which operated Windsor Bulldogs of the International Hockey League last year, announced Wednesday that it is not protecting its franchise.

The company told the league's annual meeting that it will operate a Junior B team next year. Windsor finished fourth in the league during the 1963-64 campaign.

A decision on an inactive franchise for the Chatham Maroons, who wound up sixth in seven team loop last season, will be made by the board of governors when the meeting reconvenes at Dayton, Ohio, June 24.

Both Windsor and Chatham had joined the IHL for the first time last season.

Other business deferred to the June 24 meeting includes the league draft, election of officers and consideration of a new franchise.

The four parties interested in gaining the Dayton, Ohio, franchise are headed by Pat Thunhstile of Toledo, Ohio, and Len Gendebien of Galt; Leo Gaspar, Bill of Sudbury, and Lew Perl, owner of Providence Reds of the American Hockey League; Eddie Shore of the AHL, Springfield Indians and Hal Laycoe of Portland Buckaroos of the Western Hockey League.

Leafs Lose Twin Bill, Drop To 4th

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It has been a terrible two weeks for Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

On June 3, the Leafs were on top of the league with a 26-13 record and a four-game bulge over the nearest competition. When Richmond Virginians wrapped up two games against the Leafs Wednesday night, 1-0 and 3-1, Toronto settled into fourth place on a percentage basis. 3½ games behind the league - leading Jacksonville Suns.

In the two-week span since June 3, the Leafs have lost 13 of 20 games.

Jacksonville split a doubleheader with Syracuse, taking a 7-1 thumping from the Chiefs in the opener but bouncing back for an 8-4 victory in the second. Rochester Red Wings swept a doubleheader from Atlanta Crackers 3-0 and 4-2 and Buffalo Bisons took two from Columbus Jets, 5-2 and 4-2.

Starter Frank Carpin and reliever Tom Metcalf held the Leafs to five hits in the opener. Ell Grba allowed only four Richmond hits but took the loss when the Virginians pushed across a run in the third inning.

SCATTERS SEVEN

Jim Brosnan scattered seven hits to win the nightcap, ably assisted by Fred Hopke who accounted for all three Richmond runs with two homers.

'Dancer' Enters Big Race

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Laurel Race Course announced today that E. P. Taylor of Toronto has accepted an invitation to enter Northern Dancer in the 12th running of the Washington International Nov. 11.

Northern Dancer, the three-year-old colt who won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, will represent Canada in the $150,000 race which now stands at six wins for U.S. horses and six for foreign challengers.

The International, a turf race, is at the same 1½-mile distance as the Belmont, in which Northern Dancer finished third and lost a chance to capture the triple crown.

TO PLAY AT McGILL

MONTREAL (CP) — Robin McNeil, 18, much-sought quarterback from Windsor, Ont., will play football this fall for McGill University. McNeil had also received offers from the University of Western Ontario and the University of Toronto.

Crothers, Kidd Win, Slow Time

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers and Bruce Kidd won handily but failed to reach their anticipated marks in a track meet Wednesday.

Crothers won the quarter-mile in 47.4 seconds, defeating East York Track Club mates Bob Patterson and Don McCarten. Crothers was aiming at a 47.3 mark.

Later in the anchor leg of the 800-yard relay, he clocked a rapid 30.9, the fastest 200-yard run of his career.

Kidd won the three-mile event in 13:40.4. He was aiming for 13:30.

Regas Lap of Toronto Track Club, a half-miler and miler who never ran the two-mile distance before, surprised the crowd by winning the event in 8:59.8.

Quinte Trap, Gun Club

Jack Waroaugh and Don Parkin turned in perfect 25 scores to pace a big field at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's regular mid-week shoot last evening.

Doug Johnston, Harry Farnell, Cy Gardner, Jerry Robertson and Earl Marvin were close on the leaders' heels with scores of 24.

Other good scores were: George Hennett, 23, John Walsh 22, Don Rodgers 22, Bill Kemp 21, Jack Ruttan 21 and Jake Nelson 20.

Gary Player Has 'Dream'

Palmer, Nicklaus Open Favorites

By JIM BECKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like Hamlet, Gary Player dresses in black and has dreams. Player dreams about golf.

If one of his dreams had only lasted a little longer, he would have been saved a lot of nightmares at the U.S. Open this weekend.

He had a dream that he won the Open, the only major golf title that he has never won. There was just one trouble—he woke up before he found out whether he won it this year.

"I know my name is written on the cup," Player said as the field of 150 set out today over the Congressional Country Club course in pursuit of this most important golf title.

So the stars of golf will battle through Saturday—18 holes today and Friday and 36 holes on the final day—to see if Player's dream comes true this year.

HEARTACHES ARE THERE

In Shakespeare's phrase, there are plenty of heartaches in store.

Congressional is listed at par 70. But is is the longest course ever used for the Open, 7,053 yard.

That mean the two big belters of golf, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, share the role of favorite and only five or six others are seriously considered as contenders.

Player, once rated a member of golf's big three and now struggling to rejoin the group, is one of them. Champagne Tony Lema, winner of the last two tour tournaments, is another.

The others would include defender Julius Boros, sharp-putting Billy Casper and old Sam Snead, at 52 player in his 34th consecutive Open.

FAR WILL SURVIVE

Nobody expects par to take a beating.

"We won't score well here," Player said. "There won't be 20 rounds below 70."

"The winner might get under 290, say 279. It's possible if the weather stays nice."

Asked to single out his most dangerous competitors, Palmer said:

"Nicklaus could do it, of course. Lema could do it, if he keeps on putting the way he has been. Player could.

"This is not a course that somebody is going to tear up. The winner will have to string together a lot of pars. Julius Boros does that.

"There are a couple of others but those are the main ones."

HOCKEY ACE IS HARVARD GRAD—Edmonton-born hockey ace Gene Kinasewich has graduated from Harvard University with honors after his enrolment four years ago caused a storm of controversy. At that time, critics accused Harvard of importing the Junior A hockey player for his skill, claiming Kinasewich was not a solid student. When he graduated, Gene became the first student from outside the U.S. to receive the William J. Bingham Award, Harvard's highest athletic honor and also received magna cum laude honors on his senior thesis in his social relations major. (CP Photo)

SPAIN, RUSSIA IN FINAL

BARCELONA (AP) — Spain and the Soviet Union won games Wednesday to advance to the Saturday final of the European Soccer Cup of Nations in Madrid. The Russians blanked Denmark 3-0, while Spain edged Hungary 2-1 after extra time.

Latta Bows To Foxboro

A trio of runs in the first inning sent Foxboro on the way to an 8-1 South Hastings Baseball League victory over Latta last night.

The winners added another in the third and four in the fourth for an 8-0 lead. Latta broke the shutout by scoring once in the sixth and final inning.

Gord "Soup" Campbell chalked up a four-hit victory on the Foxboro mound. He struck out two and walked the same number.

Gene Yorke was the loser before Lorne Cronkright took over in the second inning. They gave up six hits in all. Yorke fanned one and walked five while Cronkright whiffed three and passed a pair.

Glen Reynolds belted a home run and two singles to spearhead the Foxboro attack. Mena added a double, Howard Skally and Pete Young a single each.

Bob Sullivan accounted for the Latta run with a homer. Other hits went to Doug Rollins, Doug Chisholm and Eraic Cronkright.

Wins Junior First Round

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Defending champion Jim Short of Toronto won the first four holes of the back nine to take his first-round match Wednesday in the Mid-America Junior Open golf tournament.

Short was 2-up after the front nine, shooting a one-over-par 36, and he parred the 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th holes to defeat John DeMaine of Akron 6 and 5.

Today's play will consist of two 18-hole rounds. Two more 18-hole rounds will be played Friday, with the final round Saturday.

Planes Whip Read 12-5

Plane's Concrete turned on the power hitting to clobber Read 12-5 in a South Hastings Baseball League game played at Canniffon last night.

The winners pounded out a total of 16 assorted hits on the way to the victory, scoring in six of the game's nine innings. They had an 8-0 lead by the end of four frames.

Harry Cole pitched five-hit ball over the distance to earn the victory. He struck out four and issued half a dozen walks.

L. Durkin stayed the route for Read despite the winner's big hit total. He whiffed a pair and walked five.

Don Forsythe cracked a triple, double and single for Plane's Concrete while Ross Zopp also had three hits, one of them a double. Len Harvey hit a home run and a double, Ken Forsythe a double and single and Ron Urch a pair of singles. Harry Cole, Ross Parks, John Tweedy and Butch Clapp split the other base knocks.

Read hits, all singles, went to C. Milligan, Claude Carr, Gerald Brennan, Ken Brennan and L. Durkin.

Shannonville used a seven-run fourth inning to clobber Foxboro 8-0 in a South Hastings Baseball League game last night.

The winners took advantage of five walks and three errors, while plating their seven runs. They added another marker in the sixth.

Hill hurled the victory, scattering six Deseronto hits. He struck out seven, walked one and received errorless support.

Hearn was the loser, giving up seven hits. He fanned four but walked ten and the club was charged with four miscues.

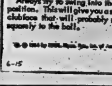
Golf Instruction at the Masters

A BACKSWING CHECKPOINT

Most often from now the basic fault in a golfer's swing — the one cause that produces other troubles — comes before the club reaches the top. Rather than the hips on the back-swing.

A common error that produces incredible inconsistency is the tendency to open or close the clubface when you start to bring it around on the backswing. Check the position of your clubhead on the backswing.



When your hands are at high on your hips on the backswing, note the direction that the back of your left wrist is facing. It should be facing forward, or close to it.

If it is facing upward, you have rolled your clubface into an open position (2). If it looks down toward the ground, you have a closed clubface (3).

Always try to swing into the first position (1). This will give you a square clubface that will probably return squarely to the ball.

Says Dancer Bringing 'New Era'

TORONTO (CP) — E. P. Taylor, Canada's leading horse breeder, said Wednesday night that his competition is getting keener and "that's good for racing."

Taylor was speaking at the annual Canadian Horse-of-the-Year dinner, at which he and his wife were given an oil portrait of Canebora, winner of the award in 1953.

J. Samuel Perlman, publisher of the sponsoring Daily Racing Form, made the presentation. He credited Taylor's Northern Dancer, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness with bringing "a new era of racing to this country."

Bunker Stops Chisox; Birds Grab Perch

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ask Nels Potter, wonders when the Yankees will stop.

The Minnesota Twins manager watched his wrecking crew, home run sources of the major leagues with 93 circuits, get fenced in by Cleveland pitching for 18 innings Wednesday night as the Indians swept a doubleheader, 3-2 and 5-0.

Pedro Ramos, a former Twin, didn't help Mele's disposition. Pinch-hitting, whose gopher ball tendencies prompted his departure from Minnesota two years ago, blanked his old mates on seven hits and belted one of two Cleveland homers in the nightcap.

Max Alvis, whose ninth-inning clout broke up the opener, hit the other.

The defeats dropped Minnesota into fifth place, one percentage point behind the Indians in the American League pennant race.

Baltimore Orioles took the league lead by a game over Chicago when they defeated the White Sox 6-1 behind rookie sensation Wally Bunker. New York Yankees fell 1½ games off the pace, dropping a 4-3 decision to Boston Red Sox in 12 innings.

Detroit Tigers nipped Kansas City Athletics 3-2 on Dick McAuliffe's run-scoring single in the 10th inning and Los Angeles Angels outlasted Washington Senators 5-3.

Minnesota managed two home runs—solo shots by Rich Rollins and Frank Kostro Tuesday—while losing three straight to the Indians.

Power failure in Wednesday's twilight opener negated a brilliant pitching performance by Camilo Pascual, who carried a one-hit shutout into the eighth inning. Larry Brown's double, a walk and singles by Vic Davalillo and Leon Wagner pulled the Indians into a 2-2 tie.

Alvis' eighth homer, with two out in the ninth, made Pascual a loser for the third time in 12 decisions.

Alvis connected again in the fourth inning of the second game. The Indians scored a pair of runs in the fifth and one in the seventh before Ramos completed the attack with his second homer of the season.

Bunker held Chicago to six hits and picked up his seventh victory. The 19-year-old was abetted by Jackie Brandt and Sam Bowens, who homered.

Russ Nixon, pinch hitting for relief ace Dick Radatz in the 12th inning, singled home Boston's winning run off Ralph Terry. The Yankees had sent the game into overtime with an unearned run in the ninth.

Radatz finished five innings in his 32rd appearance and recorded his fifth victory.

McAuliffe, who had homered previously, singled off Kansas City reliever John Wyatt with two out in the 10th, sending Bill Bruton home with the winning run. The Athletics lost a 2-1 lead in the eighth when pinch hitter Jake Wood tripled and scored on Jerry Lumpe's single.

Los Angeles scored two runs on sacrifice flies and other on a squeeze bunt to conclude their first winning road trip of the season on a bright note. Bo Belinsky, the winner, and reliever Bob Lee and Bob Duliba checked the Senators after Don Lock's two-run homer in the third inning.

International Cast Will Test Crothers, Kidd

MONTREAL (CP) — An international cast has been assembled to test Canadian Olympic hopefuls Bruce Kidd and Bill Crothers at the Ste. Jean Baptiste Day gymnastic games in McGill Stadium next Wednesday.

Kidd will face five tough competitors in the 5,000 - metres event, including Britain's John Anderson, who has been timed at 13:31.6. Kidd's best time for the 5,000 metres is 13:43.8.

Crothers will run in the 800 metres event against six rivals, among them George Kerr of Jamaica, a Pan-American and British Empire Games winner in the event.

The complete entry list for the three track events was released Wednesday.

Alex Oakley of Oshawa, a gold-medal winner for Canada at the Pan-American Games, headlines a nine-man field for the 20-kilometre walk competition.

Entered in Kidd's event are Chris Williamson, from Fredericton, who has been training with Kidd in Toronto; Robert Sander of New York; Maurice Fayolle of France, and Tom O'Riordan of Dublin, Ireland.

Meet officials said Sander, a 14-minute man in the 5,000 metres, has agreed to act as a pacer for Kidd, going all-out for the first two miles to give the young Toronto momentum for a crack at a record in the event.

In addition to Kerr, the 24-year-old Crothers will be running against John Boulter and Bill Cornell, both of Britain; Frans Smith of Buffalo, and Frenchmen Maurice Lurot and Francois Chatelot.

Likely to give Oakley his toughest competition in the 20-kilometre walk are Ronald Zinn of West Point Academy, the U.S. and world record holder in the event; and Chris McCartney of Chicago.

WILL MEET IN AUGUST

LOS ANGELES (AP)—World bantamweight champion Eder Jofre of Brazil and Jesus Pimental of Mexico will meet for the title in a mid-August bout, promoter George Parnassus announced Wednesday.

Minor Softball Results

Two of three games played in the Squirts' division's West Hill section resulted in close decisions last night.

Cowboys' edged the Cubs 13-10 and Cardinals downed the Lions 6-5 in a low-scoring affair. In the other game, Vikings clobbered the Steelers by a 15-7 total.

Thirty Enter Irish Derby

THE CURRAGH, Ireland (CP-AP) — A field of 30 horses for the Irish Derby on June 27 was announced Wednesday.

The race, which is the basis for one of this year's Irish Sweepstakes, is at 1½ miles at the Curragh track and carries a purse of $148,730 for the winner.

Visit to Tiny Kingdom Treat to Eyes, Ears, Minds

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Sikkim is a sparkling little jewel of a kingdom set in the lofty Himalayas between Tibet and India.

Courtesy of television and NBC's producer Lou Hazam and his team, we know a lot about this tiny Buddhist country—its rain forests and orchids, its principal export—cardamom, a fragrant spice — its market places and its royal palace.

The former Hope Cooke of New York now is Sikkim's queen and her husband, Thondup, is its king. They were our principal guides Wednesday night during an hour's trip around the country. It was in color and the cameras made the most of the bold reds of the lamas, caps and the uniforms of the palace guard, the burnished gold of the religious statues and of the magnificent mountain scenery.

Like other Hazam - produced special programs—The Nile, a camera trip down U.S. Route 1 and another journey on the Orient Express—the program was a treat to the eyes, ears and mind.

Confirming our worst fears, there now is in existence a singing group called The American Beatles. They will be singing School Days next Saturday on ABC's American Bandstand at .

NBC's Sunday Show June 21 will include some highlights of the Army - McCarthy Senate hearings of 10 years ago. . . . ABC films a series of four hour-long specials for sportsmen next season about hunting and fishing.

Dick Van Dyke Can Match Failures With Any Star

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's not in the cards for Dick Van Dyke's Emmy to go to his head.

Dick can match his failure with any star in the business. It's remarkable that he lasted long enough to taste success.

His explanation:

"As hard as it is to get into show business, it's even harder to get out."

Dick got in more or less by default. He and a pal tried to start an advertising agency in Danville, Ill., after the war but the town wasn't big enough to support one. So the pair began playing around the area with a record act—mimicking the records of famous personalities.

Encouraged by their success, they came to California and scored a hit in several small night clubs. Then they were hooked into the bigtime—Sleepy Maxie's.

"It was a disaster," Dick recalled. "A lot of big stars were there opening night—Bob Hope, Lucille Ball, Desi Arnaz and Barry Sullivan. They just sat and looked at us. We didn't get a laugh in the whole show. When we got our notices, we were handed our salaries and told to leave."

BREAK UP ACT

The act somehow was cancelled out of the Blue Angel in New York. Dick and his partner, Phil Erickson, finally broke up the act in Atlanta, Ga., in 1952 and Dick took a job as announcer with an Atlanta television station.

He started his own show which flopped. He wrote and performed for two hours each weekday, painting the scenery on weekends. A New Orleans station lured him away, then he was tapped by CBS to join its stable of young comics.

"I was on the first panel of To Tell the Truth as the comic relief. I didn't turn out that way," Dick said. "I was fired after four shows."

For a time he mowed the lawn, played golf and collected his CBS cheque. Finally he told the network he wasn't getting anywhere, and the contract was dissolved. Dick tried a play in North Conway, N.H., then landed a Broadway revue. Dick got great reviews. The show lasted 16 days.

A television spectacular lad to Bye Bye Birdie on Broadway, which led to his award-winning CBS series plus movie roles.

Two Aussies Favored At Wimbledon

LONDON (CP) — Two Australians, both seeded as the players to beat in the 1964 Wimbledon tennis championships but none league titles have given advance notice that there'll be interesting play for those who like to watch an route to the finals.

Roy Emerson and Margaret Smith rated the top seedings in the men's and women's singles events set to open Monday on the grass courts of the All-England Club in southwest London.

But in the last big tune-up before Wimbledon opens, a 17-year-old from Dallas staged the kind of performance Wednesday that could steal some fans from Wimbledon's centre courts. Cliff Richey overpowered Przemek Gorbout of Waterloo, Que., 9-7, 8-6 to knock the Canadian out of the fourth round of the London Lawn Tennis championships at Queen's Club.

The Wimbledon draw announced Wednesday has Gorbout facing a player still to qualify from British southern section in the first round. Keith Carpenter of Montreal meets Jaroslav Drobny of Britain.

Pressure Too Much For Palmer Caddie

WASSINGTON (AP)—Arnold Palmer's caddie quit him Wednesday on the eve of the U.S. Open golf tournament. He said he couldn't stand the pressure.

"I'm a nervous wreck," said Eli Morrison, a 31-year-old Negro who voluntarily blew the dream of most every bag-toter in the world.

"I thought about it all night. I couldn't sleep, then I decided I couldn't do it. All them people pushing and shoving. All that tension out there. I didn't feel up to the race."

Eli said he realized he was giving up one of a caddy's most desired assignments and perhaps blowing $1,000 in case Palmer, a favorite for the title, should win.

Wife Is Valued At $417,000

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 29-year-old mother is awarded $417,- 000 to her husband during his lifetime, a University of Florida economics professor testified in circuit court Wednesday.
Dr. Roy Lassiter Jr., said he based his estimate on a wife's economic contribution to the home by combining the average salaries of a public school teacher and domestic servant.
He testified in Wright E. Sarvis' negligence suit against the Seaboard Air Line Railroad in connection with the death of Sarvis' wife in a 4-train col-

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For June 19

Aries (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19) — Breakthrough day. Promises made concerning money. You can gain most by emphasizing cheer, beauty. Excellent for hard-selling of Luxury Items. Highlight originality, dash. Daring.

Taurus (Apr. 20 - May 20) — Outlook Bright. Free your mind of money worries. Contacts can be made at club or social gathering tonight. Hold off on final decisions. Be determined to complete Current Project. Be diplomatic.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20) — Many bright spots. But you may not be able to recognize them immediately. Your greatest problem today is Impatience. Loved one makes attempt to explain. If you are Understanding — you will be happier.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22) — Combine creative energy with recognition of basic necessities. Details cannot be set aside. Face issues squarely. You will find yourself more than capable! Tonight: seek imaginative entertainment.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 23) — Conference regarding insurance, security, possible investment opportunity — all favored. You could come up with plan which saves time, money. Don't be afraid to speak up, ask questions.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 23) — Cycle continues high. But domestic situation requires special attention. In plain words — be mature, considerate. Offer sympathy instead of "I told you so" sermon. Stress Logical Approach.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23) — Demand the best of yourself. Includes personal appearance, ideas. In expressing ideas, "bathe" them with vitality. Others study you. Many want reassurance. Utilize natural bent for psychology.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 - Nov. 21) — You receive answers to questions — but in an unorthodox manner. Key is confidence. And willingness to act on information available. No more delay. Maintain strength of principles, beliefs.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21) — Fortunate if you are not "lured" by promises of easy money. Be thorough. Earn respect by not rushing after first offer. There are variations to consider. Message clear before day is over.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) — Opportunity exists to fulfill fondest hopes, desires. But you must be willing to Take First Step. Don't be afraid. It is simple matter of faith. Assert authority. Then others follow your example.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) — You may feel need of added support. This is forthcoming. But you cannot force issue. Verification of belief received from afar — possibly through telegram, call.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20) — Good lunar aspect highlights definite steps toward fulfillment. Verification received which shines "green light." You can expand — you can meet people who help you in variety of ways.

• • •

If Today is Your Birthday . . . you have striking personality, can pioneer new fields of endeavor — but you require loved ones at your side.

General Tendencies — Cycle high for Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn. Special word to Taurus: Woman who appeared indifferent proves to be enthusiastic.

Offers Formula To Get Along With Newsmen

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — "You never mislead, and you never tell a lie."

Sir Harold Evans, ooks spokesman for Britain's prime minister, offered that formula Tuesday as the secret for getting along with newspaper men.

And the consensus of correspondents attending the annual conference of the Commonwealth Press Union was that Sir Harold, in his seven years at 10 Downing Street under former prime minister Harold Macmillan, had fully lived up to his own code.

Sir Herold left Downing Street this year to become a spokesman for commercial television. In his speech, he ranged over a wide variety of newspaper definitions, including such terms as "off the record and non-attributable, discussed "infinitudes" standing in the way of the free flow of news and made passing reference to the attitude of senior civil servants toward official spokesmen.

"After all," he quoted one eminent civil servant as saying, "if the spokesman was really clever, he wouldn't be in this job, would he?"

VERY LITTLE MISSED

Despite all the difficulties in maintaining a proper balance between government and the press, Sir Harold said, there is "very little the knowledgeable and persistent journalist" cannot winkle out from official sources.

Asked by Canadian delegates why British prime ministers seldom hold press conferences in line with presidential practice in the United States, Sir Harold drew attention to inhibitions imposed by the need for ministers to report first to Parliament.

He made plain that he personally prefers the non-attributable briefing. This enabled reporters to get "depth" in stories.

Evans, 53, used to be known as "Evans the leak" in his Downing Street days, a libel doubly misleading because despite his name he is not Welsh and because even at his most confiding, he managed to stop well short of indiscretion.

BNA Act Change Halted

OTTAWA (CP) — A constitutional amendment that everybody seems to support hit a snag in the Commons Thursday night and, as a result, MPs will be back on the same topic today.

Involved is an amendment to the British North America Act —the Canadian constitution—allowing the federal government to include survivors' benefits in its proposed Canada Pension Plan. As the BNA Act now reads, this would be an invasion of provincial rights.

The amendment actually has to be made by the British Parliament which passed the original BNA Act of 1867. Although it has been talked about for years, nothing has ever been done to give the Canadian Parliament the right to amend directly its own constitution.

There is some urgency about the current matter because the British Parliament is expected to dissolve soon for the fall general election.

The snag appeared when Real Caouette, the Creditiste leader, sought to add some extra words to the government resolution which asks the British Parliament for the amendment.

The first part of the resolution reads: "The Parliament of Canada may make laws in relation to old age pensions and supplementary benefits, including survivors' and disability benefits . . .

Goldwater To Oppose Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (CP-AP)—Senator Barry Goldwater's decision to vote against the civil rights bill today has triggered a warning from Governor William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania that it means the senator from Arizona would be unable to defeat President Johnson in the November general election.

But a southern Democrat, Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana, says that if Goldwater votes against the measure he could carry the South against the president.

Thirty motions came shortly after Goldwater told the Senate late Thursday that he is "unalterably opposed to discrimination of any sort" but is opposed to the bill because two sections of it "fly in the face of the constitution."

He said he feels these two sections—the public accommodations and equal employment parts—are a threat to individual freedoms. He said they would lead to creation of a police state.

EXPECT PASSAGE

The Senate is expected to pass the strongest civil rights bill in U.S. history by tonight.

The House of Representatives is ready to start action immediately on the measure in order that it can be sent to President Johnson for his signature —making it law—by July 4, U.S. Independence Day.

Senate leaders said a survey showed that four hours of speeches are left and estimated that this would mean final passage by 9 p.m.

The Arizona senator insisted Thursday he voted as a matter of principle, not of political expediency.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Scattered thunderstorms this afternoon will indicate the approach of drier and cooler air. Partly cloudy skies and slightly cooler temperatures are forecast for Friday in southern Ontario with mostly cloudy and cool weather prevailing in Northern Ontario.

Council May Extend Peace Force Life

UN Soldiers Braced for Trouble

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council may vote today to extend the life of the United Nations peace force on Cyprus until the end of September.

A five-country resolution continuing the 6,400-man force for another three months appeared assured of passage. Council President Arsene Assouan Usher of the Ivory Coast said he knew of no opposition. The force's present 90-day mandate expires June 27. Canada has agreed in principle to extend the mandate involving 1,222 of its troops.

The resolution also takes action appeal to the hostile Greek and Turkish-Cypriots to end their fighting. Meanwhile, UN mediator Sakari Tuomioja of Finland will go ahead with his efforts to find a permanent solution of the deep differences between the two warring factions.

Neither Greek - Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou nor Turkish UN Ambassador Orhan Eraly opposed extension of the UN force.

NICOSIA (Reuters) — United Nations soldiers braced for renewed trouble today along the northwest coast of Cyprus after four days of shooting which claimed two lives.

A Turkish-Cypriot from the village of Ayios Theodhoros was killed Thursday and three Greek-Cypriots and two Turkish-Cypriots in the area were wounded.

First aid was administered to the wounded by a Swedish medical officer as helicopters stood by to fly out casualties if necessary.

A Greek - Cypriot was shot dead in the area Tuesday.

Violence erupted on the Mediterranean island last winter following recommended changes to the 1960 constitution by the majority Greek-Cypriots.

The Greek - Cypriots claimed the constitution hampered the day-to-day running of the government. The Turkish-Cypriots outnumbered four to one, interpreted the proposed amendments as a threat to their civil rights.

Ontario Liberal Convention To Be Held Sept. 17 to 19

TORONTO (CP) — Gordon Blair, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, announced Thursday the Ontario Liberal leadership convention will be held in Toronto Sept. 17 to 19.

He urged riding associations to elect delegates as soon as possible. Each provincial riding will have seven delegates and each federal riding three.

About 1,400 delegates are expected at the Royal York Hotel to vote for the candidates for the provincial leadership.

To date five men have declared they will run for the position. They are: Andrew Thompson, 38, insurance agent, social worker and MPP for Toronto-Dovercourt; Robert Nixon, 35, farmer and MPP for Brant; Charles Templeton, 48, former evangelist and newspaper executive, now in advertising; Eddie Sargent, 47, mayor of Owen Sound and MPP for Grey North, and Joseph Gould, 34, lawyer and MPP for Bracondale.

Joseph Greene, 44, Arnprior lawyer and member of Parliament for Renfrew South, has not declared himself officially but has been accepting as many speaking engagements as the others.

Set Drug Prescriptions At Dollar

OTTAWA (CP) — Drugs should be brought under the proposed national health services program with the purchaser of each prescription paying only $1, the royal commission on health services said today.

"Although we accept that the manufacture and distribution of drugs in the country is a private enterprise venture, we have no hesitation in stating that the public interest is dominant," the commission said in its report to the government.

The report recommends that the federal government contribute to the provinces half the cost of a prescription drug benefit program within the over-all health program.

When the commission suggests a $1 payment by each prescription purchaser, it says that if the druggist wishes to reduce his standard price, and deduct the amount from the $1 fee, he should be free to do so.

Plans to Swim to Death, Rescued 36 Hours Later

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Miami man, jobless and depressed, says he waded into the Atlantic Ocean at Miami Beach Monday night, planning to "swim until I went down."

Thirty-six hours later, Leo Ledoux, 38, was hauled aboard a cabin cruiser three miles off Riviera Beach, 60 miles north of where he apparently entered the water.

Officers found his clothing Thursday, neatly piled near a retaining wall in Miami, where he said they were.

Ledoux's lips were parched, and his eyes inflamed. Otherwise, he was in good physical condition.

He told reporters he suffered attacks of depression and last Wednesday quit his job. He had $6.50 in his pocket then, he said, and $1.02 when he went to the beach.

"I waded out and then I started to swim," he related. "I swam and floated all night.

"After a while, I sort of changed my mind about dying. I started to swim back, but I guess I lost my sense of direction.

"When night care I started to pray. I couldn't see the lights of the hotels, but I saw the glow.

"I swam in the direction of the yellow until daylight. Then I started to see some fishing boats. I yelled for help and one of them, Star Dust, picked me up."

Ledoux got his clothes back Thursday. But someone had stolen his $1.02.

No State Medicine But No Means Test

Would Pay by Taxes Premiums, Lotteries

OTTAWA (CP) — A prepaid comprehensive, universal health services program for Canadians was recommended today by the royal commission on health services.

Unveiling a broad "Health charter for Canadians," the seven-member commission rejected the idea of "state medicine" for Canada.

The dominant theme is a forceful, 914 page report, tabled in the Commons, in that the federal and provincial governments must co-operate to provide the highest possible health standards for all Canadians regardless of age, condition, place of residence or ability to pay.

"That less than half of our population has some degree of reasonably adequate health insurance coverage for medical services is a matter of grave national concern," says the commission, set up three years ago Saturday under the chairmanship of Supreme Court Justice Emmett Hall.

"Of greater concern is the fact that few organized insurance programs worth mentioning exist in equally important areas such as mental illness, dental, and optical care, drug requirements, retarded and crippled children."

The commission called for a federal - provincial conference within six months to work out its sweeping health program and stressed the urgency for government leadership.

The $30,000 - word report, weighing 4½ pounds, advocates virtually free prescription drugs, floridation of all community water supplies, free dental care and eyeglasses for children up to 18, expansion of the hospital insurance scheme to include out-patient services and more emphasis on home care.

It calls for placing mental illness in the same category as

Fluoridate All Water

OTTAWA (CP) — Fluoridation of all community water systems in Canada to prevent tooth decay was recommended today by the royal commission on health services.

The commission's proposal in this controversial health area also recommended federal-provincial co-operation in the installation of fluoridation systems.

It said Ottawa should provide, under the commission's proposed health facilities development fund, grants in the provinces of 75 per cent of the cost of equipment and installation for fluoridating community water supplies.

Major Recommendations

OTTAWA (CP) — Major recommendations today of the royal commission on health services.

Might Give Dope Addicts Free Drugs

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on health services suggests that an experimental program might be undertaken" to register drug addicts and provide them with narcotics under strict medical and narcotic control supervision."

This suggestion was included in several recommendations for dealing with the narcotic problem—"a symptom of an underlying personality disorder combined with the influences of the social environment."

At least one general hospital in larger centres should have a non-penal unit for the treatment of addicts, says the report tabled today in the Commons. There would be a clinic where addicts could go voluntarily for help while withdrawing from their addiction.

Cost $20 A Head Annually

OTTAWA (CP)—Higher taxes.

That's the price Canadians would have to pay for the big system of prepaid, comprehensive health services recommended today by the Hall royal commission.

Would they pay the taxes willingly?

The commission thinks so. It said that in a year of public hearings, it asked every organization whether people would accept higher taxation for better health services.

"The answer has been yes, and there has been no dissenting word.

How much higher? The commission didn't attempt an answer. But it painted this picture of costs:

Similar—and inadequate"

By 1971 the annual cost of Canada's present system of health services "with all its limitations and inadequacies" will be $4,015,000,000 or $238 for every man, woman and child.

$30 MORE

The commission said the system it recommends would cost an additional $688,000,000 or $30 per person.

The $688,000,000 doesn't mean that taxes would go up by that amount. They would have to increase even more.

Explaining, the commission said its proposed system would mean a shift in outlays for health services from existing private plans to the public scheme.

So, besides the added cost of running the new system, the private premiums now being paid would be replaced by taxes. On the other hand, that much more money would be available.

Probe Jailing Aliens

OTTAWA (CP) — A formal inquiry is being launched to investigate charges by opposition MPs and certain groups that the immigration department has kept many immigrants in jail for weeks and months without justification.

The surprise announcement was made in the Commons Thursday by Immigration Minister Rene Tremblay, who has met some of the several weeks over his department's handling of immigrants fighting deportation to their native countries for major and minor offences.

When Opposition Leader Diefenbaker repeated his request for an independent inquiry Thursday, Mr. Tremblay said the government has decided to appoint a one-man commission to study all allegations against his department.

The minister said the commission—not an official of the immigration department — will be named early next week. His terms of reference would be prohibited for the same time. The report of the inquiry would be referred to a Commons committee for detailed study.

ACTIONS 'ARBITRARY'

Mr. Diefenbaker charged that the immigration department has been acting in an arbitrary way.

He said the latest deportation case to come to light, that of a 20-year-old Greek seaman named Joeli Vergakis, was "another very sordid example of

Jury Recommends Warnings to Students

Asks Closer Watch on Universities' Drug Trafficking

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury has recommended closer supervision of persons trafficking in and using drugs at universities.

The jury, inquiring into the May 7 death of 23 - year - old Wayne Bruce MacKenzie of Burlington, Ont., said universities should improve counselling services on the use of drugs and should warn students of the potential danger involved in their use.

It found that MacKenzie died of heart failure brought on by extreme fatigue resulting from excessive use of wyamine sulphate, a stimulant.

Mackenzie's body was found on the floor of his room in residence at the University of Toronto and the jury was told that he, and at least five others in the residence house, had been taking the drug while studying for final examinations.

Students testified that MacKenzie also had taken pills during March and April while studying for exams.

Roger S. Bodkin, a Toronto druggist, said a University of Toronto student had bought drugs from him without a prescription by claiming to be a medical student. He said artist student John Penman "told me he was a medical student and he had a prescription from his father who was a doctor."

"Now I'm in this fix and he's in this fix," the 72-year-old druggist said.

Penman, questioned earlier by Austin Cooper, counsel for Mr. Bodkin, said he had used no ruse whatever in buying the drugs. He said he phoned several druggstores in November before Mr. Bodkin told him he had the drug for sale.

Others told him he needed a prescription for the drugs or that they did not stock them, he said.

Penman said he bought several hundred pills at the drug store between November, 1963, and supplied the pills at cost to other students.

He said he first found out about the pills in 1961 while he was a student at Waterloo University. He said them again in 1962 at the University of Western Ontario and last year at Victoria College.

School Principal Honored By Friends on Retirement

Some forty years ago, John L. Good felt himself lucky in accompanying the Queen's University hockey team to New York City for games in Madison Square Gardens. The occasion was the annual Christmas tournament with American universities. As a sparg goalie, Mr. Good had the good fortune to be in action for a part of the tournament. Now, after spending over thirty-four years in the teaching profession, he looks forward to a return visit to New York, not under quite different circumstances. His associates (the District High School Board, the teaching staff, the clerical staff and the janitorial staff) at the Stirling Rawdon District High School, from which he is retiring after twenty-eight years as principal, have presented him with reservations for two for a four-days visit to the night club in New York during this year's Easter holiday. If the Yankees perform in satisfactory fashion, Mr. Good may have a chance to fulfil a dream he has long cherished of attending a World Series ball game.

Thirty-nine guests were present on Saturday night, June 12, for a dinner honoring Mr. J. L. Good in the banquet room at Blue's Hotel in Madoc. A beautiful floor centre-piece graciously loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Frank Harding, focused attention on the head table. Those at the head table included Mr. and Mrs. Good, Mr. Ray Mallory (chairman of the District High School Board), Mr. H. W. Rodgers, Mrs. Gordon W. Bailey, Mr. W. Farmer, (who formed along with Mr. Harry Morrow the committee of four to plan the occasion), Mrs. Francis Lyons and Mrs. W. McKeown.

Mrs. Gordon W. Bailey presided and Doug Rodgers said grace. Mrs. W. McKeown made the presentation of an attractive corsage of pink roses and white feathered carnations to Mrs. Good. Mr. Wendell Cassidy accompanied the opening newsmonies at the piano.

The delicious dinner was the occasion of many enjoyable reminiscences. The chairman maintained the spirit of happy fellowship by reading four verses in verse form. Mrs. Bailey had composed a series of couplets in which the characteristics (lesser ones) or significant traits of the principal appeared and the Board's employees were assemblingly (and truthfully) recognized. The scroll on which the couplets were recorded was presented to Mr. Good in the midst of a round of applause in honor of their composer's ingenuity.

EARLY LIFE

Everyone was called to more serious thoughts as Ray Mallory sympathetically expressed the feelings and thoughts of those present in the following: It was Mr. and Mrs. Good. Mr. Good's early life in the rural district at Kenmore was briefly described. Forty-two years ago he attended the Ottawa Normal School and there met Miss Isobel Roberts of Lanark (and also William Farmer of Perth) who became his wife. Mr. Good turned to high school teaching some ten years ago, with a B.A. from Queen's University and a high school teacher's certificate from the Ontario College of Education in his possession, he took Mrs. Good as a bride to Wiarton. Three years later, they took up residence in Stirling, where they have spent their beautiful home on Annis Street. The speaker spoke appreciatively of Mr. Good's ability to sing solo, singly or as a couple, have made in community life in Stirling and Rawdon. Reference was made of Mr. Good's positions in the Masonic Lodge, the Rotary Club and the Legion Band. For many years he was superintendent of the Sunday School at St. Paul's United Church and also served on the church boards. The important 14th year of Mr. Good in the lives of the students who have attended the local high school for a quarter of a century was mentioned by the speaker with appropriate emphasis.

After Mr. Mallory's remarks, Mrs. Francis made the presentation to Mr. Good of the board and staff's gift. Mr. Good was completely surprised by the expression of the esteem in which he is held.

PERSONAL TRIBUTE

The chief expression of the high regard in which it holds its retiring principal was given by Wilbur A. Farmer. His reminiscences as a friend of so many years standing of both Mr. and Mrs. Good made his remarks a personal tribute as well.

Mr. Good then addressed the group with words of thanks to everyone for the kindness shown in arranging the occasion, with a tribute to all those public-spirited citizens who have co-operated so faithfully in supporting the work of the high school, with an expression of gratitude to Mrs. Good for her unfailing support throughout the years, and finally a sincere hope that in the future Stirling will continue to maintain the principles and standards that in the long run give the "good life" for all citizens.

Gordon W. Bailey was the perfect choice of two educational and entertaining films. These brought a memorable evening to a close.

On June 10, the regular meeting of the Moira Valley District Council was held in the Madoc High School. It was well attended.

The District Commissioner Jos Irish reported 175 Scouts, Cubs, Brownies and Guides and leaders took part in the St. John Ambulance service in Stirling. Only three groups were represented at the Scout Camporee. Stirling placed first, Tweed second and third in activities. There were 107 Cubs and 10 leaders at the Cuboree in Tweed in May. He also reported Bayside was inactive at this time, but things will be going strong soon. D.C. Irish attended the "Variety Night" in Tweenaburg in May. He congratulated the leaders there for the interest they are showing. He also attended the Gilwell reunion socials held in Marmora and in Stirling. The D.C. is responsible for all Scouting in Hastings County. Reports Provincial Council is concerned with complaints received concerning Scout Camporees.

Bill Marsh is to be presented with a warrant re camping. Scouts are responsible for conduct on camping insurance.

A.D.C. Harvey has been busy conducting a Scout Course in Marmora. It is hoped that first aid will be taught in each group soon.

S.M. Harold Miller has ordered the Scout Calendars. Leaders of the swim meet which was held in Belleville this year; Marmora were the winners.

Madoc held a successful hot dress bun sale and a peanut sale in Madoc recently. Everything is pilde was doing well, although Cub activity at present was limited. Cub Master Marmora are to receive badges for their church work.

John Nicholls, Stirling representative to District Council, has resigned; he will be replaced soon. The Gilwell Scouts and Cubs are planning a trip to the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

The revised by-laws were accepted on a motion by Mr. Hubbard, seconded by Bill Marsh.

On a motion by Bill Marsh and seconded by Ed Hill, the the same executive committee for the District Council was returned, with the exception of Mr. Bleaker, who will not be available. Each group committee was asked to present a name at the annual District Council meeting in October; from this list one will be chosen and nominated to fill the position of vice-president.

500 Students School for Deaf Leave for Home

With term exams completed and the school year ended, over 500 students at the Ontario School for the Deaf left Belleville yesterday afternoon for their homes in different parts of the province.

The students were taken by bus to the station where they boarded special railway coaches to be met by regular passenger trains.

The custom years ago was to get students out of bed in the pre-dawn to catch early morning trains. In this way the students got to their homes before nightfall.

But it was found that the early morning departure sacked the students unnecessarily and caused dormitory commotion that awakened children not leaving on the early trains.

Now the afternoon departure allows for normal morning routine and still gets students to distant homes before midnight.

Actinolite Church Marks Centennial

The centennial of the historic marble church at the village of Actinolite is being observed this weekend with special events planned for both Sunday and Monday.

Morning and evening services will be held at the church on Sunday, while on Monday at 7.30 p.m. a historical pageau marking the founding of the village will be unveiled. An 1864 fashion parade is also planned.

The cornerstone of the church was laid June 21, 1854, and the building was completed two years later. In 1880 the church was burned by a disastrous fire which swept through the village with only the church walls being left standing. The church was rebuilt and with Presbyterian Union in 1925 was renamed Actinolite United Church.

Three Faiths Join to Back United Appeal

Representatives of Belleville's three largest religious faiths have united to aid the Belleville United Appeal. It was announced today that the Rev. C.W. Colebrook, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association and minister of Holloway Street United Church, and Rabbi Joseph Bergias of the Sons of Jacob Synagogue have accepted posts on the Appeal's Board of Directors. They will join a third member of the clergy, Right Reverend J. R. Sullivan of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, who is already a member of the United Appeal Board of Directors.

The United Appeal executive are now organizing 21 teamleaders for the annual fund-raising campaign so be hald this fall.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eero Marttinen, of R.R. 4, Sault Ste. Marie, and has been a student at the O.S.D. since 1956. Another three or four pupils will reach welding candidates before the next year. Welding has been taught at O.S.D. since 1948 and previously at least three graduates have gone on to pass the tests.

Rotary Club Holds Annual Assembly

The annual Rotary Club assembly was held at Hotel Quinte last night with a large number of Rotarians present.

President Ron Cass received reports of his numerous committee chairmen. Bill Adcock, chairman of the crippled children's committee, gave one of the most active and confident ing reports of the meeting. Irvine Dickey, treasurer, reported the club is in a very financial position.

President-elect Stan Reaiss, who was officially installed at the Ladies' Night meeting, June 28th at the Bay of Quinte Country Club, conducted with his committee chairmen for the coming years with their activities and responsibilities for a busy season ahead.

Bill Adcock will be chairman of the Crippled Children's committee. One of the highlights will be a picnic, the opening of Rallway Week, when the Rotary Club will meet at the C.N.R. station, 11.30 a.m. With many of their crippled children they will proceed in the Hotel Quinte for their regular noon-hour meeting. They will be taken to the hotel by a special steam train piped by members of the Quinte Highland Band.

Western Powers' Differences Causing Bitterness, Danger

DETROIT (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin of Canada said Thursday lack of agreement among Western powers on Far East policy is causing bitterness, disunity and danger.

Addressing the commencement session of Wayne State University after receiving an honorary degree, Mr. Martin also said Canada reserves small thanks abroad for its part in United Nations peace-keeping activities.

He said many concepts of international relations which have developed since the Second World War—the East-West division, the Iron Curtain, and Russian satellite governments—are grown in complexity so that old terminology no longer applies.

"I only wish that in respect of Far Eastern policy there was as wide a measure of agreement on both sides of the Atlantic as there now is about our policies towards Eastern Europe, but where there are serious differences among us, the left hand may undo what the right hand is laboring to accomplish.

"The result is waste of effort, bitterness, disunity and danger."

Mr. Martin said Canada has participated in every United Nations peacekeeping operation except one, and is the only UN member to do so.

"It is a long and expensive list," he added. "It is politically difficult at home because

200 Prisoners Are Released

VICTORIA (CP) — Robert Bonner, provincial attorney-general, has ordered the early release of nearly 200 prisoners serving terms in Oakalla Jail Farm here.

Mr. Bonner said the action follows a ruling by Chief Justice A. O. Wilson of the B.C. Supreme Court quashing the conviction of a Vancouver man who jailed for 30 days by Magistrate Douglas Hume of Vancouver March 8.

Justice Wilson found no information of the charge had been given to the court by the Vancouver prosecutor's office before the trial of Mrs. Wimifred Johnson was taken.

Mr. Bonner said an investigation by his department showed the Vancouver prosecutor's office had been skipping the forty-day "forms duration." He said sentences of those to be freed range from a few days to

CLASS OF 1914 — Terry Dolan, (right), receives College of Pharmacy golden anniversary certificate from Harold C. Seldon, district representative of Colleges Council. Presentation was made at reception held in Mr. Dolan's honor.

Doctors, Pharmacists Honor Terry Dolan at Reception

"Fifty Years in Pharmacy" was signally honored here Wednesday night.

Terry Dolan, dean of city pharmacists, who recently marked a half-century as a druggist, received laudits and other accolades marking the milestone.

Some fifty fellow druggists and members of the medical profession honored Mr. Dolan at a reception held at the home of Mr. Cleo Colling, 205 Dundas Street West.

Co-host with Mr. Colling for the colorful affair was Mr. Archie Boyd, fellow partner with him and the guest of honor.

Mr. Dolan was the recipient of gifts from the medical association, the city pharmaceutical association and others.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of a golden anniversary certificate from the Ontario College of Pharmacy, presented by Harold Seldon, district representative of the college council.

"Terry," said Mr. Seldon in tribute, "is one of the finest gentlemen I have ever met. It was mainly through his efforts that the name "Dolan the Druggist" became a household word here."

Mr. Seldon later said that some 26 members of the Class of 1914, Mr. Dolan's class, are eligible this year for golden anniversary certificates. There is one in British Columbia, another in Saskatchewan and yet another in Philadelphia.

Most of these will be presented at the University of Toronto's homecoming week this fall. Others will be presented locally.

JOVIAL IRISHMAN

Dr. Van Blakstee, called the "dean of the medical profession" here, presented Mr. Dolan with a special gift on behalf of his colleagues.

Dr. Sam Crook in tribute said that "Terry, like his brother Charlie, was a typical jovial Irishman. One of Terry's chief characteristics is kindliness, like that of his brother, and Miss Bess Dolan."

Dr. Crook presented the guest of honor with a handsome silver tray and glasses.

"We are very proud of Terry and his fifty years in pharmacy," said Gardner Duff, president of the Belleville Pharmaceutical Association. "We extend our best wishes for many more years of activity."

Mr. Duff extended greetings to members of the medical profession and expressed the general appreciation of the gathering to hosts Colling and Boyd.

Special tributes to Mr. Dolan were expressed by Col. J. V. Doyle with 55 years in pharmacy, Mr. Colling and Mr. Percy Geen with fifty years.

Mr. Geen, on behalf of the Belleville Pharmaceutical Association, presented Mr. Dolan with a handsome watch.

Mr. Dolan perhaps caught off guard a little by the warm reception and tributes said "I don't deserve all this" to receive the 50-year certificate. It is beyond me to thank the doctor and druggists for this fine reception.

He recalled olden times and the many changes that have taken place in pharmacy. He said he did not come to make speeches and "Thanks for this wonderful night. I will never forget it."

Last UN Troops Prepare To Leave an Untamed Congo

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The last of some 20,000 United Nations troops are preparing to leave The Congo, apparently glad to be out of that primitive African country, but aware their job is still largely unfinished.

The Congo is still untamed; rocked by internal violence, corruption, greed and indifference and faced with the prospect that eventually it may become a guerrilla battleground between the big powers of East and West.

Evidence the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency secretly recruited pilots to fly military missions against East Congolese rebels is just one part of the picture. The other is Communist Chinese are reported encouraging primitive tribesmen in the Kwilu and Kivu regions to rebel against the central Adoula Administration.

CHINESE ARE INVOLVED

Dr. Robert A. Scalapino of the University of California, writing in the current issue of Foreign Affairs magazine, says the Chinese are "involved, directly or indirectly, in every active revolution on the African continent."

"Perhaps the most striking example is the uprising led by Pierre Mulele in the Kwilu region," said Scalapino who was in Africa at the time Chinese Premier Chou En-lai made his trip. "Mulele, who only returned to The Congo in the fall of 1963 after two years in Peking, has sought to follow Communist principles completely. He is seeking to support a guerrilla movement based upon the support of the peasants."

In this presidential election year, the U.S. government is seeking to play down the significance of far - away brush fires as President Johnson paints a glowing picture of a "great society" unfolding before the American people.

But while the U.S. says little about The Congo, the expert seriously worry about the renewal of the last of the UN troops, including 179 Canadians. Adoula is faced with so much turmoil that the very existence of his administration may be at stake.

In the two years under his regime, The Congo has made some progress. The price of the country's prime product, copper, has steadied and Congolese agriculture has become more productive. Belgium has plunged in to help train Congolese troops. Italy also is lending a hand, along with Israel. Canada was asked to participate in bilateral military aid but refused.

NOT ENOUGH POLICE

Yet despite the evident foreign assistance, the U.S. is providing, as seen by the CIA activity there, some unexpected assistance. The situation is being watched but the area is so huge that there just aren't enough police forces or technicians to go around.

The Congolese need education and training and they need supervision until they acquire the self-control and the discipline of a modern civilization.

But many of the natives hate white men and will have nothing to do with them.

HAS TEACHER PLAN

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister William Davis of Ontario announced Wednesday that students admitted to the Ontario College of Education this fall will be able to spend a two-week period in a school in schools before beginning formal classes. The observation period will allow prospective teachers to see the kind of situation they will face. Mr. Davis said in a statement it is voluntary and experimental, but strongly recommended.

Club Holds Last Meeting Of Season

TRENTON — Wednesday night's meeting of the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club at the Glenhuntla Motel, was the last meeting of the season and Fun Night for the more than 50 members attending.

Head table guests were the newly-elected president, Mrs. Violet Alexander and the members of her executive.

Two new members, Mary Sealey and Mary Campbell were installed and welcomed into the club by the president.

The highlight of the evening was a Mock Wedding, arranged by Viola Davis and her committee. The "star" performer, was the gun-toting, "marry my daughter or else" father of the blushing bride, Helen Coulterjohn. The bride was Isobel McCrodan, and the reluctant bridegroom, Vera Clarke. Ellen Whitehouse, the parson, "officiated" at the ceremony.

A close second for acclaim was the B. and P. Beatle group, with Eva Baker, Elizabeth Blackledge, Mary Thompson and Violet Kennedy strumming guitars and "drumming" out the latest hits.

Mary Thompson led in the singing of old, familiar songs which also had the whole club on its feet doing the Carioca.

Iona Hubert provided change from comedy by singing two selections and two minute skits performed by most members during the evening, entertainment back into the laugh department again.

Will Hold Track Meet

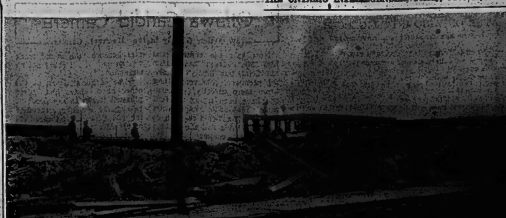
TRENTON — A track meet, with elementary students, ten years of age and over, will be held at the high school this Saturday. The first of the S1 events will start promptly at 1 p.m.

Boys and girls from the town's six public schools and the two Roman Catholic separate schools will compete in track and running events. Preliminaries have been run off in the schools and each school will enter two students apiece for each event.

The meet is sponsored by the Trenton Kinsmen Club, working in co-operation with the Board of Education and the school principals. Competition will supervise the various events and there will be St. John Ambulance Brigade on duty.

PICTURE DONATED

A refurbished picture of the Village of Trenton, painted in oils on canvas by Jeremiah Simmons, a one-time clerk of the village, now hangs in the municipal council chambers.



The old picture, showing the wooden bridge which preceded the present steel one, was unveiled for many years in the town office; discovered last year and given to the town for a "facelifting." Mayor MacDonald's brother in Toronto made arrangements with a Toronto sign writer worker of Hungarian extraction to renew the relic of Trenton's past. Trenton became a village in 1853.

Senior Citizens Visit Upper Canada Village

TRENTON — Thirty - one members of the Trenton Senior Citizens' Club went on a chartered bus trip to Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg on Wednesday, and each and every one of them sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" for their driver and guide, Grant Rathbun on the return journey.

The bus took the Highway 401 route down to Napanee, then swung over to the scenic route on Highway Two. Dinner was enjoyed at the restaurant outside the gate to the village and overlooking the St. Lawrence River.

Touring the village, many club members rode the carts drawn by two spanking horses and enjoyed watching children ride the ox carts. Iron cooking utensils in the houses took the fancy of many and other household equipment was recalled as "just like mother used to use."

On the way back, supper for 32 was served at the Peacock Inn, near Brockville and the seniors "sang all the way home."

MULTIMURDERESS

A total of 16 murders have been ascribed to Nella Poulsatter Sorensen Gunness of La Porte, Ind., who died in 1908.

Stick to Plans

TRENTON — A suggestion from the Trenton Legion branch that the new Parks' Board building site in the Bayshore Park extension be changed from the south end of Albert Street to a spot closer to the Legion Hall is being disregarded by the Board, and plans to start the building in the selected spot are scheduled for next week.

The feeling of the Legionnaires was that the building to the south of their property might spoil the view of the bay from the hall.

CAR FIRE

TRENTON — Trenton firemen were called out around 8.00 o'clock last night to the corner of Byron and Princess streets where a car, owned by L. J. Longspaie of Middleton Park had caught on fire.

The blaze was quickly extinguished and damage was reported to have been slight.

MAN INJURED

TRENTON — Garnet McMaster, aged 58 of Smithfield, was treated by his own doctor for facial lacerations after his automobile went out of control on the old Smithfield Road near Brighton.

The car was reported to have skidded into the ditch striking a boulder.

Damage to the McMaster vehicle was reported at $200. It is reported that Mr. McMaster suffered a weak spell at the wheel.

Mill Site Future Is Uncertain

TRENTON — Now that the century old Mayhew's Mill has been razed, the man in the street is full of conjecture about what use the new owner, Walter Palset means to make of the land. The mill pond has been partially drained, by opening the gates on the water turbines . . . and this leads to more conjecture.

Mr. Palset himself doesn't know yet just what he intends to do with the land . . . or the pond either, for that matter.

He said yesterday he might clean out the pond and re-stock it with game fish. Or he may (and this would be costly), fill in the pond area for a building site. What's to be built? Possibly a motel. But Mr. Palset hasn't made up his mind yet.

Meanwhile, a little girl who lives near the pond . . . and loves it . . . has written to the humane society, complaining that the fish and turtles already in the pond, a . . . dgeon out of a home . . . drining.

Reaction

Slovenly speech has become "a kind of unfortunate status symbol" for Australian boys, says a lecturer in English at the University of Sydney.

A drawl is considered manly amongst the Aussies.

We all know about youthful "fads" and sloppy speech is not unknown in Canada.

Sometimes, though, it is not done deliberately, neither is it the result of sheer ignorance. Rather it is simply a reaction; a defence mechanism. A person may speak this way when he or she resents a question, but lacks the courage to show it. Or a person who has been obliged to enunciate very carefully over a considerable period of time may shed this habit just as a man, home from the office, loosens his tie and doffs his coat. Recently we noticed a friend's habits of speaking had changed — for the worse. It turned out that she had been caring for old people who were hard of hearing, requiring that every word be said loudly and distinctly.

Nor is this the only kind of reaction to work habits. The person whose job requires that they be particularly neat, replacing every article used and leaving a desk or room neat and tidy, will often scatter belongings through every room in the house. Or another worker who makes it a point to attend to every matter immediately it arises will, on returning home, become the world's worst procrastinator, never being satisfied with putting off until tomorrow what can be postponed for a fortnight.

The shoemaker's children always go barefoot and the plasterer probably undresses with the bedroom light out.

Heads Up!

The derby hat was originally conceived as a protective device, according to columnist Hal Boyle. He says an English doctor is recommending its use to motorists and pedestrians alike. Nothing new in that—bank messengers in England have been wearing them from the word go, for protection against thugs. When the classic derby failed, in fact, as protection against blackjacks used in a recent rash of holdups, the banks provided their messengers with specially-built derbys. These now cones, formed of fibreglass and filled with plastic foam, bear a closer resemblance to motorcycle crash helmets than to normal dress hats.

The idea of hard hats for soft, human heads has a long and noble history, and the need for protection is as great now as it ever was. Roman soldiers and medieval warriors wore hard leather and metallic helmets, modern soldiers still wear steel hats, and modern motorcyclists, construction men and men in some industries all wear plastic or metallic headgear.

All types are based on a common fact. The human head, in construction, strength relative to size and weight, and consistency of contents, is very like a raw egg. Safety engineers, in fact, sometimes use raw eggs to represent heads in scale model dummies, used to assess the effects of different types of crashes.

It's a sobering thought, but true, that a human head looks just about like a broken egg when it has been hit hard enough.

The doctor of whom Hal Boyle speaks has a good point therefore, in urging peole to adopt some form of dent-resisting headgear.

Yipes or What Next?

Fifteen-year-old Lynn Boshkov, daughter of a Columbia University professor, has proved that the Beatles are good for radishes.

Lynn prepared four test plantings of radishes in similar soil conditions, and gave them equal amounts of sunlight and water. One planting was allowed to grow in silence, the others had music played at them. ("Played to" is the more usual phrase, but we prefer 'played at' where the Beatles[,] are concerned.) One planting of radishes grew up with the Beatles, another with Lily Pons' operatic coloratura and another got Dvorak's symphonic works.

All three of the plantings that grew with music did better than the one that grew in silence. But the radishes that grew up with the Beatles did best—producing more than three times the weight of radish and root grown in silence.

Now comes the problem. We must accept Lynn Boshkov as a bright young girl—the originality and quality of her research proves it. But considering the apparent musical preference of radishes, and the obvious musical preference of modern youth—are we forced to assume other similarities?

Ottawa Candid Camera

By Arthur Blakely in the Montreal Gazette

Now that the controversial film "Mr. Pearson" has had its unofficial but highly successful premiere, observers (and those more directly concerned) have been trying to find some reasonable explanation for the hot-and-cold reception of the CBC brass and the Liberal party's high command to this novel project.

"Few men," Montaigne once observed, "have been admired by their domestics."

Madame de Sevigne has been credited with expressing the same idea in a more striking fashion.

"No man," she is supposed to have said, "is a hero to his valet."

Modern critics used to the view that Pearson is a foreign-really said no such thing — that the credit for the epigram really belongs to a Madame Grundy. But whatever said it, the meaning is clear enough.

It is the more surprising, then, that the CBC, always sensitive and timorous in the presence of princes and politicians, should ever have embarked on a portrait of Prime Minister Lester Pearson whom could scarcely produce anything but a valet's-eye-view of the great man — a view guaranteed pressding over a government controlling the CBC's purse-strings.

Equally surprising is the fact that Mr. Pearson, his top thinkers and image-makers, should have promised (and produced) the film without any cooperation. They, too, must have had some inkling of what the end result would be.

As the Prime Minister's Parliamentary Secretary; Mr. Jack Davis, explained, "It was a Associated House of Commons.

"This was to be a candid camera production. We it was to cover a day in the life of a Canadian Prime Minister; it was to cover a day in the life of a Canadian Prime Minister; it was to cover a day in the life of a Canadian Prime Minister with Cabinet Ministers; it was to show policy being formed."

In fact, the film was to show much more than his modest statement of intent suggested.

With the blessing of the CBC and the Prime Minister's office, an independent producer of Ottawa, Intertel Productions Ltd. embarked on the project under the supervision of its head, Mr. Harry Boyle.

Finally, "Mr. Pearson" was completed.

But even before it was done, the CBC had begun to get cold pain some sobering second thoughts about the daring venture.

After a good deal of hemming and hawing on the part of those directly involved — the CBC, the $35,000 experiment was consigned to the junk heap. Why? The CBC showed it in tones of deep distress that the finished product had been found to be full of technical flaws. Lighting was poor. Sound quality was bad. And there was just the faintest suggestion that the artists who had turned out the film had been unable to catch the real Mr. Pearson.

• • •

The unscaring of "Mr. Pearson" ought to be the subject of attention but for three developments.

Professor Ballentine, who had little choice but to regard the announced decision as a reflection on the professional competence, reacted strongly.

It was revealed that Mr. Pearson, his senior aides and advisors, and a number of members of his Cabinet had been given several private screenings of the controversial film prior to the decision to junk the film.

And the CBC demonstrated an interesting eagerness to gather up every copies of the epic by advising Professor Ballentine that it wouldn't pay him to keep his copies unless and until he returned a rough "sketch" print he still had in his possession.

Suspicious minds leaped to the inevitable conclusion.

Professor Ballentine has left Mr. Pearson" at the request, instruction or command of the Government.

The CBC has denied that anything of the sort occurred. So has the Government, and in these words: "At no time was any instruction to the quality of the film transmitted to the CBC, formally, or informally, by any member of the Government or any representative of the Prime Minister."

• • •

Mr. Pearson's own opinion of the worth of "Mr. Pearson" doesn't seem to be very high. His most flattering reference to it has been an ambiguous "I found it exceedingly interesting."

And he has revealed that he walked out of one showing of the film after a very few minutes because "the sound track was so bad . . . it could not be understood."

Some of his advisers, on the other hand, have had some pleasant things to say about it.

During the advance screenings for Mr. Pearson and members of his entourage.

"As some of this material was bound to be confidential," said an unhurried spokesman in the Commons, "we have impressed the dignity of the office of the Prime Minister had to be protected, the Prime Minister asked for the right to review the film. The right was readily granted and work began."

The right had been asked for, that is, before the project was started, and was a condition imposed by Mr. Pearson and accepted as reasonable in the circumstances.

• • •

What is "Mr. Pearson" really like? The assessment of those who look in the sneak previews have varied enormously. They range all of the way from a view close to that expressed by the CBC to the finding of one television interviewer and commentator that: "it is a great film . . . candid, absorbing and honest, true both to its subject and his times."

Would a public showing of "Mr. Pearson" have helped or harmed Mr. Pearson's public image? Here, again opinions are sharply divided.

No one has yet advanced the proposition that the premise, in curious circumstances, of this experiment in television candor had done anything to enhance the public image of any of those concerned.

It is generally agreed that the project was ever given the green light by those holding the power of decision. But it is even more puzzling that, once this had been done, either the CBC or the Government should have allowed themselves to be trapped in a position of even apparent reluctance to allow "Mr. Pearson" to be displayed on the national TV network to the curious taxpayers who as always will have to pick up the tab.

But How Many Own a Flag?

London Free Press

One of the most curious aspects of the current flag issue in Canada, and one that seems to have been ignored by all sides, is the simple truth that probably not one person in a thousand has ever owned a flag.

From the tons of letters received by this newspaper, an outsider would think that something precious to the writers would be snatched away from every loyal citizen if the Union Jack or the Red Ensign were to be supplanted by an entirely new design. Most patriots are fighting for something they have never possessed.

The fact is not always true. In generations ago, almost every home in London was decorated with a flag on days connected with bunting — Victoria Day holiday, in fact, neighbors vied with one another in the householder who did not break out a flag that day.

Now we are quite content to leave the flag to be displayed by government buildings, the parliament stores and city halls. A flag count in London might reveal a couple dozen in all told. Some buildings fly one only when the death of some famous personage the flag to be at half-staff.

So what is all the fuss about? Why so much excitement over a national emblem that few people care enough about to own? It's a pity that the flag-waver design is adopted by Parliament, no more Canadians will buy or fly one than have ever done so.

Out of Step With History

Ottawa Journal

Turning in their graves these days must be the founders of the Regular Army. For as Senator Barry Goldwater would have been one of the men Rudyard Kipling would have expelled from their ranks in the 1850s, when their party was being born, producing among the early words of the great soldier, Horace Greeley, perhaps the most famous phrase in the party's cradle:

"We (the Republican Party) object to the extension of slavery in every map, as nearly as may be, a chance to work for and earn a living. We object to its use for public lands to actual settlers and limitation of future acquisitions of land to the reasonable amount, are also measures which we deem not only necessary to the wholesome disposition of labor from thralldom and misery."

On down through the years of Lincoln and long afterwards the Republicans were the never the party of the extreme right; when Sen Tha McKinley, Taft and Mark Hanna sought to make it so, Theodore Roosevelt broke ranks with a rebellion from which the party never fully recovered. Eisenhower rescued it temporarily from the disasters of Goldwater and Harding, but in recent years it has found itself bereft of distinguished leadership and with hopelessly confused philosophies. Thus the party which once knew a Lincoln, a Fremont, a Theodore Roosevelt, an Elihu Root, an Arthur Vandenberg and a Robert Taft, is today without a leader to combat a Goldwater, an apostle of right-let extremism — its defeat by Lyndon Johnson next November all but taken for granted.

It is one of the curious things in this always strange story of politics.

To Your Good Health
People With Oily Skin Sensitive to Acne Rosacea

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about acne rosacea, its cause or contributing factors? Can it be started up or cured? I have been plagued with this skin ailment for years, and it had no connection with adolescence. — Mrs. R. W.

It's troublesome all right, and is as annoying in adults as simple acne is to the adolescent. It occurs usually among women in middle years, often approaching menopause.

Specifying a cause is anything but easy, but we can tell the type of people most likely to encounter it: Adults from age and sex, major factors are an oily and a sensitive skin; a high degree of vasomotor instability (the nervous system controlling blushing and perspiration) and emotional factors. Sufferers of it are likely to be tyrannical, ambitious individuals; tense; and inclined to worry about domestic or business matters. Many get inadequate rest and are chronically tired.

Acne rosacea is featured by a flushing and redness, with pimples and sometimes dilation of the capillaries or tiny blood vessels close to the surface.

It is well worthwhile to consult a dermatologist, even though you should not expect him to produce any medication that will instantly solve the problem.

Bland lotions and possibly small doses of x-ray are helpful, but one must guard against irritating them. Soaps and lotions, because sensitive skins may be made worse rather than better by adding a new type of irritation on top of the original one.

Skins of persons so afflicted do not tolerate direct sunshine, which can increase the flushing.

Indirect but significant treatment may involve such things as relieving menopausal symptoms if they exist and correction of any thyroid disorder.

Modification of mode of living and emotional attitudes is essential. This is usually the toughest part of the treatment for the physician, since it is naturally tough for many of these patients to insist that they are not worriers or overly tense or ambitious. After all, they say they are seems natural to them. Or even when they do recognize this, they may say they don't find it easy to adopt a new outlook on life.

Admittedly, if the patient is overweight, fats should be cut down in the diet, and alcohol too. Be wary of food sensitivities; such as chocolate and sea foods which may be (not necessarily are) involved.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain what a 13 percent hemoglobin count is. Why would a chest x-ray be necessary if the count does not rise? — Mrs. M. K.

I question whether you mean 13 percent, as it is more usual to measure hemoglobin (that is, the oxygen - carrying part of the blood) in terms such as "12 grams percent" which means "12 grams per 100 cubic centimeters of blood."

This would be a low normal value for a woman. If you do indeed mean 12 percent, that is definitely low and may indicate some form of anemia. If so, the X-rays would be to see whether chronic disease of the lungs might be causing it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for the lining of the lower colon or rectum to sag? I was told to have an operation for this. — M. K.

Yes, the condition is called prolapse of the rectum, and the membranous wall of the lower bowl can protrude through the rectal opening. It can be corrected by surgery.

Note to Mrs. K. C.: Streptococcus infection is not necessarily a "blood disease". It is an infection with streptococcal germs, different varieties of which cause scarlet fever, rheumatic fever, strep throat, and other diseases.

Theatre Not Meant to Be A Pacifier

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"When I go to the theatre," said the man, as so many have said before him, "I like to relax and enjoy myself. I don't want to have to concentrate or think about anything."

"Are you happy to play golf?" I asked him. He nodded. "Certainly do; just love that game."

"At night," I said, "Perhaps the fairways were only 50 feet apart, and the cups were three feet wide and imagination around the edges to attract the ball. How would you like to play golf that way?"

"Are you kidding?" he exclaimed. "What the hell would that be? I like the challenge of the long drive, and the difficulty in putting. Make the game that easy and nobody but children would want to play it."

Patiently I said, "Golf is a form of recreation for the body, but in order to do anything for you, it must put a demand on you. And what feels good after a golf match is having met a challenge, overcome it and mastered them, isn't it?"

"Yes, I guess it is," he replied.

"Well, now," I went on. "The theatre is a form of recreation for the mind, just as golf is for the body. And what you're asking for is a kind of theatre with tiny fairways and magnetized cups."

"How do you mean?" he asked.

"I mean that in order for the muscles of the mind to get stimulated, in order to improve its tone, some demand must be put on them. Simple, obvious plots and slouching a play that a child of 12 could easily grasp is the equivalent of playing baby-golf.

"The theatre," I continued, "isn't supposed to be a pacifier — it's supposed to be a stimulant. And a stimulant, in the long run, is the only thing that can really relax you — just as a tough golf match makes you feel healthily tired, whereas slopping around all afternoon on an easy chair just makes you sluggish."

"But golf is a contest," he protested, "and a game."

"It should be," I said, "and the good ones are. The play-the-corpse - carrying part of the theatre is for wimps who can't take a challenge. He wants you to try feel something as his characters feel, and so do I. All art, in any form, is a dialogue between the creator and the audience. You might even say it's a kind of riddle we are asked to solve."

"Why can't the artist solve it and give us the answer?" he asked.

"Because we really don't believe anything we haven't worked out for ourselves. All the true answers are there within our own experience and knowledge; the artist is not there to tell us, but to show us. If you select the golf pro to take your club and swing for you, what would you know about the game, and enjoyment would you really get from it?"

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials were higher and speculative issues firmer in increased morning trading on the stock market today.

Distillers Seagram led industrials higher with a gain of ¼ to 58. General Motors firmed ¾ to 95¾ and Price Brothers ¼ to 44¼.

Speculative mining issues made small advances in the wake of Texas Gulf Sulphur's announcement Thursday that its orebody near Timmins contains approximately 35,000,000 tons, more than double the original estimate.

The news failed to spark a wild rush of buying but it served to put some pep back into the market.

Genex and PCE Explorations were ahead three cents each to 87 cents and 45 cents respectively. Tombill gained eight cents to 54 cents, Rowan 4½ cents to 24½ cents, Bunker Hill two cents to 43 cents and MacDonald one cent to 46 cents.

On Thursday mining stocks had a mild flurry.

The speculative section made a slight move when Texas Gulf Sulphur announced that its copper - zinc - silver orebody near Timmins indicated approximately 35,000,000 tons of ore. Rowan reacted with a seven cent gain to 20 cents while Bellechorre was ahead three cents to 20 cents and 41 cents.

Standout in the list was Genex which traded more than 1,000,000 shares and gained nine cents to 54 cents.

Prior to the Texas Gulf announcement trading in the stock was suspended on the New York stock exchange. Speculation on Bay Street was that the suspension came because Texas Gulf was about to announce a deal involving its dispute with Leitch and Highland-Shell. Leitch immediately jumped to $5.75, but eased to $5 for a 30 cent gain when the announcement was made.

Industrials were paced by Goods. Weston B moved to a 1964 high of 20¾ with a 1¼ gain while General Bakeries added 2 to 24, also a 1956 high.

Beverages were mixed. Distillers Seagrams gained ¾ to 57¾ and Crush International ¼ to 13¾. Molson A and B each dipped 1¼ to 34 and 33¾ to 33¼. Taking Walker Goodeham eased ¼ to 34¾ after earlier selling at a 1964 high of 35¼.

International Nickel gained 1 to 85. Revelstoke 1¼ to 31¼. Moore Corp. ¾ to 56 and Bell Telephone ½ to 56¾.

Campbell Red Lake lost 1¼ to 15¼ in a lower golds group.

On index, industrials were up .32 to 152.21 and the exchange index .40 to 145.76. Golds were down .78 to 133.86, base metals off .10 to .65 and western oils up to 97.69. Volume for the session was 5,036,000 shares compared with 4,954,000 Thursday.

CITY HALL EMPLOYEES signed a two-year contract with the city yesterday. The contract gives them a $120-per-year salary increase for both years of the contract. In the picture, local union president Clayton Drouillard watches as Mayor Jack Ellis signs the contract.

45 City Hall Employees To Get Salary Increases

About 45 city hall employees have a salary increase of $120 per year this year, and will get a further $120 increase next year. The increased wages are a provision of a contract signed yesterday by city officials and officers of Local 148 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

Negotiations toward the two-year contract began in January this year, and led to conciliation meetings April 10 and 16 under conciliation officer N. Soady of Toronto. There was no agreement at either meeting. A board of conciliation was convened on April 26 and on June 11, the terms of the contract were agreed. The contract has since been ratified by city council and by the union membership.

The $120-per-year increase is applied to all job classifications on the city's standardized wage scale, which includes six clerical and five administrative classifications. Wages on the city scale range from a minimum of $3,120 per year for grade one clerical workers to $4,740 per year for grade six clerical, and from $3,720 for grade one administrative to $5,220 for grade five administrative. There are no grade one clerical employees in the city hall now, and no grade five administrative. The grade five administrative classification, in fact, was created by a provision of the new contract.

Negotiators for the city were city manager J. R. Reynolds, and city personnel officer, A. L. Ivey, backed up by the personnel committee of city council. The union was represented by Elmo Gilchrist of Toronto, the union's national representative, and by Clayton Drouillard, local president, and a negotiating committee of union members.

Million and Half Trees Planted In This Region

TWEED — The annual spring tree planting program was completed by Department of Lands and Forests crews in late May. Frequent rain and cool weather throughout the planting period should result in excellent survival and growth of the planted stock. The trees were planted both on Crown lands and on agreement forest lands which are managed by the Department under agreement with the counties and conservation authorities.

By counties and agreement forests the following numbers of trees were planted: Hastings County, 618,000; Lennox and Addington County, 323,000; Renfrew County, 130,000; Prince Edward County, 10,000; Moira River Conservation Authority, 266,800; Napanee Valley Conservation Authority, 11,400; Renfrew County Forest, 120,000; total, 1,430,000.

O. B. C. Moves To New Site

Ontario Business College, one of the older educational institutions in Belleville is moving from its present location on Front Street to 84 Victoria Avenue, the former site of the Moose Hall.

There will be five classrooms with the new one built of fire-proof cement blocks and brick with the interior done in attractive pastel colors.

Mrs. Anita Brown, principal of the school hopes to have the opening ceremonies in about a week. The school will remain open all summer.

Trustees Fight to Retain Control of School Budgets

TORONTO (CP)—Any government action to remove a school board's control over how much money it spends was opposed Thursday by the Ontario School Trustees Council.

The organization argued before the Legislature's select committee on municipal law that municipal council should not be able to alter the budgets drawn up by the school boards.

The committee recommended to the legislature in an interim report more than a year ago that municipal councils should have the final say over the spending of any local board of commission.

But the trustees council said an exception should be made for school boards in this recommendation.

It argued that "any move to reduce the autonomy of local school boards . . . will result in an impairment of the education standards of this province.

The case made by municipal councillors that since they raise the money via taxation, they should set expenditures also is not a valid one, the trustees declared.

"It is true that, for reasons of economy, they act as a collecting agency but the responsibility for the administration of our schools in the case of elected trustees rests where it belongs—upon the shoulders of those trustees."

Four Students Will Attend U. N. Seminar

Miss Sara McCulloch and Ken Taylor from BCIVS and Miss Norma Hardage and Jerry Howland from QSS, have been selected to attend a United Nations seminar at Queen's University starting next Tuesday and continuing for three days.

The students will attend lectures, take part in discussions, and tour parts of Kingston with visits to Royal Military College and Fort Henry.

There will be a model United Nations assembly and a model Security Council with each student representing a different country.

The purpose of the seminar is to increase the students' understanding of the United Nations and European history which they study in Grade 12.

Fir Plywood Pontoon Swim Raft Comes Apart for Winter Storage

A sturdy swimming raft can add untold hours of pleasure to your summer home vacation.

The raft pictured here is made of two fir plywood floats and lumber framing. It can be made in pieces at home and easily assembled at the lake. In the winter it can be taken apart for storage in the cabin.

The complete raft measures 8x6 feet and will support well over a ton. Two pontoons, joined by 2x4 lumber, provide this buoyancy and form the base for the smooth top.

The pontoons are identical and each is made from two 4x8 foot panels of half-inch fir plywood. The first panel is sawn lengthwise to make the top and bottom of the pontoon. Remaining parts are cut from the second panel, as shown in the diagram.

Framing of 2x2 inch lumber is nailed and glued inside the sides and ends of the pieces before they are finally assembled, where the framing meets at the corners.

Fir plywood is specified for the pontoons because it is made with a completely waterproof glue. Each panel is edgemarked EMBC. Exterior for ease of identification.

When finished, each pontoon will weigh 125 pounds, which makes it an easy unit to carry on top of the car, or between the lake and the cottage for storage.

Of course there is no limit at the size of the swiming raft that can be made using these pontoons. Decide how many people will be using the raft at one time and calculate the size of the raft, remembering that each pontoon will support 1300 pounds.

Housing Project

The area as well as the house you are planning to live in should meet certain standards of excellence. A builder can put up a good project on a site that does not offer too many advantages to begin with. On the other hand, excellent building sites have been downgraded by poorly designed housing projects. There are a number of key factors that determine a good project. Streets should be laid out so as to discourage through traffic or speeding. However, they should not be so twisting and tortuous as to make it difficult to locate a particular street or address. A project with hydro poles at the rear of the building is more attractive than one with unsightly poles and wires strung along the street in front of the homes. Underground wiring, where this is feasible, gives a housing project a still dressier look.

Modern Home Not Complete Without Garage or Carport

A modern home is expected to have either a garage or a carport and it is wise to make allowance for one or the other when planning the house.

Many car owners prefer a garage to a carport since it offers better protection against the weather, and can be heated. However, in more recent years the carport has been gaining in popularity, even in areas where winters are cold.

To be large enough to accommodate today's cars, a carport or garage should be at least 20 feet long and a full 10 feet wide on the inside. If a chimney is located in the space reserved for the carport, the 10-foot width should be exclusive of the chimney.

In determining the location of a garage or carport one of the first things to consider is the slope from the street to the parking area; it should not be too steep. Prospective homeowners sometimes forget this and select a house design without too much thought being given to grading requirements. A steep incline leading to the garage or carport can be both an inconvenience and a hazard, especially in winter.

If the driveway is sloped it is preferable to have it run up from the street. Basement garages, for example, have many drawbacks. For one thing, backing up the ramp requires special care. If the view is obstructed there is the added danger of backing into a pedestrian or a moving vehicle. Driving down to the garage is also tricky when the surface is slippery. Drainage may be a problem and a clogged drain can quickly turn a basement garage into a swimming pool.

All the problems inherent in the construction of a basement garage should be studied carefully.

A driveway sloping upwards from the street does not present as many problems, provided the slope is not too steep. If the incline is more than that required for surface drainage however there may be difficulties. Unless the slope is hard surfaced, erosion may deepen the ruts and gravel or other loose surfacing will not remain in place.

A carport or garage floor can be of loose material such as coarse gravel, broken brick or stone, cinders or slag. Such surfacing requires a layer of fine gravel as topping. For attached and built-in garages, however, hard surfacing is recommended. asphalt and concrete being the most common types of materials used for this purpose.

CARPORT CONSTRUCTION

Piers which carry the weight of the carport roof should be sunk below the frost line. The same applies to the foundation wall for a partly enclosed carport. If this isn't done there is danger of the roof structure being damaged. It is dangerous also to build the piers for a carport on backfill that hasn't been sufficiently packed down. Some builders use temporary roof supports, and only pull in the piers when they are sure that the ground is firm and settling is ended.

Building storage space in a carport wall for garden tools and other equipment is a convenient arrangement. However, in a NHA-financed house a carport may not be enclosed for more than 40 percent of the perimeter. Otherwise it is treated as a garage and has to conform to building requirements laid down for garages.

In building a carport on a narrow lot the roof should not project beyond the prescribed minimum set-backs.

ATTACHED OR BUILT-IN

Building an attached garage or a built-in garage is more complicated than building a carport. If a garage shares a wall in common with the house, the wall must be made fire resistant. Similarly, a garage with living accommodation above it must have a fire resistant ceiling When the house and the garage have a common roof, fire resistant construction is also required to separate the garage space from the house. The exterior walls of a garage are usually built in much the same way as the walls of a house, but if wood framing is used mid-girths are advisable for reinforcement.

If a garage is to be heated it should be insulated for economy. With hot water heating no special arrangement of the heating system is necessary.

However, if hot air heating is installed a self-closing devise is required on the garage register. This type of register allows the air to travel in one direction only In case of fire, an automatic shut-off seals the opening actinay.

Doorways between the garage and the house are equipped with solid wood, or wood and three-quarter inches thick, will meet this requirement. As a further protection the door can be covered with sheet metal.

The door sill must be made of concrete and must be at least six inches higher than the floor of the garage. Gasoline fumes are heavier than air and travel along the floor; the sill helps to prevent inflammable liquids or fumes seeping into the basement or other parts of the house. If the garage is built of wood, or other combustible material, the sill should extend the whole length of the common wall.

A builder or attached garage should have a door drain. It is a useful fixture if the owner washes his car in the garage; in winter it collects melting snow. Wherever possible, the drain should be connected to the main drainage outlet outside the building.

The main garage door should be equipped with an opening and closing mechanism that can be easily operated, especially in cold weather. The lintel or beam above the garage door should be strong enough to prevent sagging. This is particularly important if the lintel supports some part of the house floor structure. A length of angle iron, concealed behind the wooden members will provide the extra rigidity.

Details on proper garage construction are included in the book "Housing Standards" which is available at any CMHC office.

A CAR NEEDS A HOME — When planning a built-in garage provisions must be made for fireproofing of the walls and ceiling. If the garage is heated the exterior wall should be insulated. With hot air heating a self-closing devise is required on the garage register as a fire preventive measure.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

One of the mountains of today's mortgage market is that persons with small incomes and little or no savings often can afford to purchase only a new and fairly expensive house.

This observation caused quite a stir at a recent lecture I gave, and at least one man in the audience wants to hear more.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I attended your lecture the other night and found it most interesting. One thing you said really got me to thinking. I have tried to explain to my friends what you said. They find it hard to belive, and I'm not sure I am telling them right. Would you please give me that example — the one which explains why often a buyer can not afford a cheap old house, and so probably will have to buy a more expensive one? — G. M. P.

Answer: This paradox arises from the current mortgage practice, whereas lending institutions generally will require a larger down payment for an old house than for a new one) will give a longer term for repayment on newer houses; and usually charge a lower interest rate for the new house.

The example I gave was about a young school teacher I know. He recently purchased a $16,000 home in a new development. He was required to make a 10 percent down payment — or $1,600. His mortgage was for 30 years, at 5½ percent interest, so his payments were $61.77 per month. This house was a reluctant second choice.

Actually, he wanted to buy a nice old house for $14,000. This, however, would have required a 25 percent down payment — or $3,500. The best mortgage available was for 15 years at 6 percent interest, and his monthly payments would have been $98.61. Based on his annual income, he simply could not afford to buy the cheaper house.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I love my little dog, and I love my house and husband but unless you can help me I may have to choose between them.

My dog was almost struck by a car last week and, although he wasn't hurt, it frightened me to death and I ordered a fence built around my house so he couldn't run out in the street again.

My neighbors, who hate dogs — they even object if he barks a little — say I can't have a fence because when this development was built all the deeds included a restriction against building fences. I can't understand how they can tell me what to do with my own property.

The safety of my pet — who has a better pedigree than my neighbors, I can tell you — comes first. My husband treats it like a big joke and refuses to fight with the neighbors.

Now you are a dog lover too and will print this letter and tell my neighbors that I have the right to build a fence and protect my little pet. — Dog Lover

Answer: Indeed, I am fond of dogs (except those that choose to hold their pre-dawn meetings and arguments under my bedroom window).

Unfortunately, I must tell you it is more than likely your neighbors are right and that you must find some other way than a fence to protect your cherished pet.

Deed restrictions (and the one against fences is common in new developments), as long as they are not contrary to the law or against public welfare, generally are enforceable.

The builder, in order to maintain and insure a certain standard in his development, can include such restrictions in deeds.

If you are forced to choose your dog over your house and husband and must buy a new house, be sure to examine the deed with the same care you would a show-dog's pedigree — and you can avoid being burdened again by unacceptable deed restrictions.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My father is so square it hurts. When he had a heart attack six months ago, he told me he had made out a will leaving me his property. The doctors didn't give him much of a chance, so I arranged for the sale of the property and made plans for the summer — Europe, the whole bit. But he got better — better than ever.

I don't want you to get the wrong idea and think I'm sorry he didn't leave and leave the green with me — but why should I have to wait for what is going to be mine someday anyway? What about my plans? He refused to give me even a share now, and I want to enjoy — enjoy before the bomb and while I am still of an age to appreciate the wine, women and song.

Aren't there some sort of survivor rights or something like that an heir can use to get a hold of his real estate? Hurry and write before I have to cancel my reservations. — XXX

Answer: I'm afraid I can offer you little in the way of hope or advice. As owner of the property, your father can do with it what he chooses. He can sell it, give it away, leave it. Your rights do not vest until his death.

Even though I did not even print your initials — in the hopes of creating your father's possible recognition — I regret that I cannot give him some advice. There are many worthy charities, and perhaps other relatives that could put his hard earned legacy to better use than wine, women and song.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have just about given up getting a straight answer to what I think is a simple enough question. How much will it cost me to replace my sewer spouts — which are short? I don't want to ask a contractor until I know what a fair price would be.

I know that copper doesn't rust that aluminum is light and strong, and that there are lots of nice things that can be said about galvanized pipe — which is about all I do know.

I was told you have a reputation for giving straight answers, so here is your chance, I never read your column before, but if you answer my letter, I will from now on. — H. R. A.

Answer: I am always happy to get a new reader — and answer new questions. Here is a simple, direct reply: New installed, galvanized downspouting will cost about 35 cents per foot; aluminum about 60 cents; and copper approximately $1.15. These prices vary slightly in different localities.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

TESTING METHOD

MONTREAL (CP) — Professor J. H. Quastel of McGill University may have found a fast way for doctors to decide what drug would be best for cancer patients. The Montreal General Hospital is testing his method, which involves applying a score of anti-cancer drugs in succession to small samples of cancerous tissue from patients, says the Canadian Cancer Society which financed Dr. Quastel's research.

HOME OF THE WEEK

This design gives the maximum amount of livable area for the minimum cost. It is a most economical shape — almost square. It has a simple and inexpensive roof, and the normal basement area can be used for habitable rooms. This is possible because of the split level entrance thus allowing the lower level to be less than 7' - 0" below grade. All rooms have ample natural light, and are warm and dry. Incidentally this method of construction complies with the National Building Code of Canada. Even with an attached garage or carport added, the house will still go on a 60 foot lot. Design is also available as a duplex. 677 sq. ft.

Standard blueprints for this design No. 810 cost $15. for the first set and $5. for additional sets. They are available in Canada by return mail. (Ontario residents must remit 3% sales tax). Now available at this newspaper office is our new design book entitled "Suburban and Country Homes designed for Canadians," price $1. tax free. This 1956 edition includes information on cost of building and financing in Canada, heating installation, constructional details, etc., plus many outstanding new designs — ranch, one and half storey, split level, two storey colonial and duplex homes. Also included in this book are full details on how to order blueprints.

Choosing a Project

A housing project is more desirable if easy access to the business section of the city is provided. A serious bottleneck can place an urban community with an hour from downtown while a satellite community located on a throughway may be only minutes away. In any project the topography of the land should also be considered. Drainage problems can be encountered on steep slopes, with water run-off from one lot draining down to an adjoining lot. A project located on a flat site may not be as picturesque or provide the view obtained from a hillside project; on the other hand there is less chance of erosion or washing away of the soil. Services will normally be more costly if the project is on hilly ground thus raising the cost of the individual lot. You are fortunate if there are full grown trees on the project where you plan to live. It takes many years to provide greenery and shade if the land is bare to begin with. Having a park nearby or playground, or just a say open field where the children can play adds greatly to a neighborhood. However you should acquire whether this land is municipally owned, whether it is part of the project or whether the owner reserves the right to dispose of it for some other form of development, in other words, whether it is there to stay for the enjoyment of those living in the project.

How to Plant Evergreens

In planting evergreens remove paper, plastic or metal container that may be around the roots. If the roots with a ball of soil around them are wrapped in burlap, leave the burlap on as you set the plant in the hole, says Canadian Nursery Trades Association. After it is set in the hole, all ready to pile on the top soil, fold a short flap of burlap back and slit the flap lengthwise from top to bottom in half a dozen places. This will allow the roots to grow outward normally and will not disturb the earth around the roots.

WEDDINGS

NORTON — FOSTER

Baskets of spring colours and ferns formed a lovely setting in Bloomfield United Church for the recent wedding of Norma Lorraine Foster, daughter of Mr. Theodore Foster of St. Thomas and the late Mrs. Foster, to Burton Raymond Norton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Norton of Bloomfield.

The Rev. Nathan Bowering officiated at the double-ring ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives. Mrs. Harold Cleave, church organist played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Lyle Hagerman.

Her sister, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Elaine Foster was gowned in a princess styled floor-length dress of white brocade featuring long slip-point sleeves. Her shoulder length veil was held by a halo shaped headpiece. She carried a white Bible crested with red roses and trailing white streamers.

The bride was attended by her only sister, Mrs. Ronald Hanna who wore a light blue nylon organza dress, street-length dress, matching hat and shoes, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations. Little Miss Carol Foster niece of the bride was the flower girl in pink nylon organza flare skirt with pink lace top. She wore matching headpiece and slippers and carried a basket of blue tinted baby mums.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Wesley Norton, while the ushers were Mr. Ronald Hanna and Mr. Willard Foster.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elaine Foster which was appropriately decorated with pink and white streamers, wedding bells and baskets of spring flowers. The bride's table was centred with a miniature bridal couple under an arch with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple under an arch with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple under an arch with a three-tier wedding cake topped

Ann Landers

Lost Fear of Childbirth With Impending Arrival

DEAR ANN — I read the letter from two women who signed herself "Afraid," perhaps I can add a word of encouragement.

As far back as I can remember, I, too, had an absolute terror of childbirth. Whenever I encountered a pregnant woman on the street—even a total stranger —I actually broke out in a cold sweat. I could visualize all the agony and suffering that poor woman would have to face. It almost made me ill.

When I married and became pregnant my attitude began to change. My husband was so considerate and kind, and we wanted a child so badly, that I decided to keep my fears to myself. I would work it toward the end of my pregnancy my fears disappeared completely. My doctor promised me that my husband would be by my side the whole time and this gave me added strength and courage.

Well, Ann, my delivery was a breeze — the doctor said it was normal — six hours of labor — and I can truthfully say it was not bad at all. When I think of the years I suffered fearing and dreading the unknown I could kick myself — VICTORIOUS.

DEAR VICTORIOUS — Hooray for you and thanks for a terrific letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The other day while going through an old cedar chest in the attic, I ran across some official looking papers. They turned out to be two divorce decrees. I was shocked to learn that both my mother and my dad had been married before.

I am 18 and my brother is 18. I'm sure my brother doesn't know a thing about the divorces. My question is: Should I go to my folks and tell them I found the papers and that I am disappointed they kept this from me. Or do you think they were right in saying nothing to my brother and me? Should I tell my brother? I need your advice. — SHOCK IN LITTLE ROCK.

DEAR SHOCK — Go to your folks and let them know you ran across the divorce decrees in the old cedar chest and that it was a low blow.

I believe it is best for parents to tell their children about previous marriages — unless anything else that is a matter of legal record, such as suicides or prison records of relatives. It spares the children the pain of being told by a stranger or worse yet — of stumbling on the facts by accident as you did.

Don't tell your brother what you have learned. Ask your parents to tell him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I realize your column is not a public billboard for petty gripes, but my problem is one which every person within a radius of half a mile of our home would like to have settled.

Every morning a woman who lives down the block, gets picked up for work at about 6:30 a.m. The driver of that blue sedan starts honking his horn when he is three blocks away. That miserable horn is not an ordinary automobile horn. It sounds more like a factory whistle.

Often the woman isn't ready on time and that horn keeps blasting away for as long as ten minutes without a let-up. It's enough to drive a person crazy.

My elderly father makes his home with us and he is not well. His sleep is broken up every morning by this ear-splitting racket and I would like to know if we can do anything about it. If so, what? — FRUSTRATED.

DEAR EX — There's a law against disturbing the peace. I suggest that tomorrow morning you make it a point to talk to Little Boy Blue and ask him to please stop blowing his horn.

If one request does not put an end to the problem, call the police.

• • •

Parents are people — they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 30 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

She was accompanied to Belleville by past-president Mrs. Harriet McCleary, and Miss Verna Johnson.

In her address of welcome to the guests retiring president Muriel Yorke mentioned that this was the first time that such a joint installation had taken place, and she felt it added interest to the event to have so many present.

Retiring president Jessie Nassell of Cobourg - Port Hope applied on behalf of the visitors, and reminded Belleville that it is the 100th anniversary and had introduced Soroptimism to the club, which sponsored them through to their charter in 1958.

The child resides in a rural area of Prince Edward County, and will need to board in Toronto for the duration of the therapy.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Lee Corke and assistants.

COLLEGE HILL

The afternoon unit of College Hill United Church Women met on Wednesday in the social hall of the church in the form of a luncheon. Forty members of the unit attended W.A. were invited to attend.

With ten guests in attendance all sat down to a table laden with a great variety of delicacies by the committee and served amid the hum of reminiscence.

EGGLETON U.C.W.

MADOC JUNCTION — Mrs. F. Smith was hostess for the June meeting of the Eggleton U.C.W. Church women last Thursday with 10 presented.

Devotions prevailed.

Mrs. W. Harlow opened with the call to worship.

The Community Friendship secretary, Mrs. R. Stapley gave her report, stating that there were two calls on the sick list and several get-well cards were sent out.

Mrs. W. McMullin, treasurer, reported on proceeds of dinner, also amount in treasury.

Members decided to send a card shower to Mrs. J. Croft and her new baby daughter.

Mrs. Harlow presided at talk with and Mrs. C. Fitchet read a letter from Miss U.C.W. inviting members to attend the Fall Banquet on June 17. A letter from Mrs. Stapley, Bay Quinte Conference Camp Corporation regarding funds and a letter written by Albert Edwards, thanking thanks from Mrs. Godden and pupils of the school for the wonderful dinner they enjoyed recently at the church.

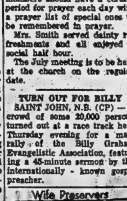
Mr. Dyson spoke briefly and the meeting was handed to Mrs. Ross, program convener and all assisting.

ITEM PROGRAM

Mrs. M. Clancy, program convener, took charge and based her program on the theme "Our Treasure" and at this time showed several colored pictures of Palestine. Mrs. Neal read a story, sent into groups of two; and gave each group a slip of paper selected a verse, looked and find and read. A few minutes meditation followed. The first item in each group read their passage of Scripture and the second gave their commentary prepared on the verses. This part of the program was completed by Mrs. Ross, prayer who read the parable of the talents.

Mrs. Clancy read a splendid prayer written she had prepared on the topic.

Mrs. M. Kirkey read a poem and Mrs. C. Fitchet read a paper prepared on the churches in Hong Kong.



A surprise was made that members should have a certain period for prayer each day with a prayer list of special one to be remembered in prayer.

Women's Institutes

BAY OF QUINTE W.I.

SECOND OF SIDNEY — Mrs. J. Redd was hostess to the Bay of Quinte Institute on Wednesday evening with 21 present. There were two new members, Mrs. A. Holland and Mrs. T. Gordon.

A thank-you card was received from Mrs. Holland for the lovely basket of fruit and plant received from the ladies of the Bay of Quinte Institute when she was in Kingston Hospital.

An invitation was received to attend the party on June 13 in Stirling Hall in honor of Mr. McDowell, who is leaving.

It was arranged that Mrs. Jerrum Palmer be the convener to bring news of the Commoners' Association at the meetings and that membership in this organization be kept up.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Alva Meyers, Quinte, when Mrs. Frank Sandercock has arranged for the institute to tour the "Erie Rose Gardens" at Trenton on Wednesday evening at 7.45 p.m. sharp, returning to Mrs. Meyer's home for the meeting.

Mrs. John Redd is convener of the plants to be on display at Institute at Belleville Fair this fall.

A fine report was given by Mrs. Cecil Jeffery and Mrs. Ross Sickle at the annual convention.

The meeting was turned over to the conveners for the evening, Mrs. John Redd and Mrs. Clayton Curtis. Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. Curtis leading and Mrs. Frank White at pianist.

Mrs. Redd had attended several Tweedsmuir Institute workshops for the institutes, so she gave a regime of what she learned. "Women's Institutes of Ontario will be really history," said Mrs. Redd. The Glen Morris Institute was the first to start their history and this has been followed by the schools.

Mrs. Redd did a lot of research on the Bay of Quinte Institute's presidents and secretaries since the beginning. It was interesting as the first minute books were burned in a fire. Mrs. Redd also wrote to Toronto and found out these names. In 1931 the Bay of Quinte Institute was formed with Mrs. Rowe Hunt as president and Mrs. Fred Gardiner as secretary. Mrs. Redd gave us all the presidents' and secretaries' names from that time 'til 1964. Mrs. Redd also had a list of old members who had taken their turn.

Mrs. Harold Dickens read the minutes of that first meeting. One of the ladies gave a mouth organ solo. The button hook making contest was held.

Mrs. Curtis gave a reading called "Pals and Now." Mrs. Redd said while looking through a large box of old Bay of Quinte minute books, she came across a book with a report of all the work accomplished by this institute during the war. It was suggested this book be put in the archives.

A contest was put on with Mrs. Alfred St. Hilaire and Mrs. Ross Sickle's team winning prizes. A social half hour was enjoyed.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E-Q?

When you go out for the evening, are you courteous enough to have the evening well-organized? Perhaps you are the victim of indecision, difficulty handling the children and, most important, coping with the unexpected that might arise? Here's a check-list of imstance, do you:

1. Line up children's night things in advance?

2. Leave a supply of books and card games to keep them occupied until bedtime?

3. Leave a phone number where you can be reached during the evening?

4. Instruct the sitter what to do if one of the children should awaken before you get home?

5. Leave a list of phone numbers — of numbers to call in an emergency, including those of the family doctor, police department, fire department, nearest hospital, and a close neighbor who will respond if help is needed?

6. If it's permissible for the children to have a snack before bedtime, let her know what they may have and when?

7. Let the children know she's in full charge and to respect her authority?

8. Tell the sitter and the children the deadline for bedtime?

9. Leave a snack for the sitter in case she wants it?

10. Let her know when you'll be home, and call well in advance if you're visiting . . . so she'll be able to make arrangements at her own home if this is necessary?

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

LETTER:

Maybe the recipe I am giving will be welcomed by you. You mentioned that you found the uses for round steak very limited. I had the same trouble using up the supply in my freezer until I found this recipe in a book. Actually the recipe I am enclosing has been changed from the original to suit the likes of my family.

FRIDAY
Dinner Menu

Crumbed Fried Ocean Perch Fillets; Whole White Onions in Cheese Sauce; Buttered Homemade Hot Rolls; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers; Rosy Baked Rhubarb; Coffee.

BEEF STROGANOFF EN CASSEROLE (courtesy Mrs. J. W.S.):

1 round steak cut in thin strips (I find cut and ready, below), 1 medium onion, sliced, 1 tin cream of mushroom soup, 1 tin milk, 1 tsp. salt, pepper, ¼ cup daily sour cream.

QUOTE FROM EMERY:

think Mrs. J.W.S. would be using a round steak weighing not less than 1½ lbs. and not more than 2 lbs. to serve her family of 6.)

Cut steak in hot fat. I use a cast iron frying pan and bake it in the same pan. Add onion shortly before the steak is browned and continue turning. Add the soup and water and stir well. The color of the gravy is beautiful Season with salt and pepper to taste. Now put cover my pan and put it in the oven at 300 deg. F.ahr. for about 1½ hours. You may have to add water during the baking. Just before serving, add the sour cream and stir. The steak is fork-tender.

I serve this with broad noodles and a salad. One could add mushrooms, but my husband is not very fond of them. (Can you imagine!) Our family of 4 children from ages 2 to 13, I see love this dish and gobble it up to the last drop of gravy! One can steak is a finely grated carrot and the finest vegetable eaters will never notice it. I hope you will find it helpful.

I have been making your dark fruit cake of 2 years ago every Christmas since and always get rave reviews. Congratulations! Thank you for your very interesting column . . . Mrs. J. W. S.

ANSWER:

Thank you ever so much, Mrs. J. W. S. This is excellent. Incidentally, I hope you bet the '61 Fruit Cake to see if it will freeze satisfactorily, for Christmas baking and Christmas are acquiring food freezers and want foolproof fruit cakes to freeze. I will let you know the results shortly.

IODE of Canada Given Award

The National Chapter of Canada, I.O.D.E., was presented with a medallion on behalf of the chairman at International Co-operation (Canada), in recognition of its contribution over many years to the purposes for which International Co-operation Year has been founded. The citation is read as follows:

For its work of relief during and after two world wars, for its measures to relieve suffering after war's devastation in Europe, after famine, flood, hurricane, volcano and earthquake in Armenia, South East Asia, Japan, India and Caribbean;

For its support of education by a program of scholarships, bringing students from Ghana, Nigeria, India, Pakistan and The West Indies to Canada and for its literacy program in fifty schools in the Caribbean.

In particular we honor the Order for its pioneering work in the best services developed for Canadians at home abroad and we commend it for its service beyond our shores and for demonstrations included in action for over fifty years."

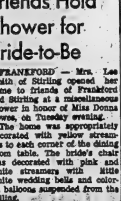
Couples Mark Anniversaries



A happy time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitney Slingerland of Roslin, June 12th, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary, and the 12th anniversary of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kellar, Campbellford.

Dinner was served to sixteen guests. The beautiful wedding cake centred the table flanked by tall vases of cut flowers from family and friends.

Both couples with the recipients of many lovely gifts and cards from family and friends.

A social time was enjoyed later with neighbors and friends dropping in to spend their best wishes.

Mother's Helper

YOU NEED not change your plans for a rainy Saturday, even if it does rain! Let the children choose their "scheme of entertainment" in the house. It's more than likely that they'll want to eat where they can watch television. Spread a plastic tablecloth on the floor in front of the set, and serve picnic fare.

Friends Hold Shower for Bride-to-Be

FRANKFORD' — Mrs. Lee Smith of Stirling opened her home to friends of Frankford and Stirling at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Donna Towns, on Tuesday evening.

The home was appropriately decorated with yellow streamers to adorn corner of the dining room table. The bride's chair was decorated with pink and white streamers with white white wedding bells and colored balloons suspended from the ceiling.

A lovely corsage was pinned on the honored guest made by Miss Patsy Hadley. Games were enjoyed and Mrs. Myrtle Malloy gave a reading; also readings by the bride's mother, Mrs. C. Towns and by Miss Patsy Hadley.

Donna opened the many lovely gifts and thanked her kind friends.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Lee Smith and assistants.

Community Honors Couple

A pleasant evening was spent recently at St. Paul's Anglican Church Hall, Roslin, when friends and neighbors gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rockman (nee Hazel Slingerland) on their recent marriage. Music and dancing were enjoyed.

Mr. Arnold Barker called the gathering to order and the bride and groom were given seats of honor.

Mr. Robert Bailey read an appropriate address on behalf of the community and Arnold Barker, George Goodfellow, Garnet Wood and Ralph Morgan made the presentation of a coffee table, two end tables and a lovely set of dishes. Individual gifts were also received from friends and relatives.

Ralph and Hazel both replied, extending an invitation to visit them in Toronto where they are now residing.

Refreshments were served bringing a pleasant evening to a close.

Council Votes Against School Entry at Napanee

DESERONTO — Members of the local Board of Education and their supporters chalked up a long awaited victory yesterday in their battle to prevent Deseronto's entry into the Napanee School Area.

Acting on a motion put by Reeve William Wagar of Camden East the County of Lennox and Addington voted ten to six in favor of Deseronto not being admitted into the Napanee High School Area.

The decision arrived after council had heard speakers from the town of Deseronto, the Board of Education, and a special representative from the Department of Education.

In entertaining the representatives and delegations from Deseronto and Toronto Warden Brown cautioned the gathering against any display.

He said he hoped that the council would not be too long in meeting their obligations and indicated his concern over the Deseronto problem by placing it first on the afternoon's agenda.

Council's determination not to accept the town of Deseronto's application for membership in the area marks the second time in two years that the request has not been met.

Since prior acceptance of Deseronto's request to join the Napanee Area and their release from the Bay of Quinte area had been granted by the Council of Hastings it now becomes necessary for the County of Hastings to rescind for the second time their by-law covering this issue.

In making representation for the town of Deseronto Reeve Henry Alford covered briefly the procedures that had been followed by the town since 1952. He pointed out that the legality of the town's methods in attempting to reach their objective and stressed the results of a plebiscite as argument in favor.

Mr. Alford was referring to the controversial plebiscite taken in the fall of 1953 that by a vote of 55% to 45% approved of the question, "Are you in favor of discontinuing the Deseronto High School Area and joining the Napanee High School Area?

The Board of Education was represented by lawyer Ben Hurley of Belleville, who was acting for the board's solicitor, lawyer K. G. M. Ross of Belleville.

Mr. Hurley pointed out the peculiar position that the Board, of Education found themselves in as elected representatives in that they were being prevented from fulfilling their elected function.

He stated that the board as early as January of this year had requested town council to follow the method of closure as contained in the Schools' Administration Act and put the question to the electors of Deseronto as to whether they wished the board to continue to function as such or not.

In spite of this, he said, town council had proceeded to approach Hastings County Council for permission to join the Napanee Area.

"I feel certain," he said, that if the Minister of Education and the County of Hastings had known beforehand that the Board of Education of Deseronto had taken this step that the by-law would have been set aside in favor of determining the will of the electorate."

Following the presentation by the board, Mr. McLeod, special representative of the Department of Education, gave a summary of the town of Deseronto's position and indicated that it was the opinion of the department that greater security resulted from being part of an area than from buying education.

When questioned closely by Reeve Salisbury, Mr. McLeod admitted that there was little difference between buying education and being part of an area.

They are substantially the same, he said.

In answer to Deputy Reeve Wigtmot of Napanee who questioned him on the matter of grants, the department representative pointed out that the basic difference was only in where the grants went.

If they come to Napanee, he said, they are deducted from the total cost and the cost per pupil for Deseronto figured as a percentage of the resultant figure.

"If they go to Deseronto they, of course, are administered by Deseronto on the basis of the cost of education as set by the area from which they purchase.

But these figures will be substantially the same, he said.

Before posing the motion that ended proceedings Reeve Wagar charged Reeve Alford of Deseronto with failure to accurately inform the financial committee of County Council of Deseronto's position regarding payment of debenture debts.

He claimed Reeve Alford had said they had been paid and had been supported in this by a representative of the Napanee board when, in truth, they had not.

Reeve Alford countered that at the time he had been under the impression that they had not.

Reeve Wagar stated that he had been studying the position of Deseronto for some time and in his opinion there was one of two things wrong:

You are either completely unable to handle your assessment rolls or are suffering from gross maladministration of the town. In either case, he continued, it is my opinion that we should have nothing to do with a community that posts a mill rate of 192 mills. I will move, he said, that Deseronto be not admitted into the Napanee School Area.

Rev. D. Blair Moves to Chalk River

DESERONTO — Deseronto lost its second young clergyman as many months when the Reverend Douglas Blair announced his resignation from the pulpit of the local United Church. He will go to a new charge in Chalk River, Ontario.

Mr. Blair's resignation came as a surprise to many of his congregation. Earlier this year he had accepted a year's extension as minister of the local congregation of over 150 families.

His decision to leave followed the sudden resignation of student minister James Westerhoff from the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Westerhoff announced last month that he did not intend to seek ordination into the ministry.

In making public his appointment to St. Andrew's Church, Chalk River, Pastor Blair expressed a hope that the people of the United Church would have a better vision of Deseronto in their minds when they called a new minister than was evident now.

LACK OF UNITY

He expressed his opinion that a lack of unity existed in the people of Deseronto. It was this lack, he said, that made their problems so overwhelming.

Mr. Blair traced the town's problems to its difficulty in emerging from a "company-town" into a democratic community.

The church must have as its goal, he said, the object of serving and bettering the life of every individual in the town.

He pointed out the need of the church to speak to the economic and social needs of the community and expressed the importance of the church's work in developing the life of the young people in the community.

Pastor Blair's three years residency in Deseronto saw him active in young people's work in particular." With the approval of the Presbyterian and Anglican ministers he headed a successful inter-denominational teen-age group.

During his term here Mr. Blair served on the Deseronto Public Library Board. His wife acted as nurse to the public school.

In addition to his duties locally Mr. Blair was responsible for the United Church congregation in Morven.

Maintenance of RCMP Boat Keeps Crew of Five on Toes

DESERONTO — For the five-man crew of the RCMP patrol boat Cutchnife II tending horses is tradition in a new kind of way.

Underneath the spit and polish decks of the main cabin of their fifty-foot twin engined patrol vessel lie the kind of horses the North West Mounted Police could never have envisioned.

Instead of riding the frontiers or Canada's vast land mass they ride the waters of Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River.

Time and equipment is different. But the job is the same.

For the RCMP water patrol works hand in glove with local and provincial police to maintain law and order on the water.

Their job is one of preventative maintainence according to new crew-member Constable Taylor.

Constant watch over water-safety regulations, policing of heavy water-activity areas, checking of licensing, customs and other regulations concerning water traffic form the greater part of their work day.

For this reason the powerful Cutchnife II is to be found mainly in the Thousand Island Area during summer months.

But, its area of jurisdiction ranges from Cornwall to Deseronto.

It stayed overnight at Deseronto on its first tour of the season.

Its arrival at the Dawson Marina dock gave onlookers a chance to see how the crew launches its utility runabout.

The Cutchnife II carries this in a well on the aft deck. After making ready for launch, an act which requires the starting of the utility outboard and positioning of its crew, the parent vessel speeds to over twenty miles per hour.

The utility slides out of the well on rollers and in one smooth action is under weigh.

For a vessel in constant use the RCMP craft showed little signs of wear. Although the men live under relaxed disciplines the boat gives evidence of constant care. It is equipped with modern ship to shore telephone and other electronic aids. It is a miracle of compactness and efficiency.

Man Caps Well to Beat Taxes

DESERONTO — Not every one gets a chance to beat his taxes these days.

For the man who does there is the adulation of the crowd and the David - like satisfaction in having killed Goliath.

In Deseronto, where taxes have skyrocketed, many giant-killing suggestions have been made.

It took Johnny Webster of Dundas Street to become the local David.

Faced with continuing bad water from the town's inadequate system, increases in property taxes, and the prospect of increased utility taxation, Johnny soon fashioned his sling.

He capped his well, disconnected the town's water supply, and connected his own.

And Goliath was dead.

All that remained was to tell them at Town Hall, what he thought of their water. He did.

horse sense

More than 591,000 Canadian automobile owners pay too much for gasoline.

They're people with cars designed for medium-octane gasolines. Up to now they have been buying the available top-rated premiums and, since their cars can't use all of that power, they've been wasting octane and money.

Now, BP makes better sense with horsepower by adding two new Super gasolines in the medium-octane, medium-price range. Perhaps one of them is just right for your car.

Check the recommendations at a BP station, then make the switch from top-priced gasolines and save 2¢, even 4¢ per gallon ... enough to buy up to 900 extra miles of driving in a year.

FOUR GREAT GASOLINES

One Regular and three Supers: SUPER RED is the top-octane fuel. SUPER WHITE costs 2¢ less per gallon. SUPER BLUE costs 4¢ less ... and only a penny more than REGULAR.

Checking on winter wheat conditions in Ontario, the bureau found 32 per cent of the field correspondents reported the condition as above average, while 59 per cent called it average and eight per cent below average.

Winter-killing of fall - sown crops and clovers was described as moderate.

In Ontario—the major winter wheat producer—it was estimated that five per cent of the wheat area seeded last fall was winter - killed compared with nine per cent the previous year.

U.K. Students Flying Here To Find Out All About Us

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP) — Hordes of British students wanting to find out what life's like in Canada will fly west this summer on chartered flights organized by the British Universities North American Club.

Seventeen planes—full of university students will touch down in Montreal, Toronto or New York starting June 22. Most of the 2,535 travellers are heading for the United States but 417 are bound for Canada.

BUNAC tends to play down its charter activities and stresses the educational aspect of the organization. The charter plan was termed "a carrot on a string" by BUNAC officer John Deacon, 24.

BUNAC founders Martin Truscott, 26, and Chris Harbour, 23, feel it's more important to educate British students in North American culture than merely to give them cheap vacations on the other side of the Atlantic.

PREPARATORY LECTURES

BUNAC activities among the some 5,000 members here include preparatory lectures on aspects of North American life. On the one hand, these lectures, sponsored through BUNAC by smaller university clubs, prepare British students for trips to Canada and the U.S. On the other hand, students staying at home get a basic introduction to what it's like "over there." The activities"—a combination of American and Canadian literature, films and lectures.

Canadian-born publisher Lord Thomson is BUNAC'S honorary vice-president.

Truscott and Harbour started BUNAC on a shoestring a few years ago. They still work with little budget. Their staff is small.

Interviewed in cramped offices on the fifth floor of a Victorian building, both men admitted the charter aspects of the club are most important. Administratively, there is a staggering operation with money tending to trickle in a bit at a time from seven always-impecunious students.

"The charter part takes lots of time," Harbour said. "And it's very important for our students to get over there and live with North Americans."

The students are urged to get jobs. A brochure says: "There is no better way to get to know the American people, than to work alongside them in their offices, factories, shops and in their fields."

VARIETY OF JOBS

Last year, the first that BUNAC organized charter flights, students got jobs ranging from a stove - lighter to "bunny" in a playboy nightclub. But most got the usual summer jobs—working in restaurants, picking fruit and the like.

Last year Canadian students who had trouble getting highly paid summer jobs heard about the foreign invasion and blamed BUNAC for their troubles.

"That's really silly," Truscott said. "About 300 students went to Canada last year and only about 150 took jobs at all. The others stayed with relatives or friends.

"The Canadians left classrooms weeks before our people arrived. The Canadians had all the time in the world to get the jobs they wanted."

Truscott said the Britons found it hard sometimes to get accepted low-paying tasks that Canadians passed up.

POLITICS EXPLAINED

An intriguing aspect of the pre-flight briefings is the emphasis on American right-wing organizations. Talks on American conservatism and extremism by officers of the left wing get a special showing of the film Point of Order, chronicling the Senate hearings on the U.S. Army and right-wing Senator Joseph McCarthy, was screened.

"Anti - communism is so strong in the states," Truscott said. "There is a tremendously great among some Americans to pin the term 'Communist' on any liberal opinion that they feel it's a good idea to let our students in advance what they can expect.

"They might get all enthusiastic about some 'good cause' and then end up behind bars."

Although scores of the separate Canadian and United States cultures, Truscott and Harbour have a discerning way of lumping Canada and the U.S. together as "America." Their idea lapel pin to the BUNAC insignia which shows an American eagle on top of a maple leaf.

Youth Column

Cut Drinking at Dances Is Aim of Youth Centre

VANCOUVER (CP) — The boys submit to frisking and the girls open their purses as they enter some community centres here for teen-age dances. It's a precaution aimed at cutting down on drinking. And most of the clientele seem to accept the idea.

"We don't mind being checked," said Scotty Burnside, 18, and Janet Smith, 16, as they went through the routine one recent evening. "It's a great idea. This way there is no trouble at the dance and we can all enjoy ourselves."

As 800 teen - agers passed through, Joslin Bohanec, director of the Killarney Community Centre, explained: "Many youth with a bottle of liquor.

"He was present at the office where the rules of the dance were explained to him. He was 22 years old, anyway, and not eligible to enter the teen-age dance."

The rules are: No liquor; no one over 19 admitted; doors close at 9:30 p.m. and the dance finishes by 11:30; no one may leave the dance and then return; clothes must be neat.

POLICE REQUEST

The parties at city community centres were started at the request of Staff Inspector Jack Brown of the police youth squad. He asked that the centres be kept open until midnight Fridays and Saturdays and open on Sundays the year round.

His idea was that if the eight centres were kept open during the three summer months, young people would have something to do in their life hours and might be less likely to go looking for trouble.

But not everyone is in favor of Sunday operation or of holding dances every week. Wayne Hall, director of Dunbar Community Centre, says "a lot of dances are cancelled because of lack of interest."

"And I won't frisk people coming to the dances. It is an infringement of right. It is tarring everyone with the same brush."

Grand View Community Centre a Teen Town Club has been formed. It runs dances, emphasizing a teen - age disc jockey to choose the music and fill in between songs with impromptu patter.

Centre President George Simmons says the club is largely run by the teen-agers with the help and advice of the centre's adult staff.

For those who don't want to dance there are lounge chairs and a bar—serving soft drinks —run by girls' committee.

"This is one of the ideas we are trying out at present and it seems to be a great success. We have no trouble at any of the social evenings."

'Jest a Second'

"And is it not a fact, Mr. Frisby, that ever since the hospital gave you the strong injections, you cannot obtain employment — except as a hatrack . . . ?"

Charges Indians Have to Eat in Separate Room

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — The mission school committee of Fort William reserve said Wednesday Indian and white children are forced to eat in different lunch rooms at St. Anne's separate school here.

The committee also said it has submitted a request, through the National Indian Council, for the Ontario Human Rights Commission to investigate the matter.

The development was the latest in a controversy touched off last week during an Indian-white workshop at Kenora when Wilfred Pelletier of Toronto, executive director of the National Indian Council, said forms of segregation existed at the school including separate lunch rooms.

The charges were denied by C. J. O'Brien, chairman of the separate school board which accepted 48 children at the request of the Indian affairs department when no teacher could be found on the reserve.

The entire program, to be effective, would have to be reinforced by accelerated training of doctors and nurses—including establishment of two university medical schools across the country.

ESTIMATES COST

The commission's price tag for the individual Canadian would be $20 a year above the $176 it forecasts he will spend under the existing health setup in 1971. The over-all cost would be $4,685,000,000 a year more than the present health bill estimate of $4,015,000,000 for 1971.

But the commission argues that the cost should be well within Canada's capacity in view of its prospective economic growth.

One of its most novel proposals is to permit provinces to finance health services by operating a lottery—at present outlawed under the Criminal Code.

The Liberal government has not yet indicated its plans for implementation of the report, which has been a 3½ years in writing with the last chapter polished off just a month ago Commission sources said there is no truth in reports the government asked for the report to be revised but admitted that the commission had been pressed to complete the job.

The Liberal party's election platform included a pledge to introduce a national health insurance plan in co - operation with the provinces and Prime Minister Pearson has said the plan would be submitted to a federal-provincial conference.

During the 1963 campaign, Mr. Pearson said he expected the plan would be ready to be introduced at a federal government's fourth year of office. It now has been in power 24 months.

NEEDS VIGOR

The commission report one of the most forceful documents ever laid on the doorstep of government by a royal commission:

"We need a set of principles and we need to apply them with vigor and imagination and without hesitancy."

The report's 200 recommendations, based on 74 days of cross-Canada public hearings, 388 briefs and 26 specific studies, stresses the fundamental principle that joint federal-provincial action on a broad health front is necessary.

Framework of the health program would be agreements between Ottawa and the provinces under which the federal government would provide grants on a "fiscal need" formula to help the provinces introduce and operate, comprehensive, universal, provincial programs of personal health services. The federal share would be approximately 50 per cent.

The provinces could finance their share by prepaid premiums, sales taxes, a lottery or other means. The commission decided not to go deep into the details of financing in view of a report expected to be handed down late this year by the royal commission on taxation.

PAY BY FEES

Doctors would be paid by a system of fees for service provided, but the program would enshrine the principle of "freedom of choice."

Basic is the right of a patient to select his physician or dentist and the right of the practitioner to accept or not to accept a patient except in emergency or on humanitarian grounds.

The commission said that even before a federal-provincial conference is convened, action should be taken to add the antipatient benefits to provincial hospital insurance schemes. Estimated cost to initial 50 per cent for crash programs for education and training of health personnel.

Although it concludes that the quality of medical services available to Canadians compares favorably with standards in other advanced industrialized countries, the commission says there are grave deficiencies.

MAKES SUGGESTIONS

These are some of its concrete suggestions:

1. Benefits under the program would include general practitioner's and specialist's services provided at the doctor's office, hospital or patient's home—including diagnosis and treatment of all physical and psychiatric conditions. Ambulance services, care of new-born children and periodic physical examinations would be covered.

2. Prescribed drugs for long-term therapy would be free and most other prescribed drugs would be available upon payment of a fee based on the patient. A national drug formulary would be established to identify drugs eligible for inclusion in the benefit and these drugs would be exempt from the 11-per-cent federal sales tax.

3. The medical services of the over-all program would come into effect when two or more provinces—representing half of Canada's population enter into an agreement with the federal government. No province would be subjected to a means test and no extra charges would be imposed unless they are also applied to those eligible for medical services under the plan.

4. Because of a drastic nursing shortage, basic training programs should be reduced to two or three years to qualify for a registered nurses' certificate.

Ten additional university nursing schools should be established at University of Victoria; University of Calgary (Calgary); University of Saskatchewan (Regina); Laurentian University, Sudbury; York University, Toronto; Carleton University, Ottawa; Laval University, Quebec; Sherbrooke University; Moncton University; Memorial University, St. John's, Nfld.

5. New medical schools should be set up at the University of Victoria; McMaster University, Hamilton; another in the Toronto area; Sherbrooke; and there should be a French-language medical school at Moncton, N.B., and a veterinary medicine school at Memorial University.

NEW DENTAL SCHOOLS

6. New dental schools are proposed for the University of Ottawa, University of Western Ontario at London, Laval University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon. Schools of optometry should be incorporated into the university complex.

7 Complex grants should be available for medical associations of educational medical facilities and towards training doctors and nurses, including a seven-year crash program to train specialists and certain dentists.

8. A start should be made in providing free dental care so that by 1980 all children up to the age of 18 would have this coverage. Expectant mothers and welfare recipients would also receive free dental care.

9 All insured persons would receive free eye treatment, with glasses provided free for children under 10. All communities should have chocklisted water supplies, which the commission says has been proved to prevent tooth decay. The federal government should pay 75 per cent of the cost of installation.

11 As an experiment, drug addicts should be given narcotics under supervision.

12 In remote areas, medicine depots and nursing stations would be provided along with air ambulance services.

Judy Garland Denies Marriage To Actor Herron

TOKYO (Reuters) — Judy Garland said here today she is not married to American actor Mark Herron.

"We're in love and we shall get married when we can," she said in an interview

Herron, starring in a play, who added: "We will get married, won't we Mark?"

Herron answered in a low voice: "Maybe."

Miss Garland said:

"We have been constantly misquoted, mistreated, misrepresented, humiliated and treated in a highly undignified manner. We have been made to look like fools."

DIDN'T HEAR RIGHT?

Asked whether she had told reporters Tuesday that she and Herron were married, Miss Garland replied: "I evidently did not hear right—or I may have given the wrong impression."

Miss Garland said she and Herron received a "blessing of their lives forever" from the high priest of a Norwegian ship, who was a "minister", during a trip outside territorial waters in the China Sea and from a Chinese Buddhist priest.

This had been "misrepresented as marriage," she said.

She said her divorce to producer Sid Luft had not in fact been through. Luft agreed to a divorce in Mexico "and then he changed his mind," Miss Garland said.

Will Oppose Move to Close Carshops

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — J. C. Simms, president of the London Railway Workers' Council, said here that the union will oppose any attempt by the Canadian National Railway to close the London carshops.

Mr. Simms issued his statement following an afternoon meeting of the council at the carshops.

CNR President Donald Gordon said in Ottawa Wednesday that CNR's board of directors had reversed an earlier decision to close the shops by 1966 and "had come to the same conclusion."

Toothless Dog Gets Reprieve

TORONTO (CP)—A dog won a reprieve from the electric chair Wednesday on a child-biting charge when its owner said it had no front teeth.

The owner, Mrs. Louis Kovacs of suburban Scarborough, told Magistrate James Finlay the dog "might have sort of gummed the child."

"Just be sure you don't get any false teeth for that dog," said the magistrate.

irrespective of age, but no law shall affect the operation of any law present or future or a provincial legislature in relation to any such matter."

Mr. Cacoutte proposes that these words be added: "Notwithstanding, this amendment shall only apply to the provinces that shall so request."

"Clearly out of order," argued Justice Minister Favreau. It would make the amendment "incomprehensible and unworkable."

A ruling will be made today on the acceptability of the motion.

Until the House began worrying about the Creditiste amendment, there had been fairly general agreement that Canada should not have to go to Westminster to change her constitution. Prime Minister Pearson said the system was obsolete and inappropriate but it's "all we've got at the moment."

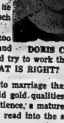
SHOULD HAVE CONTROL

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Canada should have had full control of her constitution for the last 40 years. He was in a unique position in the Commonwealth in having to get approval from another Parliament for such changes.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said that his government would have had a contributory national pension plan if former Premier Leasge had not blocked it. He said the Quebec premier took the "unfeasible" position that the province has the right to get first full details of the federal government's intentions before it's agreeing in any such change.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) suggested a method by which he said the Canadian Parliament could gain full control of its constitution. He said it could declare the BNA Act and existing amendments to be statutes of Canada, then amendments would only require an address to the Government of Canada, rather than to the Queen.

Mr. Cacoutte said it was a mockery that in 1964 Canada had to go to Britain for permission to change her constitution.



Gerard Cliche (Lotbiniere—SC — Sherbrooke) said he noticed a growing hostility on the part of Mr. Diefenbaker toward Quebec because Mr. Diefenbaker would give guarantees that the rights of the provinces would be safeguarded.

Successful Living

Change of Job Is Essential To Escape From Affair

DEAR DORIS — I was married at 18 and too young to know what love really is, but I have been married 10 years now and we have three children.

I have been working at a hospital part time and fell in love with an orderly. He loves me very much and I can't seem to stay away from him. He wants to marry me and wants my kids.

DORIS CLARE

My husband knows about us. He says we got off to a wrong start and we weren't able to have a good start for marriage. He thinks this man will resent the kids once he gets them with him for I will pay too much attention to them.

My husband says we have had too much happiness for me to forget him and marry this man. He wants me to stay and try to work things out. I am all mixed up and worried. — WHAT IS RIGHT?

DEAR WHAT — There's more to marriage than thrills. When will you begin seeing the solid gold qualities of your present husband? Understanding, patience, a mature view of life, love for his children. All this I read into the sentences above.

So you have a love affair with someone else? How about looking into your love relations with your husband? There's something to build on there. I'm sending you a list of reading on the subject, and would suggest a counselor to straighten out your emotions. As well as another job.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — When sending greeting cards from her husband and herself what is the proper order for a wife to sign?

Also, should a gift be labelled to "Bob and Betty" or vice versa? — WONDERING WIFE.

DEAR WONDERING-WIFE — She may write it either way, "John and Helen Smith" or "Mary and John Smith." But if a list of family members is given, the father's name comes first: "John, Mary, Helen and Peter Smith."

In sending a gift, it should be labelled to "Betty and Bob," rather than vice versa.

administrative lawlessness."

Vergakis had been held in custody from May 8 to June 14 in Vancouver for refusing to answer questions even though he had been prepared to put up bail Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Tremblay said this was not correct. Vergakis was detained from April 28 to May 8 only and has been free on $1,000 bail awaiting trial on a charge of entering Canada illegally.

ASK INVESTIGATION

Andrew Brewin (NDP — Toronto Greenwood) and Reid Scott (NDP — Toronto Danforth) called for a parliamentary investigation of the immigration laws. They have argued that the Immigration Act and its regulations deny basic rights to many immigrants.

An immigration department official said 1,000 Greeks and one Spaniard were being detained in jail in Toronto alone. Most are charged with jumping their ships and entering Canada by stealth.

Mr Tremblay told the Commons May 8 that the immigrants were then in custody across Canada awaiting deportation for illegal entry or other offences of immigration laws.

The deportation issue was sparked this spring by the case of Eric Clarke Hoover, a 27-year-old American Negro who left to keep a Toronto jail for 100 days on a variety of charges. He finally was deported to the United States May 26

Difference Between Hit And 'Mis'

LONDON (AP)—A school examiner said today that he asked some children in a suburban London district to define the difference between the mishap and catastrophe. One boy of 11 gave this answer: "A mishap is when your wife hits you with a rocket from America. A catastrophe is when you are hit by a Russian one."

Sunday School Lesson

One World, One Gospel

by Dr. Clarence W. Cranford

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for June 21: "The Christian and the Missionary Imperative," Matthew 28:16-20; Acts 1:8; Romans 1:8-16; 10:1-15.

Against this background the Christian mission around the world takes on a new urgency. Dr Henry P. Van Dusen once took a trip around the world to get a first-hand look at the work of Christian missions. He started out with certain reservations about this work. He came back persuaded that the most significant and intelligent method to use in the world today is being done by Christian missionaries. ("For The Time Is Now For All Nations" Charles Scribner's Sons, 1940) Where there is misunderstanding, they try to plant love. Where there is illiteracy, they try to educate. Where there is sickness, they introduce modern medicine. Where there is superstition and the fear of evil spirits, they try to point men to the God of righteousness and love.

From the beginning, the Bible has been world-wide in its vision (Psalm 117, described by someone as "large treasure in a little room," says, "Praise the Lord, all nations; Extol Him, all peoples." Jesus said "The field is the world" (Matthew 13:38) His last instructions to the disciples were, "Go, and make disciples of all nations" (Matthew 28:19), and again, "You shall be my witnesses in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria and to the end of the earth" (Acts 1:8 RSV)

Calls For World Planning

The day has long since passed when we can indulge in provincial thinking. Whether we like it or not, we face the problem of hunger, we must confront it on a world basis. When we think of human dignity and worth, we must think of it on a world scale. When we find a cure for disease, we must share it with the sick of the world. And if we have a faith that lifts and inspires, we must want all the world to know about it.

Science has already illustrated the value of world cooperation and planning. During the geophysical year, scientists of all nations worked together to get a comprehensive picture of weather conditions over the entire face of the earth. Except where military security is involved, scientists are happy to share their findings, so that all men everywhere can benefit by them.

Nations must come to this point if they are to live together in peace. The United Nations is a step in this direction. With all its faults, it is one point where people with diverse national backgrounds, and diverse political philosophies, can come together to air their differences and to unite their experience and resources in seeking to solve today's baffling problems. In a wonderful way, Christians can demonstrate a love and fellowship that literally girds the globe, and transcend national barriers and ideological differences. Christians everywhere pray to the same God, read the same Bible, express faith in the same Saviour. They recognize a fact that makes them across barriers of race and nation.

Missions Meet Challenge

That missionaries have made mistakes is to be expected. Too often they have preached their culture as well as their Christ. Sometimes they have presented the gospel as it were tied to the American way of life. But they have brought the Christian message concerning God and His love for all men.

Many nations today seek to close their door to Christian missions. They even turn on the very people who first brought them schools and introduced them to modern medicine. Missionaries can no longer go with a conniving attitude. They must go in love. They must go to serve. They must train native leadership and be willing to serve under that leader's lip. They must interpret with their lives, as well as their lips, the true meaning of the Christian way.

This has always been true. It is even more true today. Men who live in superstition and fear, men who are motivated by distrust and hate, need to know the God of righteousness and love. Those who have known only loyalty to a tribe need to learn to think of all men as their brothers. They need the assurances of the Christian faith, to lift them to new levels of life and hope.

Chain-Letter Type of Lottery Brings Charges

TORONTO (CP)—Three men and a woman from Toronto and Hamilton have been summoned on charges of conducting a lottery in connection with a chain-letter type of merchandising scheme which police figure had a $103,000,000 potential for the operators.

Police said the scheme had netted $140,000 since February with the money coming from the sale of 4,000 "units" at $35 each.

California Conservationists Trying to Save Redwoods

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Redwoods or roadways?

That's the question posed by California conservationists battling proposed state freeways they claim would irreparably damage countless towering trees in the heart of the state's famed redwoods country north of here.

The freeway proposal is the latest in a series of crises that have occupied the San Francisco - based Save - the - Redwoods League since its formation in 1918.

By the time the league was formed, one-third of the state's 1,500,000 acres of redwood forests already were gone.

Today, only 250,000 acres of virgin redwood forests remain. And of this total, only 30,000 acres are in state or national parks.

There are few objects on earth that appear more impervious to destruction than redwood trees.

Advertised by northern California Chambers of Commerce as "the oldest living things," the lofty trees live for as long as 4,000 years, attain diameters of more than 20 feet and soar 350 feet above ground.

Indestructibility is not really one of their characteristics, however.

CUT FOR LUMBER

Heretofore, private logging operations have accounted for the demise of most of the redwoods. The wood of the coast redwood (sequoia sempervirens) is highly prized for its durability and attractive texture

But another characteristic of redwoods — self - creation of their own so-called "rife zones" —opens them to damage from freeways.

Root structures direct small streams within the forests and form basins to retain water vital to the trees.

Freeway cuts block natural drainage, expose shadowed groves to sunlight, create wind tunnels and otherwise disturb the "rife zones."

Such conditions spell quick annihilation for redwoods, says State Park Commissioner, Margaret Owings, a supporter of the Save the Redwoods League's battle.

The league—traditionally California - oriented—hopes to get nation-wide support in its drive to force the state to reroute the proposed freeways and thus save the redwoods.

Business Man Warns:

Govt. Experiments Can Damage Economy

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Alison Cumming, official voice for the past year for 6,000 Canadian manufacturers, wants the government to steer clear of what he calls "capricious experimenting."

As he views it from his position as new president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Canadian economy is moving along at a good clip.

But, he says, if the government starts experimenting with such things as tariffs, taxation and foreign investment without a careful study of the long-term affects, economic growth could be tripped up.

Mr. Cumming, a 56-year-old native of Truro, N.S., says the CMA—long regarded by many people as the entrenched bastion of conservative big business—has changed a lot during the last 23 years.

"Our stand on the current trade talks at Geneva, for example, is not strongly protectionist.

"We recognize that you have to give in order to get. But we do believe in a healthy Canadian industry, and I know of no case in history where a country attained our present standard of living without some protection for some parts of its economy.

"All we want is to be sure this is remembered. We know some props will have to be sacrificed, but we hope they will be in areas that will do the least harm to the country and the economy."

BLAMES CANADIANS

As president of a large United States subsidiary—Union Carbide of Canada Ltd.—Mr. Cumming not unexpectedly has some strong views on foreign investment.

It has made it possible for Canadians to attain their present living standard and has opened up large sections of the economy, he says.

"Everyone says Canadians are conservative and, judging from past performance, I guess we are. So it's been easy for American, British and other capital to come in and catch the tapping.

"But is it fair to blame the other countries? I don't think so."

Mr. Cumming expects another full-fledged round of plant expansion in coming months.

"The last real expansion drive we had was in 1956 and since then, generally, we have been catching up with the excess capacity created then."

He also expects to continue the CMA's drive against taxes, especially the sales tax on production machinery and the level of personal and corporation income taxes.

Normally a quiet and friendly talker who relaxes easily in his chair, Mr. Cumming takes on a grimmer air when taxation comes up in conversation, as befits a CMA president.

HUNT MATCH U.S.

On Canada's corporation tax level, he says:

"There's no sense in having a higher corporate tax than the U.S. We may be able to get away with it for a year, but not much longer."

On personal income tax:

"People won't accept a greater gap in their living standard compared with the U.S., and in view of the U.S. tax cut a bigger gap seems likely, to say the least."

On the sales tax:

"One government department tells us to be more competitive overseas, and another puts on a tax that increases our production costs Now where is the logic in that?"

Mr. Cumming, who studied chemistry at Dalhousie University, Halifax, came to Toronto in 1934 after graduating and started working with Union Carbide immediately.

He spent some time with Union Carbide in the United States, a stint with the U.S. Air Force during the Second World War, and then returned with the company to Toronto.

He became vice-president in 1953 and president three years later.

Married and the father of three sons, his favorite recreations include fishing and hunting.

MP Got Ride For Half Price, Wonders Why

OTTAWA (CP)—A Nova Scotia MP once was mistaken for a Canadian Indian —and got a half-fare ride on the CNR.

Cyril F. Kennedy, a businessman who represents Colchester - Hants for the Conservatives, said Thursday night that ever since he has thought Indians were given train rides for half the regular price.

He asked CNR President Donald Gordon whether the practice is still continued.

Mr. Gordon, testifying before the Commons railway committee, shook his head and said he never knew the practice existed in the first place.

Quipped a committee member:

"Then he got to be an MP and now he travels for nothing."

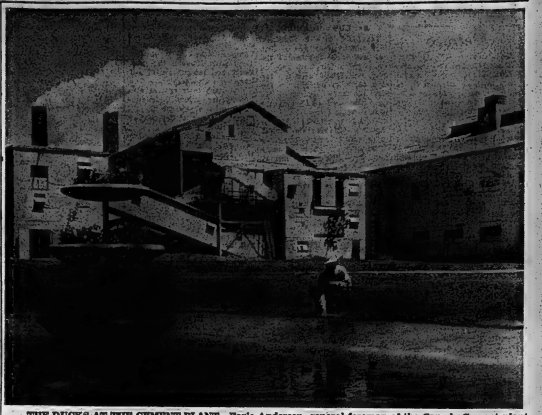
Now We've Got a Flag That's Lit Up

REGINA (CP)—It weighs 100 pounds and it flashes.

It's a distinctive Canada flag designed by Regina artist Ted Godwin.

The flag stands on steel legs and is made up of neon lights.

The design is of a single maple leaf, vertical blue bars on the edges and 10 lights surrounding the maple leaf and representing the 10 provinces of Canada.



The color and intensity of the 10 lights can be varied with the changing fortunes and moods of the provinces, says Godwin, who has the flag in front of his home. Blue can signify a time of disaster for a province and gold a time of economic buoyancy.

The single maple leaf represents Canadian unity.

The flag flashes on and off at variable speed.

"Slow in time of peace and fast in war to keep the sentinel on a high alert," he says.

"Any flag is good as long as you believe in it," he adds. "This one is contemporaneous with the times—the age of electronics."

Florida Negroes Reject Truce Offer, Invasion of Motel Pool Raises Tension

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Negro integration leaders, rejecting an offer of a truce on the heels of renewed racial violence, said they would offer their own terms today.

However, an aroused white population, angered by an attempt of Negroes to integrate a pool, indicated they might not be willing to listen.

"We will make a counter-proposal," said Mr. Martin Luther King Jr., after rejecting a grand jury presentment Thursday calling for a 30-day truce.

State Senator Verle Pope, a spokesman for the businessmen's group, said the demonstrations Wednesday night and Thursday indicate a lack of good faith among the integrationists.

He said the total disregard of the demonstrators for the rights of private property shows there is absolutely no sincerity in their desires.

Fifty-seven more demonstrators including 16 Jewish rabbis and a Jewish layman, went to a pool white motel swimming pool, indicated they might not be willing to listen.

Fifty-seven more demonstrators including 16 Jewish rabbis and a Jewish layman, went to a pool white motel swimming pool, indicated they might not be willing to listen.

A melee erupted Thursday after five Negroes and two white integrationists jumped in a swimming pool at Monson Motor Lodge.

Manager James Brock, angered at the continued demonstrations at his motel, pushed and pulled some of the rabbis.

Brock brought out containers of muriatic acid, a cleansing fluid for pools, and dumped it into the water. It was not strong enough to cause burns when diluted by the water.

Police used their clubs to strike at some of the bathers who were yanked from the pool and shoved into a police car while dozens of irate white spectators yelled to officers "Kill them!"

The two white swimmers, registered guests at the hotel, were Rev. Al Lingo, a recent graduate of a seminary, and Peter Shiras, headmaster of an Episcopal- (Anglican) school in Washington.

They were charged with breach of the peace, trespassing and resisting arrest with violence. Bond was set at $400 each.

Board Probes Charges of NYCR Employee

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The condition of the track and roadway of the Canadian division of the New York Central Railroad is the spotlight at the board of transport hearing Thursday.

The board is inquiring into charges by railway employees that the NYCR is considering abandonment of the Canadian division and that maintenance of the right of way has deteriorated to an unsafe condition.

W. B. Mathers, a conductor on the line, told of being knocked from his bunk while riding in a caboose because of the sway of the car.

Ernest Shaver, an engineer, pinpointed various spots east of here where the track is "rough, bad, rolling and very noticeable." He said the road is extremely bad between Hagersville and Niagara Falls at the east end of the division.

MADE COMPLAINTS

The men, both of whom are union officials, said several complaints have been registered with their superiors. Nothing has been done. They said heavy growth of brush has blocked sight particularly around Hagersville.

Bruce Welch, a car inspector, said inspection points have been altered since 1945 so that, where there were five inspectors on the shift passing a train car by car as it came through here, one man now is used for a visual passing inspection.

No inspections are carried out during the day, Mr. Welch said. Nor are there any Saturday inspections. "On Saturday night there is one man for each eight-hour shift at night, he added.

The hearing concludes today.

Union Carbide Head Urges Aid To Colleges

TORONTO (CP) — A leading Canadian industrialist Thursday called for greater contributions by business to higher education and said that if business does not increase its contributions, government would force it to do so.

A. A. Cumming, president of Union Carbide Canada Ltd. and the Canadian Manufacturers Association, said: "If business is apathetic towards higher education and its rising cost, then government has the power to make it contribute" through higher corporation taxes.

Mr. Cumming spoke to the annual meeting of the Business Newspapers Association of Canada here. Text of his speech was given to the press prior to delivery.

"The business community must face up to the fact that it has to give money, and big money, to universities in the next 10 years," Mr. Cumming said, adding that "it will need a complete re-evaluation of our present position and a resolution in what we think we can spare."

Mr. Cumming quoted a report of the Canadian Universities Foundation which stated that in the next 12 years Canada will have almost 500,000 full p time university students and said "it is not straining the word to say that we have an education explosion on our hands."

He noted that teachers' salaries will have to be equal to those in the United States and elsewhere or the present "brain drain" will continue.

Timmins Ore Discovery Said To Be Twice as Extensive As Originally Predicted

NEW YORK (OP) — Texas Gulf Sulphur Company plans to announce Monday that the development of its big copper-zinc - silver mineral discovery north of Timmins, Ont.

That was announced Thursday by the company president, Claude O. Stephens, who also made official what had been widely believed—that the ore discovery may be twice as big as originally believed.

Stephens said drill holes and assay tests indicated a reserve of 55,000,000 tons of ore, compared with the original estimate of 25,000,000 tons.

Stephens, who worked his way up from a job as air oil driller's helper, said drill holes over the Northern Ontario discovery indicated an ore body 200 to 300 feet wide and 1,800 feet long. One hole, said Stephens, indicated a vertical ore depth of "at least 2,400 feet."

DOWN TO 1,500

Dr. Charles F. Fogarty, executive vice-president, later explained that Texas Gulf hadn't tried to drill deeper than 1,500 feet vertically.

"The only way to go deeper is to bring in bigger drills and there's no need to do it," he told reporters. The full size would eventually become clear during mining operations.

Rumors about the size of the ore body had created Texas Gulf stock to gyrate on the New York Stock Exchange ever since the initial rumors of the discovery reached here in April. The stock shot from $30 a share to $60.50.

But rumors, and continued silence of Texas Gulf, sent the stock to $49 last week. It closed at $50 Thursday, down $1.75 on the day on what Wall Street said was profit-taking.

VALUE UP

Calculations following the original company announcement of the find April 16 was that the gross value of the find was $337,500,000. But the larger ore body announced Thursday, along with a change in indicated ore yields, now provides a new gross value calculation of $1,-750,000,000.

Zinc yield from recent drilling is indicated to be 7.08 per cent, instead of the earlier estimate of 12 per cent. The tests suggest a content of 1.33 per cent copper, rather than estimated earlier, and 4.85 ounces of silver a ton, compared with 3.5 ounces in the earlier estimate. The lower zinc content was estimated by Wall Street experts to push down the gross yield per ton to about $32 from $36.50.

Wall Street security analysts Thursday night, forced to rely on much guesswork, figured the ultimate earnings gain might be $3 a share of Texas Gulf stock when operations get into full swing. Stephens said the company plans to mine and process 6,000 tons of ore a day—2,000,000 tons a year.

This will require a capital investment of $35,000,000 he said. Stephens said the mine pit would be opened almost immediately, with production planned to begin late in 1965.

Trading in Texas Gulf stock was halted in New York Thursday when word got out that the company planned an announcement. Officials feared disorderly marketing. The stock ended up most active for the day, with a turnover of 410,400 shares.

Curtis Publishing Co., which owns land in the area of the ore discovery, was the fourth most active issue of the day, falling ½ to 12. Trading in Curtis also was halted to allow brokers to match buy and sell orders.

Trading in Texas Gulf and Curtis also was halted on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Timmins residents took the announcement calmly. John Angus, manager of the Timmins office of Doherty, Roadhouse and Macaulay Bro. Ltd., said people there had felt the ore body was estimated too conservatively in the first place.

Mayor Leo Del Villano said he was "very happy" about the increase in the ore body, but that what counted most was the possibility the development might lead to another smelter in the town of 29,000.

Fingerprints Those of Men Charged

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) An RCMP identification officer testified at a preliminary hearing Thursday that fingerprints found at the point of entry to a bank which was robbed of $250,000 last March were those of three Montreal men charged with the theft.

The preliminary hearing, which opened Wednesday, is considering evidence against Henry Joseph Lizotte, 42, of Montreal, Robert Bruce Simpson, 40, and John Kiniski, 42, both of Pont Viau, a Montreal suburb.

They are charged jointly with breaking and entering and theft at a branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce March 23.

Const. Robert S. Zaharia, a fingerprint expert with the RCMP, said fingerprints found on newspapers in a store adjacent to the bank were those of the three accused.

Testimony on the opening day of the preliminary trial showed the robbers had gained access to the bank through a hole in the wall of the adjacent store. About $850,000 was in cash, securities and travellers cheques also stolen.

The hearing continues today.

UN Condemns South African Apartheid

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations Security Council condemned South Africa's policy of race separation (apartheid) once again Thursday and decided on an 8½-month study of possible measures to force an end to it.

A Bolivian - Norwegian compromise resolution against apartheid was adopted 8 to 0. France, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union abstained.

Africans and Asians had asked in a two-week debate that the council immediately impose economic penalties on South Africa.

The resolution set up a council study "as to the feasibility, effectiveness and implications of measures" that could be taken by the council.

In voting for it, the United States and Britain specified that they were not committing themselves in advance to support economic penalties after the study.

Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko said they thus "again showed their true nature as colonialists." He said the resolution "bypasses" he question of the application of sanctions — and for this reason is extremely weak."

French Delegate Roger Seydoux said he abstained because the resolution "bypasses the problem in South Africa's affairs."

South African delegate Matthys I. Botha watched the debate in silence from the sidelines. His government seems likely to ignore the study.

Service Station Operators Said Losing All of Freedom, Fight Ban on Closing Laws

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automobile Service Association says service station operators are losing all semblance of freedom and independence as oil companies exercise greater powers over them.

The operators made a plea Thursday through their association to the legislature's select committee on municipal law not to make any changes in the municipal act that would tend to increase oil company domination.

The association said many service station operators have been forced to accept a new legal relationship with their landlord oil companies, from whom they lease their service stations.

Under the new deal, the operators become "commission agents" Oil companies no longer sell them gasoline, but merely pay the service station operators a commission on the gas and other products they sell.

"The commission agent agreements are written and operated so as to deny the service station operator any benefits of an employee under the labor laws or any benefits of an independent businessman under our free enterprise system," the operators told the committee.

The brief was submitted by K W. Langdon, executive secretary of the association.

Later, Mr. Langdon told a reporter his association's submission was made to counteract one made by the oil companies to the same committee last year.

He said the Petroleum Association of Ontario representing the companies, asked that the municipal act be amended to prevent municipalities from passing by-laws regulating the hour of sale of service stations.

If this were done, said Mr. Langdon, the companies could force the service station operators to remain open 24 hours a day.

Press Pearson For Priority To Student Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson was pressed Thursday to give priority in the Commons to student aid legislation.

Michael Starr (PC — Ontario) asked him to reschedule the timing for student loan legislation because September is drawing closer.

Mr. Pearson said he hopes to bring it forward as soon as the Commons completes debate on the flag and anthem resolutions and the constitutional amendment for the Canada Pension Plan.

Mr. Starr suggested the student loans are so important that one of these debates could be broken into.

Mr. Pearson replied that he can't believe one of these debates won't be concluded by mid-July.

Cards With 'Maple Leaf Jokers' Sales Gimmick of Trade Dept.

OTTAWA (CP)—About 25,000 decks of red and white playing cards with "maple leaf jokers" have been handed out in the United States during the last year in the trade department's latest self-sell gimmick to promote sales of Canadian lumber.

The cards have been given away to U.S. lumber buyers, who in turn supposedly give them to their children. The cards are designed for two games—one called "Canadian lumber," based on poker, and other "Canadian maple leaf" which is similar to old maid.

Trade Minister Drury said tonight, Jack Horner (PC—Acadia) complained that the cards were a waste of taxpayers' money and "a shame on the Canadian maple leaf."

Secretary of State Drury pointed out the cards had been ordered in 1963 before the Liberal government took office. However he found them "not really an unsatisfactory scheme for trade promotion."

The back of each card is festooned with 32 maple leaves in a checkerboard design with one red, red on white.

On the faces of the cards are short decription of 13 different species of Canadian wood. Each card has a picture of a leaf or cone, followed below by a short text and the larger inscription: "Build better with Canadian lumber."

"It's a sort of subliminal message," said one trade department official.

An example:

"Canadian yellow birch. Betula lutea.

"A deciduous tree, 20 to 30 inches diameter, 60 to 90 feet high. A hardwood of great utility, heavy and hard-wearing. Used extensively in block, harringbone and strip flooring and stair treads and as hardwood plywood for wall panelling and doors. It is one of the finest furniture woods. Other uses are veneers, boat building, containers, boxes and crates and sporting goods."

The cards were designed more than a year ago—long before the current parliamentary debate on a new maple leaf flag.

Behind the idea was the trade department's problem of trying to promote Canadian lumber sales in the United States without using so-called "hard sell" techniques that might draw the wrath of U.S. congressmen and lumbermen and lead to pressure for import curbs.

Says Senators Not Qualified To Study Aged

OTTAWA (CP)—The special senate committee on aging was told Thursday that it is not prepared body to make an investigation of the problems faced by Canada's aged population.

"An investigation of this kind belongs more properly in the sphere of the sociologist and the economist and not to that of a legislative body," the New Brunswick government said in a brief.

No effective solution to the paramount problems of old age would result from an investigation, however well intentioned, that was devoid of scientific analysis and measurement of all the variable and complex data.

The brief said lack of information about the true condition of the aged in Canada was matched by the absence of comprehensive means of gathering and evaluating such information.

The brief said if Canada is to address itself seriously to the plight of the aged it must first acknowledge that the fundamental problem of old people is not security measured by dole or pension. It was usefulness and "the acceptance by society at large of the fact that the aged still have a contribution to make to the common weal."

"Homes for the aged, increased pensions, extended medical protection — all these material benefits are necessary. They are no substitute, however, for meeting of the mind and heart—the need for affection, the tolerant understanding of the young generation, companionship, and some means, however small, of demonstrating that they still belong to life."

Scotland Today

'Forward Look' Arrives For an Ancient Country

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

GRANGEMOUTH (CP)—Scotland's beauties of mountain and glen have an air of the eternal—but there are other, newer sights that stir the imagination as well.

One of these is the night view of a huge petrochemical development around this town. The glitter of hundreds of flashing lights on the River Avon tells a dramatic story of a £100,000,000 investment since the Second World War.

Drive a few miles from Grangemouth, which is approximately mid-way between Glasgow and Edinburgh, and you are in country so lonely—and lovely — that visitors are prompted to ask one another:

"Do you get the feeling we are the first people ever to come here?"

Such vivid contrasts are an attraction of the ancient but forward-looking nation which, just now, is also proud of its new bridge over the Firth of Forth.

More than a mile long and 200 feet above the wind-swept Firth, it will—when opened in September—provide a new tourist gateway from Edinburgh to the beautiful northeast counties and central Highlands. Replacing car ferries, it will cost about £20,000,000.

60 INDUSTRY SHOWS

Industry large and small seems to figure more and more in the picture presented by Scotland.

Almost every week throughout the summer some town will hold the traditional Highland Games. At Duncon, for instance, the Cowal Games at 28-29 will feature a March of a Thousand Pipers.

But meanwhile some 40 towns will be holding Scottish Weeks, featuring local industry and regional history, with the town centre frequently turned over to the fair.

Probably the best place to see Scotland old and new will be Glasgow when Enterprise Scotland '64, the biggest trade fair in Britain, held every fifth year, takes place Sept. 9-18.

Almost as varied as the nature of the Scottish tourist industry are the estimates of what it brings into the county in money. Official figures range anywhere from £55,000,000 to £100,000,000.

CASTLE FAVORED

Most popular attraction is Edinburgh Castle, the "rock on which Scottish history began," where visitors can view the cell-like room in which the doomed Mary Queen of Scots gave birth to the future King James. Legend says she had the baby lowered by an outside rope to escape would-be killers.

Some 500,000 persons last year visited the castle, whose esplanade belongs to Nova Scotia under a royal decree of 1625 when the Order of Baronets of Nova Scotia was instituted.

Perhaps the most moving moment of the famed annual Edinburgh Tattoo, to be held Aug. 14-Sept. 5 on the esplanade, comes when a single piper closes the night program by playing "lights out" at the highest castle pinnacle, pinpointed by a single spotlight.

This year the tattoo will feature more than 150 pipers and drummers from Scottish regiments—and with them, Highland lassies from Canada who, the Scots carefully point out are coming at their own expense. The girls specialize in ancient Highland dances and are daughters of ex-servicemen from British Columbia.

'MEN WEARING SKIRTS'

Each visitor gets his own glimpse of Scotland.

A busload of tourists, driving through the sparsely populated lands, pauses beside a loch beneath purple hills. Someone is singing:

"Where are all the Scotsmen gone, long time a-roamin. . . ."

Glencoe — nary a Campbell nor a Macdonald in sight just the remains of stone houses, and postcard-salesmen not far away.

Tongue, at the tip of Scotland —no telephone in the hotel room, but a hotwater bottle in the bed.

At a Glasgow hotel, a visiting German woman demanded: "Why can't I enter the dining room in slacks when men are going in wearing skirts?"

At Culloden battlefield, a snatch of conversation — "No, this is not where they killed Bonnie Prince Charlie. They never killed him."

A Glasgow conversation:

"Why do you accept English money when they won't accept yours?"

"We'll take anybody's money."

An Inverness toast, delivered in Gaelic, obligingly translated: "Today, the day you will see and the day you will not see, good health and blessings on you."

Just How Long Are Elephants' Eyelashes?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The eyelashes of a lady elephant are from four to five inches long. . . .

Britain has the world's most crowded roads—one car to every 36 yards of highway. . . .

Nerve impulses travel through your body at speeds up to 600 feet a second. . . .

Multiple sclerosis is the greatest cause of chronic disability in people between 20 and 40 years of age. . . . The disease has about half-a-million victims in the United States. . . .

Quotable notables: "A civilization is not destroyed by barbarian invasion from without; it is destroyed by barbarian multiplication within." —Will Durant. . . .

One of the unusual uses to which space satellites may be put in the future is to detect forest fires by means of infrared detectors. . . . They may also be employed to tell a captain at sea the exact location of his ship. . . .

Enlightening fact: The average six-room house contains between 20 and 25 light sockets.

Gertrude Stein once wrote, "A rose is a rose is a rose." . . . Actually, however, there are about 2,000 species of trees, shrubs and herbs in the rose family.

Worth remembering: "There are no deductions from the wages of sin."—Arnold H. Glasow.

Doctors find new anticoagulants helpful in reducing fatal blood clots in people, but exterminators now are employing the same medicines to get rid of rats. . . . In large doses they kill the rodents by thinning their blood.

If you are looking for an unusual pet as a juvenile status symbol for your children, you can buy them a pygmy hippopotamus for $3,000, a "very gentle" gorilla for $5,000, a giraffe for $6,500, a dog-faced baboon for $95, or—here's a real bargain—a three-foot cobra for $35.

Ruth Hines: "How comes the mystery," said Henry Ward Beecher. . . . Anne Boleyn remarked: "The executioner is, I believe, very expert; and my neck is very slender." . . . Copernicus, the astronomer, sighed: "Now, O Lord, set thy servant free." . . . King Henry VIII muttered: "All is lost! Monks, monks, monks!" . . .

Folklore: If a rooster crows in the dead of night, bad news will come to you from the direction in which it is crowing. . . . Eat pudding, milk and bread crusts, and your hair will become curly. . . . If a fishbone gets caught in your throat, pull your big toe and the fishbone will come out.

What is a father?

To a boy a father is sometimes two huge hands. They put worms on hooks better than any other hands in the world.

A father is the man who sits at the head of the table. Someone nice to be near when there's thunder and lightning....or trouble.

A father understands when a boy thinks he's too old to be kissed goodnight. He is the one who teaches a son how to knot a tie, who buys a young man his first razor, who gives permission to take the car.

A father spends most of his life reaching into his pocket for money to give someone for something. His favourite words are, "Now when I was your age..."

A father is the person boys want to be like when they grow up. He can be ignored, but he can never be forgotten. A father is a small boy grown taller and wiser.

A good father's wisdom is shown in many ways. And not small among them is his practice of moderation in all things, including the use of whisky. On the occasion of Father's Day, 1964, The House of Seagram says once again: True happiness springs from Moderation.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Venturing into the land of make-believe, I wonder if "Western Dancer" entered is seemed indelicate to "Mr. Ed" role, he would prance around his stall, the tracks and whatnot announcing to all and sundry "I'm the Greatest."

You could scarcely blame the Canadian bred colt if he adopted an equine Cassius Clay complex what with the news media ballyhoo he is getting.

This side of the Pearson-Johnson border, Dancer is considered the finest Canadian-bred colt ever developed. And he convinced a lot of Pulop-pastners who watched Saturday as he smashed the track record in the tacky Derby—and another track gaggle of thousands who watched the Preakness—that he is just that.

But at the Belmont, Dancer proved he is only equine —and as such—can be beaten.

But not this side of the qualem border. To dare to mention Dancer is even a slight possibility of matching winning the coveted Queen's Plate on Saturday, is little short of treason.

According to typewriter cancers and tonsil, E. P. Taylor's grand champion is as invincible as a committee running for election in Leadgrad, as far as the Plate is concerned.

In fact it takes two to tango and also to make a horse race. So they've allowed some seven or eight horses to enter, mainly for decorative purposes.

It might be a close race at that. If Lster Mel, the only filly entered, wins the Canadian Oaks the other day, gallops in the shadow of the mighty Dancer, you would surely expect the proud Derby-Preakness winner not to forget his gentlemanly upbringing.

No northern gentleman, sah, ever ran away from a lady. He might escort her to within reasonable distance of the wire, then playfully kick a little dirt in her face, just to prove that he is a gentleman—but not a loser.

But the Dancer should not go into the Plate with his eyes covered with the wool of news media and racing public opinion. There's a couple of colts with blue-chip-breeding names who might give his propagrdists a couple of fofts in the cardiac region.

They are Pierlou and Grand Garcon, raised in whisper and bokhad closed doors by reckless daredevils, to have a chance to set the haughty horse back in second position. They won the Plate Trial divisions last Monday and it is certain their victories did not cause any inferiority complex.

The overwhelming confidence in the Dancer's ability to gallop home with the Plate and the Queen's Guineas reminds one of a parallel case that occurred in another realm of sport.

Last February 25th a cocky, confidence-spouting youngster, named Cassius Clay, climbed in a ring to do battle with world heavyweight champion Sonny Liston. He was given as much chance to cop the title as a pensioner asske against a hungry mongoose.

Only a daredevil pair of the news experts had the unadulterred nerve to give the cackling Cass the nod. You know what happened. Outside of Liston's alleged shoulder injury, the only thing hurt was the ego of the typewriter, camera and tonsil swanis.

It could happen in Toronto Saturday. Pierlou or Grand Garcon or perhaps another horse could take over the Cassius Clay role.

But I can't imagine Dancer sitting down at the halfway mark and calling it a day, even if owner Taylor did get a $48,000 subsidy some time ago.

Very Heavy Track May Slow 'Dancer'

TORONTO (CP) — Northern Dancer may run up against more than seven other horses Saturday in the 100th running of the Queen's Plate at Woodbine Race Track if the weather office prognostications are borne out.

The tiny E. P. Taylor colt that has never raced over wherver he's run, except in the Belmont, may run into a very heavy track if not a muddy one.

The long-range forecast for Saturday afternoon is cooler and overcast after possible thundershowers late tonight and this could well favor the larger, possibly stronger horses such as Grand Garcon and Pierlou.

The Dancer, who earlier this year won the Kentucky Derby, in a record two minutes flat and the Preakness before falling the Belmont Stakes last for the triple crown of North American racing. It appears to have been faced other than generally good conditions for a dash run.

While no definite rain is expected from the overcast Saturday, there will be appreciable wind forecast to help dry the 1¼-mile site of the $50,000-added race.

GRAND GARCON SECOND

Grand Garcon, owned by Frank Sherman and the only Canadian foaled colt to beat the Dancer, and Pierlou, owned by J. Louis Levesque of Montreal, head behind Grand Garcon in Northern Dancer in the Cup and Saucer Stakes, are rated to finish second and third.

Behind them are expected to be the other five horses entered for a crack at $49,075 first prize. Second money is $12,000, third $7,500 and fourth $5,000.

In there with them will be: Lster Mel, owned by Wilf Parr of Weston, Ont., the only filly in the field and winner of the Canadian Oaks; All Seasons, owned by Larry McGuinness of Toronto; Top Ruler, owned by J. B. Carmichael of St. Catharines; Return Trip of Max Bell's Golden West Farms of Calgary; and Langcrest, owned by Sydney Langrill of Montreal.

Lster Mel will carry a weight of 121 pounds while the others will be packing 126 each.

HAS WON 13

In his career, Northern Dancer has won 13 of 17 races entered and brought home $291,272 for his millionaire industrialist owner.

The race is to be broadcast nationally on the CBC television network starting at 3:30 p.m. EDT.

A prohibitive favorite at 1-to-9 odds, the Dancer is expected to force the pace throughout, even though this is believed to have been a downfall in the Kentucky Derby when Grand Garcon blasted into the lead near the finish.

Trainer Horatio Luro is determined that tactics he tests last at Belmont, which kept him a late burst which didn't pay off, won't be repeated.

"We should be an olov pace in this race. We'll make it fast ourselves if necessary. This horse is quite capable of such a thing."

Bill Hartack will be in the irons as he was in the Dancer's three most recent outings and probably will make sure his rail position doesn't leave him bored as it did at Belmont.

Four-Way Race Tightens

Juniors Jolt Trenton 7-1

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Turning in a strong team effort in a complete reversal of form, Ellis Juniors handed Trenton Commercial Printers a 7-1 B. and D. softball league setback at the CNRA Park last night.

The Junior victory tightened the four-way race to a point where only four points separate the top club from the bottom. Trudeau Motors play a postponed game in Tweed Sunday evening at 6:30.

Trenton opened the scoring in the top half of the first inning but Ellis' took a 4-1 lead in their turn at bat. They added one in the sixth and a pair in the seventh.

Bobby Boyle was a surprise starter on the Junior hilltop and gained his first victory of the season while the veteran Pat Marcels suffered his initial setback.

Boyle was touched for six hits, struck out three and did not walk a man. Marcels allowed seven hits, fanned four, walked one and hit one.

The visitors put together two-out singles by D. Cole and Wannamaker, followed by an infield error, for the brief 1-0 lead. A second run, also tryied to score on the bobble, was cut down at the plate.

Ellis' lost no time in getting that back. Gardiner opened with a hit to left and advanced on a wild pitch. Gordon singled to right and Gardiner scored from second. Chatland grounded to short and Simmons' try for the man going home was too late, for a 2-1 score. Blair dropped Malloy's hoist and Ebbier was hit by a pitch to fill the sacks. Muirhead reached a two-run single and it was 4-1.

Marcels retired the next 14 men in order before an error put Malloy on in the sixth. He advanced on a passed ball and Boyle's infield hit, scoring when the latter got caught in a rundown.

Muirhead doubled to open the seventh and with two out, Moon tripled him home. Weston drew the game's long walk before Chatland singled across the final marker.

Moon tripled and singled and Stu Muirhead doubled and singled to lead the Ellis hitters. Donny Gardiner, Mike Chatland and Bob Boyle also hit safely.

Dennis Dale pulled one of the Trenton singles with Roger Drake, Leroy Wannamaker, Will Kennedy and Pat Marcels sharing the others.

South Hastings Little League

The undefeated Carmel squad made it six victories in a row in South Hastings Little League play last night, smearing past Foxboro in a close 6-5 affair.

Mike Munday was the winning pitcher and Steve McKeown accepted the defeat.

Richard Richardson hit a pair of doubles and D. Horton had two singles for Carmel.

Mike Munday was best for Foxboro with two triples.

Canadian Football League

"Funny Canadian" Battle Seen

By TED BLACKMAN

MONTREAL (CP) — A conference room scrimmage may develop today as the Canadian Football League's nine teams choose sides in the battle over "funny Canadians."

The contentious problem of naturalised Canadians was shelved at the CFL's annual meeting this winter but arises again today at the league's semi - yearly conference. With some teams pressing for a solution, there could be a showdown.

General manager Red O'Quinn of Ottawa is calling the signals for the group which favors limiting each team to a certain number of imports who have gained Canadian status through five-year residence.

On the opposite side is general manager Jack Gaudaur of Hamilton, whose Grey Cup champions are built around such "new" Canadians as Barnie Faloney and John Barrow.

Cities such as Ottawa and Regina cannot induce Americans to remain year-round because they're not industrial centres and it's harder to get jobs for which they are qualified," O'Quinn explains. "Talk and other economic factors give us a disadvantage."

Gaudaur says "They're just trying to drag Hamilton down to their level."

SALARY BIG FACTOR

The chief economic factor is that American players, whether Canadianized or not, still draw more salary than homebrews. Because of this, O'Quinn has the support of Montreal and Edmonton.

Toronto, which lists such ex-Americans as Jackie Parker, Dave Mann and Dick Shatto on their roster, backs Hamilton as does Vancouver and Calgary. Saskatchewan and Winnipeg are not definitely committed.

All teams agree Americanborn players who qualify for Canadian citizenship must be eliminated. But they remain in favor of Canadian boys learning their football in United States schools and colleges and then playing in this country as non-imports.

Hamilton, however, argues that if naturalised Canadians are to be limited, so must American - trained Canadians. The result is another split between teams who have such programs underway and those who don't.

Edmonton general manager Joe Ryan says "If this continues there'll soon be, in effect, 33 Americans on each team and that isn't necessarily a good thing. It would result in a poorly balanced league.

"When I was playing with Montreal in 1956, Americans only had to live here four years to qualify as non-imports. The Alouettes were the powerhouse then and myself, Sam Etcheverry and Jim Staton would have qualified."

"Well," he said, "they changed it to five years and guess who was the boy man in doing that?

"It was John Gaudaur."

LIMITS SUGGESTED

O'Quinn's proposal is a team that combines 13 imports, 10 Canadian - 2 - 1, Canadian - trained players, five American-trained Canadians and three naturalized Canadians. The suggestion is up for argument and, he admits, probably alienation of defeat.

The two-day meeting will also handle 31 other items, including possible establishment of a CFL office in an eastern city to deal with television networks and sponsors. Due for heated discussion again is whether commissioner Sydney Halter should also re-locate in the East or maintain his Winnipeg office.

A third priority item is the site of the 1965 Grey Cup game and the Montreal board of trade is scheduled to make a strong bid. The teams indicate approval if the Alouettes can guarantee their new stadium will be ready.

It will be, says Montreal coach Jim Trimble, or the Als won't play football because their lease at McGill Stadium expires at the end of this season.

Detroit Signs Young Hurler From Leaside

TORONTO (CP) — Detroit Tigers of the American Baseball League have announced the signing of Mike Kilkenny of the Leaside Baseball Association for a substantial bonus, beating out at least six other clubs in pursuit of the 20-year-old pitcher.

Kilkenny is the third Leaside player to sign with the Tigers in the last 16 days, joining right-handed pitcher Duncan Wood and infielder John Fallis.

Amount of the bonus was not revealed but is believed to be around $8,000.

Kilkenny, a native of Bradford, has averaged more than two strikeouts per inning over the last two seasons. Last year the 170 - pound righthander struck out 100 in 52 innings and has fanned 133 in 62 innings to date this season.

Cementmen Shade Landscapers

Point Anne Cementmen blew a first-inning 6-0 lead before coming back to nip Barriage Landscapers 9-8 in Commercial softball action last night.

The winners, making the most of errors for their early lead, saw the Landscaper plate one in the second, four in the third and a single run home for the victory in the seventh and final stanza.

Wes Whalen was the winning pitcher, giving up 10 hits, fanning one and walking one.

Lawrence Leveque took the loss, tagged for all of the Cementmen's 10 hits in 6⅓ innings. He fanned only one while reliefer Gerry Genereaux struck out the final pair. Leveque handed out nine walks and his mates had the same number of errors.

Mike Cook hit a double and single, D. Maher and MacDonald two singles apiece, for Point Anne. V. Whalen, F. Maher, Rosebush and Powell also hit safely.

Joe Harvey homered and singled, Gord Duff tripled and singled and Don Wood singled twice for Barriages. Jim Sopha, Tim Cook, Tom Coolen and L. Leveque had a single each.

Palmer's 68 Only Open Under-Par

Lema One Over

By JIM BECKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arnold Palmer has 198 holes to go on the grand slam of golf.

That works out to 54 more holes of the U.S. Open here—18 today and 36 Saturday—and 72 holes each at the British Open and the PGA. Palmer won the first leg, the Masters in April.

The British Open is at St. Andrews next month and those who watched Palmer in action Thursday figure he might just walk over there on the water.

Palmer cut a two-under-par 68 out of the brutal Congressional Country Club course — only player in the field of 150 to break par in the opening round.

Only one golfer, Bill Collins of Baltimore, matched par 70 over the 7,053-yard course, longest ever used for the open.

MANY OVER

All the others were over.

Defending champion Julius Boros had 77, including sixes on two par-four holes on the back nine.

Champagne Tony Lema, who came to the Open with two straight tour victories, faded to a 71 after a fine 33 on the front nine.

Jack Nicklaus, the co-favorite with Palmer, went one over on the last three holes for a 72.

Old Sam Snead, at 52, trying for the 35th consecutive time to capture the one big title that has always evaded him, had a 77 that included four putts from 15 feet on one green.

So widespread was the toll that only 66—less than one-third of the field—broke 75.

After today, the field will be cut to the low 50 scores and ties. And the way things are going they may have to ask for volunteers.

TIE AT 71

Johnny Pott, Billy Casper, amateur Billy Campbell and Joe Zakarian of Modesto, Calif., joined Lema at 71.

Among the group at 72 were Bob Panasuk of Windsor, Ont., and Bob Charles, the British Open champ from New Zealand, who opened with an end and had 33, 39—72.

Palmer, stalking the fairways like an angry panther and lunging the entranced legions of Arnie's Army in his wake, started off as if he were really human, too.

He missed the fairway with his driver on every hole until the eighth. But he went over par only on the third hole when his drive caught the rough and his second to the green ran over.

"I putted very well all the way. I only had 27 putts, and that's the first round under 30 putts for me all year."

The Handguns

Henry Tom, representing the Quinte Marksmen, placed third in a field of 150 at Kingston last week in the Ontario Provincial Revolver Association's annual tournament. Tom is a top gun at the local club and provided it with the excellent showing against first-grade competition in Kingston.

At the Marksmen's regular shoot this week, George Valquette had high score of 265, followed by L. Kulesan 261, Frank Fralick 259, Cliff Smith 249, J. McCallum 234 and Harry Hodgkinson 221.

The club has also announced that the new range has been bulldozed and a rifle and trap range is now in operation.

Cards Nip Giants 7-6

Willie Misses Chance To Become Hero

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's the ninth inning and your team is down by a run with two men on. Who do you want as your hitter?

How about Willie Mays? Well, Alvin Dark had him Thursday night, but he'd have been better off with Julian Javier.

San Francisco Giants were trailing St. Louis Cardinals in just that situation with Willie at the plate in Thursday's 7-6 St. Louis victory. Mays had slammed his 30th homer and two singles earlier but against Ron Taylor in the ninth, he struck out.

Javier, the Cardinal second baseman, did more damage than Mays, cracking a homer, double and single and driving in five of the Cardinal runs for a single-game St. Louis high for the season.

The Cardinals, hard-pressed for runs during their recent road trip, battered Giant ace Juan Marichal for 11 hits and all their runs in the five innings he worked. It was Marichal's third loss in 11 decisions.

PIRATES BLANK METS

In other National League games, the Pittsburgh Pirates belted New York Mets 10-0 and the front-running Philadelphia Phillies dropped Chicago Cubs 6-3.

Ray Sadecki beat the Giants for the second straight time but needed late-inning help from Roger Craig. Mike Cuellar and Taylor, the right hander from Leaside, Ont. The loss dropped San Francisco a game back of Philadelphia.

The Phillies got two-run homers from Danny Cater and Johnny Callison as Chris Short won his fifth. Cater's first major league homer followed Richie Allen's infield single in the second and Callison's seventh of the season came with Cookie Rojas aboard an inning later.

Ron Santo belted two homers for the Cubs who lost their first series since May 21.

Vern Law won his fourth game in his last five declarions with a strong three hitter against the Mets. He got all the runs he needed in the first three innings on homers by Dom Clendenon and Willie Stargell, the latter a two-run shot.

A 12-hit plate attack handed Al Jackson his seventh straight loss. It was the sixth straight setback for the Mets.

Boxer Dies, Fourth In Three Days

BARCELONA, Spain (Reuters) — Nigerian bantamweight boxer Kolawole Mustapha, 21, collapsed while taking a walk and died in hospital, the British consulate announced Thursday.

He last fought here in May when he outpointed Martin Hermida of Spain.

The Nigerian was the fourth boxer to die in the last three days Lyn James, a 21-year-old Welsh featherweight, died in a London hospital Wednesday after a brain injury suffered in his eighth fight as a professional.

In Manila, Philippine flyweight Ry Romero died Tuesday, three days after being knocked out by Roger Agaan.

In Sydney, Australia, 18-year-old Henry Stephens died Tuesday from brain injuries suffered in an amateur boxing tournament last Thursday.

MANILA (AP) — The Philippines Games and Amusements Board revoked the licence of Sandalo del Corro as a referee Thursday because he was slow in stopping a fight that proved fatal to one of the boxers Saturday.

Del Corro, a referee with 28 years' experience, officiated in the four-rounder in which Rey Romero was knocked out by Roger Agaan in the fourth round. Romero died of a brain injury Tuesday.

Shut Out Orioles, Yankees, A's Win

Rabbit, Flutterball Hoist Chisox To Top

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The rabbit ball and the flutterball have lifted Chicago White Sox back into first place in the American League.

The lively rabbit ball was lifted out of Baltimore's huge Municipal Stadium Thursday night by two of Chicago's best-and-run specialists — Mike Hershberger and Al Weis — and provided the only runs in a 2-0 victory over the Orioles.

The deadly flutterball was tabbed up to home plate by knuckleball specialist Hoyt Wilhelm, who probably has the most deceptive pitch in the majors.

Wilhelm came on in relief of Frank Kreutzer for the White Sox in the seventh inning, allowed only one hit and lowered his earned run average to 2.11. That, oddly, goes with an 0-4 record. The 40-year-old righthander, however, has made 28 appearances and has been in 17 winning games.

He has been pressed into action in exactly half the White Sox games and at that clip would wind up floating his knuckler up to home plate on 81 games. The league record of 71 was set last year by Stu Miller of the Orioles.

PROVED TOO MUCH

Baltimore starter Dave McNally gave up only four hits in seven innings but Hershberger and Weis proved too much for him. Hershberger hit his first homer of the season in the 4th inning and Weis connected for his second in the sixth.

That was more than enough as the White Sox shoved the Orioles into second place, seven percentage points behind while New York Yankees closed within one-half game of the top by downing Boston Red Sox 6-3. In the only other AL game scheduled, Kansas City Athletics edged Detroit Tigers 3-2.

Elston Howard and Tom Tresh each drove in two runs for the Yankees while Rollin Sheldon went all the way for his first victory. Howard slammed a two-run triple off loser Jack Lamabe in a four-run first inning and Tresh wrapped up the New York scoring with a two-run home in the seventh.

Ed Charles' leadoff homer in the ninth inning won it for the Athletics and handed the defeat to his former teammate, Ed Rakow. The Tigers had tied the score in the seventh on Bill Freehan's homer. Kansas City capitalized on a dropped fly ball by Jake Wood for the other runs in the fourth inning.

Pitching—Vern Law, Pirates, allowed only three singles, winning his fourth game in the last five starts as Pittsburgh walloped New York Mets 10-0.

Batting—Julian Javier, Cardinals, 4 for 5 game, homer, double, and single, driving in five runs, a one-game St. Louis high for the year, in a 7-6 victory over San Francisco Giants.

Le Mans Trials

Surtees Cracks Own Mark

LE MANS, France (AP) — British driver John Surtees broke his own lap record by 11 seconds Thursday during final trials for Saturday's Le Mans 24-hour auto race.

Surtees' Ferrari turned in a time of three minutes 42 seconds, averaging 126.5 miles an hour. Nine other cars also have eclipsed his old mark, established in last year's race, during this year's trials.

Ritchie Ginther of Grenada Hills, Calif., posted the second fastest time Thursday and Pedro Rodriques of Mexico followed. Ginther is driving one of three Ford prototype cars, expected to provide the main challenge to 10 Ferraris entered in the marathon event. It begins at 11 a.m., EDT, Saturday.

Only casualty of Thursday's trials was France's Pierre Orsini, who broke a leg when his little French Alpine went off the course.

Bruins Open Camp On Sept. 8

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Boston Bruins will open their National Hockey League training camp at London Sept. 8, general manager Lynn Patrick announced Thursday.

The Bruins will play four exhibition games against other NHL teams while training at Treasure Island Gardens.

First game is Sept. 15 against Toronto Maple Leafs.

Minor Baseball Results

Barriage Landscapers handed Park Dale bantam baseballers their first loss of the season in scheduled play last night, nipping them 5-3 in a well-played contest.

Howard Wark chalked up the victory for Barriages, stopping the loop-leaders on three hits. He fired third strikes past 11 and did not walk a man. Brooks Windsor was his rosetvan.

Terry McTaggart lashed five-hit ball on the Park Dale mound. He claimed eight via the strikeout route and, like his opponent, didn't issue a base-on-balls. Wayne McTaggart was the catcher.

Paul Howe rapped a couple of one-baggers for Barriages with H. Wark and B. Windsor each hitting a double. Roger and T. Wilson added a single each.

The Park Dale safeties, all singles, went to Larry Moore, Wayne Fudge and Terry McTaggart.

Park Dale had won five games in a row after tying the season opener against the same Barriage club.

Rain Ruins Queen's Day At Ascot

LONDON (AP) — Rain ruined the women's hats and Queen Elizabeth's day at the Royal Ascot horse race meet Thursday.

Hours of downpour flooded the course and forced the organizers to cancel racing for the day.

The traditional Royal cavalcade of open horse-drawn carriages down the turf course was called off.

The Queen and members of her party went into her private box and chatted with guests while stewards had a look at the courses. Then it was announced: "No racing today."

The Queen, her face showing disappointment, shrugged and prepared to return home.

Womens Golf Trials

Marlene's 74 Tops Field

TORONTO (CP) — Kay Hillman, Betty Stanhope Cole and Gail Harvey, all of Toronto, gained firmer grips on the three remaining places on the Ontario interprovincial women's golf team in the third tournament of the trials Thursday.

Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto who automatically holds one spot on the four-member team, led the field of 36 contenders with a par 74. Her round was two under the course rating, bringing her total points for the day to 14 and her overall total to 35.

Miss Hillman scored 11 points and bring her total to 30. Miss Cole scored 9 points for 26 and Miss Harvey scored a 79 to bring her three-round total to 83. Miss Hellcur also scored a 79, bringing her total to 24, eight more than her nearest rival, Jane McCarter of Lambton who fired an 82.

Four more tournaments remain in the trials.

Sue Hilton, of London, Ontario Open champion, tied Thursday at 81 with Mrs. Ed Creed of Toronto and 15-year-old Pam Miller of Oshawa.

Other scores Thursday included Catherine Cartwright, Kingston, 86, Fern Irwin, Tralfalgar, 84, and Sandra Post, Trafalgar, 84.

SOVEREIGN WINS

LONDON (AP) — Sovereign beat Kurrewa V again Thursday in the America's Cup trials, evening their series at 5-3. Two more races remain before the two yachts are shipped to the U.S. for the competition.

Van Der Wal Is Given Reprieve

TORONTO (CP) — Hytka van der Wal, Hamilton's errant steeplechaser, got a two - day reprieve Thursday at a special meeting of the southwestern Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and will be able to run in a meet at Toronto July 25.

The branch suspended him from competition May 2, until July 25 for competing in an international meet without permission and asked for an apology.

There was no report on whether he apologized at the special southwestern Ontario meeting called to review his case, but Rose Echlin of Hamilton, president of the southwestern branch, said in an interview later that the meeting was very cordial.

Echlin explained the July 2 date in the suspension term was in error and that it should have been June 30, which will allow van der Wal to compete in the Rad York Dominion Day track and field meet.

He also is expected to enter a 3,000-metre steeplechase in Hamilton July 4.

Echlin said the information was to be forwarded to Bobby Farrell, national secretary of the AAU, and it was expected van der Wal will be granted a permit to tour Europe starting July 14 to gain experience for a possible shot at the Olympic Games at Tokyo.

Leafs Edge Virginians, Suns Beaten

Toronto Maple Leafs, Jacksonville Suns and Syracuse Chiefs have been passing each other going up and going down for some time in the escalator race for the International League championship.

Toronto, who lead the chase until June 7, and Wednesday dropped into fourth place behind Rochester Red Wings, Thursday climbed back into third, percentage points behind Syracuse Chiefs and 2½ games back of Jacksonville Suns.

Jacksonville took a 3-1 beating by Syracuse and Rochester lost 5-3 to Atlanta Crackers while the Leafs were edging Richmond Virginians 4-3.

Buffalo Bisons and Columbus Jets were rained out.

Larry Osborne's first hit in 23 chances, a two-run double, gave the Leafs their victory.

Bob Sadowski had started the Leafs off with a sixth inning homer.
